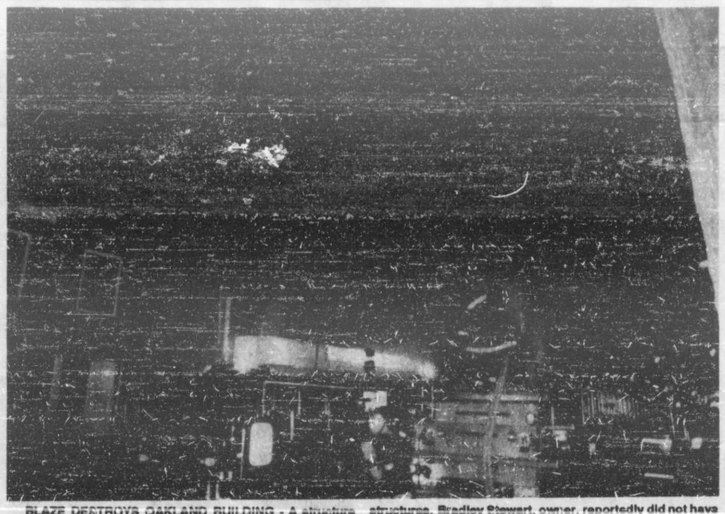
Keysers Ridge Mobile Home Gutted By Fire

A malfunctioning furnace was blamed as the cause of a fire which gutted a mobile home near Keysers Ridge last Friday afternoon.

Volunteer fire fighters from Grantsville, Accident, Bittinger, and Addison, Pa., departments were summoned to the home of Emerson P. McClintock, 4646 National Pike, at 4:55 p.m. McClintock, 52, was next door when he noticed smoke coming from the 14-by-70-foot trailer, and called 911.

Fire fighters brought the fire under control in about 30 minutes, but the structure was virtually destroyed. Fire investigators from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office determined that the fire was caused by a malfunctioning furnace. The loss was estimated to be $15,000.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade vehicle from Deep Creek VFC and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Units and personnel from the Salisbury VFD stood by for Grantsville VFD. There were no injuries reported.



BLAZE DESTROYS OAKLAND BUILDING - A structure fire in downtown Oakland, the third in less than five years, claimed another historic structure Tuesday evening, as the flames gutted a building at the corner of Second and Liberty streets that housed Innovative Concepts in Electronics (ICE) and four apartments. Some 75 volunteer fire fighters from five area departments, along with many other volunteers, endured sub-zero temperatures and worked throughout the night to contain the blaze and protect adjacent structures. Bradley Stewart, owner, reportedly did not have insurance on the structure. Most of the contents of the ICE store were removed and salvaged; however, the residents of the apartments lost virtually all of their possessions. The fire started in one of the second-floor apartments, and the cause is still under investigation by the state fire marshal's office. There were no injuries. See story for details.

Hunter Shot, Other Charged In Hunting Accident

A Frederick County man hunting near the Piney Run Dam just northwest of Finzel remains hospitalized in stable condition after being accidently shot by another hunter on Saturday morning. The second huater has been charged with negligent hunting, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Jacob R. Morrow, 22, New Market, was walking along a set of power lines when he was struck in the lower left side by a .50-caliber muzzleloader slug fired by Robert E. Shaffer, 28, Quecreek, Pa. Although Morrow was wearing blaze orange, weather-related conditions which included blowing snow contributed to poor visibility and may have been a factor in the accident, a DNR spokesperson said.

After the accident, Shaffer helped Morrow back to Morrow's vehicle and drove him to Frostburg where they met a Frostburg area ambulance, which transported Morrow to Memorial Hospital of Cumberland. Following an investigation Natural Resources Police charged Shaffer with negligent hunting, which carries a $200 pre-payable fine.

Two Oakland Men Involved In Mishap On Snowmobiles

Two Oakland residents were involved in a snowmobile accident along Garber Swauger Road last Thursday night, according to report filed by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack.

Randall Skeweris, 31, and Jared P. Roth, 23, were reportedly operating snowmobiles on a snow-cover field on the north side Garber Swauger Road at 10:30 p.m., when they struck a four-foot snow embankment. Both drivers were ejected from their vehicles.

Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported Roth to Garrett Memorial Hospital. He was then air-lifted to Ruby Memorial, Morgantown, W.Va. for treatment. He was released on January 3.

Affiliation Issue Of GCMH Is Reviewed For New Commissioners

An update on the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors' ongoing affiliation exploration was provided to the Garrett County commissioners Tuesday by Joyce Bishoff, chairperson of the board, and Walter Donalson, president of the hospital. Because the three commissioners are new to their positions, Bishoff said the board wished to familiarize them with the process, which was initiated in January 1997.

Bishoff has been conducting several community talks in the past six weeks to explain the process to the public. She said a negotiation committee has been appointed to move into talks with three systems that GCMH is interested in joining. The number one choice is the West Virginia United Health System, which includes the West Virginia University hospitals, Clarksburg's hospital, and Davis and Elkins. The other two high priority systems are Mon General in Morgantown, W.Va., and the Western Maryland Health System, which includes Cumberland Memorial.

The hospital officials are seeking affiliation for various reasons, one of which will be the increased availability of supplies at a much lower cost, Donalson said, which will help GCMH lower its overhead. He explained that when a hospital joins a larger system, it attains that system's purchasing power. It also enhances the services that can be provided locally through equipment and advanced communication technology.

"Our goal is well away from any kind of major asset merger," Donalson said. "We are only seeking affiliation. With affiliation, we can maintain local control of our hospital while gaining the benefits of being part of a larger system."

When the process is completed and GCMH is affiliated with a system,

Officials Urged To Study Hazards Of Sky Valley Road Intersection

Following the fatal collision that claimed the life of Swanton's Meghan Price and her grandfather, Carl Johnson, concern has been expressed that the scene of the accident is an area that may lend itself to unsafe driving conditions.

The legal speed of vehicular traffic on Bittinger Road, combined with the limited visiblity afforded by the intersection's layout, prompted Sky Valley resident Roger Titus, president of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association and a member of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners Advisory Committee on Deep Creek Lake, to draft the following letter to the county's board of commissioners. A similar letter was sent to Governor Parris N. Glendening.

"On December 29, Meghan Elizabeth Price, the president of the Student Government Association at the University of Maryland, died in a tragic automobile accident in Garrett County near her home in Swanton. While my principal residence is in Montgomery County, my vacation home is within walking distance of the location in which this tragic accident occurred.

"I am sure you may have noticed from numerous news stories the immense impact that this tragic death has had on Garrett County and the aspirations of those who reside in Swanton. Meghan Price was a rising star of this small community, and had she had the opportunity to pursue a career in the law, she undoubtedly would have be-

BLOOD DONOR MONTH PROCLAIMED — The mayor and town council of Oakland joined with Elizabeth Huxford, executive director of the local American Red Cross (ARC), this week to proclaim January as National Volunteer Blood Donor Month. The proclamation states in part that the town officials "recognize that in the 66-county area served by the ARC Johnstown Blood Services Region, which includes Oakland, there is a need for 197,000 units of blood per year, 750-800 units each weekday, to help save and sustain patients' lives, and there is a need for additional healthy, regular volunteer donors to join the ranks of those who already give of themselves so generously." In signing the document, the town joined President Bill Clinton in proclaiming the designated month and in urging all citizens to pay tribute to those who donate blood regularly. The proclamation calls for organizations to become blood-mobile sponsors and "provide blood so others can live." Pictured above as they sign the document are Huxford and Mayor Asa McCain.

Dove Center Board Set To Close Shelter Because Of Funding Crisis

The doors of the relatively new domestic shelter might be forced to close as early as next week in light of the effects of a funding shortfall. Linda Spassil, director of the center, said the Dove Center board of directors will meet tomorrow to set the date of the closing, which she hopes will be only temporary.

"I don't know what we are going to do with the three families we're housing right now if we actually have to close our doors," Spassil said. "We need help and we need it right now."

Spassil and members of the board met with the Garrett County commissioners on Dec. 22 to ask for emergency funding to help keep the center doors open through the month of January, but did not obtain relief from the county's fiscal authority.

"I have a real problem with this request," said Commissioner Wendell Beitzel during the Dec. 22 meeting. "I think your monetary problems are all a result of mismanagement and now you're asking the county to pick up the tab. I think you need to be a little creative in coming up with the money before coming to us for help."

Spassil said in a later interview that she was surprised by the commissioner's reaction to the request and stated that the board had indeed tried to find funds for some months.

"We came to the commissioners as a very last resort," Spassil said. "We have already sought funding and are working on a variety of avenues. But we simply do not have the money to keep operating a 24-hour-a-day service."

The Dove Center is a non-profit entity and was set up originally to operate completely through grant money and donations. The organizers never intended the center to need any county money, according to both Spassil and Carolyn Bell-Taylor, chairperson of the center's board. However, the women explained that the current funding shortage is the result of a

Union Bargaining Idea Is Rejected By Commissioners

A collective bargaining plan presented to the Garrett County commissioners by the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) does not have the support of the local fiscal authority, as the three men voted down the idea at Tuesday's public meeting. Jim Bestpitch, spokesperson for AFSCME, asked the commissioners two weeks ago if they would support legislation that would enhance collective bargaining for county workers, namely the roads employees.

At Tuesday's meeting, Chairman Ernest Gregg said the plan presented by Bestpitch is "not the proper avenue at this time" for Garrett County. While Gregg and Commissioner Wendell Beitzel both expressed their wish to maintain a solid healthy relationship with current county workers, they felt Bestpitch's plan was not in the best interest of the county. Commissioner Fred Holliday said he does support the concept of collective bargaining, but that the idea submitted by Bestpitch was also not something he agreed with.

Holliday made a motion that the commissioners come out in support of collective bargaining of some sort, but the motion died for a lack of a second.

The commissioners reportedly received numerous calls from the public urging them to turn down Bestpitch's plan, which would essentially remove the county's ability to dissolve the union, should a conflict ever get to that stage. Holliday reported only one call in support of the legislation, and that call was from a county roads worker.

The commissioners all stated that they believe the roads workers have the right to have representation in labor negotiations, and that they do not wish to send the message that they do not support such representation.

"We're not looking to take away the rights of county workers," Gregg said. "We just do not support Mr. Bestpitch's plan."

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

Local residents are reminded that the American Red Cross bloodmobile will be collecting blood this Friday, Jan. 8, at the Proctor Kildow American Legion Post home in Oakland. Donors will be welcomed at the home, located along Memorial Drive, from noon to 6 p.m.

According to the ARC, the visit was scheduled to help rebuild inventory levels of all blood types following the holiday season. To donate blood, persons must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. ARC allows persons to donate every 56 days.

WELCOME TO 1999! - The first baby born in the new year at Garrett Memorial Hospital arrived in the early morning hours, making his appearance at 2 a.m., weighing a healthy 6 pounds 10.1 ounces. The proud parents, Richard Ravenscroft and Anne Sebold, Grantsville, have named their new son Richard Allen.

Another Downtown Oakland Building Destroyed By Fire

Yet another of Oakland's old downtown buildings was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening, one which was built before the turn of the century and has housed a number of businesses and apartment units over the years. Some 75 volunteer fire fighters from five local departments battled both the blaze and sub-zero temperatures, losing the structure that currently housed Innovative Concepts in Electronics (ICE) and four apartments, but successful in protecting adjacent buildings.

The cause of the 8:59 p.m. fire remains under investigation by personnel from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, but reportedly it started in the bathroom of apartment number 2 on the second floor. The two-story structure, located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets, housed ICE and one apartment on the ground floor, and three apartments on the second floor. The structure is owned by Brad Stewart, owner/operator of Stewart Funeral Home.

The fire was discovered by the resident of apartment 2, who rushed to a neighbor and called 911 for help. Dispatched to the scene were units from Oakland, Deer Park, Terra Alta, Gorman, and Deep Creek departments.

When the first unit from the Oakland VFD arrived on the scene, smoke was reported coming from the building. Fire fighters made an interior attack on the second floor, but were soon forced out of the building by the flames and heat. The occupants of the apartments all escaped uninjured, although one elderly resident was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for observation and later released.

When it appeared that the structure was going to be lost, a salvage operation was initiated to remove the merchandise from ICE, which included computers, televisions, telephones, and various related equipment. Numerous bystanders assisted fire fighters by forming a human chain and carrying merchandise from the store. Most of the contents of the store were salvaged and were ultimately carried into the former Pritts Garage building across the street.

Efforts were also directed at protecting the adjacent Professional Building, which houses the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, plus a number of offices. A number of situations besides the frigid temperatures hampered the efforts of the fire fighters, including the eruption of a natural gas line inside the building, a line that utility personnel thought had been shut off. The heat from that burning gas literally melted a steel support beam in the building.

The construction of the building also caused problems for fire fighters, according to Oakland fire chief Tom Swiger. "The building has been renovated several times, and there were false ceilings and a lot of different layers and angles of roofing," he said. "It was impossible to get water directly on the fire, which made it impossible to extinguish it. So we poured the water to it and made sure that adjacent properties remained unharmed. We were really lucky that there was no wind."

According to Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, who was among the volunteers

She was actively involved with GLAF's Symphony at Deep Creek.

Following the death of her brother, Homer L. "Ben" Bennett, she managed Rohyan's Furniture Store in Oakland until the business closed.

Born Dec. 29, 1935, in Wheeling, W.Va., Ms. Bennett was the daughter of the late Homer L. Bennett Sr. and Mary Drake (Naylor) Bennett.

Survivors include five nephews, Drake Bennett, Southlake Texas, Geoffrey Bennett, Streamwood, Ill., Crane Bennett, Park City, Utah, Nelson Bennett, Pittsburgh, and Lewis Bennett, Fort Collins, Colo.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to St. Paul's United Methodist Church, the 125 Liberty Club, or the Garrett County Historical Society.

Former Oakland City Police Chief Shillingburg Dies

Hobert John Shillingburg, 71, an Oakland resident and the retired chief of the city's police department, was pronounced dead on Saturday afternoon after being found unconscious at the wheel of his vehicle in Loch Lynn.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies found Shillingburg at approximately 3 p.m. as they were checking a report of a vehicle that had run into a snowbank at the intersection of Route 560 and Paul Street. The deputies attempted to speak with Shillingburg but were unable to elicit a response.

CPR was initiated and the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad was called to the scene, which transported Shillingburg to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where CPR was continued until he was pronounced dead at 3:29 p.m.

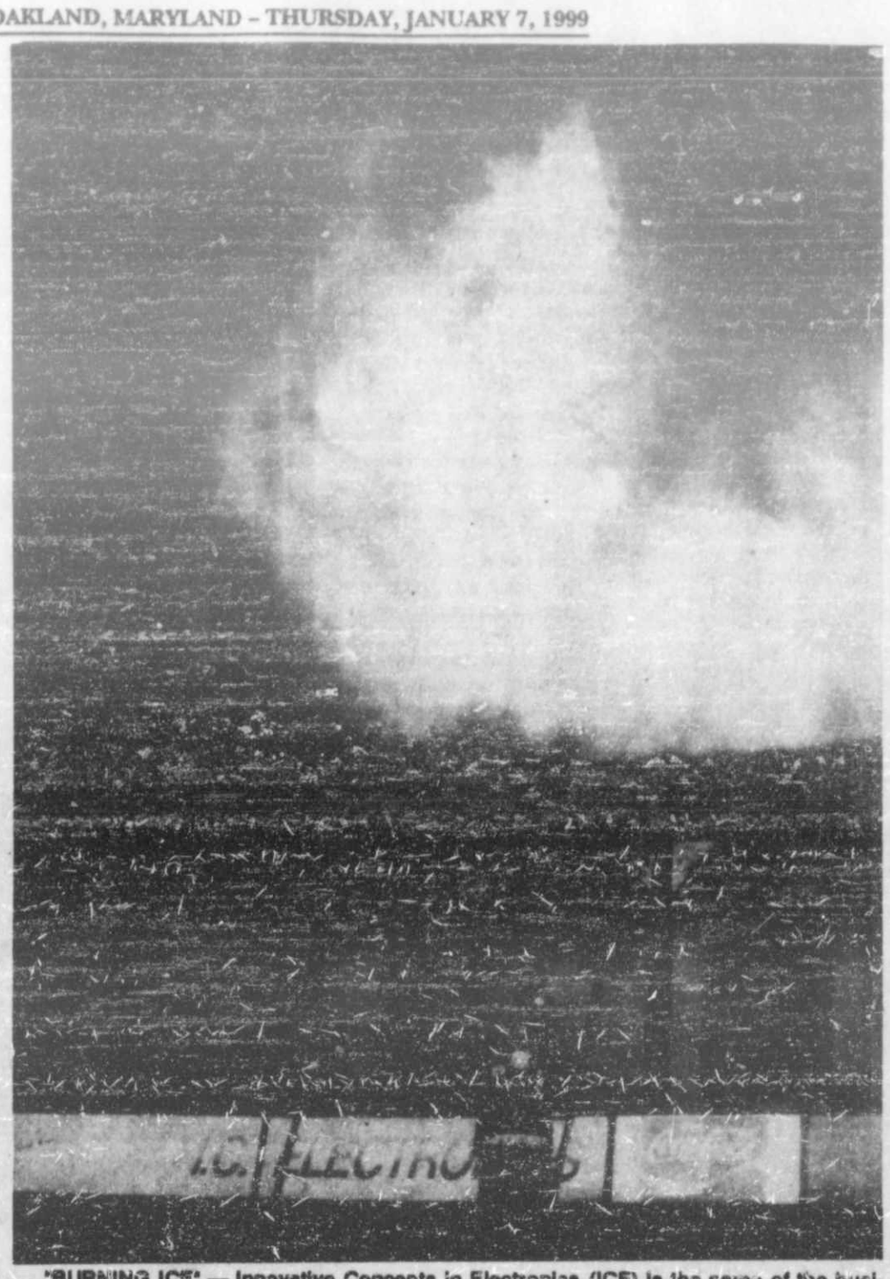
Although it is believed that Shillingburg's death was attributable to natural causes, sources were unable to confirm that information as of this morning.

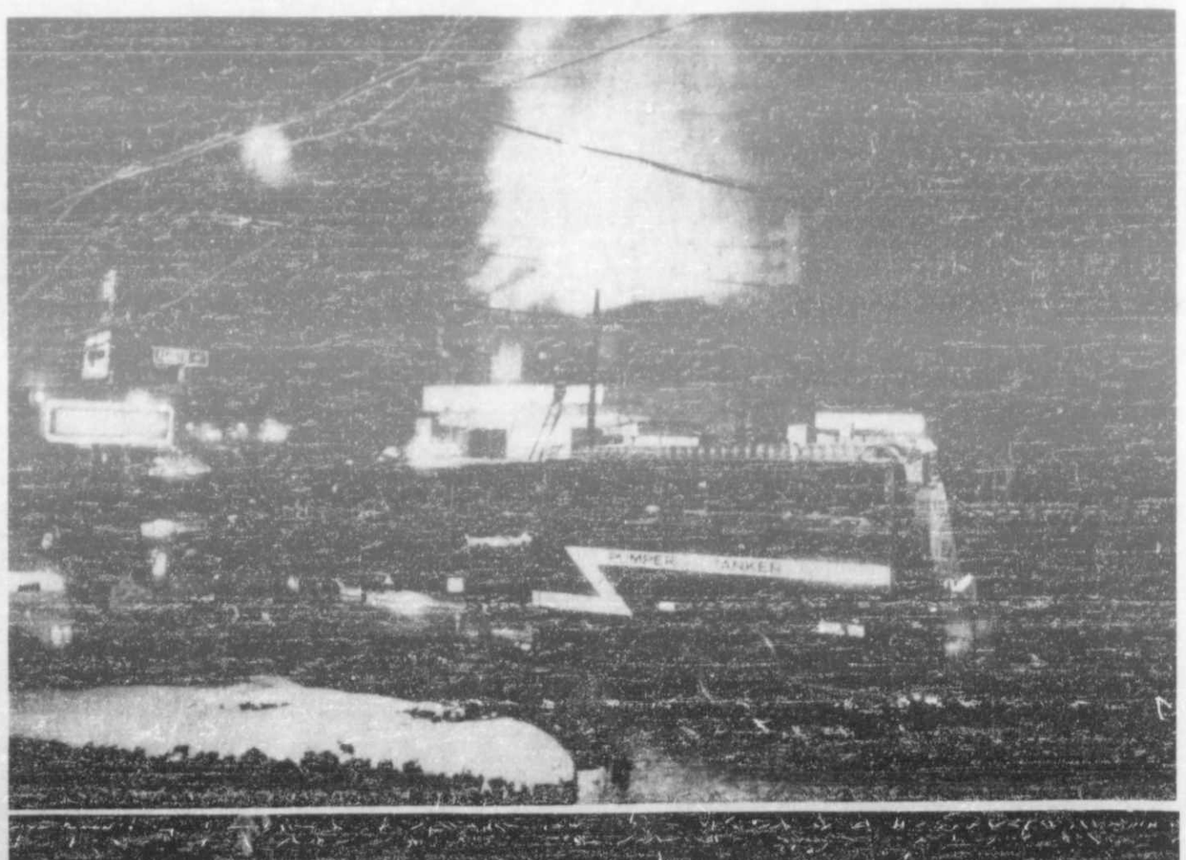
Shillingburg was born May 19, 1927, in Brookside, W.Va., the son of the late Harley Bliss and Etta Elizabeth (Nethken) Shillingburg.

He served as a police officer in Oakland for many years before being hired as its chief of police, a position he retired from in 1984 when he was replaced by the current chief, John Sines.

Survivors include his wife, Doris Ruth (Ours) Shillingburg; three sons, Jerry Shillingburg, Tetra Alta, W.Va., Paul Shillingburg, Grantsville, and John Shillingburg, Aurora, W.Va.; one daughter, Gail Schrock, Oakland; one stepson, George Deems, Malvern, Ark.; one stepdaughter, Ann Hetrick, Oakland; one sister, Janice Tackett, Aurora; and numerous grandchildren, great-grandchildren; step-grandchildren, and step-great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was conducted Wednesday, Jan. 6, with the Rev. Charles Teets officiating. Interment was in the King Cemetery.





"BURNING ICE" — Innovative Concepts in Electronics (ICE) is the name of the business housed in a building in downtown Oakland that was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening after fire broke out in a second-floor apartment. Ice is also something that fire fighters and others responding to the blaze had to contend with all night, as temperatures dipped as low as 12 below zero. In the photo above left, masked fire fighters attempt to make an attack from the balcony of the second-floor apartments, but they were quickly turned away by the heat and intense flames, also dramatically visible above their heads. The photo below shows icicles hanging from adjacent power lines, which formed within seconds of attacking the fire and soon covered even the fire fighters themselves. Five fire departments sent equipment to the scene. Below right is a photo of the merchandise that was removed from ICE by fire fighters and scores of bystanders. The items were later moved into a building across the street for protection. See story on front page for details of the fire, which was the third major structure fire in downtown Oakland in the past five years. The photo above left was taken by Matt Sincell. The rest were taken by John McEwen.

helping salvage merchandise from ICE, an estimated 500,000 gallons of water were used to extinguish the fire. "We elevated the town water pressure to 80 pounds, and we were able to keep a good supply all night," he said.

"It was a great effort by everyone," the mayor said. "The fire fighters did their usual outstanding job, town employees spread salt and cinders around the area and also kept the storm drains open by chopping ice, nearly 100 citizens helped carry the merchandise out of the store, and Southern Rescue Squad personnel were there monitoring for frostbite and helping in a variety of ways.

Still other citizens were serving coffee and food. The Episcopal Church opened its doors for people to get warm, and First United Bank opened the Pritts building to house the store merchandise."

Fire units remained on the scene throughout the night, and temperatures reportedly dropped to a minus 12 degrees, but there were no major injuries and no severe cases of frostbite.

"Fighting a fire like this under normal conditions is not easy," Chief Swiger said. "The severe temperatures and ice can cause major problems with the equipment, but we were pleased that we were able to keep everything working well under the circumstances. Our guys also did a great job of not getting hurt."

There were times when the fire fighters could barely move because they were virtually encased in ice.

Steve Wendling, deputy state fire marshal, who is conducting the investigation into the cause of the fire, would only say on record that the investigation is continuing, indicating last night that he still had one or two people to talk to about the incident.

"The only thing I know for sure right now is where it started, and that the cause had nothing to do with electricity," Wendling said.

Oakland police chief John Sines, who is also an active member of the Garrett County Historical Society, noted his appreciation to the fire fighters and all the volunteers. "A major concern was the museum next door," he said, noting that the building that houses the museum is only about eight feet away from the structure that burned.

Domestic Assaults Result In Pair Of Arrests By GCSO

A pair of alleged domestic-related incidents resulted in the arrests of two local men on assault charges this week, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The first incident occurred at 10:45 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 2, when Melvin Douglas Sines, 58, of 6899 Gorman Road, Oakland, allegedly assaulted his wife during an argument. The incident reportedly left a visible bruise on her arm, and the deputies who made the arrest for second-degree assault noted that alcohol was a factor in the events. Sines was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

The second incident occurred at 5798 Bittinger Road on Sunday, Jan 3, at 8 p.m., where a resident, Donald Gordon Aronhalt Sr., 45, allegedly assaulted his girlfriend after he had been drinking. After interviewing a witness and observing visible bruises on the woman's neck and arm, deputies arrested Aronhalt and charged him with second-degree assault. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

Computer Theft

In other sheriff's news, a theft from an Oakland accounting firm over the weekend resulted in the loss of two laptop computers worth a combined total of $6,000.

The perpetrator(s) reportedly gained entry to Rodeheaver and Associates, located off Garrett Highway at 6000 Thayer Center, by breaking in through a window on the north side of the building. The pair of Toshiba Satellite laptop computers reportedly contained the accounting records of several local businesses.

Hit And Run

A hit and run accident in the Friendsville area this week caused $3,500 worth of damage to a disabled vehicle.

A blue Chevrolet Corsica stuck in a snow bank off White Rock Road was left there by its driver, Lawrence Owsiany of Friendsville, at approximately 10:30 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 31. Upon returning the following afternoon to check on the car he found that it had apparently been struck by another vehicle, causing extensive damage to its left side.

Owsiany subsequently reported that someone had broken out the car's driver's side window between his Friday afternoon discovery of the hit and run damage and the arrival of a tow truck on Saturday to remove it from the snowbank.

Accident

A New Year's Day one-vehicle accident on Garrett Highway resulted in minor injuries to a passenger.

Marcy Quinter, 65, Baltimore, was riding in a rear seat of a 1997 Dodge van driven by Deborah Marie Goralski, 45, Oakland, when the vehicle ran off the snow-covered highway just south of Sand Flat Road and into a ditch. Quinter sustained injuries to her head and side and was transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

No charges were filed.

DWI Arrest

Timothy Ray Sypolt, 40, Terra Alta, W.Va., was arrested by sheriff's deputies and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI).

Lost Property

A pair of chainsaws reportedly fell from the back of a truck traveling on Weber Road between the Short Stop convenience store and Maryland Highway Friday morning, according their owner, Donald Ringer II of Loch Lynn. The Stihl .046 chainsaws, both orange and silver in color, were valued at approximately $500 each.

As the local HICAP representative, Heselbach attends regular statewide seminars to keep up-to-date on all changes in the field of medical insurance for older citizens. She is the specialist to whom referrals are made from within the Area Agency on Aging as well as referrals from other agencies.

Heselbach, a registered nurse with a long history of advocacy and service to the senior population, noted the need for HICAP services. "This is crucial today, with all the Medicare changes taking place," she said.

Among the changes Heselbach referred to are those brought about by the trend to managed care as the model of service delivery in health care. Medicare has reflected this national course, offering coverage that is broader in scope than traditional Medicare insurance but limited by new guidelines and regulations.

Managed care and health maintenance organizations (HMOs) have contracted to administer Medicare services and have thereby created a complex vocabulary and acronyms that can be confusing, Heselbach explained. "The programs and plans can be extremely complicated. They include terms like POS, PPO, Network, and co-pay," she pointed out.

Sorting through the Medicare jargon can seem like stumbling through a maze for some elderly citizens. Through HICAP Heselbach provides the guidance to ease the confusion. Anyone needing more information may contact June Heselbach at 301-334-9431 or toll free at 1-888-877-8403.

State, County Jobless Rates Up In November

Employment expanded further in Maryland in November, reaching a record high for any November in state history. The approaching holiday season, however, induced job seekers into the labor market, causing unemployment to inch up slightly, from 4.0 percent October to 4.2 percent in November.

"Maryland continued to experience increasing employment during November," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "It is a positive indicator of the state's economy that employment levels grew to a record high while the labor force also expanded, preventing the unemployment rate from increasing significantly. Additionally, the state's unemployment rate is more than half of a percentage point lower than it was a year ago."

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate increased by one percentage point, from 8.3 percent in October to 9.3 percent in November, but was still well below the 1997 November rate of 12.4 percent.

During November, state employment rose by about 3,800 people to 2,683,448. With an increase of just over 7,500 in the number of people entering the labor market, the number of unemployed rose to 116,759. Even with this increase, the number of unemployed people dropped considerably since last year when nearly 134,700 people were unemployed.

Locally, unemployment rates remained the same or dropped slightly in eight jurisdictions and rose in other areas. Across the state, unemployment rates include levels as low as 2.2 percent in Montgomery County, 2.5 percent in Howard County.

Hiring activity during November was centered primarily in retail trade as employers began to bring in temporary workers to accommodate holiday shoppers. General merchandise and apparel stores boosted their payrolls, as did food stores and miscellaneous retail establishments such as card shops, jewelry stores, and bookstores. Hiring in trade was supplemented by increases in food processing, printing and publishing, and in business, health, and educational services.

Yearly Public Information Meeting On Economic Development Slated

The second annual Public Information Meeting on Economic Development will be held Monday, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m., in the auditorium of Garrett Community College. The meeting is being hosted by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, and the Garrett County Office of Economic Development. The public is invited to attend.

Staff from the economic development office will review activities of the past year in terms of new businesses and expansions of existing businesses. A spokesperson from the office said the "good and bad news" of businesses' expansions and losses will also be reviewed, as well as unemployment rates and wages.

Economic development projects for the Northern, Central, and Southern industrial parks are to be discussed, with the focus being placed on how these endeavors fit into the economic plan for the county, the spokesperson said.

The significant difference in this year's meeting in comparison with last year's is that there are no planned announcements of a new business locating in the county, as there was in 1998 with Simon Pearce Glass.

As part of the meeting, there will be time allotted for questions and comments from the public.

Md. Police Note Family Violence Investigations

Maryland State Police have released the summary report of criminal investigations in incidents of family violence in Garrett County during the previous month.

Tfc. James B. Hovis of the state police Regional Family Violence Unit stated that during December four incidents of domestic violence were reported to his department for investigation.

Police inquiry resulted in the arrest of one abuser. Tfc. Hovis also referred four victims to community sources for supportive intervention.

A Poor Solution...

The Center for Poverty Solutions is yet another advocacy group whose intentions are undoubtedly worthy, but whose latest suggestion to the state of Maryland is not only unwise, but borders on outrageous.

An article by the Associated Press published this week reported that the group wants the state to supply free breakfasts to all students since too many youngsters come to school without having eaten breakfast at home. Studies have shown that skipping breakfast causes one's mind to not be as sharp, which results in diminished academic performance in the classroom. We already have a free and a reduced-price meal program in the schools for children in need, but this group wants free breakfast served to all students.

Not only do they want breakfast provided, but they want it served buffet style in the students' homerooms! The group says that participation in school breakfast is low when served in the cafeteria before school, and increases significantly when served in class. What a shock.

Shelly Terry, the state director of nutrition for Maryland's public schools, was quoted as follows: "It's not just an economic issue. Kids are not eating breakfast because they slept late, or they had to get on the bus, or a variety of other things."

We can barely control our outrage here. We have many questions, the first of which is, what ever happened to parental responsibility? For that matter, what about student responsibility? They're not eating breakfast because they slept late? They had to get on the bus?

What kind of favors are we doing for our children by letting them just sit back (or sleep in) while we adults hand them every single thing on a platter? Sure, maybe a few more kids will score a couple percentage points higher on their spelling test, but at what price? What about teaching them responsibility and accountability?

Secondly, who will be in charge of the breakfast buffet? We assume it will be the teachers, those people who already are required to teach our children six thousand things that the parents should be teaching them — how to treat other people, how to behave in a classroom, sex education, how to eat a proper diet,... The schools even have to teach them how to brush their teeth!

It's no wonder our kids don't measure up in math and the sciences when competing with youth from other nations, such as Japan. The complacency, laziness, and total irresponsibility of too many parents in this country, and then addressing that problem by forcing our teachers and school system to pick up the ball, have shoved math and science way down the priority list. Teachers are lucky to find time in a typical school day just to get to the reading, writing, and arithmetic.

We're pretty certain that Japanese students do not enjoy buffet breakfasts in their classrooms, and we certainly hope that Governor Glendening and the other powers that be in our state will not submit to this proposal, which is one more step in the wrong direction when it comes to educating our children.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I read with amusement Mr. Kessler's letter to you last week concerning the Chamber of Commerce. Surely he was joking when he says, "If this was a Deep Creek Visitor's Center, there would be some tell tale hints." Does the phrase "Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the home of Deep Creek Lake" ring a bell? It is the letterhead of the new chamber which I am sure Mr. Kessler has had occasion to see. Enough of a "tell tale hint"?

As for the rights of groups like the Greater Oakland Business Association and the Grantsville Business Association and others having free, permanent, display space at the Visitor Center, why not? It was built with taxpayer money and these businesses pay a large part of that money. If it is to be a truly successful Garrett County Visitor Center, it must include those displays so visitors will know there is more to Garrett County than Deep Creek Lake.

To the Editor:

I would like to express my sincere thanks to the staff and workers at Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home. When I could no longer care for my precious mother, Olive Jordan, it was the hardest thing I've ever done to put her in a nursing home. But I thank God there are good ones who give considerate and loving care when the family can't.

My mother passed away Dec. 22, and Jan. 4 would have made two years she was in their care. If I could thank each nurse and worker personally, I would. I never once had a serious complaint. I was always treated with courtesy, kindness, and thoughtfulness when I needed help.

The care they gave my mother was with love and kindness. You could see it in their faces and actions. So many times when the stress had me confused, Betsy Care always came to my rescue and made me feel better. The staff is professional, but very caring.

The last day with my mom, the 21st, all three of the girls who were caring for her felt my pain and hugged me and cried with me.

Thank you, and may God richly bless each of you who had a part in my mom's last days and the nearly two years she was in your care.

Gratefully,
Mary Kyle

To the Editor:

Community Action, Area Agency on Aging would like to thank the community for their support of our first annual Holiday Bazaar to raise money for the Home Delivered Meals Program. We raised over $1,000. This money will go directly into the fund for the meals program.

The turkey dinner brought in over 100 people to the Mary Browning Senior Center. Numerous others stopped in to buy crafts made by the seniors, and homemade cookies and pies.

This event was such a success because the seniors and the community helped to support it with their time, talents, and their money. More fund-raisers are planned in the future, and we hope we will be able to serve all the frail homebound elderly who need home delivered meals. Our goal is to eliminate the waiting list. With your help we can do this.

Sincerely,
Ronnie Padmos

To the Editor:

Ms. Fike recently wrote a response to my earlier letter concerning my views on Wal-Mart. I certainly appreciate the fact that she may find shopping here a chore, but I do offer a solution. Shop in Columbia before coming to Garrett County! living only 10 minutes from the Columbia Mall and all that wonderful town has to offer in the way of shopping pleasures, it should be simple to purchase what you need there and then come to our area for the relaxation and recreation that Garrett County has to offer. We are not, nor want to be, a shopping mecca. We want to keep the rural way of life that many of us grew up with and have found our way back to. (I know, you are not supposed to end a sentence with a preposition, but...)

As for Carroll County, yes, Westminster has all that congestion and shopping convenience that you want so badly. Its downtown is as dead as the proverbial doornail, as I fear Oakland will be if we have Sam's friends move into town. All of us did not live in Westminster, which was my point in my letter. We had a long commute to decent shopping and I for one, although I may be in the minority, would like to keep it that way.

To the Editor:

On December 29 a tremendous tragedy took place at the intersection of Sky Valley Road and 495. Whatever the cause, in the flash of a moment two very fine lives were lost. As a resident who lives along Sky Valley Road, I was greatly saddened, but not too surprised. I expected it in the busy summer traffic, but not at this time of year. This intersection is a very dangerous one! Trucks and other vehicles coming south on 495 pass Kurt's Korner and come flying up over the hill with little or no hesitation, and suddenly confront traffic coming out of Sky Valley Road. Those coming out onto 495 can in no way see over the hill. Many stop, roll down their windows, listen for coming vehicles, then quickly pull out with a prayer that their car won't stall or their tires won't slip.

Certainly something must be done at this intersection! A flashing light or large caution sign needs to be placed on the other side of the 495 hill! This would be the least that should be done. Traffic on 495 must be slowed down on that hill or it will surely happen again. Perhaps a better solution would be to move the intersection further south on 495 to give us more of a chance. But that is in the long run. Right now something must be done! We cannot afford the loss of another Meghan Price and Carl Johnson. These folks are too few in society.

At one time Sky Valley Road was seldom traveled except in the summer. But now it is heavily traveled at all times of the year, with residents in Thousand Acres and Sky Valley. I hope and pray the county or state will do something immediately about this! It can't bring back Meghan or Carl, but at least it can give some meaning of their deaths there. Even I feel some responsibility for their deaths. I have been complaining for some time about this intersection and warning my family and guests to be very careful when they pull out onto 495. But I didn't complain to higher-ups who could have done something about the intersection. Thus, I bear some responsibility for the accident and must live with this. I pray that something will be done and it will never happen again!

Sincerely,
John S. Park

Dear Mr. Park,

You will be pleased to know that some of the higher-ups, including Gov. Glendening, have been contacted by at least one other higher-up. See front page story.

View From My Window

THE YEAR OF GRACE

"Today is the first day of the rest of your life." That has become a hackneyed expression, but I remember when it was as fresh as the morning dew. The year was 1970, and I was a high school sophomore.

There was a new social studies teacher, my world history teacher, who used this phrase. Perhaps he began class with the line on the first day. That I do not recall. It did become a refrain throughout the year. The phrase and the idea it expresses was new to me. It seemed a great original thought.

There is much grace in it. It suggests that whatever has happened before is what it is and beyond the reach of our ability to change it. Today is at hand. What I make of it is largely up to me. Today does not stand alone, however. Today is the beginning of an epic, my epic.

At the beginning of a year this quality of epic living is most poignant. When the year begins is entirely arbitrary, but like many arbitrary distinctions, it is one that brings our lives into focus. I have never been one to celebrate the new year much. At midnight on almost any day I am asleep.

Still it is difficult not to feel the power of the universal sense of ending and beginning. Even if every today is the first day of the rest of my life, at the beginning of the year it is hard not to feel wistful about the sadness and failure of the previous year, as well as to hope and plan for better things to come.

The calendar has a long and intricate history. The article in the Encyclopedia Britannica provides a synopsis of trying to get the calendar straight since time immemorial. Though there are many fine points to confuse the machinery of the calendar, the largest obstacle is that the cycles of the moon do not coincide with the cycle of the sun.

The great light which rules the day is in a perpetual state of conflict with the lesser light which rules the night. They are as different, well, as night and day. This conflict between sun and moon betokens the conflict inherent in life.

The lights of our lives do not agree. Life is a long series of inconsistent consistencies. Half the stability of life is unsynchronized with the other half of stability. Out of that lack of synchronicity arises most of life's instability.

We face another such foible of the calendar. The year 2000 is not really the beginning of the new millennium; rather, it is the year 2001. Some things exist, however, because we think them into existence, and the significance of the year 2000 is one of them.

In this instance, however, we do have a specific issue on which to hang all our millennial worries. Y2K — short for "year 2000" — is a computer problem which will have effects somewhere between nothing and nuclear meltdown. Nobody knows where on the spectrum of potentialities any one life may fall.

Can you imagine trying to explain to someone 50, let alone 100, years ago that modern life might come to a halt, if only temporarily, because the code for years was loaded into a machine with two digits rather than four?

We have given our lives to the almighty computer, but the computer still has to live with the calendar, as do we. The sun rises and sets. The moon waxes and wanes. Life goes on and in epic proportions.

Another phrase comes down to us from sometime during the past 2000 years, though in my reading it turns up mostly in the post-Reformation period: "in the year of grace." It is a substitute for A.D. — anno Domini, Latin for "in the year of the Lord."

I like this phrase and use it a lot. It possesses the same quality of generosity and of hope as "Today is the first day of the rest of your life." It also embraces the past in a way that the more modern saying does not. 1999 is a year of grace, but the other 1998 years were years of grace, too.

How better could one live than from grace to grace, life lived in the free gift of God, a light shining from a manger brighter than sun or moon?

Dove Center

change-over in the directorship. The previous director left the center in March with short notice to the board. The center was then without a director while a search committee sought a new leader. Spassil came on in early summer, well past the deadlines for nearly all grant applications that would have normally been sent in.

"It's not mismanagement — it's a lack of management," said Spassil, speaking of the months that the center was without a leader. "There was no management to speak of for some time, so when I came here, I had a mess to clean up. I'm doing the best I can, and would have never sought help from the county unless we truly couldn't find it anywhere else."

Spassil said that the center has applied for a Maryland Affordable Housing grant, which, if funded, will probably reach the center in early February. Spassil said she has been in contact with the granters and they have assured her that the Dove Center's application "looks good." This money will allow the shelter to resume 24-hour service, Spassil said. It was granted to the center last year with a start date of Feb. 9, 1998.

The commissioners' response to the center's Dec. 22 request was sent on Dec. 28, but was posted to a street address. The center has a post office box address. Spassil said she knew nothing of the response letter until she heard about it on the radio, as the media had received the letter via fax. The letter did not reach the center until Jan. 4, Spassil said.

"A phone call would have been a little nicer," she noted.

In the letter penned by county administrator Monty Pagenhardt, the commissioners suggested that the center continue to explore all funding sources and utilize every effort to secure additional money. They also suggested that the Dove Center attempt to secure funding from a local banking institution. Finally, the commissioners said that in the event the center could not secure funding after all the avenues are exhausted, the county would guarantee a loan for a one-month period.

In response to the suggestions, Spassil said the center cannot enter any sort of loan agreement.

"We are a non-profit entity with absolutely no equity or collateral," she said. "We work almost exclusively through grant funding, and that money is always earmarked for specific expenses. I've never heard of a grant that can be used to pay back a loan, and my advisors at the state level have told me that there is probably no such mechanism."

The original request of money from the county was $12,000, which Spassil and Bell-Taylor said would cover the staffing expenses, as well as Spassil's salary, for the month. This involves the pay for 14 eight-hour shifts at $7 per hour, plus fringe costs, equaling about $4,704, plus $800 fringe. The rest of the request comes from the need for Spassil's salary, rent money, and the costs of essential supplies.

In light of recent publicity about the crisis, Spassil said the "outpouring from the community has been just overwhelming."

"We have received one substantial donation and then lots of smaller ones that have been so appreciated," she said. Even with the donations thus far, however, the center will most likely have to be closed next week. It will still offer some services, but the housing of families in domestic violence crises will cease for an undetermined time.

The Republican newspaper and WKKW radio are tentatively engaging in a public awareness project to alert citizens to the center's plight. A coupon for donations to the center can be found in this section of today's issue. Spassil said that if the wages of the staff can be covered, the rest of the deficit can be managed.

Spassil has written a letter to the commissioners, dated Jan. 5, and has outlined the efforts made by the center to cover the shortfall. She notes in the letter that Duane Yoder, executive director of the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC), has waived rent on the building for two months. The GCCAC owns the shelter building and has been charging a minimal rent fee of $375 to the Dove Center. Yoder has also offered to lower the rent by $50 through June. Spassil has been in contact with a number of state agencies, including the Department of Human Resources Transitional Services and the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention. Both are aware of the situation and have offered support, but are not able to offer funds at this time of the year.

Several grants are being sought and a fund-raising concert is slated at the Our Town Theatre in February. Spassil states in the letter that two years of audits have been completed, with the third year in the process and the fourth to follow.

"The shelter closing at this time will displace three families who are currently in residence," she wrote. "The shelter facility has been utilized more in the months of October and November (98 bed nights) than it was in the whole previous fiscal year (90 bed nights)."

"What are we going to do when a family shows up at our door after next week?" Spassil asked in an interview yesterday. "We can't just send them back home, back to a violent situation where they can be abused — or even killed. These are local people we're talking about, too, people right here in Garrett County. They need a place to go when their lives are being threatened."

In another published report, GCCAC's director Yoder said the center serves as a safety net and "fills a gap in our services."

Spassil states in the letter that she hopes the commissioners come to "better understand the dynamics of domestic and sexual violence" and that their constituents, some of them victims of violence, "have placed their trust in your hands. Please do not let them down."

General Assembly To Open Jan. 13; Local Officials Review '99 Issues

Deep Creek, School Construction At Forefront

Delegate George Edwards and a representative from Senator John Hafer's office met with the Garrett County commissioners this Tuesday as prelude to the 1999 Maryland General Assembly, which will convene next week. While Edwards said he and Hafer have "nothing earth-shattering on the table" as of yet, the topics of the sale status of Deep Creek Lake and possible local school construction were discussed.

Fred Thayer, the chairman of the commissioners' Deep Creek Lake advisory committee, was also in attendance Tuesday and was on hand to answer questions about the current status of the sale of Deep Creek Lake. While the current owner, GPU Energies, and the Maryland General Services Department were to have reached a price agreement in the fall, the negotiations are continuing, apparently with no price yet agreed upon. Despite the open-ended situation between the state and GPU, local officials have expressed growing concern about the eventual local control of the lake.

In light of this concern, Thayer and his committee, as well as Ed King and the Department of Natural Resources-appointed local advisory committee, have adopted the concept of local management of the lake and have agreed that it will be called the Deep Creek Lake Management Authority. In defining the function of this authority, the commissioners' approach is to legislate its creation, basically putting the authority into existence so that when the negotiations are completed, the local authority will already be in place.

The commissioners have asked Edwards and Hafer to support the drafted legislation, and Edwards said Tuesday that he will do so.

The management authority, as delineated in a document upon which both the local and the DNR advisory committees have agreed, will be made up of the state senator, the delegate, one county commissioner, one member of the Deep Creek Property Owners Association, one member of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and two appointees by the governor, one of whom must be a resident or owner of real property in the county.

He also noted that members of the Bass Federation were upset that they had not been included in the make-up of the board, but noted that they and several other lake-related groups would have the opportunity to be appointed to various committees, including an advisory board to the DNR.

The document also states that the physical management of Deep Creek Lake will continue with the DNR, but will be open for a bidding process after three years. Secretary John Griffin said this allows the county to be more flexible.

"He basically said that this is so the county isn't 'stuck' with the DNR indefinitely," Thayer said.

There are several items included in the document presented to Edwards for legislation. These will be highlighted in future related articles in The Republican.

Other Legislative Issues

Edwards went on to comment on a variety of issues likely to be of interest in this year's legislative session. He said school funding will be a major issue this year, with higher education establishments being the recipient of most of the funding. Secondary education funding will be discussed this year, but not much money will be allotted until next year.

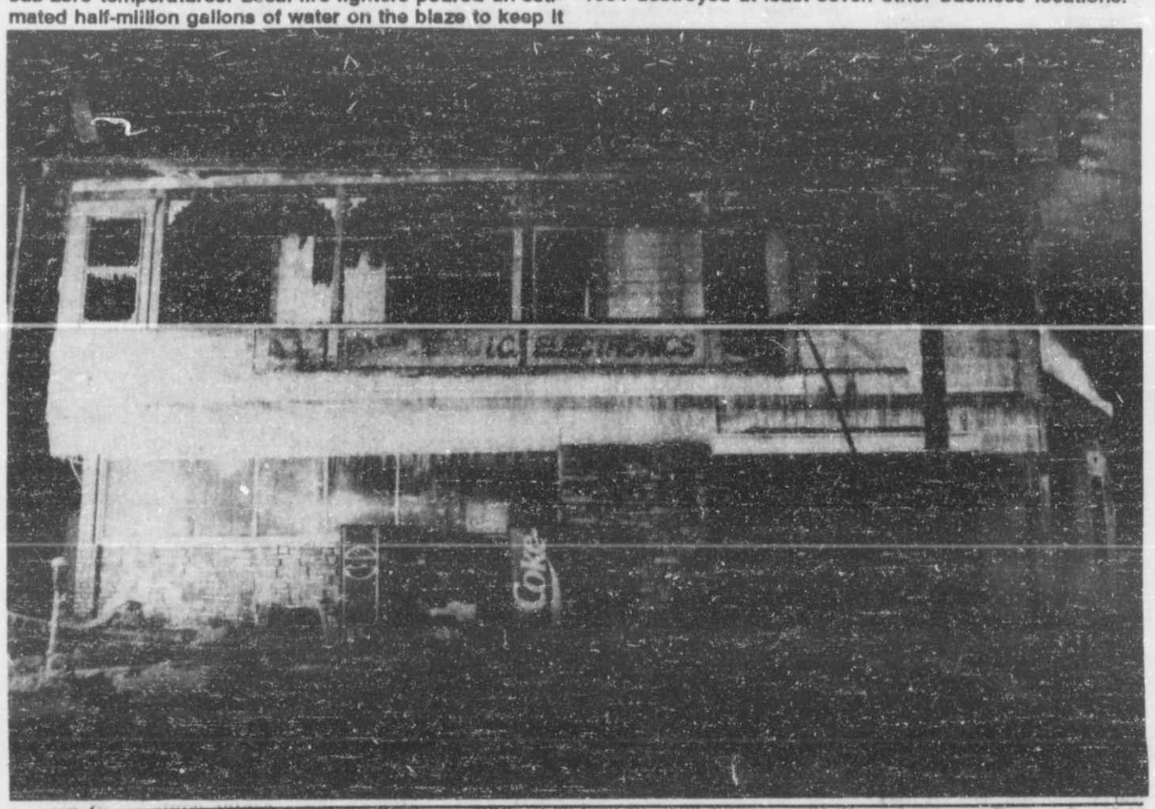
Edwards said the state does have a large overage of funds this year and that he will be seeking to obtain some of that money to help the local high schools. An auxiliary gym at Northern has been planned for nearly 30 years but has never come to fruition, and a new foyer, library, and stage at Southern have been promised but unfulfilled for 15 years.

"These are both important projects that simply need to be done," Edwards said. "I think the state should help us out."

He explained that new school construction almost always allows for the construction of auxiliary gyms, but older schools in need of renovation are often not eligible for funds.

"It makes it tough for rural areas where we can't afford to build new schools every year," he said. The delegate reported that he is working on a letter about these projects and plans to have it ready by next week.

Other issues to be on the floor this year, Edwards said, include funding for community colleges, deregulation, and the allotment of the extra state funds.



BOTH FIRE AND ICE are visible in the photo above, as Tuesday's fire consumed another building in downtown Oakland, but were hot enough to immediately melt all of the icicles that formed in fighting the flames because of sub-zero temperatures. Local fire fighters poured an estimated half-million gallons of water on the blaze to keep it contained within just one structure. Efforts to protect the adjacent Professional Building, which houses the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, were successful, and there were no injuries. Two previous fires in the town since 1994 destroyed at least seven other business locations.

Emergency Management Office Handles 21,618 Calls In 1998

The staff of the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management handled a total of 21,618 calls for assistance during calendar year 1998, down just under 6% of the total for the previous year (22,835) and down about 8% from 1996. The annual statistics were released this week by J. Bradley Frantz, director of the office.

Of the total number of calls, 14,324 were classified as emergencies, with 7,912 of them received over the 911 telephone line. The 911 calls the previous year totaled 7,072. Of the emergency total, 2,747 were for local rescue squads, while 2,314 were calls for assistance from area volunteer fire departments.

The use of cellular telephones continues to increase, as 1,681 calls were received via cell phones, compared to 1,250 in 1997 and 621 in 1996.

Units and personnel from the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad were summoned 1,558 times, compared to 1,495 in 1997, while Northern Garrett County Rescue received a total of 1,189 calls for help, compared to 1,300 in 1997. The Grantsville station of Northern Rescue responded to 631 calls, the Accident station to 369 calls, and the Friendsville station to 189 calls.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department was dispatched 397 times during the year, compared to 342 the previous year. Deep Creek VFC responded to 365 calls, followed by Deer Park Community VFD to 338, Eastern Garrett, 215; Friendsville, 198; Kitzmiller, 186; Grantsville, 185; Gorman, 163; Bittinger, 102; Accident, 98; and Bloomington, 31.

A total of 96 different agencies, utility companies, individuals, and others were contacted at least once by the office, with the following being the most frequent: Maryland State Police, 1,584; Sheriff's Office, 1,111; Garrett County Memorial Hospital, 565; Allegany County 911, 293; Home Health nurses, 282; Garrett County Sanitary Commission, 217; Oakland City Police, 159; Animal Control, 146; Mineral County 911, 130; Garrett County Roads Dept., 120; Department of Natural Resources, 99; and Allegheny Power, 85.

Frantz reminds all residents that the 911 telephone line is to be used only in emergency situations. Persons may contact the office with non-emergency concerns by dialing 301-334-1930 or 301-334-1929.

New State Park Volunteer Group Being Organized

Volunteers are sought for Friends of Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls state parks, a new group being formed that will provide an outlet for people of all ages, backgrounds, skills, and interests to assist in the various activities of the parks. An organizational meeting will be held Wednesday, Jan. 27, at 7 p.m. at Herrington Manor's headquarters, located at 222 Herrington Lane.

Highly successful "Friends" programs have been active at other parks in the area, including New Germany State Park, and throughout the state, said a Department of Natural Resources spokesperson. "We are looking for volunteers to help with programs, publicity, maintenance, resource protection, park promotions, and clerical work; serve as a campground or ski host; or just to 'cheer us on'," she said.

"As staffing and budgets continue to shrink we must increasingly rely on volunteers to help with the important work being done," the spokesperson said, adding that 1999 is projected to be a very active and busy year for the two parks. Some of the challenges of the coming year include improvements to the Swallow Falls entrance road, the addition of 'outdoor adventures' programming, increasing numbers of day visitors and users of our cabins and campgrounds, and changes to the Swallow Falls sensitive management area access.

Any interested persons not able to attend the Jan. 27 organizational meeting can obtain further information and an application by calling Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Park at 301-334-9180, writing the park at 222 Herrington Lane, Oakland, MD 21550, or through e-mail at <HMSP@mail.gcnet.net>.

Sheriff Warns Of Dangers Of Drinking, Driving

Alcohol-impaired driving is one of the reasons that the time period around the Christmas and New Year holidays is traditionally one of the most deadly times of the year on our nation's highways, according to national statistics. In a preventive measure, Garrett County sheriff's deputies have been participating in special patrol activities during the holidays to create a safer environment on local highways, Sheriff Dick Sanders said.

December was designated as National Drunk and Drugged Driving (3D) Prevention Month across the county. This nationwide effort involved hundreds of agencies around the country trying to reduce impaired driving during the holiday season.

Seventeen intoxicated or impaired drivers were arrested in Garrett County by the sheriff's department during December. This number represents the second-largest number of persons arrested in one month for alcohol-related driving offenses by sheriff's deputies. Of those arrested last month, only one person was under the age of 21.

Statistically, about two out of every five Americans will be involved in an alcohol-related crash at some time in their lives. About two-thirds of drivers involved in alcohol-related fatalities have a blood alcohol content (BAC) level of .14 or higher.

"Even though there is a special emphasis during the holidays to get drunk drivers off of the road, our deputies will continue to vigorously enforce alcohol- and drug-related driving offenses at all times," Sheriff Sanders stated. He encouraged citizens to become involved in this effort by contacting the authorities to report intoxicated drivers.

Correction Noted

Justin Hunter Steyer is the correct name of the pickup truck driver, who was injured in an accident that occurred December 29 on Route 495 at Sky Valley Road. His name had been incorrectly reported as Jason Steyer in the story which appeared in the last issue of The Republican.

Pleasant Valley Gospel Sing Set

January marks the beginning of the fifth year of the Pleasant Valley Gospel Sing, a free open-microphone event that draws gospel music performers and fans from across the region to the Pleasant Valley Community Center. This month's sing is scheduled for Friday, Jan. 18, from 7 to 10:30 p.m.

"We plan to continue gathering for the gospel sing once a month, on every third Friday," explained Helen West, one of the event's organizers. "We offer free admission and free refreshments, and our slogan is 'Come when you can, leave when you hafta,'" she said.

The Pleasant Valley Community Center is located south of Oakland off Joni Miller Road. For directions or further information on the gospel sing interested persons may call West at 301-334-9465.

Oakland Church Sets Year-Long Revelation Study

Pastor Dennis Leatherman and the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church have slated a year-long series of messages from the Book of Revelation titled "Revelation 2000." The series, which is open to the public, begins Sunday, Jan. 10, at 7 p.m. and continues at 7 p.m. each Sunday and Wednesday evening throughout the year.

"With the year 2000 fast approaching, there are many speculations and sensational alarms being proclaimed in the name of Christianity," Leatherman said. "In the Book of Revelation we find clear answers to the many questions people are asking and a detailed account of how the coming of Christ will affect the earth and what role Christians will play. The world's fascination with the Book of Revelation has caused many to read into it messages that are not there. This last book of the Bible is a remarkable book that is easily understood when approached in a practical and scriptural manner.

"A beautifully illustrated and detailed outline of Revelation will be given to all those in attendance. This chart is suitable for framing and will greatly help everyone better understand this intriguing book of the Bible," commented Leatherman.

The community is invited to any and all services of this series, Leatherman added. The Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church is located at 1005 Broadford Road, Oakland. A nursery is available for all services and special music will be included. For more information about the church or to make transportation arrangements, interested persons may call 301-334-3234 or 301-334-4042.

Major Changes On State Tax Form Explained

Marylanders are now receiving the two million state and local income tax booklets that went into the mail last week. While some additional calculations will be required on the 1998 form to figure the correct local income tax, taxpayers will find most changes of the "good news" variety.

"Taxpayers should check out the cover and inside front page of the Maryland tax booklet to find out how the changes affect them," said State Comptroller Robert L. Swann. "To help, we're going to offer almost one-third more hours of telephone help this filing season. Telephone help will be available from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m. weekdays, beginning January 15." Taxpayers can call 410-260-7980 from central Maryland or 1-800-MD TAXES from elsewhere.

Among the most notable changes taxpayers will find are the following:

•Lower state taxes and larger refunds because of the state tax cut, although the tax cut does not apply to local income taxes. The additional calculations required for figuring the local income tax forced the Comptroller's Office to eliminate the short form, Form 503.

•First-ever opportunity to file Maryland returns electronically from home computers if the taxpayer filed a Maryland return for 1997.

•Direct deposit of refunds available to all taxpayers whether they file on paper or electronically. Taxpayers who file electronically from home or through a professional tax preparer — and who elect direct deposit — can have their refund in their bank account within 48 hours.

•Taxpayers can check the status of their refund online by using the comptroller's website or by calling 410-260-7701 from central Maryland or 1-800-218-8160 from elsewhere.

•An expanded earned income credit to provide a cash payment to low-income workers who would not normally need to file a tax return. They must file in order to receive the benefit, however.

•The maximum pension exclusion available to senior citizens increased to $15,900 for 1998 taxes, up from $15,000. Nearly 200,000 taxpayers claimed pension exclusions on 1997 forms.

•No Maryland extension form will need to be filed if taxpayers have requested a federal extension of time to file from the IRS.

The comptroller said taxpayers will find a "wealth of help and information" from the expanded, redesigned comptroller's website, www.marylandtaxes.com. The site offers forms, publications, answers to frequently asked questions, information on the status of refunds, and directions to local taxpayer service offices. Taxpayers may also submit tax questions by e-mail to taxhelp @comp.state.md.us.

Forms will be available in libraries, many post offices, the 20 comptroller's taxpayer service offices, the comptroller's website (www.marylandtaxes.com), and the Forms-by-Fax System (410-974-3299).

Sharon Ringer Joins WEPCO

Sharon Ringer was recently hired at WEPCO Federal Credit Union, Bloomington, according to Howard Warnick, WEPCO president. Ms. Ringer was hired in September as a part-time teller, working at both credit union offices in Bloomington and Oakland.

With the growth of the credit union and the departure of an employee, Ms. Ringer was promoted in November and advanced to a full-time teller in the Oakland branch. With her experience in the Bloomington office as a part-time teller, it allowed her to step into the full-time position "with confidence and ability," Warnick said.

Ms. Ringer is a 1997 graduate of Southern Garrett High School and resides in Mtn. Lake Park.

WEPCO Federal Credit Union now employs a total of 29 people: 20 at the main office in Bloomington, and nine at the Oakland branch. WEPCO has $73 million in assets, has more than 14,000 members, and is presently in its 48th year of providing member service.

New Law Makes HMO Decision Appeals Easier

As of January 1, persons have the right to disagree with a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) decision to deny or limit a medical service. A description of the appeal process should be in material provided to members by their HMO.

As members, persons now have the right to challenge an HMO decision that resulted in the nonpayment of a health care service. They are also to be provided with a description of the HMO's appeal process when payment of a health care service is denied or an adverse decision is rendered.

The definition of an "adverse decision" is a proposed or delivered health care service under the member's contract that is or was not medically necessary, appropriate, or efficient, and which may result in non-coverage of the service. An adverse decision does not mean a decision concerning the subscriber's status as a member.

The new law also allows the member to obtain assistance from the Health Advocacy Unit of the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office. The member may also review a grievance decision from the HMO within 30 days of filing the grievance; within 24 hours if it concerns an emergency. The address is as follows: Health Education and Advocacy Unit, Consumer Protection Division, Office of the Attorney General, 200 St. Paul Place, 16th Floor, Baltimore, MD 21202. The telephone number there is 410-528-1840.

When the member has come to the end of the HMO's grievance process and is still not satisfied, he or she may file a complaint, in writing, with the Maryland Insurance Administration. The address of this office is Chief of Complaints, 525 St. Paul Place, Baltimore, MD 21202-2272. The office may be reached by telephone at 1-800-492-6116.

Arrangements have also been made to assist program participants with the purchase of books to be used in taking classes. Between $20 to $40 is available per student per class, depending on income.

There is also child care and/or transportation assistance available to Maryland program participants while taking training. Income eligibility will be the determining factor in providing this assistance.

Interested persons may contact New Horizons between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays at 301-387-3071 or 387-3102 for more information or to schedule an appointment, or they may visit the New Horizons office at the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College in the Center for Community and Continuing Education, Room 302.

Dear Child In Heaven

You were a blessing to us all,
You were a special child.
And we're so glad God sent you
To be with us for a while.

You filled our home with happiness
And made our life complete.
The time we had with you
Was far too short, but oh so sweet.

Some things we don't find easy
To accept or understand
Till we realize they're part of Our Creator's perfect plan.

Now it comforts us to know
You're with the angels up above,
While in our hearts we hold you close,
Surrounded always by our love.

Citizen Soldiers Muster Service Through Maryland Defense Force

by David Foster

Like many areas still in touch with their rural heritage, Garrett County is justly proud of its pull-yourself-up-by-your-bootstraps independence, a quality that can at least on the surface appear to be sorely lacking in our nation; yet many of our rugged individualists possess at the same time a deep streak of community service. Many local residents give their time and energy to volunteer fire departments, rescue squads, churches, hospitals, and the hospice, to name just a few of the many organizations that channel the efforts of giving individuals toward the common good.

The local company of the Maryland Defense Force (MDDF) is one of those organizations. Area men and women who live widely different lives and work in a variety of professions come together, donning military uniforms, discipline, and training to serve strangers as well as their neighbors and friends.

In its recent history the local volunteer militia unit has pitched in to fill sandbags during a flood situation in Friendsville, assisted with traffic control efforts at the site of this past year's tornado damage in and around Frostburg, hosted multi-jurisdictional search and rescue exercises, and assisted in community activities such as helping the American Legion decorate the graves of local military veterans this past Memorial Day. These are just a few of the ways that MDDF members have demonstrated, through their actions, the old adage "Everybody does better when everybody does better."

History

The MDDF was formed under state law and operates under Article 65 of the Annotated Code of Maryland for the purpose of having a trained and organized stand-by home force to replace the Maryland National Guard should the latter be federalized. The MDDF cannot be federalized and can serve only under the governor of Maryland and can operate only within the borders of the state.

First activated during World War I to replace federalized Maryland National Guard troops, the MDDF, or the Maryland State Guard as it was known then, was disbanded three years later as the National Guard reorganization neared completion.

The Maryland State Guard was reactivated in early 1941 as war clouds loomed on both horizons. The bombing of Pearl Harbor that December led to an expansion of its numbers and responsibilities, and in the fall of 1942 a Garrett County company of the State Guard, by then known as the Maryland Minute Men, was formed when 20 local recruits were sworn in on October 19, according to Lt. Col. William O. Treacy's account "Maryland Minute Men in Oakland," published in The Glades Star in 1988.

The ranks of local State Guard volunteers grew quickly during World War II, including "many 16- and 17-year-old high school students," of which Treacy was one.

"We were designated Company 881, Reserve Militia. George H. Hanst was commissioned as our commander with the rank of Captain and Edward P. Kahl was commissioned as his lieutenant. Among our State-mandated duties, besides attending to emergencies and serving as home-guard, was to provide armed guards at 'sensitive' points in and around Oakland. These included water, electric, gas, and communication facilities as well as City Hall." Oakland's Maryland Minute Men were placed on inactive status and disbanded in June of 1944.

The State Guard was activated again in 1983, when the Maryland Code was amended to allow the National Guard and State Guard to co-exist in peacetime, and to open membership to women. The title "Defense Force" was adopted five years later to differentiate the Force from the National Guard.

Today's MDDF

The local MDDF unit consists of volunteers who come from all over Garrett County. "Our members consist of unpaid, unarmed volunteers who not only purchase their own uniforms, but give a great deal of time and dedication to their training," said Major Rick Wakefield of Mtn. Lake Park, the 1st Battalion's operations officer.

COMING TOGETHER FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE, members of western Maryland's Battalion 1 of the Meryland Defense Force maintain a high state of readiness by training to serve their fellow Marylanders when needed. Some of the local MDDF members are shown above at a statewide MDDF muster at Camp Fretterd in Carroll County this past October, where they joined the state's five battalions in demonstrating the principles of the organization. Shown from the left are MSG Bill Heise, an Oakland resident who is retired from a computer business; Major Rick Wakefield, Oakland, a full-time DNR ranger and operations officer for 1st Battalion; Captain Rick Lewis, Oakland, a DNR ranger who serves as Company A commander; LTC Andy Wolfe, Oakland, owner of Andy's Water Works, who serves as commander of the 1st Battalion; First Sgt. John Hyson, Oakland, who retired from the Department of Juvenile Services, Backbone Mountain Youth Center facility; Captain Junior Wilson, Cumberland, who is retired from his own plumbing business; Major Jim Stemple, Cumberland, who is retired from the B&O Railroad and who serves as the executive officer of 1st Battalion; and Pvt. Dave Denniger, Cumberland, who is a self-employed construction professional and the battalion's newest recruit. Also on hand for the statewide muster but not shown were local Company A MDDF members SSG Paul Shogren, Oakland, who though retired also works with Garrett Community College's Adventure Sports program; and SSG Bob Canan, Crellin, the shop foreman at Team One Chevrolet. Below, MDDF members receive training from Maryland State Police personnel who man the Med-Evac helicopter Trooper 5, which they may be called to assist in the event of an emergency. All persons over the age of 16 are eligible to volunteer for MDDF membership, while youth ages 13-16 may join the MDDF through its Cadet program. For further information on the MDDF, interested persons may call Major Wakefield at 301-334-8799 or Captain Lewis at 301-387-4097.

"A full-time ranger for Maryland's Department of Natural Resources, Wakefield's experiences since his youth growing up in Friendsville and following his graduation from Northern High School and Garrett Community College highlight how attitudes toward military-oriented activities and volunteering for the same have evolved over the past three decades.

"In the late 1960s and early '70s there was a lot of distrust of the military across the nation because of the Vietnam war," Wakefield recalled, "but like a lot of Garrett County kids I volunteered for the Army because I wanted to serve my country and to see what was really going on for myself; we did this even though the stereotype of the time was anti-military in many places outside of Garrett County.

"After seven years of active duty service, during which I was fortunate enough to travel to other parts of the world, I came back to Garrett County where I decided I wanted to join the Maryland National Guard. When some of my active duty buddies heard this, they said things to the effect of 'You don't want to do that, they're just a bunch of weekend warriors.'

"I joined anyway, and after graduating from Officer Candidate School, eventually was promoted to command the National Guard unit here in Oakland, and eventually retired with a Captain's rank in 1994.

"Even though some of my active duty buddies had given me some good-natured flack about joining the Guard, I found the soldiers I served with in the Guard to be highly qualified individuals who were dedicated in their service to the state and the country. It reinforced the notion for me that you have to experience things for yourself to make your own judgments.

"I went straight from the Guard to join the MDDF, and it was kind of funny, I caught some more good-natured flack from my buddies in the Guard about my choice," said Wakefield. "Some of them said things like, 'They're a bunch of wanna-be's.'

"Once again, I've found the stereotypes to be just that—stereotypes. There are a lot of dedicated individuals in the MDDF, people who give of their time to train to serve the people of Garrett County and the state of Maryland as a whole.

"Again, it just goes to show you that if you hear negative things about something, you should make the effort to learn more about it for yourself," Wakefield said. "If it's something you want to pursue, go for it and make your own judgments."

Mission

"The local MDDF company is a rather small group," Wakefield continued, "but we work hard and always welcome new men and women who want to join. We don't have trucks, tanks, or other big equipment, and we're a non-profit organization. We get by with small equipment and hard work."

The roughly 350 members of Maryland's five MDDF battalions form the state's only authorized militia, and train at least one weekend a month to carry out their mission to protect lives and property within the state at the governor's direction.

This mission has three specific areas, the first of which is support of the Maryland Army National Guard. This may require armory operation and security when Maryland National Guard units are called to federal service, assistance to dependents of military personnel on active federal duty, and the replacement or reinforcement of the National Guard in state service.

A second MDDF mission area is emergency response, providing trained volunteers and units to support civil authorities—state and county police, fire and rescue, emergency medical services—during local or statewide emergencies. This vein may include activities such as search-and-rescue operations; providing medical, legal, administrative and logistic support at emergency shelters and processing centers; and manning control points along evacuation routes throughout the state.

A third mission category is that of community service, in which the MDDF provides local communities and county or municipal governments with a trained, organized and disciplined force to assist them in performing numerous functions.

These may include providing medical teams to augment local emergency medical services at public gatherings; furnishing personnel to augment local emergency operations centers and communications centers during emergencies; support for charitable organizations and for environmental and community clean-up activities; providing visitor assistance and guidance during community festivals and other civic events; and directing vehicles in parking areas at community festivals, county fairs and similar activities.

Cadet Program

Another mission of the MDDF is to promote the spirit of volunteering, especially among young people, through its Cadet Program. "We can give a good understanding of what it means to serve, and a good orientation to the military, for young people without requiring them to leave home," said Wakefield.

While the minimum age of enlistment in the MDDF is 17, young people may join the organization's cadet program as early as age 13. Garrett County cadets are attached to the local company, and following basic training sessions at the Oakland Armory, train with the local MDDF and earn promotions while learning any of a number of the varied responsibilities of an MDDF member, including emergency medical techniques.

"The Cadet program is a great opportunity for local kids to learn what they're capable of," Wakefield said. "It can help them break through the stereotype that 'There's nothing to do around here', because we always have something to do, and are always ready to help someone who needs it."

"The MDDF, and all military programs, can help people in Garrett County get exposed to other things," Wakefield commented. "But one of the most important things is, while service in the military helps one become more well-rounded, it also lets one know how special we have it here in Garrett County."

After noting that the MDDF insignia is based on the insignia of the 29th Division of the U.S. Army, an insignia that was prominently displayed throughout the blockbuster movie Saving Private Ryan, Wakefield summed up one of the points of that movie, and the MDDF, when he said, "Helping others gives you a great appreciation for what you have."

"But everyone worked together to accomplish the goal, and no one got hurt," he said.

Brad Stewart, owner, reportedly does not have insurance on the structure. Doug Sisler, who owns ICE, said that he has $50,000 of insurance on his business, but said that his loss will not be covered by that amount.

"I really appreciate the efforts by everyone to clear the store of merchandise, and I should be able to salvage almost all of it," Sisler said. "My biggest loss, though, was my Internet equipment, which by itself may take all of my insurance to cover. My Internet access business was really growing, with about 500 customers to date. Right now I'm just trying to find another location in Oakland, even a temporary one, where I can get back into business as soon as possible."

After spending most of the night on the scene, a crew from the Oakland VFD returned at about 8 a.m. Wednesday to extinguish some remaining hot spots.

Also on the scene was the air cascade unit from Allegany County, and on stand-by status were Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Bayard, and Potomac VFDs. Assisting Wendling in the investigation are the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Maryland State Police, and Oakland City Police.

It was not known if the six residents of the apartments, who lost basically everything, each had his or her own insurance. The displaced residents are reportedly staying with friends and relatives until they can make other arrangements.

A spokesperson for Christian Crossing, an all-volunteer, non-profit organization that provides good used clothing, furniture, and other household items to victims of disasters, said that the apartment residents are encouraged to visit the center, located just across the railroad tracks in Loch Lynn.

Among the other businesses that have been housed in the building over the years are Miller's Market, Hub's Harness Shop, Kight's Insurance, and DeWitt and DeBerry Appliances.

The fire was the third major blaze in downtown Oakland in the past five years. It was in February of 1994 that six businesses along Second Street, including Gonder Insurance Agency, Shanghai Chinese Restaurant, Southern Office Supply, Vogue Beauty Salon, Scissors R Us, and Walt Renner and Associates, were destroyed by fire. Then in 1997 a large building along Alder Street that housed the Tropical World pet store, was destroyed.

Fields, Levi Pace Lakers To Easy Win Over Chesapeake

Another outstanding performance by Michael Fields and one by teammate Dexter Levi paced the Garrett Community College men's team to a 99-78 victory over visiting Chesapeake. Fields, a sophomore from Cumberland, scored the Lakers' first 11 points and finished with a 30, as Coach Dennis Gibson's squad improved its record to 7-3 overall and 3-2 in the Maryland JUCO.

Levi, a freshman, was right behind with 28 points, 10 rebounds, and four blocked shots.

Chesapeake held an 11-9 advantage in the early going, but the Lakers scored six straight to take a 15-11 advantage with 14:16 left in the first half. They stretched their lead to 49-35 by intermission.

The visitors cut GCC's advantage to seven points, 57-50, at the 15:37 mark of the second half, but the Lakers' responded with a 10-1 run to build a 67-51 lead by the 12:20 mark. Levi had three buckets in that spurt.

The Lakers' biggest lead of the contest was 93-71, with 3:34 remaining in the game.

Also reaching double figures for the Lakers were Lionell Sewell and Johnathan Frazier, who each finished with 10 points. Benitez dished out five assists.

Pacing Chesapeake with a game-high 31 points was R.J. Farmer. Jim Todd and Kyle Hollis also reached double figures with 18 and 15 points, respectively.

The Lakers also led in rebounds by a 51-36 margin, with Levi leading Garrett and Todd pulling down 12 for Chesapeake.

It was the first game for the Lakers after the holiday break, and with only two days of practice, Coach Gibson was pleased with his team's efforts.

"We didn't play at the level we were at before break, but we certainly played well enough to win the game," Gibson said. "Levi came off the bench and played his best game of the season, offensively and defensively.

"Our depth also really helped us," he added.

The Lakers are slated to play again this evening at home against Butler County Community College, with the tip-off set for 7 p.m. They will travel to Montgomery College-Takoma Park on Saturday, host Potomac State College next Monday, and entertain Prince George's CC next Wednesday.

GCC MEN PUT ON A CLINIC - The Lakers were in the air more than they weren't Tuesday night as they came within one point of breaking 100 in flying past Chesapeake by a 99-78 margin. Lionell Sewell, #30 in the above left photo, appears to be ready to jam the ball through a tiny hoop over his head as he floats in to lay up two of his 10 points. Pacing the Lakers' win was former Allegany High School standout Michael Fields, shown above right popping in one of his trio of three-pointers, while Warren Coates (#25, with his back to the camera) is among the Lakers awaiting the attempt's result. Fields led all scorers with 30 points on the night. GCC also got a fine performance from 6-5 freshman Dexter Levi, shown below slamming home two of his 28 points while Coates is suitably awestruck to Levi's right.

my father, who's 27 years old,
I see him as a spirit

Worryless man

AT LINSLY, UNIFORMS AREN'T PERSONALITY STRAITJACKETS.

Take the different personalities of these three. Mary Sue is the extrovert. She's involved in everything from drama to the yearbook. Whitney thinks Mary Sue is a showoff. She's more serious and athletic. Dan is quiet and determined. He taps into an inner strength. But like all Linsly students they have one thing in common—they know success is not attached to labels like Nike, Levis or The Gap. In fact, ask any of our students about uniforms and they'll tell you, "Hey, it's what's underneath that counts."

At Linsly, we never forget that each student is a person first. Maybe that's why so many students say, "It's easy to fit in."

GCC Women Drop JUCO Contest To Hagerstown

Hagerstown Community College turned the heat up on a cold McHenry night as the Hawks' steady offense helped them pull away to a 64-49 win over Garrett Community College Tuesday night. GCC's record stands at 6-4 overall and 3-4 in JUCO play going into Saturday's home matchup with Essex, which will be followed by Tuesday night visit to Catonsville.

At one point late in the first half the Lakers were down by only a single point, 20-19, but a scoring run by the Hawks put Hagerstown up 29-21 at the half. Garrett came back at its guests in the second half to close the gap to a 35-31 margin with 15:55 to play, but the Hawks then began to pull away for good and take the contest by a 15-point margin.

The lion's share of the Lakers scoring came from the outside, as guard Erica McBride led GCC with 11 points, guard Susanne Albright accounted for nine points (including a three-point goal), and Chrissy Lambert, also a guard, scored eight points. Center Andrea Barrick had six points, eight rebounds, and four blocked shots, while McBride also dished out five assists and had three steals.

Molley Schoenberg led all scorers with 14 points for Hagerstown, in addition to pulling down nine rebounds and blocking four shots.

"We had only been able to practice twice since the break, and it showed," said GCC coach Ann Wellham, whose squad had played its previous game in mid-December. "Hagerstown played with a lot more poise and timing. There were times when we played with them and forced turnovers, but we couldn't capitalize on them."

LAKERS SHOOT, BUT FALL SHORT - Garrett Community College's women's team fell to Hagerstown Tuesday night, 65-49, despite these baskets by Andrea Barrick and Tasha Blackmon. Above, Barrick goes high to launch a shot just inside the foul line that accounted for two of her six points on the night, while fellow Lakers Anna Shelton (#10), and Chrissy Lambert (#23) move toward the basket in case the shot was off its mark. At right, Blackmon (#34) goes skyward above her defender to pop in a pair of her seven points, while Barrick (#21) and Susanne Albright (#12) follow the action.

Northern Girls Destroyed By Campers, 70-50

A road trip to Allegany High School ended as the Northern Huskies girls' basketball team was chased back up the mountain by the red-hot Campers, who trounced their guests by 50 points Monday night. The loss reportedly leaves Northern with a 1-5 record going into a full slate of away games this coming week when the Huskies travel to Hancock tomorrow night, Beall on Monday night, and Salisbury on Wednesday night. No report was available regarding the outcome of last night's home contest against Salisbury.

It took nearly the entire first half for Northern to break into the double-digit scoring column at Campobello, as they were held to five points in the first quarter and were only able to match that production in the second quarter. Allegany jumped out to a 19-5 lead after the first stanza, was up 36-5 at the half, and continued pulling away to mount a 54-12 lead after three quarters.

Junior Cassie Murray ripped the nets for 22 Allegany points, and rounded out her fine performance by pulling down six rebounds and handing out four assists. Tracey Little added 17 points and eight rebounds, and Teandra Smith scored 11 points for the Campers, who closed the night with a 3-0 WMIL record and a 5-2 overall standing.

Husky junior Heather Nugent scored seven points from her guard slot to lead Northern.

Allegany's varsity had actually improved on a 31-point margin of victory that their junior varsity had produced over the Huskies. Camper Kendra Hymes scored 16 points and teammate Kori Corthron added 15 points to lead Allegany to a 52-21 win.

Rams Girls Record Still Even After Splitting With Westmar, Fort Hill

The winning percentage of the Southern High School girls' basketball team remains where it started this week, an even .500, after dropping a matchup at Westmar, 61-49, and downing Fort Hill at home, 55-40. With a 5-5 overall record and a 3-2 WMIL mark, the Rams will not see action again until Wednesday evening when they host Frankfort.

Southern had the Wildcat team by the tail at the halfway point, but Westmar rebounded in the third quarter to outscore the Rams by a 20-6 margin on its way to taking the contest by 12 points.

Freshman Ashley Liller teamed with seniors Jessica Saturday and Laura Friend to account for all but 10 points of Southern's scoring total. Liller hit for 16 points, Saturday added 13 points, and Friend scored 10 points, including a three-pointer from long range. Saturday pulled down 10 rebounds for game-high honors.

Westmar's Stacey Morehead led all scorers with 20 points, Helene Duncan scored 17 points, and Stacey Langham added 14 points for the Wildcats, who improved their record to 5-3 overall and 4-1 in the WMIL. Langham had six rebounds while Duncan dished out four assists and five steals.

Southern took the junior varsity contest 35-23, as Jennifer Bosley and Ashley Spady each scored 11 points. Natalie Sloan scored eight points for the hosts.

The Rams bounced back last night behind a balanced scoring attack to down Fort Hill by 15 points. Liller scored 19 points on nine field goals and a free throw, Saturday added 15 points, and sophomore Charlena Reeves scored 13 points. Friend pulled down 10 rebounds and Reeves stole the ball five times.

Up by seven points after one quarter, the Rams put a 13-point margin between themselves and the Sentinels by the half and were up 44-29 at the opening of the final stanza.

"It was the kind of game [that] if we had executed better offensively we could have put them away earlier than we did," commented Rams coach Don Stemple. "Our defense put us in a position to win the game when our offense wasn't working, especially in the second half. We had a good offensive first half, [and] in the second half the defense let us hang on to win it."

The Sentinels, who headed home after the contest with a 3-5 record overall and a 1-2 WMIL mark, were paced by 11 points from Emily Coyle.

Fort Hill's junior varsity prevailed over the Rams by a 32-25 score. Stacy Simpson led all scorers with 18 points, while Spady and Bosley each scored eight points.

Rams Top Fort Hill, Beall To Up Perfect League Mark

The Southern High varsity boys returned to action after the holiday break and cancellation of their annual Snowball Classic to record a pair of big Western Maryland Interscholastic League victories this week, as the Rams defeated visiting Fort Hill, 77-66, in a game marred by technical fouls and a fight Tuesday evening. The Rams then traveled to Frostburg last night where they crushed Beall, 71-47. The wins gave Coach Tom Bosley's squad a 5-1 overall mark and a perfect 4-0 record in the WMIL.

It took a second-half rally by the Rams to defeat Fort Hill on Tuesday, as Southern trailed at the end of the first quarter, 17-10, and were down at intermission, 38-30. They erupted for 22 points in the third period to take a 52-48 lead into the final stanza.

John Andrews led the Rams in scoring as he connected for 10 fields goals and made good on 13 of 18 free throws for a total of 26 points. Mike Paesani and Jonathan Price also played well for the Rams, as Paesani recorded 20 points and 11 rebounds and Price hit 14 points and grabbed seven rebounds. Nathaniel Panther also reached double figures with 10 points and dished out six assists.

Leading the Sentinels (4-3, 1-1) were Jamie Kline with 26 points and Jordan Hamilton with 13.

The Rams finished with a 27-25 edge in field goals, but connected on 20 of 27 free throws, while the Sentinels made good on 12 of 18 opportunities at the line.

Tempers flared on several occasions during the contest, sparking a number of technical fouls, and a melee broke out at the end of the game involving both players and fans. Police escorted some of the participants out of the gymnasium, but there were no arrests reported.

The Southern junior varsity was topped in the preliminary game, 47-41. Chad Keller led the Fort Hill jayvees in scoring with 18 points, while Keith Steyer and Mike Saturday each netted 11 for the Rams.

Last night's win over Beall was the 10th straight WMIL victory for the Rams, who took control of the contest in the second quarter and never looked back. The first quarter ended in a 10-10 deadlock, but the Rams out-scored the Mountaineers in the second quarter by a 19-4 margin to take a 29-14 advantage into the second half. They led by 20, 50-30, after three periods.

Donalson said two members of the board of governors will most likely also be on the system's board.

Bishoff said the process is a long one, and that the negotiation committee has had just one meeting so far. The members of that committee will enter negotiations with the various systems over the next several months.

She went on to advise the commissioners that they, as the three members of the county's fiscal authority, have essentially six seats available to them on the GCMH governors' board. Each commissioner has the opportunity to serve or to name a representative to serve in his place, and each man is also to appoint another person for a second seat.

"This is an extremely important time in the life of our hospital," Bishoff said, urging the commissioners to make their appointments with some consideration of persons serving now, having been appointed by the previous board.

Bishoff said the next meeting of the negotiating committee will be on Jan. 18.

Neighbors Take Holiday Dinners To Frail Elderly

by Peggy Santamaria

Over a dozen of Garrett County's home-bound senior citizens were served traditional holiday meals by neighborhood volunteers as part of project coordinated by the Community Action's Area Agency on Aging (AAA). "Share the Holiday" is the new program that focused on ensuring delivery of a hot, nutritious Christmas dinner to the county's frail elderly.

Many older people who are unable to leave their homes as result of a serious or debilitating health condition receive home-delivered meals through one of the programs sponsored by the AAA. Hot meals are taken to these individuals three days each week. In addition to the meal, several non-perishable foods are also included with the meal. These can be stored and eaten on days when there is no delivery service.

Adina Brode, executive director of the AAA, said that the idea of Share the Holiday is one that developed some time ago. "For a long time we have wanted to do this through the agency. We have a lot of elderly people in the community who receive home-delivered meals, but this service isn't provided on holidays. So a lot of these older people are alone on Christmas, and do not get a hot meal," she explained.

The concept behind Share the Holiday is a request that people volunteer to do something that will require no significant outlay of cash and will not take a lot of time. With the understanding that holidays are very busy times that can also cause financial strain, Brode saw this program as something that could be done without placing additional demands on the volunteers.

Participants in Share the Holiday are asked to serve an extra plate of the holiday dinner and take it to one of the frail elderly who would not receive a hot meal on that day. "Most families are going to prepare a Christmas dinner anyway, and there are usually left-overs for days," Brode noted.

Besides providing a hot meal, the volunteer also provides what may be the only human interaction the home-bound person will have that day, she added.

Among those sharing a holiday dinner with a home-bound neighbor was Oakland resident Jim Kisner. A driver for Garrett County Community Action's People Movers, he is aware of the frail health and solitary existence of some of the elderly in Garrett County.

PACKING UP SOME HOLIDAY KINDNESS - Volunteers around the county helped to bring a bit of the Christmas holidays into the homes of some frail elderly, who are homebound. In Oakland, Jim Kisner and his sons Allan, 11, James, 9, and Shawn, 7, packed up extra helpings of the traditional turkey dinner, vegetables, and bread to deliver Christmas day. They included enough to last through the long weekend. All of the Kisner men said they really enjoyed helping someone who was alone for the holidays.

When he heard about the Christmas dinner project, he volunteered.

Kisner decided to go beyond the idea of fixing an extra plate of Christmas dinner and taking it a home-bound senior. "We had an extra turkey that was given to us so we fixed extra servings of turkey, vegetables, and bread. Christmas was on Friday and I couldn't see them going all weekend without a hot meal," he explained.

Kisner got some additional helping hands involved in the delivery of the holiday dinners. "My children went with me. They are 7, 9, and 11 years old. They loved doing it. They wanted to take meals to more people," he said, describing the children's enthusiasm.

This type of community involvement has a positive impact on young people, Kisner said. "It's good for them to be interested in other people and to do things like this in the community. When they are helping other people they aren't doing things they shouldn't," he stated.

He also noted that helping the elderly in this way is a positive experience for anyone. "It is definitely a good thing. If anyone could afford to do this, they should. Isn't this what it is all about — neighbors helping neighbors?" Kisner asked.

Brode noted that a number of the volunteers took children with them to help and to visit with the elderly. Those who took part in the project with the assistance of family members were: Pat Bowser, Mary and Cindy Franc, Brenda Roszell,Bonnie Sines, Murial Frantz, Marie Skipper, Linda Weeks, Linda Gordon, June Heselbach, Debbie Dixon, and Susan Athey Oxford.

There are plans being developed to expand the sharing program in the future. "We want to reach more people and do so on more occasions. We hope to have volunteers share Thanksgiving dinner as well as Christmas dinner," Brode said.

Anyone interested in learning more about the programs for the elderly, services available, or volunteer opportunities may contact the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or toll-free at 1-888-877-8403.

Nolan Selected Second Time By Who's Who

Charles R. Nolan, a senior at Southern High School, has been listed in the 1997-1998 publication of Who's Who Among American High School Students. He was also accepted for inclusion in this publication last year. Only five percent of the nation's 22,000 high school students are so honored each year and even fewer are nominated a second time during their high school career.

Nolan is active in the marching band, stage band, concert band, and pep band, where he plays trumpet and tuba, and he is a manager for winter guard. He has participated in several productions with the Ecumenical Youth Ministry and with the Garrett Choral Society. For the past two years he has also received the band award from the American Achievement Academy.

Charles resides in Deer Park. He is the son of Charles and Jane Nolan and is the grandson of Charles and Mabel Nolan of Cedar Crest, N.M., and the late Robert and Nelle Garrett, who were also residents of Deer Park.

State Police Offer Winter Driving Tips

With the likelihood of snow and ice continuing in the forecast, driving may be hazardous for some time. The Maryland State Police have issued warnings and reminders to motorists to drive with extra caution during winter weather. "Survive the winter driving season by relying on know-how, common sense, and a take-it-easy, take-it-slow approach to all driving situations." said superintendent of police, Col. David B. Mitchell.

Some tips were given by the state police to make winter travel easier and safer. The police reminded all motorists to make sure their cars are in good condition, properly serviced, and equipped with chains or snow tires.

The police reminded drivers to maintain a full tank of fuel and have emergency winter storm supplies in the car, such as a container of sand, shovel, windshield scraper, blanket, flares or safety triangle, booster cables, and a flashlight.

Once the car is prepared for the hazards of snow, ice, and cold weather, the rest is up to the driver, police noted. Cleaning all windows and being sure that the windshield wiper fluid reserve is full will permit good visibility.

"Use common sense — Always drive at a speed that matches the prevailing visibility, traffic, and road conditions. When possible, leave additional space between you and the vehicle in front of you. In inclement weather, always drive with your headlights on," a spokesman said.

Police stated that the driver's attitude makes a difference. Drivers who are trying to save time are urged to avoid driving faster than road conditions permit. "Don't be daring or foolhardy. Accept the fact that the going may be slow and there will be delays and inconveniences. Resign yourself to a slower pace and be courteous. Relax and concentrate on your driving. Plan ahead — it's better to take more time to get there safely," the spokesman said.

To report disabled or stranded vehicles via a cellular phone, persons may dial #77. "Remember: Be alert, obey the speed limit, don't drink and drive, and always buckle up," the police said.

Oakland Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 114 Units

A bloodmobile from the American Red Cross visited Oakland on Friday, Dec. 18, welcomed 118 potential donors, and collected a total of 114 units of blood. The goal for the visit, held at St. Peter's Catholic Church social hall, was 160 units.

Giving for the 80th time and thus reaching the 10-gallon level was Butch Miller, Oakland, while Roy O. Hinkle, also of Oakland, attained the nine-gallon level and Geni K. Sharps, Oakland, completed eight gallons. Other Oakland residents reaching gallon levels were: Nelson Brenneman, five gallons; Rose McRobie and Bill Grant, four gallons; Elizabeth Huxford and Melvin Jay Yoder, three gallons; Ruth Rettig, two gallons; and David C. Peachey and Ed Browning, McHenry, one gallon. First-time donors were: Aaron Colebank, Mtn. Lake Park; and Elizabeth Peachy and Kathleen Harman, both of Oakland.

Local persons who volunteered to assist with the visit were: Junior Ferguson, Barb Sweitzer, Elizabeth Huxford, Rosalie Baker, Artie Dixon, and the following members of the Deep Creek Lioness Club: Marie McCarty, Shirley Panther, and Tiddle Wheeler. Elizabeth Huxford serves as the volunteer blood donor chair/coordinator for all Oakland bloodmobile visits.

Making donations to the canteen were the Cumberland Coca-Cola Company and Junior Ferguson, who baked and donated cookies.

Mrs. Huxford also noted the December 30 donation of local resident Terry Stanton, who reached the 16-gallon level with that visit.

The next visit of the ARC bloodmobile to Oakland will be this Friday, Jan. 8, at the American Legion home (see separate story).

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The holidays have wound down and maybe I should put them on ice. This weekend snowstorm and ice storm caused many families to dig in for a real Garrett County winter.

This winter's traditional extreme cross country ski-trip happened last week. Lloyd loves to take assorted groups on big ski trips to the 4-H Center and a lot of times they are in extremely bad weather. Unfortunately, if you want to take advantage of a good snow on the ground, you have to put up with some snow in the air, too, and cold weather. Saturday afternoon, Lloyd and Walter Haydel took the Dr. Tim Sowein family from Baltimore on a little ski trip. The snow cover was good with a little fresh dusting. But unfortunately, more snow fell and it was cold with 20° with the classic Bittinger wind of about 25 miles per hour. It felt like below-zero weather with the wind chill factor. They made their goal, the 4-H Center, but in the open fields it was a little rough.

I remember another time in the past on a moonlight ski trip in the bitter weather. We had to put up with picking up a few casualties. I pretty much carried one of my friends, Linda, the last 20 yards to the house.

Last week the woods, ponds, fields, and the Hershberger Grove were busy, as a lot of kids had snow games, with the McLister girls playing as junior hostesses. Their Bittinger friends came to ski, sled, and skate. There is a great big hill to sled on in the back woods.

I remember many night sledding parties with hot chocolate and a big bonfire. Margaret Hershberger Wagner held a New Year's Day get-together for her family and friends. The weather was pretty miserable and people were too tired and burned out to go even to Accident or McHenry on New Year's Eve, so we just popped over next door to my brother Rodney's house, where three generations of family and some of their friends enjoyed seeing the New Year in. New Year's Eve, Claire made a batch of confetti and the children there really knew how to celebrate. They screamed and jumped around and threw confetti. Needless to say, Marci had a real mess through the house, but everyone had a good time.

This past weekend the inclement weather caused the activity of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church Youth Group's Christmas program to be canceled, as also the regular morning service. The parking lot tended to be like a skating rink. I am glad to stay in our nice warm house.

The final blow of the end of the holiday was the taking down of our Christmas tree and putting away the decorations. Now it is time to begin work on the 4-H record books. Claire and Caitlin got a small start on that massive job. It is great practice for them as they tackle more and more jobs as they grow older. Monday, the rude shock of having to go back to school and the real world hit them.

If you are still anxiously awaiting for our Christmas card, you may have to wait for a while more.

Carol and Matthew Bass were Saturday overnight guests of Tom and Laurie Bulka, Columbia, and attended the Maryland-Duke game in College Park on Sunday. The Dukes are awesome, as they defeated our Terps.

Cheryl, Taylor, Tim, James, and Donna Glotfelty were New Year's lunch guests at the Julius Carey home near Frostburg. Anthony Carey, Evangel College, Springfield, Mo., is spending the holidays with his parents, and other guests included Bill and Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa.; Lisa, Adam, and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg; and Evie Morris, Lonaconing.

Friday carry-in lunch guests of Ida Reckner were Karl and Cathy DeBoeser, Kara and Marc, Allentown, Pa., Michaele Puliti, Coopersburg, Pa., and Lillian Reckner, McHenry.

Jim and Donna Glotfelty held the annual New Year treasure hunt Friday evening at their home for the young folks in their family, Taylor and Tim Glotfelty, Adam and Amanda Platter, and Ashlin Gray. Others present were Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa.; Dwaine and Lisa Platter, Smithsburg; and Cheryl Glotfelty. The youngsters enjoyed finding everything from toothpaste to videos to sweatshirts and jackets, while the older family members enjoyed watching the search and listening to show-and-tell afterward. Adam and Amanda Platter returned to their home in Smithsburg after spending the past week with the Careys near Frostburg.

STUDENTS WORK ON PROJECTS - Accident Elementary School's special students in Doris Cooper's and Nancy Fike's classes have been busy with several projects in recent months. The students designed and built a butterfly garden outside the school. This project combined skills and knowledge from science, social studies, language, and math classes. Missy Kenny's Pre-K class helped with planting bulbs for spring flowers. Mrs. Kenny and Ms. Cooper wrote a grant to help defray the cost of the project and several local businesses donated materials and money. Substitute teacher Tim Hinebaugh spent many hours working on the flower bed with the students. The students in the special class also planned and prepared a holiday feast. The principal, Mrs. Sandy Nesline and Cindy Downton, PPW, joined the students to enjoy the turkey dinner. The students said they hope to make this a yearly event. Substitute teacher Lori Paugh helped Ms. Cooper and Mrs. Fike with this project. In the photo above are the students who made the butterfly garden. Left to right they are Philip Schrock, Justin Georg, Nick Ferrell, Eric Espana, Danita Paugh, Jimmy Wade, Johnny Thorp, Ruthie Rounds, Stephen Younkin, Clint Suter, Brittany Burgess, and Robbie Harding. In the photo below the chefs who prepared the banquet are Eric Espana, Johnny Thorp, Stephen Younkin, Philip Schrock, Danita Paugh, Justin Georg, Ruthie Rounds, Brittany Burgess, and Robbie Harding.

Management Of Floodplains Is Workshop Topic

The Upper Potomac Tributary Team, Allegany County, and Project Impact are co-sponsoring a floodplain management workshop to help reduce the vulnerability of citizens and property from flooding and related natural hazards. The workshop, titled "Educate, Protect and Survive," will be held Wednesday, Jan. 27, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Holiday Inn in Cumberland.

The program will address such issues as: how one can buy flood insurance; why floodplains are important; floodplain regulation and development; what programs are available to help restore floodplains; what the government is doing to help homeowners living in floodplains; and how to protect homes from a flood.

The floodplain management workshop is a joint effort of the Upper Potomac Tributary Team and Project Impact, a federal initiative to help communities develop their own locally based prevention and loss reduction programs to deal with natural disasters.

"This workshop ties in nicely with one of the goals of both Project Impact and the tributary team, which is to educate the public on how citizens can become effectively involved in the process to restore and protect their environment," said Craig Hartsock, Upper Potomac Tributary Team member and co-organizer of the event.

Persons interested in attending may contact the Allegany County Permits and Compliance Office at 301-777-5951, ext. 293. The registration fee of $14 includes a hot buffet lunch. Pre-registration ends Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Governor Parris N. Glendening appointed the state's 10 tributary teams three years ago. Each team is composed of citizens representing agriculture, business, education, government, and environmental organizations, who work together to help formulate strategies to reduce nutrient pollution entering the Bay.

The Upper Potomac Tributary Team has been working on reducing nutrient pollution and restoring habitat in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Carroll, Frederick, and Montgomery counties. The team is also working on a watershed-wide information and education effort to increase public involvement in community conservation measures.

For more information on Maryland's tributary teams interested persons may call 410-260-8708 or consult the tributary team Internet website at <www.dnr.state.md.us/Bay>.

Thefts Of Sports Gear From Wisp Reported By MSP

Two separate incidents of theft at Wisp Ski Resort were investigated by Maryland State Police on New Year's Day. Both involved sports equipment.

The police report stated that sometime between 1:40 p.m. and 2 p.m. one pair of K2 FX Extreme downhill snow skis and a pair of bindings were stolen from Kevin E. Rowe, Silver Spring. The victim reportedly left the skis unattended at lodge for about 20 minutes and returned to discover they were missing.

Rowe's ski equipment was valued at about $800. No leads or suspects were reported.

Police also investigated the theft on January 1 of a light brown Liquid snowboard with clear plastic bindings. William A. McNeel, 24, Morgantown, W.Va., told the police he had left his snowboard unattended at the ski lodge at approximately 9:15 p.m. He returned about 30 minutes later to retrieve his snowboard and discovered it was missing. It was valued at $400.

Police have developed no leads or suspects.

Urged To Study

come a major force in the legal community as well.

"What makes the loss of Meghan Price even more tragic is the fact that this was a wholly avoidable accident. Indeed, it was only a matter of time before this or a similar tragedy would occur because the intersection at which it occurred is one of the most dangerous that I have encountered in my entire driving career. It involves the intersection of a state and county road, and I recognize that there are jurisdictional prerogatives involved in which each jurisdiction can assign responsibility to the other.

"The simple facts are that Maryland Route 495 at this location has a 50 mile per hour speed limit, and as it proceeds in a southbound direction near Sky Valley Road goes up over a rise and makes a turn to the left. Just after coming over the rise, the intersection with Sky Valley Road occurs. Whenever I approach this intersection on 495 I am quite concerned that I will be hit from behind by cars who will not have time to slow down because I may be making a right turn onto Sky Valley Road. When exiting Sky Valley Road to turn onto Route 495, I am constantly in fear of the fact that I will not be able to get on to northbound 495 (the turn that Meghan Price was trying to make when she was killed) in sufficient time to get out of the way of a vehicle that suddenly comes over the top of the hill in the midst of a left curve.

"This intersection is a traffic engineer's worst nightmare, and never should have been allowed to occur in the first place.

"The tragic loss of Meghan Price should result in some immediate, joint action on the part of the State Highway Administration and Garrett County officials to examine, address and remedy the gross deficiencies in this extremely dangerous intersection. I would urge that the intersection be closed and access to 495 only permitted from the intersection with Sky Valley Spur which is just to the south and which is far safer.

"On a long-term basis, Sky Valley Road should be re-routed so as to intersect 495 at a more southerly location where the line of sight meets rational engineering standards. When rerouted, the road should be renamed in memory of Ms. Price.

"I would sincerely appreciate it if you would cause the appropriate officials of Garrett County to be in touch with the corresponding authorities in the State Highway Administration to address and resolve this problem so that similar senseless deaths will not again occur."

Titus, a Washington, D.C., area attorney and the former president of the Maryland State Bar Association, has maintained a home in the Thousand Acres area of Sky Valley for the past 26 years.

AMERICORPS WORKS AFTER SCHOOL AT NMS — Students at Northern Middle School have recently engaged in a variety of activities as part of the AmeriCorps After-School Program, including a food drive for the House of Hope. This qualified as a service learning project in which students prepared signs for the drive, as shown above, and then decorated drop-off boxes, below, that were placed in the school and at several other locations. Shown while making signs, left to right, are James Michaels, Derek Butler, Barbara Garde, and Erin Smith. In the photo below, same order, are Denise Wilt and Becky Guthrie. "Thanks to generous donations, several boxes of food were collected and donated to the House of Hope," an AmeriCorps spokesperson said. Another after-school event held was a Christmas party. Students and volunteers played games, had refreshments, and exchanged gifts. The program at NMS includes recreation, tutoring, and service learning, and is held every Monday and Wednesday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Persons interested in volunteering to help with the program or seeking more information can contact the AmeriCorps office at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8122.

Adults Encouraged To Assist Teens Learning To Drive

Parents or guardians must take an active role in the driving education of their teenagers, according to Maryland's Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA). From correcting their own bad driving habits to increasing time spent practicing with their teen driver, parents need to make sure their child is prepared to operate a motor vehicle.

Parents are encouraged to spend a minimum of five hours per week practicing with their teenager. New drivers should be experienced in a variety of driving situations including nighttime driving, rush hour driving, and driving in inclement weather. Beginning in July under the new Graduated Licensing System, teen drivers will need to keep a practice book showing at least 40 hours of on-the-road experience during their learner's permit period.

"Parents or guardians have a vested interest in their teenager's welfare," said Andrew S. Krajewski, MVA program director for driver education and licensing. "We want them to take the same approach and interest in helping turn their teenager into a safe and responsible driver.

"Parents also should monitor their own driving skills because their teen will roll through a stop sign or exceed the speed limit if they see their parents doing it," Krajewski said.

Maryland driver's education classes require 30 hours of classroom learning with six hours of behind-the-wheel learning. By combining a driver's education class with parental practice, teenagers will be off to a good start when driving on the state's roadways.

Open Parole Hearing Info Now On Web

Open parole hearings, and the rules and regulations that govern them, are now available on the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services' website at <www.dpscs.state.md.us>. The department is providing this site in response to the concerns of crime victims' advocacy groups.

"We are dedicated to improving victim access to parole hearings," stated Stuart O. Simms, secretary of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services. "For too long, victims have been shut out of the criminal justice process. Victims now have the right to "open" a parole hearing and give testimony, and we will be expanding victim access to open parole hearings in the near future."

To access the website, interested persons may click on the Maryland Parole Commission under the "Agencies" section, which will bring up the Parole Commission's main page. This provides access to a box citing the date of the open hearing, the location, and the inmate's name and identification number. Postings will be updated monthly. Members of the news media (limited numbers) may attend open parole hearings with prior approval.

The page also provides several "frequently asked questions" boxes, which focus on victim rights and open parole hearings, and additional questions regarding general parole hearings.

"By publicizing these lists, we hope to further promote the right of victims to open parole hearings and give testimony," said Patricia Cushwa, chairperson of the Maryland Parole Commission. "I have 20 years of experience as a victim's advocate, and we are going to do more, much more, to serve victims of crime," she said.

Meet Garrett County's NEW TEACHERS

Sheri D. Weeks joined the teaching staff at Crellin Elementary School this year. Though new to the classrooms at Crellin, Weeks previously taught in other Garrett County schools during her college internship program.

Weeks earned her bachelor of science degree in early childhood/elementary education from Frostburg State University in 1995, graduating with high honors. While a student at FSU, she was named to the dean's list and was a member of the Western Maryland Reading Council.

During her teaching internship in 1995, Weeks taught kindergarten at Loch Lynn Elementary School and third grade at Dennett Road Elementary School. In the classrooms Weeks was responsible for developing lesson plans and evaluation procedures, for creating a stimulating learning environment by designing bulletin boards, and for teaching color/shape and map skills.

Weeks also completed a teaching assistantship at Cash Valley Elementary School and St. John Neumann's Catholic School, both in Allegany County. In these schools she organized teaching units and conducted a case study on students with special needs.

In her current position at Crellin Elementary, Weeks has multiple teaching responsibilities, which include special education classes and reading classes for third graders. Though she is very busy in her new position, she said it is a positive experience for her. "I'm enjoying working at a small school. The faculty is like a family," she noted.

Weeks said she has also found that the size of the classes at Crellin Elementary School has benefits for the students. "In the small classes we have here the children are able to get more individual attention," she concluded.

MLP Man Handed Two-Week Jail Term For VOP

A Mtn. Lake Park man received a jail sentence after he was found in violation of probation (VOP) in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Aaron Patrick Glotfelty, 20, was handed a 51-day reimposed sentence, all but 14 days of which were suspended, after Judge Ralph M. Burnett ruled that he had violated the terms of his probation order, which had stemmed from prior convictions for marijuana possession and driving while intoxicated (DWI). In passing sentence, Burnett stipulated that Glotfelty serve his jail term under a work release agreement, and that his probation be continued.

In other district court news, Troy Allen Ashby, 28, Corinth, W.Va., was granted a sentence revision to reflect time served on a conviction for second-degree assault.

Donald Matthew Cain, 22, Centreville, Va., and Mark James Mietus, 21, and Andrew Gregory Oxley, 19, both of Great Falls, Va., were each not prosecuted on charges of possession of marijuana and marijuana paraphernalia, with an order that they split a $750 payment of restitution to the state's attorney's office, and that each of them complete 20 hours of community service.

Jeremy Paul Lewis, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on marijuana and paraphernalia possession charges. He was ordered to complete 20 hours of community service.

An Oakland man, Eric Scott Uphold, 21, was found not guilty and acquitted of charges of second-degree assault and false imprisonment.

DWIs/DUIs

Several DWI and DUI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) cases were heard in district court recently.

James Lee Nicholas, 34, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $455, handed a 60-day suspended sentence, all but 30 days of which were suspended, and was placed on one year of supervised probation.

Duane Hanson Durst, 47, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $300, handed a 90-day sentence with all but 14 days suspended, placed on two years of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 80 hours of community service.

Alvie McKinley Rugg, 28, Salisbury, Pa., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a probation before judgment, fined $255, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

James Matthew Harris, 18, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a probation before judgment, fined $255, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Brian Tracy Long, 24, Avella, Pa., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a probation before judgment, fined $155, placed on six months of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 20 hours of community service.

FROSTBURG VILLAGE Adult Day Services, an arm of Tressler Lutheran Services, recently accepted a donation of $7,592 from the County United Way (CUW). The agency, which has facilities in Oakland, Accident, and Midland, helps prevent the premature institutionalization of elderly or handicapped people, with 56 persons in Garrett and Allegany counties currently being served. Accepting the check in the above photo from Harry King, CUW executive director, is Paula James, executive director of the agency. The objective of the agency's program is to maintain elderly and/or disabled people in their own homes and in their own community as long as possible by providing management of the participants' medical, nursing, physical, psychological, and spiritual needs. The program also provides counseling for families of Alzheimer patients and those with related disorders; educational programs, such as managing diabetes; nutritional counseling, monitoring medications; therapeutic activities; two meals and a snack daily; physical, speech, and occupational therapies; and transportation to and from physicians' offices.

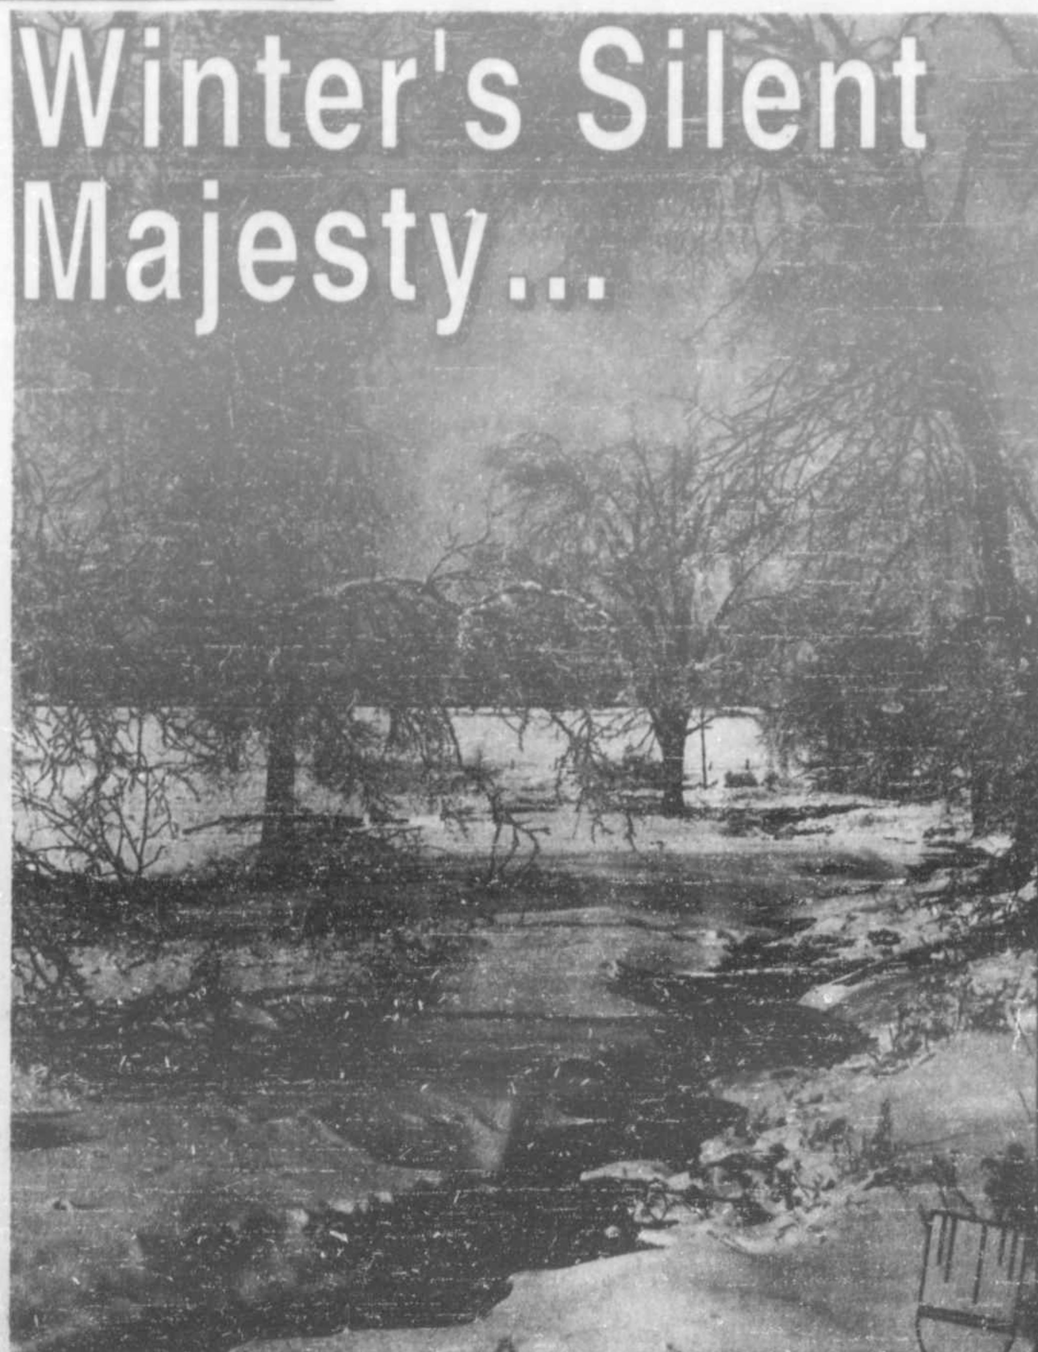
Winter's Silent Majesty...



A gentle stream winds lazily through the alabaster meadow, a mirror etched in the snow, reflecting the trees' barren branches frosted in white. The bright winter sun caresses the trees casting bluish gray shadows while the snow sparkles like diamonds on this clear and frosty winter day.

Ecclesiastes 3:1 tells us that "For every thing there is a season and a time for every matter under heaven."

As we worship our Heavenly Father this week, let us thank Him for winter's silent majesty, and for the panoramic kaleidoscope of all of the seasons as each one passes before us, displaying a unique sensuality and beauty beyond compare.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE ONE WITH THE MOST TOYS
January 10, 1999

Background Scripture:
Luke 12:13-34
Devotional Reading:
Habakkuk 3:17-19

Popular wisdom holds that at the end of life the winner is "the one with the most toys." We may chuckle at that, but, in fact, many of us live as though that were the ultimate truth. Isn't that the basis of capitalism? Isn't that what has made America great?

While we give lip service to the teachings of Jesus, we are much more motivated by the law of the market place, supply and demand, profit and loss. We not only order our society that way, but often also our churches. As in commerce and industry, our churches must be 'cost-effective.'

I confess I have never heard anyone say that Jesus was "all wet" in his teachings about material things. Nevertheless, we tend to live as if, when it comes to money, he didn't know what he was talking about. For example, the parable of the Rich Fool. Actually, if we were being honest with ourselves, we would have to admit that we see nothing wrong with this man. How can we fault him? He is such a good entrepreneur.

WISE & PRUDENT?

Who can fault his reasoning? His crops are overwhelmingly successful and he says to himself, "'What shall I do, for I have nowhere to store my crops.' And he said, 'I will do this: I will pull down my barns, and build larger ones; and there I will store all my grain and my goods'" (Lk. 12:17,18). Isn't that the wise and prudent thing to do?

It is not the man's good business sense that brings him a rebuke from God. Rather it was his motivation: "And I will say to my soul, Soul you have ample goods laid up for many years; take your ease, eat, drink, be merry" (12:19). He thinks that his security and well-being are founded upon his material goods and it is that smug attitude that brings God's reproach: "Fool! This night your soul is required of you; and the things you have prepared, whose will they be?"

This man is truly a fool because, for one thing, he does not seem to realize that he can't take his material goods with him. Isn't that the height of foolishness—to accumulate an abundance of something you have to leave behind when you die? If your soul is required of you this very night, does it matter what is in your bank account or your balance sheet? Will your possessions qualify you for your life beyond death?

This parable is similar to a passage in the apocryphal book of Ecclesiasticus:

A man may grow rich by stinting and sparing, but what does he get for his pains? When he says, "I have earned my rest, now I can live on my savings", he does not know how long it will be before he must die and leave his wealth to others. (11:18,19).

TRIUMPH OVER THINGS

Furthermore, it is foolish to depend upon earthly things because, not only can we not take them with us beyond the grave, but they do not even bring us happiness and fulfillment on this side of it. "Take heed, and beware of all covetousness; for a man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions" (12:15). As my seminary professor John Knox says, "One's life is made secure, not by things, but by triumph over things."

Actually, says Knox, "Ones life does consist of an abundance, but it is an abundance of another sort than that on which the 'rich fool' relied." That's what it means to be "rich toward God." The abundance which God gives us is not an abundance of things but of the spirit.

Not even the essentials of life make us secure: "For life is more than food, and the body more than clothing" (12:23) That "more than" is to be found only in his kingdom. So instead of an abundance of things, "...seek his kingdom, and these things shall be yours as well." In the end, the winner is the one, not with the most toys, but with the most spiritual blessings.

Scout Cookies Now On Sale

Members of the Shawnee Council Girl Scouts are now taking orders for Girl Scout cookies in Grant County. The cost per box is $3, with less than one-third of the amount going to pay for the cookies. The remainder of the purchase price stays in the local community.

According to a council spokesperson, one of the things that makes the Girl Scout Cookie Sale different from most youth fund-raisers is that a portion of the revenue goes to scout troops so that girls can make decisions about how it is spent. The volunteer board of directors of the Shawnee Council budgets the remaining proceeds for expenses related to providing Girl Scout services to 6,000 girls and 1,500 volunteers in the council's 15-county, four-state jurisdiction.

Local telephone numbers to call to order cookies are: 304-693-7447, 304-693-7074, 304-446-5454, and 304-446-5614.

Canaan Valley Wildlife Refuge Group To Meet

The Friends of the 500th, a local non-profit group dedicated to supporting conservation and public use of the Canaan Valley National Wildlife Refuge (NWR), will be sponsoring a pair of educational and natural history programs Saturday, Jan. 9, and Saturday, March 13. The programs will be held at the Canaan Valley fire hall beginning at 7 p.m. each evening.

January's program will be an introduction to the Canaan Valley NWR, the nation's 500th wildlife refuge, and the refuge system as a whole. The public is invited to attend this program, where Canaan Valley's new refuge manager, Kevin DesRoberts, will be introduced. Refreshments will be served during the evening as well.

DesRoberts received a bachelor of science degree in environmental science from Unity College. He worked for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for nine years, serving at three NWRs—Modoc NWR in Alturas, Calif.; Salton Sea NWR in Calipatria, Calif.; and Ruby Lake NWR in Ruby, Nev., where he was the assistant refuge manager. DesRoberts also was employed for a year at the state of Connecticut's Department of Environmental Protection Wildlife Bureau.

Having grown up in Connecticut, DesRoberts said it is wonderful to be back working and living in the East. "Canaan Valley is a wonderful, unique and special place and I am grateful that I have the opportunity to live and work here. I look forward to working with the community on the growth and development of the Canaan Valley National Wildlife Refuge.

"Like all refuges in the National Wildlife Refuge System, the primary focus for the Canaan Valley NWR will be wildlife. Canaan Valley contains unique ecological communities that exist nowhere else in the mid-Atlantic region. These communities support a tremendous diversity of plants and animals, and I am responsible for ensuring that these resources are not impacted on the refuge, especially threatened and endangered species.

"In addition to wildlife, Canaan Valley is also important to people," DesRoberts continued. "Therefore, recreational opportunities for the public will be developed that are wildlife-compatible and in keeping with the purposes of the refuge. Such activities include wildlife observation, photography, environmental education, interpretation, and hunting and fishing. Other uses will be considered where appropriate and compatible. People in the area and those who visit and care about the valley have a wonderful opportunity to ensure that this special place be protected.

"I feel this is absolutely necessary to ensure that at least some wild places and the wildlife that depends on wild places exists forever," said DesRoberts.

For more information about the refuge, membership or becoming involved with the Friends of the 500th, interested persons may call the Canaan NWR at 304-388-3858. The mailing address is Friends of the 500th, P.O. Box 422, Davis, WV, 26260. The Canaan Valley NWR office is located between the Canaan Valley fire hall and Canaan Valley Store.

WHITNEY HOUSTON: TOPPING THE CHARTS AND THE TABLOIDS

Whitney Houston, seller of over 100 million albums, movie star, ("The Bodyguard," "Waiting to Exhale," "The Preacher's Wife") possessor of today's most accessible voice, exudes that don't-touch-me, diva aura wherever she goes. Groomed for stardom in a show-business family, a chart-topper at 22, she's golden. The worst she's done is release an album, her third, with initial sales of "only" 3 million. Even her TV venture, producing and starring as the fairy godmother in "Cinderella," captured an Emmy nomination.

Her mother, Cissy Houston, is a pop/gospel singer. Her first cousin is Dionne Warwick. Aretha Franklin is a close family friend. At 11, Houston was a church-choir soloist. As described in February's Biography magazine, she sang with her mother in New York clubs and signed with Arista Records (Warwick's and Franklin's label). Her 1985 debut album sold 22 million and provided four No. 1 singles.

As her success grew, so did the criticism. Blacks censured her for sounding too "white." The press focused on her perpetual tardiness. (She was over an hour late for a Nelson Mandela White House reception.) Rumors surfaced about her close relationship with live-in assistant Robyn Crawford. Her 1992 marriage to rap singer, womanizer and bad boy Bobby Brown ended those whispers but ignited others, as Brown continues to get arrested for drunken driving, on-stage lewdness, nonfulfillment of contracts, among other misdemeanors.

Houston has released her first non-soundtrack studio album in eight years, "My Love is Your Love," featuring many tunes about surviving less than perfect love affairs. She knows the pain of several miscarriages. She has dealt with more than a dozen serious stalkers. She never knows what Bobby Brown headline she'll read next. Yet 5-year-old Bobbi Kristina is her chief joy. Despite a brief separation, Houston's committed to her marriage: "What God has put together let no man put asunder."

Antiques

Marks, labels and maker's names add to the value of any antique or collectible. A label usually gives positive identification of the maker and clues to help a collector determine the piece's age.

But be careful about trusting all that you see or hear. Recently, we have seen fake pottery vases clearly marked with the raised trademark "Roseville," new dishes stamped with the old green Nippon mark, pieces of new scrimshaw decorated with ships and mermaids and the date 1824, and furniture with the Gustav Stickley mark added.

We have heard dealers claim that a poorly made, unmarked piece of jasperware was made by Wedgwood.

A new dinner plate picturing a plane and a black pilot is being sold with the 1920s Buffalo pottery mark.

Sometimes an unmarked piece is "attributed" to a famous maker. Auction catalogs often use that term as part of the description.

"Attributed" means that someone has researched the piece and made an educated guess about who made it.

If you are considering a purchase, always ask the seller about the attribution. Is the hardware on the piece marked with maker's initials? Are the carvings or decorations the same as those on a marked piece? Is an identical piece of glass pictured in an old manufacturer's catalog?

When judging the value of a piece, always consider the quality of the workmanship and the design.

Home Tips

LAMP SHADE – Here is a good use for the metal frame in a discarded lamp shade. I used two large ones after pulling the silk off the shades.

In mid-April, I placed them on the ground (each anchored by two small sticks on the inside of opposite ends of the rim) over growing peony shoots and the plants came into full bloom with many buds – great protection from wind and rain!

My other peonies had to be staked and tied with cords. This year, more cages (I hope). Tina P., Colorado Springs, Colo.

ROOF RACK – We all know someone with a roof rack on the car who has driven into the garage as bicycles standing upright get crushed or crush the roof of the car and the top of the garage. It's easy to forget what you can't see!

After I learned my lesson the hard way, I decided to put the remote control for my electric garage door opener in the trunk right after I placed the bicycles on the car.

That way, when I return from my trip and subconsciously reach for the remote, I am forced to get out of my car, which is a foolproof reminder of the bicycles on the roof! Stan K., Sanibel, Fla.

FISH FRY – I roll fish in instant mashed potato mix. It is excellent! Virginia D., Scottsdale, Ariz.

CORN TIP – My husband has an efficient way to butter corn on the cob. It is a method that has been in his family for a long time.

He first butters a slice of bread, and then he wraps it around the corn on the cob, rolling the corn until it is fully buttered.

This method saves a napkin, keeps his fingers clean and gives him buttered bread to eat with his meal. Rhonda V., Lake Worth, Fla.

No-Till Conference To Deal With Precision Agriculture

What began as the Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference in 1975 had evolved into a conservation tillage meeting by 1998 and during the last two years has moved toward the topic of precision agriculture, or site-specific farming.

Now the planning committee has decided that it's time to revisit a no-till emphasis in the light of technologicaladvancements. So February's 24th anniversary meeting at Carlisle, Pa., will carry the theme, "No-Till: Fine-Tuning an Established Practice." The event will be held February 13 at the Embers Inn & Convention Center in Carlisle, 9 a.m. to 3:25 p.m.

Individual speakers and farmer panels during the day will address such topics as soil health, manure and phosphorus management, small grain and vegetable production, and perennial weed control under no-till conditions.

John F. Bradley, a well-known commercial specialist, will be the leadoff speaker on the topic "Establishing and Maintaining No-Till Systems." Bradley formerly was experiment station director at Milan, Tenn., for the University of Tennessee.

Sponsors include the conference committee and the Keystone chapter of the National Soil and Water Conservation Society in cooperation with the Cooperative Extension Service at Penn State and the University of Maryland, as well as the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in participating states.

The day's activities will begin at 8 a.m. with registration, refreshments and a chance to visit educational and commercial exhibits. A $20 registration fee, payable by Feb. 3, includes refreshments, lunch and handout materials. Late registration, payable at the door, is $30 for each person attending.

Printed programs and registration forms are available from many county Extension and NRCS offices in Maryland and Pennsylvania, as well as at some locations in adjacent states. Or, interested persons may simply mail their name, address, telephone number and $20 check—before Feb. 3—to SWCS/Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference, Suite 340, One Credit Union Place, Harrisburg, PA 17110-2993. Checks should be made payable to Mid-Atlantic CTC.

For more information about the conference, those interested may call one of these planning committee members during weekday office hours: John Rowehl, chairman, 717-840-7408; Joel Myers, program and facilities, 717-237-2220; Milt Nelson, publicity, 301-405-4596; or Deibert Voight Jr., exhibits, 717-270-4391.

Alternative Ag Seminars Slated At Garrett CC

The Advanced Technology Center (ATC) program at Garrett Community College has scheduled several alternative agriculture seminars for this month that are designed to provide information and resources to help small farming entrepreneurs gain success in their particular fields.

Basic Pasture Management is set for Jan. 11, 13, 20, and 25 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Presented by Carroll Community College, this seminar will be provided to GCC participants via an interactive satellite link at a cost of $50 per person, including meals. For more information interested persons may call Bruce Walgren at 410-386-8096.

Maple Production School is slated for Saturday, Jan. 23, from 9:30 to 12:30 p.m., and will be presented by Cornell Cooperative Extension Service. This seminar is designed to benefit those who are just starting in maple production as well as those who are already producers. GCC participants will be able ask questions of the presenters via phone and fax. The cost is $9 per person, and for further information or to register, interested persons may call Patsy McKenzie of GCC at 301-387-3122 or Jim Simms of the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service at 301-334-6960.

Meat Goat Nutrition and Health Issues is set for Saturday, Jan. 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., when Dr. Joyce Colbert of Deer Park Veternairy Services will speak on goat health issues and Janine Baratta of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service will cover goat nutrition. Presented by GCC's ATC program, this seminar will also be presented at Carroll Community College via an interactive satellite link.

A meat goat open marketing forum will follow this seminar's lunch break. The forum is designed to encourage producers from all areas of our region to openly discuss trends in the meat goat markets, locations of markets, market prices, strategies, and other related issues. "Bringing together producers from all areas of our region is something that has not been done before," a GCC spokesperson said. "This is truly a unique opportunity for goat producers."

The cost for the meat goat seminar is $12 per person, which includes all materials, although a brown bag lunch is recommended. Registration is due by Monday, Jan. 18, and space is limited. For further information or to register interested persons may call McKenzie at 301-387-3122.

Farming In Maryland.....

Environmentalists Say State Farms Pollute Waterways, Drinking Water

According to an Associated Press article by nationally known writer Tom Stuckey, Maryland is one of at least 30 states across the nation where huge "factory farming operations" are polluting waterways and fouling drinking water. Stuckey's information came from a national report by Clean Water Network and the Natural Resources Defense Council released in December.

Stuckey said the report shows that federal and state governments have done a poor job of regulating the large-scale hog and poultry farms and cattle operations which are rapidly replacing smaller family farms.

He said the report gave Maryland credit for being the only state to regulate application of phosphorus to farm fields, but noted that the regulations approved by the 1998 General Assembly will not take effect for seven years.

And it said the new law does not apply to large poultry companies which own the chickens raised under contract by individual farmers.

Thomas Grasso, Maryland executive director of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, said the report shows that pollution from big factory farms can only be controlled with a national approach.

"Clearly, to solve the problem in the Chesapeake, we need federal action to bring the national poultry companies to the table," he said.

"With some federal action to address the problem, we might get better, but we are not going to do it alone," he said.

The number one recommendation in the national report was for a moratorium on Clean Water Act permits for new and expanding factory farms until all existing facilities have effective permits in place and regulatory standards are upgraded.

Representatives of Maryland environmental groups told Stuckey that [such a moratorium] supports their call for a three-year state moratorium on new or expanded operations involving more than 50,000 chickens and more than 1,250 hogs.

Christopher Bedford of the Maryland Sierra Club told Stuckey that a moratorium would help farmers who are getting paid less for their work because excess production of chickens and hogs results in lower prices.

But when the moratorium was proposed last month, Sen. Lowell Stoltzfus, R-Somerset, said Maryland would be courting disaster for its agriculture industry by going along with the suggestion by conservation groups.

Farmers, especially young farmers with big mortgages, already are struggling because of falling prices and regulations placed on them by the state in legislation passed last year to reduce pollution of waterways by farming operations, Stoltzfus said.

Vegetable Farmers and Their Weed-Control Machines

Weeds are one of the most serious challenges to vegetable production, and mechanical weed control is an increasingly important option, especially among organic growers. This 75-minute color video introduces trade-name and custom-built equipment designed to remove weeds through the practices of cultivation and flame-weeding.

Vegetable Farmers and Their Weed-Control Machines ($12 plus shipping and handling; 1998) features interviews with nine New England vegetable growers, who explain their weed-management strategies and demonstrate effective weed-control equipment. The machines discussed include more than a dozen different types of cultivation equipment and five flame weeders.

Farmers from Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont demonstrate the use of each machine, discussing proper setup and adjustment as well as the equipment's suitability for various soils and crops. The cultivators shown include a custom field cultivator for areas between plastic mulch; Lilliston rolling cultivator; Buddingh in-row weeder; custom cultivator for edges of plastic mulch; rotary hoe; Buddingh basket weeder; custom "batwing" shovels; Perfecta field cultivator; Lely spring-tine weeder; Bezzerides cultivator; sweeps, shovels, and shanks; and a roller for the "stale seedbed" technique.

In the discussion of flame-weeding equipment, farmers address the use of flamers in stale seedbed weed management and in killing weeds between crop rows. Both custom-built

Prepare Now for the Lambing Season

Preparing now for the winter lambing season will be beneficial to producers in the form of timely management. The care of the ewe and her newborn lamb at and shortly after lambing time are crucial. The profitability of the sheep enterprise is determined largely by the pounds of lamb marketed relative to input costs. Pounds of lamb marketed is significantly related to the number of lambs marketed per ewe exposed. Research has shown that dystocia (lambing difficulty) and starvation/hypothermia are two major causes of lamb mortality. Avoiding lamb losses from these problems require close observation and immediate access to management aids. Having the necessary tools, facilities, and medications available when these problems arise will result in more live lambs due to timely management and treatment. The following list contains items that should be on hand when ewes begin to lamb: Feeding tubes, plastic sleeves and lubricant for pulling the lambs, frozen colostrum, milk replacer, warming box for chilled lambs, rectal thermometer, syringes and needles, iodine solution, injectable vit. E/Selenium, vaccines (enterotoxemia, tetanus), ear tags, docking and castration instruments, and disinfectant.

In addition, facility enhancements or repairs may be needed. The lambing barn environment is important to newborn lamb health, and buildings should be kept draft-free and dry. Lambing jugs are also important, both as a management tool for the shepherd and as a facilitator of bonding between the ewe and her newborn lamb. Lambing jugs need to be a minimum of 4 ft. x 4 ft. and may be as large as 6 ft. x 6 ft. for large breeds or flocks with large numbers of multiple births. Approximately one lambing jug is needed for every 10 pregnant ewes. However, more may be needed during heavy lambing periods or with flocks having a large number of multiple births that require more time in the jugs.

Arthritis Pain Mystery Solved

Horse Liniment is the secret!

OCALA, FL. -- An ingredient used to treat inflammation in thoroughbred racehorse legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx® and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Scientists suggest that ARTH-Rx works by intercepting the pain messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain. Although the mechanism is not totally clear, pain is relieved in the affected area because the pain signal actually disappears.

ARTH-Rx is the only product on the market with Neurocaine and is available in a convenient, pleasant scented roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, ARTH-Rx is available in pharmacies, nutrition stores, and even some feed stores. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. • 1997 PGC

The Caring Connection is a program designed to help adolescents, ages 12 to 19, who are single parents or pregnant. A single parent who is unmarried or legally separated from a spouse, an adolescent who has a minor child for which the parent has either custody or joint custody, and pregnant teens are all eligible for the program.

The Caring Connection can help program participants with the following services: counseling and support, which includes career exploration, goal setting, and action plan; Career Planning Class, five weeks, 10 sessions of self evaluation and career exploration; completion of high school education by obtaining a Graduation Equivalency Diploma (GED); tuition assistance for credit and non-credit vocational classes at GCC; child care and/or transportation assistance while attending high school or college; and referrals to community agencies for additional services.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 301-387-3071 or 387-3103 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Caring Connection Program is funded by the Maryland State Department of Education. Grant funds in the amount of $20,000 are made available to the program through MSDE's Career Technology and Adult Learning Division.

AMONG THE WINNERS in the Garrett County 4-H Beef-Hog raffle were Mrs. Wilfred Crowe and Jim Crowe, Finzel, pictured above standing behind two of the sellers of winning tickets, Allison Malone and Jason Wilson, who are both members of the Finzel 4-H Club. Allison was also the second leading seller of tickets, with David Smearman of Snowy Hill 4-H Club the top seller and Becky Berkebile of Oak Hill Club placing third. Other winners in the raffle were Marie Barnard and Tom Warne, who bought their winning tickets from Autumn Rizer and Aaron Wilhelm of the Grantsville 4-H Club. Other Finzel club members selling tickets were Jerry Staub, Andrew McKenzie, Ashley Wilson, Jenna Tenaglio, Rodney and Alyson McKenzie, and Joshua Smith. A total of 3,802 tickets were sold. The beef and hogs were donated by First United Bank & Trust and American Trust Bank. Proceeds from the raffle support Garrett County's 4-H clubs, 4-H Camp, and other local 4-H programs.

Report Outlines Anaerobic Digestion Options for Dairy Farms

Dairy producers are under pressure to improve their productivity while limiting the pollution and odor caused by dairy waste. Anaerobic digestion of dairy waste, whether on-site or in a centralized facility, is a method that can reduce odor, nutrient runoff, and emission of greenhouse gases (methane and carbon dioxide). In addition, anaerobic digestion converts biodegradable organic matter to a natural gas (methane), called biogas, that is useful for many energy applications. Evaluation of Anaerobic Digestion Options for Groups of Dairy Farms in Upstate New York ($18 plus shipping and handling; August 1998; 180 pages) summarizes a one-year study of anaerobic digestion options in York, New York.

The report presents the results of a study contracted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service. The overall goal of the study was to determine the technical and economic feasibility of converting dairy wastes to useful products in a centralized anaerobic digestion facility that would serve the York community, an area including approximately 100 dairy farms that maintain a total of more than 30,000 animals within a 20-mile radius.

Evaluation of Anaerobic Digestion Options for Groups of Dairy Farms in Upstate New York includes an 11-page executive summary and seven chapters on the following topics: dairies, water pollution, and anaerobic digestion; the dairy manure resource and energy; dairy waste management at York, New York—survey results; transportation of manure to centralized digester; anaerobic digester analysis; economic feasibility; and discussion and conclusions. Included in the publication are 19 tables, 47 figures, 4 appendixes, and a references section.

The authors from engineering and economics departments at Cornell University conclude that under certain scenarios anaerobic digestion of waste can solve in an economically attractive manner many of the pollution problems associated with dairies. Presenting a new economic analysis and summarizing the opportunities and challenges of anaerobic digestion, the report will be a useful resource for agricultural engineers, dairy producers and their advisors, and others interested in options for animal waste treatment. The economic feasibility chapter, framed in the form of a business plan analysis, would be of interest to the private sector in business associated with anaerobic digestion and agricultural waste management.

COVER STORY

Hung gets new kicks practicing Martial Law

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Sammo Hung

Meet America's newest cop hero: He doesn't talk a lot, he carries a green card but not a gun, he furnished his apartment with a Price Is Right showroom, and, at over 200 pounds, he's probably not a candidate for one of those NYPD Blue drawer-dropping scenes.

But Sammo Law (Sammo Hung) and his Martial Law cohorts are bringing home the ratings for CBS.

The Saturday series has undergone a major amount of retooling (one character dropped, another added) since its September premiere. Audiences get where it's going, and they're climbing on board fast. In December, Law was winning its time period and improving on the previous year's ratings for that time slot by 20 percent.

The key to the success of Law is a combination of the right time period (pairing a new martial-arts cop show with Walker, Texas Ranger was a no-brainer) and the je ne sais quoi of a Hong Kong superstar with a sense of humor.

The series is the first in recent memory with two Asian leads: Hung and co-star Kelly Hu. And the recent addition of Arsenio Hall as LAPD spin doctor Terrell Parker means Martial Law now has the gift of gab.

Behind the scenes, Martial Law boasts three savvy executive producers. Creator Carlton Cuse (Nash Bridges) knows what audiences are looking for in a West-Coast action show: fun. Andre E. Morgan, producer of Bruce Lee's Enter the Dragon and co-creator of Walker, knows how to make the genre work for American audiences. And director (First Strike, Mr. Magoo) and martial-arts choreographer Stanley Tong is rarin' to make his first TV series a success.

"What's most important is the character himself," Tong says. "He never wants to fight. What he's trying to do is use his bare hands to solve the crime."

The man with the crime-solving hands is Hung, an easygoing veteran of 138 Hong Kong action films who directed Jackie Chan in Mr. Nice Guy and played Lee's young opponent in Enter the Dragon.

While Hung made his film debut at the age of 12, his performing career didn't begin with martial-arts flicks on the streets of Hong Kong. As a child, he trained with a master of the Beijing Opera School who taught many forms of movement.

As a result of his travels, Hung can speak Cantonese, Mandarin, Korean and Thai, which he says he learned by haggling with Bangkok taxi drivers.

Hung likes the opportunities of the film industry in Los Angeles. "In Hong Kong," he says, "their fantasies aren't very big."

Hung is a student of American films (Speed, Die Hard and Rocky are favorites), but in his spare time it's a Scottish game he likes to play.

"When I first came here, it was Christmastime, and there was nobody in town. So I played golf every day."

Hung wants his viewers to stop and enjoy life, too.

"People work hard all week at their jobs," he says. "I want people watching TV to have a good time."

Frontline reveals possible consequences of drug laws

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Is the war on drugs eroding the foundation of freedom in the United States? Before you answer, watch "Snitch," this week's Frontline report, airing Tuesday, Jan. 12, on PBS (check local listings).

The tougher drug laws passed by Congress in 1986 were intended to send a message to drug dealers with stiff minimum sentences ranging from 10 years to life in prison without possibility of parole.

In the 90-minute film, producer Ofra Bikel (Hillary's Class, Innocence Lost) examines the laws' alarming unintended consequences for the operation of the criminal justice system. Now, anyone charged with a drug-related offense faces penalties that no judge or jury can mitigate. The message police and prosecutors often deliver is that the only way out is to turn witness against someone else.

As this Frontline effort shows, one federal prosecutor calls it "arrogance" not to "take a deal."

"These laws came about in an incredible conjunction between politics and hysteria," says Eric Sterling, who helped draft the legislation. Today, he calls that work "probably the greatest tragedy of my professional life."

Bikel uncovers astonishing cases, such as the tale of a middle-class teen whose father mortgaged his home and spent $110,000 in an effort to enter the drug market himself, entrap a dealer and turn that person over to authorities in order to reduce his 18-year-old son's 30-year sentence.

Does it still behoove an honest citizen to insist on a fair hearing by a jury of his or her peers? Watch "Snitch" and decide.

The case of Clarence Aaron, a college student and athlete serving a life sentence based on no evidence, is chronicled in Frontline Tuesday on PBS (check local listings).

Q: How, if in any way, is Walker, Texas Ranger executive producer Aaron Norris related to the show's star, Chuck Norris? –Hazel Distelmeier, Lena, Ill.

A: They are brothers.

Q: Could you give me some background on Garrett Wang (Star Trek: Voyager)? Is he married? –Dawn A. Schrader, Montezuma, Ga.

A: Wang, who plays Ensign Harry Kim on Voyager, is married to actress Taylor Bernard (Phantasmagoria). The 30-year-old actor was born in Riverside, Calif., and has appeared in the movies Hundred Percent, Ivory Tower and Angry Cafe. He also made a guest appearance in the Margaret Cho sitcom All-American Girl.

Q: How did Roxie Roker (The Jeffersons) die? –Marion Miller, Chicago.

A: Roker, who played Helen Willis on The Jeffersons, died of breast cancer on Dec. 3, 1995. She was 66.

Q: As an early "Boomer," I recall a series called Hey, Jeannie about a young Irish immigrant woman who came to live in the United States. Can you tell me anything about it? –Craig Reid, Charlottesville, Va.

A: English actress Jeannie Carson played naive Scottish immigrant Jeannie MacLennan, who quickly made friends with New York cab driver Al Murray (Allen Jenkins) and his sister, Liz (Jane Dulo). It ran on CBS during its 1956-57 season; ABC aired reruns during the summer of 1960.

Q: Recently I saw the movie Running on Empty on TV. What other movies has River Phoenix been in, and what is he working on now? How old is he? –Brian, Mankato, Minn.

Garrett Wang

A: One of the most promising actors of his generation, Phoenix died at 23 of heart failure brought on by a drug overdose outside a Hollywood nightclub on Halloween 1993. If you want to catch highlights from his film career on home video, check out Stand by Me, The Mosquito Coast, A Night in the Life of Jimmy Reardon, Little Nikita and, if you're old enough, My Own Private Idaho, among several others.

Q: I noticed a notation at the end of a recent Promised Land that the episode was dedicated to the memory of Richard Thomas, who played Joe, Russell's brother. Is "John Boy" dead? Also, they didn't cancel Trinity, did they? –Pat, Rutland, Vt.

A: Thomas is alive and well. The note was in memory of a Promised Land crew member's relative, Richard Greco – not to be confused with actor Richard Grieco.

NBC has put Trinity on hold at this writing due to poor ratings.

Harvey, Harsh Pass Orthopaedic Technologist Exam

CERTIFIED IN ORTHOPAEDIC TECHNOLOGY - Heather Harvey, left, and Cindy Harsh, right, both recently earned certification in orthopaedic technology as each passed a national certifying exam held in Kansas City, Mo., recently. Both are employed in the office of Dr. Dona Alvarez, an Oakland orthopaedic surgeon.

Heather Harvey and Cindy Harsh each passed the National Orthopaedic Technologist examination recently. The women are employed in the office of Dr. Dona Alvarez, an Oakland orthopaedic surgeon, where Harvey performs duties as a radiology technologist as well.

"Both Heather and Cindy showed exceptional personal effort as they invested themselves to accomplish this achievement, and I'm proud of them," Alvarez said. "We're proud of them for going beyond their regular duties to study for and pass this rigorous exam."

Harvey and Harsh each completed 4,000 hours of clinical orthopaedic work required to sit for the exam, then traveled to Kansas City, Mo., to take the four-hour written exam.

Certified orthopaedic technologists are required to accumulate formal hours of training through meetings each year. Next year Harvey and Harsh will go to California for an update in their field.

Tax-Aide Program Set To Provide Help With Forms

The AARP Tax-Aide program, the nation's largest tax filing assistance program, will be offered at several sites in Garrett County, including the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland, beginning Feb. 2 and continuing through April 15. The program will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays from noon to 4 p.m., and Wednesdays from 5 to 7 p.m. Other specific sites in Friendsville, Grantsville, Accident, and Kitzmiller will be announced in the coming weeks.

The free Tax-Aide program provides the services of IRS-certified tax-aide volunteers who will be available to assist nursing home patients, shut-ins, and low- and middle-income people of all ages in filing basic tax return forms, including the 1040EZ, 1040A, and 1040. Persons interested in using the service must provide their current tax records and a copy of their tax return from last year.

In its ninth year of local operation sponsored by the Garrett County Community Action Area Agency on Aging, the Tax-Aide program is administered through the AARP in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service. Over 1.5 million taxpayers nationwide were assisted in filing federal and state returns by 31,000 tax-aide volunteers in 1997.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on January 21, 1999, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 304 of the Old Courthouse in Oakland, MD. The Board will review the following docketed cases:

1) Docket SE-289 - an application made by Keith B. Handyside for a Special Exception to establish a tavern in "The Fort" building in McHenry. The proposed tavern would be located in the floor area formerly occupied by "Hunters" Restaurant (Zoned TC).

2) Dockets SE-290 and VR-423 - an application made by Jonathan P. Kessler for a Special Exception permit and Variances to expand his commercial outdoor recreation operation ("The Fun Zone") which is located along US 219 at The Fort in McHenry. Mr. Kessler is seeking the Special Exception approval to add a pond for Bumper-Boats and two tracks for Go-Carts to the existing outdoor amusement operation. Additionally, Mr. Kessler is seeking set-back variances to allow construction of the facilities to within 10 feet of all property lines instead of the required 50 feet from side and rear lines and 100 feet from front property lines (Zoned TC).

3) Docket INTP-12 - an application made by Mr. Richard Browning for an appeal from the decision of the Zoning Administrator regarding an Order to establish a parking area exclusively for use by customer vehicles on The Quality Marine property and a leased parking area. The case has been reviewed by the Circuit Court for Garrett County and has been remanded to the Board for further hearing. The interpretation advanced by the applicant is that the parking area determined by the Administrator is insufficient for The Marina and that the operation should be curtailed. The property is located on Deep Creek Drive (Zoned TC).

4) Docket INTP-10 - an application made by Mr. Joida Sherwood for an appeal from the decision of the Zoning Administrator regarding an Order to establish a parking area exclusively for use by customer vehicles on the Quality Marine property and a parking area leased on the opposite side of Deep Creek Drive. This case has been reviewed by the Circuit Court for Garrett County and has been remanded to the Board for further hearing. The interpretation advanced by the applicant is that the parking area located solely on the property of Quality Marine is "grandfathered" and has sufficient parking to meet the legal requirements of the Ordinance. The property is located on Deep Creek Drive (Zoned TC).

Bryan Chapell Will Speak At Mountaintop '99

Living for Christ Conferences has announced that Dr. Bryan Chapell, award-winning author and president of Covenant Theological Seminary in St. Louis, will be the featured speaker at the 13th annual get-away conference, Mountaintop 1999, to be held at Lakeview Resort in Morgantown, W.Va., March 5-7. A native of Memphis, Dr. Chapell pastored for approximately 10 years in Illinois before joining the faculty of Covenant Seminary in 1985 to teach preaching. He later served several years as dean of the faculty before his presidential appointment.

Chapell also maintains an active preaching and teaching schedule throughout the country and abroad. "Known for the manner in which he combines his extensive knowledge and understanding of the Bible with his marvelous gift of illustration, Dr. Chapell will explore the conference theme for this event, Grace Made Real for Hearts Not Whole," stated a conference spokesperson. The five teaching sessions are titled By the Mercy, Repentance That Sings, The Great Escape, That's Not Fair, and To Make God Come Down.

Chapell received a B.S.J. in journalism, English literature, and American history from Northwestern University, his M.Div. in pastoral studies from Covenant Seminary, and a Ph.D. in speech communication from Southern Illinois University. "His interest in diverse areas of studies helps explain why his work has been described as clear, practical, and inspiring," the spokesperson said. His books also exhibit variety in subjects. They include: Stand Your Ground: A Call to Courage in an Age of Compromise, In the Grip of Grace, Each for the Other: Living Christ's Love for the Love of Your Life, and award-winning Christ-Centered Preaching.

In addition to Chapell's teaching, Richard Allen Farmer, celebrated pianist and vocalist from Dallas, will lead in musical worship and appear in concert at A Festival in Celebration of God's Love!

Several seminars will expand the weekend: A Broken and Contrite Heart He Will Not Despise, presented by Mark Elfstrand, formerly of WORD-FM's "Pittsburgh Talks"; The Wrath of God, with New Martinsville businessman Bill Forbes; and Where are Heaven and Hell? led by Rick Ferguson, Bible teacher, also of New Martinsville. WTOV-TV anchorperson Jim Forbes will join with the younger attendees for an "age-limited" time.

"Everyone needs time away — from work and home responsibilities, from telephones ringing, from daily pressures — to stop, rest, take a look at priorities and to be renewed, refreshed, and readjusted," said Anne Robinson, co-founder of Living for Christ Conferences, co-sponsor with Pittsburgh's WORD-FM. "With good teaching and a great atmosphere at a wonderful site, Mountaintop is the perfect place for that to happen!" Robinson added.

The conference is not affiliated with any church and is offered to both men and women. It is expected to draw nearly 250 people from the four-state region. Author Patrick Morley, Mountaintop '98 speaker, said, "This is one of the top conferences in the country and in attention to detail, by far the best."

Registration fees, including all programs, two nights' lodging, and four meals, begin at $157 per person (four to a room). Registration brochures and information are available through LFCC, 169 East Thistle Place, New Martinsville, WV 26155, 304-455-5322, e-mail: mtntop@living4christ.com.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

THE GARRETT COUNTY JAIL and sheriff's office/residence was at one time located along Fourth Street in Oakland just behind the courthouse. For a number of years, the jail "residents" enjoyed the same food that the sheriff and his family shared, as the sheriff's wife was also the cook for the inmates. The jail, built in 1906-07, and the house were both torn down in 1978-79 and replaced with the present courthouse and jail. This photo, lent by Bob Boal, is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican.

Knights Sponsor Scholarships For Local Students

Amos Gaudette Memorial College Scholarship, two grants of $1,000 each year for a total of four years; and the Monsignor William F. ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Cpl. Michael W. Duling, son of William G. Duling, Sunnyside Road, recently completed a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf with the 22nd Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU) embarked aboard the ships of the USS Saipan Amphibious Ready Group (ARG).

While deployed, Duling and fellow Marines participated in the multinational exercises Matador Livex '98, Atlas Hinge, Cooperative Best Effort, Cooperative Assembly '98, Phiblex '98, Rescue Eagle '98, Sardinia '98, Sea Breeze '98, and Dynamic Mix '98. Duling also had the opportunity to visit Crete, France, Greece, Italy, Malta, Romania, Sicily, Spain, Turkey, and the Ukraine, where Marines and Sailors participated in community relations projects in the host countries.

Duling's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment. MEUs are composed of more than 2,000 personnel and are divided into an infantry battalion, an aircraft squadron, a support group, and a command element. With the combination of these teams, Duling's unit supplies and sustains itself for either quick mission accomplishment or clearing the way for follow-on forces.

The 1992 graduate of Southern Garrett High School joined the Marine Corps in October 1995.

TIERS OF ICE — "Ice" is becoming the word of the winter this year, as the mercury keeps bouncing from below zero, up to beyond 32, and back. As the temps fluctuate, rain turns into ice, snow turns into ice, ice piles onto ice, and so on. The frozen conditions have caused power outages in the county today, as well as the cancellation of school. The siren at the Oakland fire hall is shown here, apparently wearing a crown of icicles. It still works, so no need to fret. We hope, though, that it will remain silent as people take care to drive safely in these adverse conditions and to carefully tend their furnaces and fireplaces.

Residents, Squad Attend Hearing; Issue Tabled

The public hearing room in Oakland City Hall was "standing-room-only," as about 150 residents and representatives of the Southern Rescue Squad showed up to voice opinions on a requested revision to a town zoning ordinance that would permit requests for exception to build a rescue squad facility within areas zoned "town residential." The issued was tabled for further consideration.

At the center of discussion was proposed Ordinance 98-04, previously introduced by the town council, which would amend Article 4, section 405, Table of Use Regulations, subsection 44, subtitled "Fire Station."

As written, under a special exception, a fire station can be located within a residential area in Oakland. The amendment would replace the words "Fire Station" with "Volunteer Fire Station or Rescue Squad."

Southern Garrett Rescue, which is hoping to relocate because of numerous inadequacies with the present site along Oak Street, received the offer of a donation of property located at the intersection of Third and Omar streets, which is within a town residential area of Oakland. Representatives of the rescue squad noted that a donation of land would save the organization a large amount of money.

Citizens in attendance voiced concerns about having sirens "day and night" in the neighborhoods. In addition, frequent travel of emergency vehicles on the residential streets would result in increased traffic hazards, some commented.

Oakland mayor Asa McCain Jr. noted that opinions expressed were sharply divided. "Over one-third of those present spoke. This has become a 'we/they' matter and those who were vocal were equally passionate on each side," he added. McCain said he regretted the "division" in the community that this kind of an issue can evoke, and under-

"I KNEW I SHOULD HAVE PUT THOSE CHAINS ON YESTERDAY" could be what 3-year-old Dalton Rodehesver was muttering when his mom took this photo last week following a predicted "2-4 inches" of snow. Dalton's mode of transportation was nearly submerged in the powder in his driveway along Underwood Road. He is the son of Mark and Dawna Rodehesver. Garrett Countians woke up not to powder, but to freezing rain this morning, forcing the cancellation of schools for the second day this week. The messy mix is predicted to continue throughout the day, turn to snow this evening, and possibly back to sleet or freezing rain tomorrow. A slight warm-up is expected over the weekend.

Natural Gas Not Involved In Fire

In the coverage of the fire that destroyed a downtown Oakland building that appeared in last week's issue of The Republican, it stated that an old natural gas line ruptured during the blaze and added to the complications of extinguishing it. However, in fact, it was confirmed this week that all of the natural gas supply to the site had indeed been shut off early in the fire-fighting effort, according to a spokesperson for Columbia Gas.

The flare-up was apparently caused by material(s) other than natural gas.

Public Outpouring Of Support Will Keep Shelter Doors Open

An outpouring of monetary support from the Garrett County community and beyond has allowed the Dove Center domestic violence shelter to remain open. The board of directors for the center was about to close the shelter this week because of a funding shortfall, but through numerous local contributions and one major anonymous funding source, the crisis has been abated, according to Linda Spassil, director of the Dove Center.

"We've just been overwhelmed by the support. This community is wonderful," she said. "We didn't know until yesterday if we would be able to stay open, but a major gift came through and we had our answer."

Spassil reported that officials from the Maryland Affordable Housing Trust have given her everything but a written contract assuring her of a grant to be allotted in February. The center received the same grant last year.

"I'll feel a lot better when I have something in writing, but I think we'll get that funding," she said, noting that the amount is about $72,000. Last year's grant was dated Feb 9, so Spassil hopes the new money comes in at about the same time this year.

"The board and I want to thank each and every contributor, all of whom gave from their hearts," Spassil said.

The funding crisis came about as the result of a change-over in the directorship of the center. The

Friendsville Project Awarded Additional Funds

An unanticipated but required engineering analysis of the Friendsville Water and Wastewater Flood Protection Project in Garrett County will receive additional assistance, thanks to Board of Public Works approval yesterday of a grant increase of $3,121.

"The analysis was done to ensure that the construction of a flood wall to protect the Friendsville Water Treatment Plant will not cause increased flooding of nearby structures," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "We are making sure that the flood-protective actions in this project do not cause flooding elsewhere."

The original state grant for the project was $3,906. In addition to the state's grant increase, Garrett

Convicted Man To Spend Four Years In Jail

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man will spend four years in the Maryland Department of Corrections as a result of being convicted of two drug offenses. Donald William Tenney, 40, was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last week by Judge James Sherbin.

Tenney entered guilty pleas to the charges of possession with intent to distribute marijuana and possession of cocaine. Sherbin sentenced him to three years for the first offense and one year for the second, to be served consecutively. The judge also fined Tenney $1,000.

The defendant was charged by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in January 1998 after information was received

Small Group Gathers For Annual Economic Development Update

Simon Pearce Progress "On Target"

Only about 25 people turned out for the annual Economic Development Update, presented by James Hinebaugh, director of the county's economic development office. Last year's attendance was five times as large at the informational session, mostly because of the pending announcement of the arrival of Simon Pearce Glass. This year, Hinebaugh had an update on the Pearce company's progress, presented along with his report on other positive business growth in the county and his office's efforts to place the groundwork for many other prospective companies.

Hinebaugh stressed throughout the meeting, however, that in addition to striving to bring in new businesses to the area, his office works equally hard to assist existing establishments.

"We always want to take care of what we have," he said. This two-pronged approach is an integral part of the office's mission, which is "to improve the quality of life of Garrett County residents through improved employment opportunities and higher quality jobs."

On hand to offer remarks at the meeting's opening were Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, and Commissioner Wendell Beitzel. Commissioner Fred Holliday was also in attendance. After a brief welcome by the officials, Hinebaugh and his staff members, Peggy Jamison and Meg Ellis, conducted the 45-minute informational session.

As for the burgeoning Simon Pearce establishment at the former Bausch & Lomb building, progress is on target, Hinebaugh said. More than 20 persons are on the payroll, with several of them having spent six weeks in Vermont to learn the glassblowing art. The furnace at the local plant is to be fired up for the first time on Jan. 18.

"Every time I talk with Mr. Pearce, he has another new idea for the plant here," Hinebaugh said. "Things look very good. I know the progress may seem slow, but I truly believe it's going to work out very well."

Over the next few years, officials expect numerous hirings at the manufacturing business, which will produce glass products of Pearce's own design. Extensive renovations have taken place at the facility over the past several months. A grand opening ceremony is apparently slated for spring, with full production to begin within the year.

In general information provided by Hinebaugh, he said his office has the re-

Local Musician Set To Compete In Boston Event

Amanda K. Stewart, noted Oakland trombonist, will travel to Boston University this weekend to compete in the Music Teachers National Association's (MTNA) solo brass competition. The Southern High School junior qualified for this regional competition earlier this winter when she won the MTNA's Maryland state solo brass event at St. Mary's College, St. Mary's City.

Stewart's repertoire for this weekend's competition includes Concerto for Trombone and Piano by Launy Grondahl, Sinfonia by G.B. Pergolesi, and Concerto for Bassoon and Piano by W.A. Mozart. The competition will begin Saturday morning, to be followed by a concert that afternoon. Her parents, Brad and Patsy Stewart, and her musical accompanist, Kathy Winkler of Morgantown, W.Va., will travel with Stewart to the competition and concert.

While in Boston the group will also attend a concert of the New York Philharmonic in Boston's Symphony Hall. Prior to the performance they will meet with the Philharmonic's principal trombonist, Joseph Alessi, who also teaches trombone at the Julliard School in New York City.

Stewart earned an additional accolade when she was selected for the Maryland All-State program for the fourth consecutive year recently. She will be principal trombone in the Mary-

Garrett County To Strive For 1999 All-American City Award

Forces among local organizations are to be joined over the next several months in an effort to achieve a prestigious national honor. The pursuit of the 1999 All-American City Award (AAC) is the task of a newly formed committee, headed by Bob Stephens, executive director of the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families. Stephens presented the idea to the Garrett County commissioners last Tuesday, who unanimously agreed that the quest would be beneficial to the county.

The award has no monetary prize, but winners are treated to a trip to the White House, are given national publicity, and then are free to utilize the designation of an ACC winner in all forms of public relations.

Although the word "city" is in the title of the award, the winners may be towns, counties, provinces, neighborhoods, or regions. Stephens suggested the entire county strive for the citation, and the commissioners agreed that this would be the best approach.

This award effort, a program of the National Civic League, has been given annually for 50 years. Supported by the Allstate Insurance Company, the project is a major part of the National Civic League's efforts to encourage and recognize civic excellence. The criteria for the award correspond with recent efforts by Stephens and a number of local leaders who hosted the Garrett County Summit in October. A group of these leaders have continued to work to find local solutions for local problems.

The purpose of the summit was to gather leaders of various agencies and departments together to help identify local dilemmas and then to combine their forces to offer better, more complete solutions to these problems. Stephens said the application process for the ACC could be one of the most beneficial outcomes of the project.

"Several previous winners have said that the actual winning of the award is just icing on the cake," Stephens said. "The people who work on the application almost always find out more about the good things in their communities, and they find ways to solve problems."

Other persons involved in the award pursuit have reported similar results.

"Everyone who worked on our application realized how dynamic our community is and how much it has to offer," said Stanley Gilliland, mayor of Wellington, Kan., a 1998 ACC applicant. Dinah Hart, the coordinator of the Tallahassee, Fla., 1999 ACC steering committee, said the application process re-invigorates a community's sense of pride.

"It totally changes the Meeting Slated To Seek Public Input On Station Project

A public meeting to solicit citizen input regarding future uses of Oakland's historic train station is set for Wednesday, Jan. 27, at 7 p.m. at the Oakland fire hall. The architects who will oversee the renovation of the Queen Anne style structure will be on hand along with local officials to take suggestions and answer questions from those in attendance.

"What we're hoping is that anyone who has an interest in the future of Oakland and the train station attends this meeting on the 27th to give us ideas on how to make the best of this fine building," stated Oakland mayor Asa McCain.

The station's restoration architects, Walter Schamu and Victor Greco of SMDA Architects, will moderate the meeting. Their Wheeling, W.Va., and Baltimore architectural firm was selected from more than 50 firms that were approached directly, in addition to those

Lt. Lucas Assumes Command Of McHenry Police Barrack

The McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police came under new leadership last month when Lt. William Lucas took over at the helm and assumed the responsibilities of commander of the barrack. A 26-year veteran of service in Maryland, Lucas has worked in varied capacities across the state.

Prior to taking the office of commander of Barrack W in McHenry, Lucas was working in Jessup as assistant commander of the emergency operations section of the Special Tactical Assault Team Element (S.T.A.T.E.). Serving in that department, which is essentially a SWAT team, Lucas developed skills for security operations, response to terrorism, and participation in efforts of the Maryland Emergency Management System. His unit was always on-call, he said, providing and "intense" work environment.

During another phase of his career, Lucas was stationed at the police barrack in Frederick. "That's where I met Sheriff Dick Sanders. We worked together there during the '70s. We've renewed that relationship now, and I think we will work very well together here," he noted.

Lucas described his view of his responsibilities as commander of the barrack. "Basically, it's to take State Superintendent Col. Mitchell's directives, relay them

BOE Members Take Office, Chart Course

Members of the Garrett County Board of Education, elected in November, Rodney Durst (third term) and Camilla Rawe and Madelein Collins (first term), were sworn into office during the first regular monthly board meeting for 1999 held Tuesday. They then joined current board members Charlotte Sebold and Jim Raley to set a course for the coming year.

Board Business

The first matter of business for the new board was selection of officers. Raley assumed the gavel as president and Durst took the vice of vice-president. The members also accepted assignments as representatives and alternates for a dozen local committees and several state-level groups. Board members will serve on these school advisory committees along with parents, teachers, and representatives from the communities.

The board agreed to continue holding regular monthly meetings on the second Tuesday. They also voted to continuing using the services of current board attorney Robert Watson and current board audit firm Rodeheaver and Associates.

Students Recognized

Several students from around the county were recognized by the board for their achievements. School superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets introduced five students who had been invited by Gov. and Mrs. Parris Glendening to a reception at Government House in Annapolis.

Sarah Cosner of Yough Glades Elementary School, Tessa Folk of Northern Middle School, and Micah Plevyak of Northern High School were included in a publication produced by the governor's office titled Of Dandelions and Dreamers: Selections of Foetry and Art by Maryland Students. Melissa Meyers of Friendsville Elementary and Geneva Yoder of Swan Meadow were honored by the board for art work and poetry displayed at the State House during the last school year.

In addition, Lauren Rudy and Annika Schreiber, both students at Southern High School, were recognized by the board for their creation of the Christmas card designs selected to be sent out by the board of education. The cards were reproduced with the assistance Chris Csonka, computer teacher at SHS. Dr. Teets presented Rudy and Schreiber framed copies of their card designs.

Other Matters

The board discussed possible changes to several policies, including the one governing charity drives held at the schools. No action was taken.

Information was presented to the board on fine arts and technology grant requests.

A tentative schedule of meetings was set for development of the board of education budget that will be presented to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners in the spring.

Garrett Bureau Of Investigation Opens Its Doors

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) began its operations as a combined investigative unit on Friday, Jan. 1. The unit, which is housed at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, is composed of investigators from the Maryland State Police, the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, and the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office.

Investigators from GBI will be assigned to all serious criminal complaints throughout the county and will assist other agencies on criminal complaints as needed. "We're in gratitude to all of the agencies who have worked together in order to establish this unit," Sheriff Dick Sanders said.

Citizens with information concerning criminal activity may call GBI at 301-334-1909 or 301-334-1911.

GBI Charges Three Subjects In Burglaries

The Garrett County Bureau of Investigation (GBI) arrested two adults and one juvenile yesterday following an investigation of a series of burglaries and thefts from several businesses in Mtn. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

Scott Anthony Bowman, 18, Loch Lynn, John Michael Riley, 27, Friendsville, and a 14-year-old juvenile were each charged in connection with a burglary and theft incident at Tressler's Auto and Electric on Maryland Highway which occurred Tuesday night.

Bowman also faces charges in connection with several thefts from three businesses in and around Loch Lynn and the Mtn. Lake Park areas. He has also been charged with an earlier burglary at Tressler's, which occurred last Friday.

Bowman and Riley each have been charged with two counts of second-degree burglary. Bowman is being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $25,000 bond, while Riley's bond is set at $10,000. The juvenile, who reportedly faces at least one count of burglary, is being detained at the Juvenile Detention Center in Hagerstown, and that case is being processed by the Department of Juvenile Justice.

Accident

A Sunday evening one-vehicle accident resulted in injuries to Curtis Bradley Ridder, 43, Oakland, when he reportedly became ill and passed out while driving on westbound Maryland Highway in the area of D Street.

Ridder's Toyota Tacoma pickup truck struck a guardrail after he lost consciousness. The truck went airborne and came to rest in a ditch. Ridder was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad where he was treated for a cut to the head and released.

No charges were filed.

"SMDA was selected from the 12 formal proposals sent to us because not only did they represent the best quality in all the areas that concerned us, but they [also] had experience in renovating another train station in Wheeling designed by the same architect as our station," McCain said.

The train station's renovation is a key to the efforts of McCain and the town council over recent years to make Oakland a destination for local residents and tourists alike.

Suggestions already put forth for use of the 1884 structure have included a sports bar, a restaurant, a Starbucks-type coffee shop, a country store, an Internet-driven retail business such as an antique or gift shop, an upscale coffee shop/gift shop combination, and a place for local events such as weddings to be catered.

The historic building will include a visitor's center in addition to the possibility of a retail business location. Plans also include redesigning the structure's surroundings as a town square with an amphitheater, including a permanent location for a community Christmas tree.

The Jan. 27th meeting's agenda also includes the opportunity for interested persons to sign up as volunteers to assist with Oakland's 150th birthday celebration.

The place and time for another meeting described as a "Community Visioning" will be announced in the coming weeks. Sponsored by Oakland's Main Street Program, this visioning process is seen as the next step following the recent forum that focused on the possibility of a Wal-Mart moving into the area.

"What we want to do is to provide the public with a forum to say what they want this area to look like and to become in the next 10 to 20 years. We're hoping to get not only the public but local officials to work closely with us on this," commented Glenn Tolbert, Oakland's Main Street Program manager.

to everyone, and carry out our mission in the community. But information is a two-way path. Not only is it my job to take information from the top down, but also from the bottom up," he summarized.

Pointing out that he is just beginning to get acquainted with the Garrett County community, Lucas said he is looking forward to working with the Citizens Barrack Advisory Group. Through regularly scheduled meetings, members of the community meet with the representatives of the state police to discuss problems, concerns, and issues. "It's a give and take process, a cooperative effort. Maybe we can't solve all the problems, but we can help correct some of them," he said.

Already on Lucas's calendar is an event that will bring him in close contact with many other law officers in the area. "Plans have been made for the Deep Creek Dunk. It's a fund-raiser for the Special Olympics. It will be held on February 20. I challenged Dick Sanders — if he will do it, I will do it," he said.

During the weeks he has been in Garrett County, Lucas has developed a positive response to his new environment and the people around him. "I've come to a barrack that is established. There are excellent people here and they'll do an excellent job. Everyone here wants to be here and a lot of them have turned down promotions to stay here. I'm as fortunate as can be," he concluded.

Habitat For Humanity Names New Director

The board of directors of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity has named Dana Winters as the organization's new executive director.

Prior to joining Habitat, Winters was employed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital from 1992 to 1998, where she served as the hospital's public relations coordinator. From 1987 to 1991, Winters re-sided in Abilene, Texas, where she was employed as an account executive for the city's daily newspaper, the Abilene Reporter-News.

Winters is a 1985 graduate of West Virginia University and holds a bachelor's degree in journalism with minors in art and English.

As executive director for Habitat for Humanity, Winters will be focusing efforts on fund-raising, building and maintaining relationships with families and volunteers, and overseeing daily office operations.

"Habitat is pleased to have Dana on board as our new executive director. She brings a variety of talents and abilities that will enhance the efforts of our Garrett County office," said Cosette Harman, president of the board of directors.

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity Inc., established in 1984, is an affiliate of Habitat for Humanity International, whose goal is to eliminate poverty housing and homelessness. The organization works with families in need to build or renovate simple, decent housing.

There are 378 affiliate groups in the United States and five in Canada, and houses are being built in another 71 communities in 27 other nations around the world. Houses are sold to partner families at no profit and are financed with affordable, no-interest mortgages. Since 1976, Habitat for Humanity has built more than 70,000 homes worldwide. previous director left the facility in March, apparently with short notice to the board. While a search committee sought a new leader, the deadlines for grant applications passed by. Spassil came on in early summer, well past the deadlines that would have normally been met. Previously granted funding was set to run out by Dec. 31.

The Dove Center is a non-profit entity and was never to rely on county funding, but in light of the crisis, Spassil and other board members had approached the county commissioners to help keep the center open, but were not given any relief by the fiscal authority.

Currently, the center is sheltering four families, Spassil reported this morning. These are individuals and their children who have left volatile situations in their own homes. The shelter is the first entity of its kind in the county, and has been fully operational since March of last year. In response to the outpouring of support, Spassil said she and the board have been assured of the public's opinion.

"It is clear that people believe the Dove Center is a valued program in the community," she said.

that prompted police to stop and search a vehicle Tenney was driving on Interstate 68. Quantities of marijuana and cocaine, as well as drug paraphernalia and $1,150 in cash, were seized. The cash was ordered forfeited by Sherbin during last week's proceedings, according to a report from the state's attorney for Garrett County.

In a separate case, a local teenager pleaded guilty to burglary charges. Bushrod Kenneth Hardesty Jr. was apparently involved in a series of breaking and entering incidents last April, which took place in campers and cabins in the King Wildesen Road area. Hardesty pleaded guilty to one count of misdemeanor theft and three counts of fourth degree burglary.

Sherbin ordered a presentence investigation and allowed the defendant to remain free on $10,000 bond, according to the state's attorney's report.

Passenger Injured In One-Vehicle Accident On I-68

A one-vehicle accident in I-68 near Friendsville on Saturday resulted in injuries to a young girl, who was a passenger in the car.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, reported that around 1:30 p.m. Susan Hicks, 37, Manassas, Va., operating a 1990 Jeep Cherokee, tried to pass a tractor-trailer and thought the truck was moving into her lane. Hicks reportedly swerved and lost control of her vehicle, which rolled over into the median.

Danielle Hicks, 11, a passenger in the Jeep, was injured. She was taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad. Friendsville VFD also responded to the scene.

Ski Theft

Skis, bindings, and ski poles belonging to Trevis L. Stamper, 32, Annapolis, were stolen from a locker at Wisp Resort Hotel sometime between 10 p.m. last Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday, according to a report filed with state police.

The property taken was valued at $520. Investigation continues.

Theft Conviction Garners Frostburg Man Six Months

A Frostburg man who was arrested for knowingly possessing stolen property was sentenced to six months in jail as a result of his hearing in Garrett County District Court last week.

Nathan Joseph Bridges, 19, entered a guilty plea to a charge of felony theft and was handed the jail term by visiting Garrett County Circuit Court Judge James Sherbin. The Maryland State Police arrested Bridges in August for possessing a stolen motorcycle without notifying authorities. He had allegedly purchased it without knowing that circumstance, but upon learning of the vehicle's true status a few days after the purchase he continued to keep the vehicle in his possession.

The investigation resulted in a felony theft charge as the stolen property Bridges possessed was valued in excess of $300.

In other district court news, a pair of Pennsylvania men were each handed probation before judgment (PBJ) rulings by local District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett after both pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana.

Jeffrey Lincoln Cole, 27, Collegeville, and Michael Joseph Dehn, 27, West Chester, had been arrested by a Department of Natural Resources ranger at a Savage River State Forest campsite in September where they were observed smoking marijuana. Additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia faced by each of the men were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Several drug, traffic, and a handgun charge faced by David Michael Riggen, 32, Uniontown, Pa., were placed on the stet docket.

Riggen had been arrested by state troopers in July after a traffic stop for speeding on Route 40. He was unable to provide a driver's license or any proof of identification upon request, and a search found a baggie of marijuana and a smoking device in his pocket, a loaded .357 Magnum revolver under the car's front seat, and a small quantity of marijuana was found in a bag in the back seat along with a set of small weighing scales.

Riggen pleaded guilty to a speeding charge, which garnered a $70 fine and an order to complete 40 hours of community service, while charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession, transporting a loaded handgun in a vehicle, failure to display a driver's license, and not wearing a seatbelt were each placed on the stet docket.

A felony theft charge faced by Shirley Jane Wagner, 39, Frederick, was placed on the stet docket. Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested Wagner in December for allegedly taking several items from the Fingerboard Road residence of her sister while the woman was in the hospital.

Ralph Thomas Lloyd, 20, Oakland, was found to be in violation of a probation order that had stemmed from convictions for second-degree assault and marijuana possession. His probation was continued, and a 90-day sentence was reimposed with all but 48 hours suspended.

A sentence revision was granted in the case of Shelby Ovilene Tasker, 34, Oakland. His sentence stemming from a conviction on a charge of resisting arrest was revised to reflect a PBJ.

Timothy Bruce DeWitt, 40, Oakland, was found not guilty of second-degree assault, while Earle William Railey Jr., 51, was found not guilty of misdemeanor theft.

DWIs/DUIs

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) cases were heard in district court last week.

Carla Ann Ryder, 41, Accident, and Joanna Marie Upole, 19, Oakland, each entered guilty pleas to DUI and were both handed a PBJ. Each woman was also fined $100, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 20 hours of community service.

David Edwin Liller, 36, Corinth, W.Va., was granted a DWI sentence revision that stipulated he may complete 40 hours of community service in lieu of paying a fine.

The following individuals were all not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office on DWI charges: Timothy Paul Filler, 36, Parsons, W.Va.; Walter Craig Bonafield, 33, Bridgeport, W.Va.; Kenneth L. Bever, 37, Richwood, W.Va.; John Scott Aycook, 31, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mickey Lee DuVall, 44, Meyersdale, Pa.; David John Fout, 41, Portland, Mich.; and Bradley Glauser Fisher, 41, Steubenville, Ohio.

COUNTY TREASURER SWORN IN - Patty Glover, left, was sworn in for her fourth consecutive term as Garrett County's treasurer recently. David Martin, clerk of the circuit court, is shown administering the oath of office to Glover, who won re-election by taking 85 percent of the vote this past November.

Asset Builders Revives Old Maxim, "A Penny Saved, A Penny Earned"

A new program designed to educate and encourage members of Garrett County's low-income working class in strengthening their own financial standing was unveiled this week by the Garrett County Community Action Committee. The Asset Development Program, also known as "Asset Builders," will promote the self-creation of wealth through systematic savings and investment, and will reward participants with matching funds supplied by a grant through the Office for Children, Youth, and Families.

"We call Asset Builders a '401-K for the working poor'," said Loring Young of Community Action's Housing Services Department as he outlined the program for an audience of representatives of various county human service agencies. "There are a lot of advantages already in place for the middle and upper classes, such as 401-K programs and assorted tax breaks, and there are other programs for those who can't work, but very little has been set up for those in between—the working poor—who are struggling to get by.

"Across the country over recent years there's been a shift in emphasis from handing out checks to helping people help themselves out of poverty," said Young as he noted the success of similar programs in counties in several states, including Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Colorado. "This 12-month program does just that by rewarding success—the more someone saves, the better off they are. The nice thing is that we're encouraging people to manage and use their own money in order to reap greater rewards."

The Asset Builders pilot program will be selecting 20 qualified Garrett County families and/or individuals over coming weeks through referrals from county human services providers on a first-come, first-served basis. Guidelines require that at least one adult in a participating household be employed for a minimum of 20 hours a week. Earned incomes of selected households must fall below 80 percent of the area's median income, which is also a stipulation of Community Action's First-Time Homebuyers Program.

Asset Builders participants must agree to save their money in an Individual Development Account (IDA). The IDA deposits must come from earned wages or tax refunds, and at least $10 must be deposited each month. No more than $100 dollars may be deposited over the course of a single month, with the exception of a once-yearly deposit, which cannot exceed $500, from the participant's tax refund.

Participants will have complete control over and access to their IDA savings accounts, a crucial factor in their success and the program's success, Young said. "In maintaining control of one's own finances while learning and practicing a systematic savings strategy, we hope to build self-esteem and self-worth through sound financial self-discipline. Our participating 'asset builders' will learn that they can resist the impulse to withdraw their IDA savings for other than asset-building investments."

Saving is only half of the equation, however, as participants must subsequently invest these savings in one or more of five defined asset areas—home ownership, major home repair, job training, continuing education, and self-employment—as early as six months after opening their IDA and after participating in the program's required money mangement classes.

Community Action will then match the amount of principle accumulated in the IDA (excluding interest) according to the following predetermined scale: Every dollar saved up to the first $100 will be matched one-for one; every dollar saved from $100 up to $200 will be matched one and one half to one; and every dollar saved over $200 will be matched two to one.

A key to maintaining the financial discipline promoted by the program is the motivation of a tangible and reachable goal, such as an asset. Building blocks in the creation of financial stability and independence, assets can also serve as magnets to attract greater wealth. "Historically, wealth in the United States hasn't been generated by just having a job, but more by the systematic accumulation and development of assets," explained Young.

"An asset is something that is owned and that has value, like property, skills, education, or savings. It usually takes an investment of time and money to build assets, and the Asset Builders program focuses on investing both time and money to acrue high-value assets such as a home, a business, or employment skills. Assets pay for themselves and more over a period of time by increasing in value.

"Asset Builders is a win-win situation. It's a win-win for the program's families and individuals, who will have a way to pull themselves out of poverty. It's also a win-win for the community that's investing in its citizens, in that people with assets often tend to give back more by being more involved in the community.

"As this type of program continues to emerge in communities such as ours across the nation, we hope to have more money coming to Asset Builders in the future so that we can expand the program to serve more people. We want this to be a learning experience, and help our 'asset builders' create a lifetime habit of disciplined saving and investment," Young concluded.

No Thanks...

It appears that the Dove Center, the only local shelter for victims of domestic abuse, just might be able to keep its doors open, with no thanks whatsoever to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, which refused to provide one dime of support. When the new director of the center came to the newly elected commissioners last month pleading for financial help, not only was she basically turned away, but she was grilled by Commissioner Beitzel, who unfairly accused her of mismanagement. There was no compassion, no conciliation, and no spirit of cooperation or willingness to help. The best they could do was offer a loan to the center, which the center could not accept because grant monies are restricted and cannot be used to pay back a loan. They also knew that the center would not be able to secure a loan from a bank because it has no collateral.

It was only through an appeal to the general public of Garrett County, and readers of this newspaper, and their subsequent generous response that the center may be able to survive until new grant monies can be secured.

We can only assume from their total apathy that our commissioners do not believe there is a need for the Dove Center, that domestic violence is not a major problem in Garrett County. Meanwhile, there were four — four — families in the center just this week. The commissioners should ask any law officer or judge in the county if domestic abuse is a problem.

Last year, because of the special efforts of people like State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, Sheriff Dick Sanders, investigator Pat Kelly, and case worker/counselor Brenda Arnold, Garrett County received an award for its work and progress in addressing the problem of domestic abuse. Such inaction by our commissioners is a major step backward in this area, and a slap in the face to all who are experiencing domestic violence and all who are working hard to eliminate it. Nearly every other county in the state has a domestic violence center that is at least partially supported by tax dollars.

We believe sincerely, and have stated many times, that government should not be called upon to fund each and every service that someone decides is necessary. Not only would the government quickly go broke, but the need for some services is questionable at best. Volunteer support from churches, service organizations, businesses, and individuals will always be needed to support even those services that are deemed truly necessary. But government should at least take a lead and set an example. For example, the county commissioners could have taken, say, $500 from their $10,000 discretionary fund and given it to the Dove Center, along with a challenge to local businesses, churches, organizations, and individuals to match it. If nothing else, it would have been a political victory for them, even if they don't personally believe that domestic abuse exists. No vision. No creativity. No guts.

Incidentally, the commissioners didn't hesitate to vote to spend $375 to enter Garrett County in the All-American City Award competition, on motion by Commissioner Beitzel. We agree that it would be a fantastic award to receive, and we believe the wonderful community of Garrett County would be a great choice. Wouldn't it be ironic, though, if Garrett County made it into the finals of the contest, but then just missed getting the award because of a lack of sensitivity and action by our county commissioners in addressing the problem of domestic abuse?

To the Editor:

This is a letter of thanks to the many wonderful people of this community who helped my husband Bill during his prolonged illness and to those who have sent cards and messages of condolence since his death. I want to thank the Southern and Northern Garrett County Rescue Squads, the nurses and attendants on the third floor of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the staff of Mobile Medical, the Home Health nurses, and most especially Dr. Tom Johnson. You certainly gave "extraordinary care," and I will be forever grateful.

Bill loved Garrett County and the many friends he made here. We have always considered ourselves very fortunate to have found such a wonderful place to live.

Sincerely,
Joan B. Crawford

To the Editor:

The recent fire in Oakland that damaged the I.C.E. building reminds us of the many bad fires in Oakland. The efficient control of this fire like all the others remind us of the well-trained volunteers who have kept the town from being near destroyed many times. These men are dedicated minute men. Our Southern Rescue Squad is the same.

I am told the Southern Rescue Squad is the only free squad service in Maryland. I served nine years on a volunteer rescue squad and fire dept. in Fairfax, Va. It was the only job I ever had that I paid dues to work free. I shared the dedicatedness, and enjoyed it as our local depts. do.

I would like to encourage everyone to support the two mobile volunteer services with a liberal contribution. I have used their services different times, and can verify their courteous, trained, and efficient services. May God bless them as they perform their duties safely.

Respectfully,
Homer Mellott

To the Editor:

It would seem that the priorities and values of our commissioners are sorely in need of examination. The general population of Garrett County appears to have no problem finding it in their hearts and minds to support the Dove Center. A family under the threat of violence must be sheltered and protected from that threat; this is an incontrovertible truth we can all comprehend. Not so our commissioners, it would seem. They just could not see their way to helping the Dove Center, an organization that could conceivably save lives, mind you, through their time of crisis.

What will happen to the three families now being protected by the Dove Center when they have to close their doors? Do the commissioners care that women and children could be facing violence and possibly life-threatening situations if they return to that which already cost enormous courage to escape?

I wouldn't want that on my conscience.

Sincerely,
Eileen Schlosnagle

To the Editor:

The news has been grim on the blood supply shortage nationwide. Here in Garrett County we have a community that literally put in 110% to help end that shortage. To all of those donors who braved last Friday's weather, and to the volunteers and media that made it all come together, thank you! This is exactly why we have a Volunteer Blood Donor month. We recognize the extraordinary efforts that each and every one has contributed to keep blood available to everyone, every time.

Despite being short-staffed, which caused a long wait, we had over 100 people stop by last Friday. From those who braved the weather, we were able to collect 87 units of blood. I had hoped beyond hope for 50. Thank you for the much needed surprise.

If you were unable to join us, our next bloodmobile in Oakland will be Friday, February 19. I hope to see all who are able there that day.

Again, my sincerest thanks to all involved in our bloodmobiles. There is no substitute for the gift of blood. Ask anyone who has ever needed it and you will hear how much your efforts are appreciated.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Garrett County Historical Society, I am writing this letter of commendation to our local volunteer fire companies: Oakland, Deer Park, Gorman, Deep Creek, and Terra Alta. On Tuesday evening, Jan. 5, in sub-zero temperatures, our downtown was faced with yet another devastating structure fire. Because of the valiant efforts of the many dedicated volunteer firemen (yourself included), there were no lives lost and the fire was quickly contained.

As the president of the Historical Society who had in his possession a museum key, I went immediately to the scene in case action was necessary to remove important artifacts of county history. I'm proud to say that because of the fire control efforts of these brave volunteers, nothing had to be removed from the museum and virtually no damage occurred to our building.

"Thanks once more" to our volunteers fire fighters seems hardly enough. Let us all remember fire fighting efforts are costly, and our constant contributions are essential to keeping these and other volunteer companies prepared for action.

Again, sincere thanks to all.

Bob Boal

P.S.

I would be remiss to not mention a tragic loss suffered by the Historical Society that same day through the sudden death of Mary Naylor Bennett, an active board member and chairperson of the Museum Building committee. She gave so freely of her time and her talents. We shall miss her!

To the Editor:

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad has had the need for a new building for the past 10 years. The building we currently utilize does not meet various safety and fire codes, and does not have adequate storage and maintenance space. Over the past several years many options have been explored, and considered, but for various reasons they did not meet the needs of the squad.

Recently our need was brought to the attention of a citizen of the county, and a generous donation of land on Route 219 and Omar Street was made to the squad to construct a new facility. The property was in a good location and seemed to fit just what we needed except the zoning was residential. The Oakland Town Council was approached, and we were told that a text amendment to the zoning ordinance was needed to allow us to apply for a special exception. Wording already exists in the zoning ordinance to allow a fire company to apply for an exception, but there isn't an accommodation for the rescue squad. We are just asking to be equal to the fire department.

When some of the residents of tho area heard what we were proposing they immediately made the decision that they didn't want the rescue squad in their community because of several factors. The residents canvassed the neighborhood soliciting support to keep the squad from getting this text amendment and a special exception.

On January 12th, the Oakland Town Council had a meeting to consider the text amendment, hearing from volunteers of the rescue squad and a presentation from me concerning our needs, and why we want to be relocated in this area.

MARTIN LUTHER KING DAY

Next Monday the nation will observe the birthday of Martin Luther King by taking the day off. One reason Americans pay so little heed to Martin Luther King Day is that there is a widespread assumption that the problem which King sought to solve has been solved. Since the early '60s we have experienced a revolution in terms of public accommodation. Almost anyone can go almost anywhere. That is a success.

The problem of the problem — namely racism — is that it has gone underground. As long as racism had such obvious, outward manifestations as mandated school segregation and separate public restrooms, it was an easy target. The easy targets have been hit, and hit hard.

What remains is racism of the heart, which no law can touch.

Several years ago I was in Atlanta for a conference on "Christianity and Democracy." I arrived at the airport, which was on the south side of the city, and needed to get to Emory University on the north side of the city. I traveled from the airport to the university on public transportation.

I had the experience once that African-Americans have all the time. I was often the only person of my race on the subway car or on the bus. Forty years ago African-Americans had to sit on the back of the bus. When the Supreme Court and the U.S. Congress decided that African-Americans could ride anywhere they wanted on the bus, the response of European-Americans was to get off the bus.

They moved to the suburbs, almost universally white, and drove their automobiles everywhere. What is more insidious than this lemming-like migration is that since then we have constructed a world in which one has to have a car in order to do almost anything. European-Americans have put together a world in which not only do they not have to ride the bus with African-Americans, it is actually difficult to do so. Again, that is a racial wall that laws cannot tear down.

I think I am more sensitive to racial issues than the average person. The other day I heard a radio talk program which made me see one of my own blind spots. One of the guests was an African-American, Cleve Francis, who is by profession a cardiologist. He is a success, someone who has crossed all the hurdles, but not quite.

Cleve aspired to be a country-western music artist. One of his songs was played, and it was as good as 90% of what we hear on country-western radio stations. He grew up in Louisiana on a diet of country-western music, and it came naturally to him.

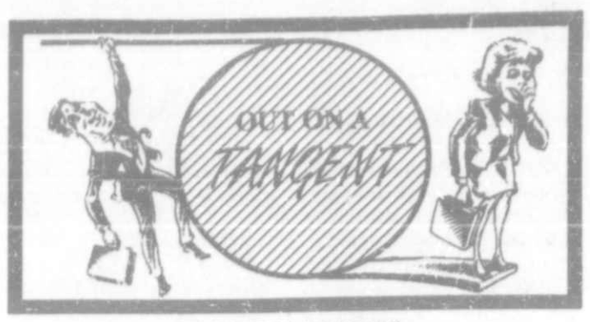
What he discovered was that his interest and gift in the realm of country-western music ran counter to expectations. African-Americans were expected to play jazz or blues or any of a dozen varieties of rock, but not country-western music. That, he discovered, is white music.

I have long perceived that there are lots of African-Americans who play jazz and blues and rock. It had never occurred to me that there aren't many African-American country singers. Charley Pride is the exception who proves the rule.

The common supposition among European-Americans, one I hear repeatedly, is that things are so skewed in our society that African-Americans have unfair advantages because of their race. Part of Cleve's point is that whether he would have made it as a white man, being a black man certainly did not help him. He believed that it hurt him.

Martin Luther King Day is an opportunity for soul-searching. All of us should avail ourselves of that opportunity. We all need some heart surgery to see one another as human beings with needs and failings and aspirations.

One way to open our hearts is to close our eyes and then to listen for the music. It is possible that melody might just lead to harmony.



CROSSING JORDAN
by David Foster

The hoopla over Michael Jordan's retirement this week, although a welcome respite from the impeachment trial, has rather caught me off guard. (Guard - heh, heh - I promise that will be the last cutesy basketball reference as I dribble out this column.) Sure, he was one of the greatest, in my book positioned right at the top alongside Larry Bird, but blaring television news leads and banner headlines might be overdoing things just a bit.

Anyhow, the sports department of The Republican will add to the hysteria in its own way, as I recall the time Michael Jordan and I crossed paths. I emerged from that meeting with the distinction of quite possibly the only person ever to have asked His Airness the question I posed to him that day in 1984.

Running through the Washington, D.C., National Airport to meet my cousin, who was flying in from Kansas City to go see a Bruce Springsteen concert with me (and this column started out being critical of celebrity worship!), I came up behind a pair of tall, thin black men striding ahead down the hall. This is not an unusual sight for Washington, but when my eye caught their shoulder bags I noted that each man's bag bore a patch that said "Member U.S. Gold Medal Basketball Team." I slowed to walk beside them for a moment, and the following conversation ensued:

Future Reporter: "Hey, thanks for bringing back the gold medal for us."

Tall Guy #1 (big smile): "Thanks, man."

F.R.: "What's your name?"

T.G.: #1: "Michael."

F.R.: (ever investigating the facts): "Michael who?"

T.G.: (smile turns to a bemused but friendly smirk): "Michael Jordan, man."

F.R.: "Oh. Well, see ya!"

I can hear Southern basketball coach Dave Bender and the Bosley boys laughing their heads off right now at my ineptness, but hey, this was before the guy's face was on every other cereal box, shoe box, and safety deposit box in the country.

Maybe my last question should have been, "Hey Mike, do you need an agent?"

Some of those reasons were that the land was donated, it was in an area that had adequate space, and it would save the taxpayers and donors of the squad money for us to use the donated property rather than spend money on property elsewhere. The Town Council also heard from citizens of the town of Oakland that refused to consider the relocation of the squad to their area. At least one of these citizens felt that tho squad shouldn't even be located in the town of Oakland.

As of now, the decision of Oakland Town Council is pending. If you feel the rescue squad is a valuable asset to the community, please make your opinion known to the Oakland Town Council. We want to spend your money wisely and feel this would be a wise move. We, as volunteers, are here for you 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year. Now all we ask is that we not be considered a nuisance to the community, and be permitted to use the property graciously donated to us.

To the Editor:

On a recent trip to Garrett County I visited my mother in the small community of Avilton. On this trip, I was very sorry to hear that my mother's dog had been shot. Although this was sad, it was especially upsetting because this was not the first time that this has happened to her.

A few years ago, while on vacation, someone shot her dog. This dog had been my father's dog, which had become a good companion for my mother after my father's death. My mother is almost 80 years old and is often home alone. A few years ago, my niece had taken my mother's companion (dog) for some exercise with her children and their dog. While these dogs were playing on my nephew's farm, the two dogs were shot. Most of the time the children are playing close to these dogs. Thank God that on this day they were not in the area.

In the past, my nephew has had several dogs shot. One time, his dog was still on its chain. Another dog was shot at a neighbor's house. The children who live there could have been hurt as well.

On the most recent occasion of my mother's companion (dog) being shot, I have to ask why? It was

Education, Smart Growth, Transp. To Be On Governor's 1999 Agenda

Governor Parris N. Glendening this week reaffirmed his commitment to improve education and transportation, and move forward with his Smart Growth initiative in remarks delivered at the Prince George's County Chamber of Commerce's annual legislative program.

"The jobs of the future are knowledge-based," Glendening told over 350 chamber members, legislators, and business people gathered to hear his plans for the 1999 legislative session. "We must work together to unlock the potential of every Marylander."

Glendening highlighted some of his accomplishments over the last four years, such as Maryland's record level of jobs, the reduction of welfare rolls by 50 percent, and nearly 6,000 new or modernized classrooms. "Education, Smart Growth, and transportation are some of the areas that will see major enhancements this session," he said.

The governor wants to see increased funding for school construction to reduce class size and enhance the quality of our classrooms.

"Smaller class sizes enable teachers to spend more one-on-one time with their students," said Glendening. "This will allow students to learn better and teachers to teach better." He announced that school construction and modernization funding will reach $250 million this year and $1 billion over the next four years.

The class size reduction legislation will provide $40 million to local governments to hire 1,100 new teachers by 2002. The governor stressed that these teachers will be certified.

"Our children need and deserve quality teachers, not just more teachers," he said.

In higher education, he said Marylanders will see a greater focus on boosting academic programs, buildings, and research-development efforts.

The governor said there is a need for increased revenue "to ensure the continued success of the transportation program," and also talked of his support for utility deregulation, as long as certain basic principles are met. He is in favor of the legislation only if residential consumers and small businesses, the environment, and low-income customers are to be protected.

"The Smart Growth initiative will be pushed to new heights this year," he said. Business projects will now have to pass the Smart Growth test before they receive any funds. Glendening restated his firm belief in protecting Maryland's farm lands and curbing suburban sprawl.

"We have come a long way these last four years, and we have some exciting plans for this year," he said. "We will continue to work hard and improve our programs to create the best Maryland possible."

BUSINESS BOOSTS HOSPICE - Hospice of Garrett County Inc. received a generous donation recently from the "Take a Gift, Give a Gift" promotion sponsored by Southern Auto Supply, Mtn. Lake Park. "Our customers look forward to helping with this project," stated Dave Sypolt, manager of Southern Auto Supply. "It is their way of helping to care for the terminally ill in Garrett County. It's also a way for us to thank our customers for their support over the past five years." Sypolt is pictured above presenting a check to Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County.

Garrett Choral Society Slates Next Rehearsals

The Garrett Choral Society, which is open to all persons who enjoy singing, will begin rehearsals this Sunday, Jan. 17, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, according to Nancy Learey, director. The rehearsals will be held every Sunday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in preparation for a spring concert titled "How Glorious!"

Music to be performed will be Magnificat by J.S. Bach and Gloria by A. Vivaldi. Mrs. Learey said that both of the works are "in praise of the Lord."

"The Vivaldi piece is in the form of a creed," she said. "It opens with 'Gloria in Excelsis' and ends with...'you only are highest Jesus Christ, with the Holy Spirit in the glory of God the Father. Amen.'

"The Magnificat is a popular and frequently performed work that is a liturgical anthem glorifying God," she said. "The words are taken entirely from the book of St. Luke, chapter 1, verses 46-55, which is Mary's hymn of praise regarding the impending birth of Jesus."

Mrs. Learey said that all are welcome to participate as members of the choral society and there are no tryouts required, "but faithful attendance at rehearsals is important."

The concerts will be presented Saturday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, April 11, at 2 p.m. senseless and without point. The dog was bothering no one. Don't get me wrong. I know dogs should not be allowed to run loose in the community. But, let's face it, dogs do get loose occasionally. In the community of Avilton that I remember, we looked out for our neighbors and their animals. We know that dogs and cats are a wonderful part of our families. Because of this, we try to keep them out of harm's way.

The point of my letter — What happened to this community? What happened to looking out for our neighbors and friends and their animals?

To the Editor:

Jerry Geisler recently made some excellent points in his letter to you. The new Visitor's Center can (and should) be a unifying institution for the county, while the issue of display space for various agencies and artisans is complicated but doubtless can be resolved with goodwill negotiation. However, he was less successful in his defense of the center's grand opening program. The inaugural event should have been an extended open house with the entire public invited, followed by a smaller celebration to honor the movers and shakers of our houses of commerce. This sequence would have sent a clear signal about the priorities of the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce. That this sequence was reversed begs questions about the sensibilities, if not the motives, of those who lead the chamber — an awkwardness that Mr. Geisler seems to concede.

Mr. Geisler unsuccessfully defended the strategic direction of the Chamber of Commerce. Worthy initiatives like Oakland's Main Street Program, PIVOT, and Simon Pearce do not owe their existence, or even their nurture, to the chamber. Further, inquiring minds want to know what is meant when he says, on behalf of the chamber, "We understand that technology has progressed so quickly that it will indeed change the fabric of a rural community." For on the contrary an informed understanding of technological innovation — ranging from remote satellite imagery used to monitor environmental health, to the engineering of fiber optic cable, to the mathematics behind photonics and quantum mechanics — provides just the tools for reinforcing that fabric. Finally, Mr. Geisler's silence about both the chamber's support of superhighways and President David Moe's cheerleading for mega-retailers is deafening, although it is clear he believes (wrongly) that those who oppose these developments are anti-business, seeking to diminish our quality of life.

Unquestionably, the task of creating a principled strategy of economic development tied to community enhancement is daunting. There are presently discreet layers of business activity which don't adequately connect in support of one another: recreational and conference activity at Wisp, which last year brought about 200,000 people to the area (many to escape their relentless suburbanization); the real estate/hospitality complex that clusters thousands of typically part-time residents and vacationers around the lake; and the needs and desires of the county's full-time residents served by the businesses in and around the county's towns. The chamber represents only one voice in this complex task.

But it would be more than ironic if the chief financial officer of Wisp, a business which literally capitalizes upon the rustic qualities of life found here, were to endorse policies of economic growth that would transform our landscape in the image of the beltway. The jumble of highways, traffic, strip malls, andinstitutional/commercial warehouse architecture have so homogenized once distinctive regions of this state that they have lost their unique visual identify — at great cost to a sense of community. Garrett County, virtually alone now in this state, fairly shimmers in the glow of its special identity.

With knowledgeable leadership, the Visitor's Center can be a showcase for that identity. Unlike Williamsburg and the various Disneyworlds, where billions of dollars have created artificial small town/rural atmospheres, we come by these qualities naturally and genuinely. Thank you for challenging the Chamber of Commerce leadership to regard this valuable resource with much greater care.

Sincerely,
Jon Boone
Oakland

To the Editor:

Our class learns best by doing. At the beginning of this school year we started planning a class project that would be our gift to the school. We planned to build a butterfly garden behind our school. We measured the area, drew up blue prints, and researched to find out what type plants butterflies like.

Many local businesses helped us with our project by donating supplies, peat, wood chips, and plants. Many people gave us seeds and bulbs.

We learned all about plants. We worked hard digging, collecting, and planting. We learned how to work together. Our teacher told us that our project brought out the best in many people.

Our math, social studies, science, language, and reading classes were based around our garden.

We were so proud of our hard work. We planned to get picnic tables and place them by our garden so that we as a whole class could go out there and read, study plants or insects, or just have a beautiful environment in which to learn. However, over the Christmas holiday someone came to our garden and broke off all our trees and shrubs. This action really hurt us.

At Accident Elementary School each room chooses a Citizen of the Month. In our classroom we have a bulletin board titled CITIZEN = C-Caring, I-Ideal Friend, T-Trustworthy, I-Ideal Student, Z-Zestful, E-Excellent Behavior, N-Nice. The person who did the damage to our garden must not understand what being a citizen means. If the person who messed up our garden would come to our classroom, he or she would learn to follow one of our class rules, "Treat everyone the way you want to be treated." We really feel sorry for the person who did this. Where is your pride? How could you feel good about yourself? We

In Memory Of Our Daughter, Wife, Mother, and Grandmother

who died one year ago, Jan. 15, 1998

Grandma,

I don't know how to begin to describe your life. After all, you were so many things, a daughter, a mother, a wife. I know that no matter how much time may pass, our fun loving memories of you will last. You meant so much to us all. With you gone, we will do our best not to fall. We know you are in heaven, up there so high, and you will guide us through our events, by and by.

Our lives have lost someone for whom we have so much love, but we have peace knowing you are happy up above. I have never known a person as good as you, you gave us so much love all the way through.

We knew the end was coming, you fought so long. Now that it is here, it still feels so wrong. You have brought to our lives, so much light. The Lord took you too soon, it was not right.

Now that you are gone, we realize we still need you. Without you here, what we'll do there's no clue. Even though you are here in your soul, that is not enough. My heart has a permanent hole.

I cannot begin to add up all of our feelings, let alone my own. I know I will meet you again, when my days are through, but I hope you knew how much we loved you.

With love,
Your Grandson, Jacob E. DeBerry,
Stafford, Va.

In Loving Memory of Our Precious

Darla Diane DeWitt

April 30, 1970 – Jan. 16, 1973

Dear Darling Darla,

I thought of you today
But that was nothing new.
I thought about you yesterday,
And will tomorrow too.
For those we love, remain with us,
For love itself lives on.
And cherished memories never fade
Because a loved one's gone...
Those we love can never be
More than a thought apart.
For as long as there is memory,
They'll live on in our heart!

Loved & Still Sadly Missed,
Your Loving Family

Pamela Roberts, Anthony Perando Wed In September Double-Ring Event

Pamela Lynn Roberts and Anthony Scott Perando were united in marriage on Sept. 5, 1998, in a double-ring ceremony performed by Pastor Gail Hixon at the Rt. 135 Assembly of God Church.

The bride is the daughter of Frank and Donnie Roberts, Terra Alta, W.Va., and the groom is the son of Wolford and Carole Perando, Oakland.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a champaign satin gown, imported by Demetrios. The bride accented the dress with a champaign pearl necklace and a crown-style champaign veil. For "something borrowed," she wore her sister-in-law's pearl bracelet, and for "something new," she wore mother-of-pearl earrings given to her by the groom. The bride carried a crescent bouquet of calla lilies.

Attending the bride was the matron of honor, Barb DeWitt, her sister. The bridesmaids were Christy DeWitt, Kelly Carr, Jaime George, and Amber Roberts. They wore black full-length gowns, trimmed in satin with V-cut backs. They each carried a fresh bouquet of champaign and deep burgundy mini-carnations.

The groom wore a Chapian evening tuxedo which matched the bride's dress. The best man, Michael Nazelrod, and the groomsmen — Wolfe Perando, David Sines, and Ed Perando — were all attired in classic black tuxedos.

The ring-bearers were Mathew and Cody Roberts, and the flower girl was Courtney Capp.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom were taken by carriage (of Classic Carriage Services) from the church to the reception. At this event, the cake-cutting ceremony was followed by a Victorian custom of ribbon pulling, allowing the bride to offer happy wishes to her bridesmaids. Charms were attached to ribbons and then hidden between the layers of the wedding cake. Each bridesmaid pulled a ribbon to retrieve a charm, which each forecasted a particular good fortune.

After a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the couple established residence in the Swallow Falls area.

Miss Winters Becomes Bride Of Mr. Welch In July Ceremony

Alison Claire Winters and Todd Spencer Welch were united in marriage July 11, 1998. The double-ring ceremony took place at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, with the Rev. Roger A. Harrison officiating. Organist was Dr. David W. Sheets, with Thomas Simpson serving as trumpeter. Vocalists were Thomas and Susan Peterson. The mothers of the bride and bridegroom lit the unity candles to begin the ceremony. Readings were given by Dr. W. Porter Welch, father of the groom, and Luther D. Parrack Jr., family friend of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Winters, Oakland, and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. W. Porter Welch, also Oakland.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a silk shantung gown in natural with Alençon lace, pearls, and a clear sequin bodice with a sabrina neckline and short sleeves. The scalloped trimmed natural waist was accented into a deep scoop back met with a row of delicate, covered buttons. This fell to a semi-cathedral train from a pearl and sequined Alençon lace rosette. Her tiara fingertip headpiece was adorned with lace, clear sequins, and pearls with crystal loops and a rolled edge veiling with poof. The bride carried a bouquet of fresh mauve, peach, champagne, and ivory roses with baby's breath and wide cascading ribbon. All flowers were provided by Flowers by Webers.

Serving as her sister's matron of honor was Joell M. Lyons, Cumberland. Bridesmaids were Carolyn E. Carpenter, Oakland; Tiffany L. Powers, Baltimore; and Amy J. Rice, Columbia, all friends of the bride. Their attire consisted of taupe gowns with matching scarves, pearl chokers, and earrings, and each carried mauve tea roses.

Mark V. Welch, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Jeffrey W. Spencer, Oakland, James K. Lyons, Cumberland, and Chad A. Ward, Oakland, cousin of the groom.

Hilary A. Lyons, niece of the bride, was flower girl and ring bearer was Jonathon W. Welch, nephew of the groom. Alexander Metz and Christopher Ahmadi-Welch served as acolytes. Jessica Harris attended the guest book while Angela Ahmadi-Welch distributed programs and birdseed packets. Videographer for the wedding and reception was Doug Beitzel and photographer was Doug Buckley.

Alison and Todd were chauffeured in a white limousine to their reception at the Wisp McHenry House, McHenry. The four-tier wedding cake, baked by Shelby Gable, was decorated with crystals and fresh flowers coordinating with the wedding colors. Music was provided by "Spektra."

The couple traveled to Rehoboth Beach, Del., for a honeymoon after spending the night at the groom's family lake house at Deep Creek Lake.

The bride was guest of honor at a surprise shower given by her co-workers at Westminster Elementary School. Family friends Pauline Parrack and Karen Carpenter also hosted a bridal shower at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. Co-workers of the groom surprised him with a miscellaneous party prior to the wedding. The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Silver Tree Inn's Tiffany Room, Deep Creek Lake.

The bride is a 1993 graduate of Southern High School and received a bachelor's degree in psychology and elementary education, summa cum laude, from Western Maryland College. She is employed by the Carroll County Board of Education.

The groom, a 1988 graduate of Southern High School, served four years with the United States Army in military intelligence. He graduated from Garrett Community College and West Virginia University School of Engineering, cum laude, with a dual degree in electrical and computer engineering. He is employed by the federal government at the Department of Defense.

The couple resides in Westminster.

Angela Stevens Named GCMH Award Recipient

Angela Stevens was recently selected as the November Employees' Choice award recipient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Having been employed at GCMH for 19 years, Stevens is a registered nurse and works in the outpatient surgical unit. "Angie is a compassionate, caring nurse who is self-motivated. Her patients and peers speak only positives about her. She is an asset to our staff," stated Cathy Miles, nurse manager of the surgical services.

Stevens and her husband Richard have two daughters, Bethany and Victoria. Although Mrs. Stevens spends a lot of her time involved in her daughters' activities, she said she enjoys reading, crafts, and cross-stitch. She is a member of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, attends the Bethel United Methodist Church, and is also homeroom mother for her daughter's class.

Two tired eyes are sleeping, two willing hands are still,
For one who suffered too long is resting in "God's will."

In tears we saw you suffering, we watched you fade away.
Our hearts were almost broken, you fought so hard to stay.

But when we see you sleeping so peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you back to suffer that again.

May you always walk in sunshine and God's love around you flow.
For the happiness you gave us no one will ever know.

It broke our heart to lose you, but you did not go alone.
A part of us went with you the day God called you home.

Sadly missed by Husband Donnie, twin daughters Morgan Ann and Megan Lee, your Mother, Father and Brother and all your family and friends.

Thank You!

The deadline for donations was set for Dec. 15. However, the account will remain open throughout the year, and donations may be made at any time. They will be used in next year's effort, or when needed in the event of disaster.

BLANKETS PILING UP - A mountain of warm blankets has been donated to the 1998 Blanket Drive by folks around the county. Sponsored each year by Community Action's Community and Emergency Services Department, the campaign's goal is to gather warm, serviceable covers that can be given to county residents in need. "We collected 98 blankets from this drive," said coordinator Virginia Fike, an AmeriCorps member serving with Community Action. These blankets are available at Community Action for anyone experiencing a heating emergency, Fike explained. With recent dips of the mercury to single digits, such needs may occur in many homes. For more information persons may contact Fike at 301-334-9431, ext 121.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

ATTEND WEDDING

Beulah Moon accompanied Larry and Ellen Moon to Enterprise, Ala., where they attended the wedding of James Moon and HyunJoo Kwck on January 2. John is a warrant officer stationed at Fort Rucker, Ala., where he is in training as a helicopter pilot.

VISITING FROM LAS VEGAS

Lesa Whittemore's parents, Kitty and Bob King, spent the holidays visiting their daughter, and family. They returned home last week.

Visiting Ralph and Ethel Buckel were Bill and Jenny Hady and children on Sunday and Ken Buckel and Doug Knupp on Monday.

Ruth DiPaolo spent last week with Betty and Ellis Sacra, Partlow, Va. The icy weather in Virginia prevented her from returning on Friday, but on her return on Saturday, she found Garrett County in the grips of another storm.

The catechism classes of Emmanuel Lutheran Church presented their delayed Christmas program on Sunday.

Ellen Housley had surgery at Garrett Memorial Hospital last week. She came home following the surgery only to have to return back to the hospital after passing a kidney stone. She seems to be recuperating fine now. We thought that this kind of stuff only hit older people. Sometimes it seems like after you pass the 40-year-old mark you start to kind of fall apart. Not saying that Ellen is over the 40 mark, as she is some younger than I, so I guess we still have a few good years left.

The biggest news around Bittinger is that we got some real winter weather for a whole week. First a good snow last weekend with high winds, then some freezing rain appeared. The roads were bad and the driveways and lane were choked up with heavy wet snow and ice. Of course, our snow blower broke down several times, but Lloyd did finally clear our driveway and our neighbors'.

For Lloyd the snow was good enough for a few good ski trips. A big ski trip with some serious men skiers, including Barry Glotfelty, Steve Sherrard, Walter Haydel, and an unexperienced marathon man, Gino Mauricci, who was up to the challenge, took place on Sunday afternoon for a full trip to the 4-H Center. Now their equipment needs a few little emergency repairs.

Daughter Claire attended a birthday party for her friend, Heidi McMillan, on Saturday at the roller rink in Cumberland.

I guess the next big social event for our family is our Meredith's 8th birthday — pizza and pool party for her and her friends. I remember the good old days when a birthday consisted of a cake and ice cream with family and a few gifts. We had to design personal invitations for her friends.

The roads around Bittinger were not too bad with the serious winter storms.

Lanes at Jimmy Glotfelty's farm, where five-foot drifts are common place, have remained open so far.

Sunday afternoon my girls and I were kidnapped by a couple of my former students, Nate Blatchley and Jennifer Greathouse. They took us out to lunch at Uno's. I hated to go out in the cold weather, but Nate was unmerciful and forced me to go. I guess I reap what I sow — I mean that I usually bossed my students and forced them to do what they did not want to do if I thought it was the best for them. We had a great time and I guess it was right that Nate insisted that I must go out in the winter air and try again to snow shoe.

Second Semester Set For Southern Evening School

Any current students at Southern High School who would like to enroll in Evening School for the second semester, which begins Tuesday, Jan. 26, is asked to contact Mr. Cain to register before January 22. For those unable to do this, an evening registration will be held on Thursday, Jan. 21 at 6 p.m. in the main office.

The following classes will be offered during the second semester: English, I, II, III, and IV, U.S. History, World History, Civics, Integrated Algebra, Integrated Geometry, Eaarth Science, Principles of Technology, Phsyical Education, Art, and special education. All classes begin at 4:30 p.m.

Any student enrolling in Evening High School will be assessed a $50 fee and will be charged a $20 materials fee per class. No student will pay more that $90 per semester, and material fees will be refunded when textbooks are returned.

Governor Notes Available Funds For Beautification

In what Governor Parris Glendening said will help maintain the beauty of the state and improve the quality of life for Maryland citizens, he has approved $75,000 for landscaping, streetscaping, and other beautification efforts throughout the state. The Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration (SHA) will accept requests for individual projects from local governments, civic organizations, and garden clubs for beautifying highways and revitalizing communities. The initiative is one of 24 funded through the $8 million federal program.

"These funds provide us with yet another opportunity to make our communities and towns more livable through beautification," said Glendening. "The success of this program is a result of our partnership with fine organizations throughout Maryland, ranging from the Boy Scouts of America to recreational clubs and community groups. This is Smart Growth at its best."

SHA will accept individual project requests for review. The requesting organization may provide in-kind services to plant the landscape material or provide funds for SHA to install the plants. These enhancement funds would be used to purchase and install plant material.

To obtain qualification requirements and application forms for these funds, organizations may call 410-545-8640.

Established by the federal government's Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991 and renewed under the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century, the Transportation Enhancement Program provides federal funds for non-traditional transportation-related projects such as: pedestrian and bicyclist trails and educational outreach, acquisition of scenic easements or historic sites, establishment of scenic or historic highway programs and tourist welcome center facilities, mitigation of water pollution caused by highway runoff, archeological projects, and establishment of transportation museums.

SHA oversees the annual program, which requires a governmental agency sponsor or co-sponsor. Project sponsors pay for at least 50 percent of the cost.

City Award

mindset of the community so that problems that seemed insurmountable before don't seem so bad," Hart said. "It changes 180 degrees the way communities deal with problems."

A committee of individuals has been organized by Stephens consisting of 14 people representing a variety of community organizations, such as economic development, government, the media, social services, the health department, community action, civic groups, Garrett Community College, the board of education, and the chamber of commerce. The group is to meet for the first time today at the county courthouse.

The committee members will work together to complete the application for the award, which is due March 18. They must prepare a written document summarizing the "general community situation," including descriptions of citizen participation in community improvement efforts, the degree of success in realizing community goals, and success in including diverse populations in all phases of community improvement.

Also to be included in the application is a "civic index" which provides information about a community's "civic infrastructure." This portion of the process has already been completed by a work group from October's Summit event.

The committee is to give examples of how the community has encouraged the most basic challenges and concerns of the area, collaboration between community sectors, and shared decision making among diverse segments of the population.

The application also calls for the description of three recent community-driven projects that have significantly impacted the community since 1996. The projects are to illustrate the community's ability to anticipate problems by proactively dealing with challenges, and/or respond in collaborative and resourceful ways to a current critical problem. All or some aspect of one of the projects is to show how the lives of children and youth have been tangibly improved. All the projects are to "exemplify extraordinary civic accomplishments" for the community, made possible by collaborative efforts of individuals and the public, private, and non-profit sectors.

When questioned about this part of the application, Stephens said he feels the committee will not only have no trouble coming up with three projects, but that they will be challenged in choosing the three best ones.

The commissioners responded favorably to the endeavor, with the stipulation that Stephens spearhead the effort. Commissioner Wendell Beitzel made a motion that the county support the pursuit and make Stephens the committee chairman. He also moved that the county pay for the application fee, which is $375. Chairman Ernest Gregg and Commissioner Fred Holliday agreed.

Lakers Stretch Streak To Six Before Falling To PG Owls

The men's basketball team of Garrett Community College took to the courts three times this past week and came away with two wins and a loss, as the Lakers defeated visiting Butler County CC, 86-66, last Thursday, and topped Potomac State College on Monday, 90-78, also in McHenry, but then had their winning streak stopped at six games last night by visiting Prince George's CC, 82-70. The results left the Lakers and Coach Dennis Gibson with a 10-4 overall record and a 4-3 mark in the Maryland JUCO.

It was a balanced attack, described by Coach Gibson as "a total team effort," that led the Lakers to their 20-point victory over Butler County last Thursday, as five of them finished in double figures in scoring. Garrett took control of the contest early and led by the same margin, 44-24, at halftime. Their largest lead of the evening was at the 5:50 mark of the second half when they were up by 30, 77-47.

Michael Fields paced GCC in scoring with 18 points, and also had six assists and four steals. Johnathan Frazier was right behind with 16 points, Lionell Sewell netted 13 and had six assists, Thomas Somerville scored 12 points, and Warren Coates contributed 11. A sixth player reaching double figures, but in rebounding, was Charles Somerville, who grabbed 16 to go with his six points.

Jay Lawson was the top scorer and rebounder for the Grizzlies, as he netted a game-high 23 points and pulled down 16 rebounds. Bryant Lewandowski finished with 16 points, and Will Brinkley and Brian Merrit each connected for 11.

Coach Gibson was not as pleased with the Lakers' team effort Monday night against Potomac State, but got some strong individual efforts to help secure the victory.

Charles Somerville and Fields led the way in scoring with 19 and 18 points, respectively, and paced six Lakers who finished in double figures. Warren Coates scored 12 points, Josh Bunnell and Benitez Jackson each netted 11, and Johnathan Frazier hit 10.

Somerville also had an outstanding night on the boards, grabbing a game-high total of 17 rebounds, and also dished out five assists.

The Lakers took an 11-2 lead in the opening minutes, but let the Catamounts come back to tie the score at 26-26 with 6:52 remaining in the first half. Garrett held a 43-37 lead at intermission.

After trading buckets in the first minute of the second half, the Lakers went on a 9-0 run to go up 54-39. Their lead remained around a dozen points the rest of the way.

"We didn't really play that well as a team," Gibson said, "but Benitez Jackson did a good job overall filling in for Lionell Sewell, Charles Somerville was really strong inside for us, and Josh Bunnell probably had his best game ever, other than scoring."

Sewell was sidelined with an ankle injury.

The Catamounts were led in scoring by Corin Turner with 17 points, followed by John Signy with 14, Chad Drennen with 13, and Mike Gibson with 10. Gibson also pulled down 11 rebounds.

The Lakers trailed throughout most of the JUCO contest last night against Prince George's, rallied to take a two-point lead twice in the second half, but then fell behind for good down the stretch. The Owls came into town with a 14-2 record and ranked number three in the NJCAA Division II poll.

After trailing by nine, 42-33, at halftime, the Lakers went on a 16-5 run to begin the second half, and a pair of free throws by Johnathan Frazier at the 14:48 mark gave Garrett a 49-47 lead, their first of the game.

After a 52-52 tie, the Lakers got a field goal from Josh Bunnell to put them on top by two again, but the Owls responded with an 11-point run to give them a 63-54 advantage. Their largest lead was 82-67 with less than a minute to play.

Randy Gill paced PG in scoring with 28 points, 18 of which were scored from three-point range. Barry Mitchell recorded 17 points, 15 rebounds, and eight blocked shots, while Sherwynn Devonish netted 12 points and Franklin Porter contributed 10.

The Lakers were led by 6-6 freshman Charles Somerville, who finished with 19 points and 16 rebounds. Fields had another strong outing, with 15 points, seven assists, and four steals. Sewell and Frazer chipped in with 10 points apiece.

"We had a nice run, but then started turning the ball over and lost our composure," stated Coach Gibson. "We shot the ball poorly, partly because of PG's good defense. But we did get some good individual play, especially out of Charles Somerville."

The Lakers will attempt to get back into the win column this Saturday in Cumberland against the always powerful Allegany College Trojans. They will host CCAC-South on Monday and travel to Catonsville CC next Wednesday.

Barrick's Clutch Basket Propels GCC Past Catonsville, 75-74

Center Andrea Barrick nabbed the rebound off a missed Lakers shot and scored with just six seconds to go to put Garrett Community College up by one over Catonsville for a 75-74 victory Tuesday night. The road win gives Garrett a 7-4 overall record and a 4-4 JUCO mark, with an upcoming slate that includes a home game Saturday versus Montgomery/Rockville, another home contest Monday night with Potomac State, and a road trip to Allegany on Wednesday night.

The Lakers had rebounded from a 14-point halftime deficit to set the stage for Barrick's heroics. Down 74-73 with 15 seconds left in the game, GCC inbounded the ball from under its own basket but missed the shot attempt. Positioned perfectly, Barrick nabbed the rebound and sank the winning bucket. Catonsville's final shot missed and GCC controlled the ensuing rebound as the final buzzer sounded.

Barrick had a strong performance throughout the night, scoring 16 points and pulling down a number of rebounds. "Andrea dominated the boards for us," Laker Coach Ann Wellham commented. "She must have had 20 rebounds [although final rebound totals were not readily available]." Erica McBride and Tasha Blackmon each scored a dozen points for the Lakers, and Susanne Albright accounted for 10 points.

Monica Lacks led all scorers with 20 points for the hosts, and Robin Johnson added 18 points.

"We had a bad first half, and I didn't recognize the Laker team that was out there then," Wellham said. "[However,] we took charge in the second half to come back from a 15-point deficit. We played with a lot of heart, and the team effort and aggressive defense made all the difference."

Rams Seize Top WMIL Spot With Big Win Over Campers

Earning their sixth victory in seven outings and their fifth Western Maryland Interscholastic League win Tuesday night were the members of the Southern High School boys' varsity, as the Rams defeated a talented team from Allegany High, 60-50, in Oakland. The result gave Southern a perfect 5-0 mark in the WMIL, and it was the 11th straight league win since last season.

Senior John Andrews led the Rams' balanced attack with a 20-point performance, while Mike Paesani finished with 14 points and seven rebounds, and Mike Pamepinto recorded 10 points and 11 rebounds. Jonathan Price, who added eight points, also provided some key steals and rebounds, and point guard Nathan DiSimone was credited with five assists.

The Rams came out on fire and took a 13-2 lead in the opening minutes of the game, but the Campers rallied with eight straight points to cut the Southern lead to 13-10. Andrews then hit the first of his three three-point shots for the evening to give the Rams a 16-10 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The second period was played almost evenly, with the Rams taking a 29-24 halftime lead on a long pass and last-second bucket at the buzzer.

The Rams came back after halftime somewhat flat, and the Campers proceeded to take their only lead of the evening by scoring the first six points of the third stanza, giving them a brief 30-29 advantage. The Rams woke up, however, and responded by scoring eight straight, on a three-pointer by Andrews and two buckets by Paesani, to resume the lead at 37-30. They led by a 42-34 margin at the end of the quarter.

The closest the Campers would get in the final period was five points, 51-46, as they were forced to foul, and Price and DiSimone each converted free throws to extend the Ram lead.

Pacing the Campers in scoring were Rob Stansbury and Nathan Simpson with 11 points each.

It was the 12th straight victory at home for Coach Tom Bosley and the Rams.

The Southern junior varsity also had a big night by knocking off the previously undefeated Allegany jayvees, 38-16, in the preliminary game. Ryan Ewing and Jamie Bosley led the Rams (5-2) in scoring with 10 and eight points, respectively, while Ryan Rebuck, Paul Becker, and Andy Clark each scored five for Alco (8-1).

The Rams, currently ranked as the number-one team in the area and sitting alone at the top of the WMIL standings, will have a big test this Saturday when they host Tucker County in a 7:30 p.m. game. They will travel to Bishop Walsh next Tuesday.

NHS Girls Rebound By Beating Salisbury Twice, Beall Once

Northern High School's girls broke a 7-game losing streak on the basketball court by taking on and taking down all three of its opponents this week. The streak gives the Huskies a 4-7 record heading into a visit to Hancock tomorrow night, and Monday and Wednesday night home games versus Fort Hill and Flintstone, respectively.

Last week's action kicked off as the Huskies hosted Salisbury on Wednesday night (no report was available as of last week's press run), and they sent their guests packing 43-35. Northern trailed by a 12-6 margin at the end of the first quarter, but they outscored Salisbury 14-3 in the second quarter to go up by 5 at the half on the way to the 8-point victory.

The dynamic sister duo of junior guard Heidi Frazee and her freshman forward sibling Bridget combined for over half of Northern's point production. The elder Frazee hit for 21 points, along with 12 assists, and the younger Frazee scored 10 points and took down 15 rebounds. The pair's quick reflexes caught the opponents off guard all night long as they recorded amazing steal totals—Heidi took the ball away 11 times and Bridget stole the ball 10 times.

Salisbury was paced by Andrea Deal's 11 points.

The Huskies mushed their way through the snow to Frostburg Monday night, where they annihilated Beall by nearly a 2-1 margin, 51-26. Taking the reins from the opening buzzer to go up 14-2 by the end of the first quarter, the Huskies kept on the heat and kept pulling away, leaving the Mountaineers far behind on the trail.

Junior guard Mimi Harvey paced the Huskies with 11 points, Bridget Frazee scored 10 points while nabbing 7 rebounds, and junior guards Heather Nugent and Jen Murray accounted for 8 points apiece.

Angel Spataro led all scorers with 12 points for the hosts, and Cheri Simmons added 6 points and 10

Rams Watch Victory Slip Away To Falcons In Fourth Quarter

A 17-10 fourth quarter run put the Frankfort Falcons over Southern High School's girls' basketball team by 5 points, 55-50, in Oakland last night. The Rams' record stands at 5-6 following the loss.

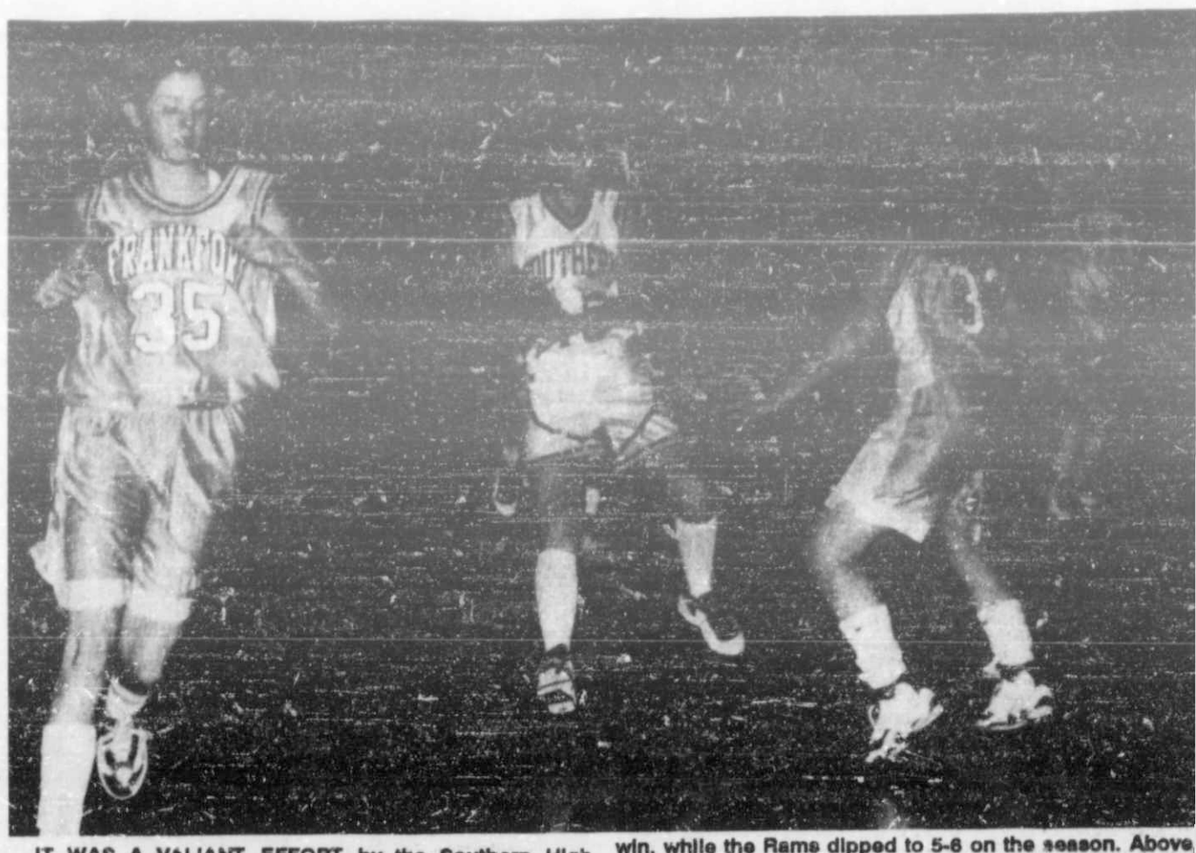
Southern led at every buzzer but the final one. The Rams held a 16-11 lead after one quarter, a 26-21 lead at the half, and were ahead by 40-38 at the opening of the final stanza.

The lead see-sawed for the lion's share of the fourth quarter until Frankfort took a 3-point lead with just over two minutes to go. Southern was forced to foul, and the Falcons scored all of their remaining points from the charity stripe.

The Rams were paced by freshman Ashley Lilier's 19 points, which tied her for game-high honors. She was aided by 12 points and 9 rebounds by sophomore Charlena Reeves, and 8 points and a team-high 11 rebounds by Jessica Saturday, a senior.

Frankfort's Julie Inge scored 19 points, and Reanna Trenter had 14 points.

The Rams kick off a four-game road trip tomorrow night as they travel to Keyser, then to Beall for a Monday night match-up, and then go off to Allegany Wednesday night. The road series will conclude with a Wednesday, Jan. 27, visit to Northern for county bragging rights.



IT WAS A VALIANT EFFORT by the Southern High School girls' varsity last night against Frankfort, the area's fourth ranked team, but after leading through most of the game, the Rams saw victory slip through their fingers in the final period. The Falcons returned home with a 55-50 win, while the Rams dipped to 5-6 on the season. Above, Southern's Laura Friend maintains possession of the ball while teammate Charlena Reeves (#51) awaits a pass. Below left, Ashley Lilier puts a move on a Falcon defender on her way into the lane. Below right, Jessica Saturday puts up a shot and Jennifer Teagarden stands ready for a rebound. The Rams will play again this Friday night at Keyser. Photos by John McEwen.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Winter has finally settled into Garrett County and allowed frustrated cold weather enthusiasts the chance to pursue their sports. Ice fishermen now have the thickness to get out on the lakes. One report has it that Herschel Rugg of Confluence, Pa., "iced" a largemouth bass of 7 pounds, 6 ounces out of Deep Creek Lake. Now that's a big bass. Other hardy tipsters are also having some nice success on Deep Creek with impressive catches of bass and walleyes. Perch and panfish have been hitting minnows and maggot-tipped jigs.

The ice is safest in the coves, with thickness being reported of from 7 to 10 inches. The main body of Deep Creek isn't as thick, and fishermen should exercise extreme caution particularly if the weather warms a bit.

The Yough Reservoir has also been yielding some nice walleye. If you haven't seen Yough Lake recently, you owe yourself a drive to see it in its low-water state. The old bridge in the long submerged town of Somerfield stands exposed in stark contrast to the Route 40 crossing built in 1943. Some concerned anglers are raising questions as to how this extremely low water situation is going to affect long-term fishing on the Yough Lake. One theory is that the restricted water area will concentrate the fish population and predators at the top of the food chain will do just fine. The concern is for the supply of forage fish and young game fish that may be impacted severely by the larger of the species. Will the game fish population suffer down the road?

Some interesting notes on the current state of Yough Lake are that the lake is at its third lowest level ever. The only years when the level was lower were 1954 and 1957. The last time that it was close to its current level was in 1991; but, it is 6 feet lower now than it was then. The levels will certainly be rising now with the recent rainfall in the watershed and the melting of the snow cover.

If you are going to see it, take a camera; there are great photo opportunities, particularly in the snow.

TROUT FISHERMEN STILL AT IT

The recent cold weather hasn't shut off trout fishing in local rivers with the North Branch, Savage, and Yough still accessible. Harold Harsh of Spring Creek Outfitters suggests that fly-fishermen fish deep and slow. Some patterns that should produce are bead-headed nymphs and big streamers. The key is deep and slow.

The Yough Chapter of Trout Unlimited is holding its monthly meeting on the 13th at 7 p.m. in the County Commissioners' Room of the Garrett County Courthouse. Ken Pavol is scheduled to speak on recent accomplishments of the DNR in western Maryland.

Both rod building and fly-tying classes are planned for the first week of February at Spring Creek Outfitters. Call the shop for details (301-387-2034).

WHITETAIL RECORD?

Big Ed Wetzel, summer resident of Garrett County wintering in Naples, Fla., sent a clipping from the Naples Daily News that reported a 36-point buck taken in Telfair County, Ga., on Thanksgiving Day. Estimates are that the deer was approximately 5 years old; but only weighed in at 170 pounds.

While on the subject of trophy-size whitetail deer, Safari Press Inc. has published a new volume by Gordon Whittington titled World Record Whitetails, A Complete History of the Number One Bucks of All Time. The book claims to chronicle the greatest trophies ever recorded in their categories. Included are photos taken in the field and the stories that are a part of the lore of whitetail history. The 246-page book has a suggested retail price of $39.95, contains over 100 photos, and is available from Safari Press (714-894-9080) or through your local bookstore.

ARCHERY LEAGUES KICK OFF WINTER SEASON

Both the D & B Sports Shop and Appalachian Mountain Crafts indoor archery leagues began their competition this past week. Any teams looking to shoot but not yet signed up may be able to get in if the shops are contacted quickly. D & B teams are made up of three shooters, and AMC teams need four.

D & B's Dan Milavec reported that the top shooter for the opening night was Terry Lucas, scoring a 210 out of a possible 240. No scores yet from AMC.

Arsenal Teams Competitive In Erie Tournament

Garrett County's Arsenal Football (soccer) teams competed at the prestigious Crunch Classic Indoor Soccer Tournament in Erie, Pa., over the Christmas holidays. Three of the club's six teams made the journey — the under-19 boys, under-16 boys, and under-16 girls.

According to Arsenal director/coach Mel Menker, the teams had the opportunity to compete against some of the best teams in the nation from Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York. "Though we did not win any of our matches, there were some games in which we were very competitive with higher level opponents," Menker said.

Goals were scored by Brittany Naylor, Andrew Grant (3), Jacob Snodgrass, and Brandon Heselbach. Assists were provided by Andy Rounds and Jennifer Hickman.

Bo Jonson made 29 saves during the two games he started as goalkeeper. Chris Menker made 30 saves in the two games in which he played keeper. Brandon Heselbach made 27 stops in his two games minding the net. Becky Martin had 38 stops, while Bonnie Riley made 6 in the girls' three games.

The players making the trip were (in alphabetical order): Steve Allison, Riff Browning, Megan Burner, Brian Cathell, Daniel Cathell, Jennifer Filsinger, David Glotfelty, Nick Glotfelty, Andrew Grant, Brandon Heselbach, Jennifer Hickman, Bo Jonson, Becky Martin, Chris Menker, Brittany Naylor, Brian Oxford, Kristen Oxford, Chris Remley, Bonnie Riley, Andy Rounds, Dustin Slider, Jacob Snodgrass, Falon Stutzman, Sarah Teets, Alison Ulino, and Ricky Vecchioni.

The next action for Arsenal will be this weekend as the club fields 10 small-sided teams for the Bridgeport, W.Va., Indoor Soccer Tournament.

No Extended Deer Firearms Season Slated

There will be no special two-day extension of the deer firearms season this year, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

"In the past, the special extended season has been used as a management tool to decrease the female deer population in areas of the state with high or rapidly growing deer populations," DNR Secretary John R. Griffin said. "We will evaluate the impact of this year's expanded bag limits before determining if this management tool will be necessary in the future."

Preliminary harvest information from the firearms season indicates a 10 percent increase in the number of deer taken by hunters. Final harvest totals, including the bow and muzzleloader seasons, will be available from DNR in March.

The Huskies' junior varsity squad defeated its opponents 29-20 behind 13 points by Emily Rawe. Jessica Conway scored an even 10 points for Beall.

Last night's road trip for a Salisbury rematch continued the Huskies' winning streak in a big way, 50-27. Northern, up by a 7-4 margin at the opening of the second quarter, built its lead to 27-10 at the half and 38-23 at the end of the third stanza.

Heidi Frazee put together a fine performance in scoring 22 points and pulling down 10 rebounds, along with collecting 6 steals. Nugent played a great all-around game as well, scoring 16 points, dishing out 7 assists, and taking the ball away via steals 4 times, while Bridget Frazee recorded 12 rebounds.

Megan Lishia paced Salisbury with 14 points.

To the Editor:

There were so many items in your Republican this week of great interest for those of us committed to learning all our lives. There were three items which were of great interest to me. Your editorial "A Poor Solution," the Sky-Valley exit to Route 495, and the Friendsville news letter paragraph concerning patronage of the Garrett Medical Group Friendsville office.

Your editorial is exceptionally good. I applaud you for calling it as it is. I know that's not the usual Garrett County way very often! The "gloss" over of stated facts (?) almost "blinds" one at times, while the whole truth would shock many of us! Keep up your sincere effort of aiding and abetting our decent, beautiful Garrett County, and we would hope there could very soon be a climate in our country when we could all feel good again about our country and where we could live in a decent, practical, reality-based environment.

The Sky-Valley exit to Route 495 Bittinger Road has been a problem from day one! I have habitually traveled that road hundreds of times in our 58 years of home ownership in the general area. Where were the qualifications of the engineers who had to be involved, the inspectors, and anybody in the bureaucracy that OK'd thousands of our tax dollars in such a mess?

We have almost the same mess at Rte. 42 and Blooming Rose Road. At least here we have a small "danger ahead" sign not very far away to alert the speeders! Why in the world hasn't at least such a sign been put up on Rte. 495 Bittinger Road? Surely enough Sky Valley owners could have gotten together with their "pull" in other areas here to have accomplished that, if nothing else.

Since Garrett County is considered such a religious area, I wonder about a lot of things which are far from what one could expect if it were a truly Christian community. One excellent example is how our mentally ill are treated. They are so neglected and discriminated against here! Why can't anyone here get more than 5 to 12 people out to work and plan and produce on a regular basis for any of our mentally ill? It there's a big meal and more or less of a social time, you can get a few more, but not to work on serious issues or learn concerning mental illness to try to lift the stigma an inch or two and try to face reality and really do something to help our mentally ill move forward rather than backward, as we have been doing for some time.

I was speechless when before the past election I read an endorsement letter in The Republican for a certain individual. I have been trying for months to get at least one letter or article sent to The Republican via our core service sub-committee in order to begin the process of enlightening, informing, or whatever for the general public. It has not been done! I find that very strange, queer, and abhorrent. A definite affront to our mentally ill population, and population is what they are.

My third item is in relation to our Garrett Medical Group Friendsville office, which is an excellent medical facility. I have been going to the medical center as I need to and when it was a family medical center sometime ago and now under somewhat different management, but your medical care is still excellent! Jackie Snelson is superior in her nurse practitioner capacity, as well as administratively. Dr. Schwalm is there on a regular scheduled basis and he is an excellent M.D.

I am not only urging new patients to come to this medical facility, but I encourage every one in the surrounding areas who really want good medical attention to come. To those who came from nearby Pa. and W.Va. who had to stop when their medical cards were no longer being accepted, or if it were, the period of no M.D. or a new one every week or so or for whatever reason, please come on back! The medical center has to have so many patients to survive.

The stupid bureaucratic mistakes made in two instances were inexcusable (Dr. Burkett's absence and not accepting medical cards); and we all have suffered tremendously because of it. Many people have worked very hard to get our medical center back. Please help keep it here! Please patronize it.

This is my opinion.

Thanking you,
Louise V. Harvey
Friendsville

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Humane Society Inc. is in desperate financial need, as 1998 was probably the worst year we have had in many years for medical bills.

We are in debt $2,300 to local veterinarians for medical care for animals hit by cars, dragged by cars, chains grown in necks, full of parasites (sometimes as many as three different kinds), amputations, infected ears from ear mites, distemper, ring worm, feline leukemia, and some from near starvation and nearly frozen.

We have also had to provide shelter — houses on loan — to people who do not seem to know how to care for animals. We have had to take so many animals we are overwhelmed. Our foster homes are full and members have taken in additional animals to prevent euthanasia.

We have also paid fees for getting animals out of the animal shelter to caring homes. Our people at the animal shelter check this out.

This past year we have been fortunate to have the county commissioners, their staff, and the staff at General Services working with us. It truly makes a difference.

When an animal is suffering we cannot refuse to help, but when we do not have the money, there is nothing we can do.

The veterinarians are very kind to us, but they also need to be paid. They donate time, but their supplies need to be paid for. They cannot donate everything. Last January a little dog was abandoned at a local restaurant in Oakland. One of our local veterinarians took the little dog in. Two days later she gave birth to seven puppies. Can you imagine what would have happened if these people would not have helped? They would have frozen or starved. All have been adopted but three, and they are in a caring foster home — still up for adoption.

We are very grateful to all the caring persons who have donated to us in the past, and we would truly appreciate any amount you can possibly send in our desperate time of need.

I wish people could see the look in the eyes of the sick, wounded, and abandoned animals when they are being cared for. No matter how bad off they are, they try to wag their tails and whimper a "thank you." I even had a little dog crawl on her stomach to get to me because she knew I would help her. She was unable to walk. (That one is still with me and always will be). She is now 17 years old.

Many nights after I have been out on a call I cannot sleep, and our other investigative officers say the same.

Thank God we have the Garrett County deputies and sheriff and the Maryland state troopers, and Oakland town police to help us. As I have stated before, we would never make it without them.

Anyone wanting to make a donation to help us in our need may send tax deductible contributions to Garrett County Humane Society Inc., Treasurer, 1124 Mary Drive, Oakland, MD 21550.

Gratefully,
Bernadine Friend
Executive Director
Garrett County Humane Society Inc.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter requested that it be published in this column.

Dear Counsel for Garrett County:

I recently filed a civil law suit under USC 42 §1983 against the Sheriff's Office and some members of his staff for what I believe to be violations of my civil rights. I am now writing you to find out if the county is going to foot the expense of defending these individuals.

I don't believe the citizens of Garrett County should have to carry the burden of defending them. I think the citizens of Garrett County should only have to pay to represent a person who was acting within county or agency guidelines or procedures. My claim clearly shows that the defendants in this civil action acted independently of any and all established guidelines, procedures, directives, rules, regulations, etc. For this reason, I believe that each defendant should be responsible for footing his own legal fees surrounding this case.

If by some chance one or all of them would be exonerated, then I think it would then be proper for them to be reimbursed.

By the county paying these legal expenses, it gives these individuals carte blanche to do as they please, without having to worry about the consequences. I'm sure that the county guidelines for this type of representation do not include the representation of persons being sued for abusing the power given them when they are clearly acting outside established guidelines and policies of the county.

I would like to know if you would send me a copy of the policy, guidelines, etc., that establishes for whom, and under what conditions the county will pay for an employee's legal representation in a civil suit of this kind. Also, could you send a copy of the procedures used to release funds for the purpose of legal representation in these types of civil actions?

I will deeply appreciate your time and consideration of this issue. I am looking forward to your speedy reply.

Sincerely,
Joseph R. Kisselovich

Mikulski Names Rosvold As New Western Md. Rep

Senator Barbara A. Mikulski (D-MD) announced recently that Eva Rosvold has been named as her new western Maryland representative, based in Hagerstown. Ms. Rosvold replaces Jennifer Maust, who has held the position for three years.

Rosvold will serve as Senator Mikulski's liaison to western Maryland elected officials and constituent groups; represent the senator at meetings and events in the region; assist with local projects; and handle constituent inquiries and requests.

Rosvold joined the senator's Washington, D.C., staff in August 1997 as the press assistant and was later promoted to deputy press secretary. She holds a bachelor's degree in history from Towson State University, and is familiar with western Maryland, having grown up in Frederick County.

"I am pleased to have Eva Rosvold as my new representative in western Maryland," Mikulski said. "She is a tireless worker and will be an effective advocate for the people of western Maryland."

sponsibility of providing information to existing and prospective businesses, assisting and coordinating financial and training assistance, helping with business plan development, and locating potential buildings and/or real estate.

These services have been utilized by several local businesses, Hinebaugh reported, including the new Burger King in Oakland, Phenix Technologies, FCSI, Garrett Mine Service, Hobby House Press, TDEC, and several others. The assistance given to each business varied, from helping the owners get in contact with the proper people for specific problem resolution to offering hiring incentive grants.

Because of this close contact relationship the economic office has with these businesses, Hinebaugh said common problems arise repeatedly.

"While we have a great workforce here, we also have a great lack of basic skills needed for the higher technology jobs," he said. Hinebaugh noted that Phenix Technologies and FCSI, both computer technology companies, are growing and are looking for new hires. However, because those who are looking for jobs in the county are often not skilled in basic technology, he said the companies are having to resort to seeking people from outside the area.

"About 80% of new jobs created over the next 10 years will be information/technology related jobs," Hinebaugh said. "That means we have to focus now on our schools. Our children need to be taught the skills they are going to need to get a good job."

Other obstacles in developing and maintaining businesses in the county involve the lack of available funding for small businesses, the small representation at the state level as a result of a small population, and a lack of infrastructure and available facilities for prospective businesses.

Hinebaugh noted that the Maryland Department of Economic Development (DBED) does not have assisting programs for small businesses. However, 80% of the new jobs created each year in the county are positions in companies with 19 or fewer employees. Only 15% of new small businesses survive, with the remaining 85% failing because of lack of money or poor business management skills.

Despite these obstacles, Hinebaugh's office is moving aggressively in better preparing the county to maintain established businesses and to be an inviting locale for companies looking for a home. The industrial parks have been the focus of the office for some years, with the goals for those areas including public water system construction, the expansion of existing facilities, and the acquisition of more land.

"We have a company now seriously considering the Northern Industrial Park," Hinebaugh reported. "The park is in an excellent location, and this business wants to hire 100 people at the outset, with the possibility of 300 eventually. But — there is no public water system there. They can't come here until that problem is solved."

Hinebaugh said his office has worked extensively toward having a system constructed, and apparently the obstacles have been overcome and construction will be started in the spring on a system.

The Southern Industrial Park is "basically fully developed," Hinebaugh said, but expansion plans are in the works. There are 104 acres now available for growth at the site, and this property is to be developed this spring.

Among the positive items reported, Hinebaugh noted that the Garrett Rural Information Center, or GRIC, currently has 4,000 subscribers, significantly increased since last year. He also reported that the Garrett Information Enterprises Center, a planned 20,000 square foot building to house a "new business incubator" on the property of Garrett Community College, is on track for construction this year.

"We've had several calls from people interested in the incubator," he said.

The relationship of the county to the state and federal agencies has improved, Hinebaugh said, with the local area receiving unprecedented support. Over a million dollars was given in state grants last year, he reported, and between projects and loans given by the state and federal groups all together, the county received over $9 million.

He said his office is working to improve its services, and hopes to be more public about its endeavors and accomplishments.

"We get so busy on these things, we just don't get the word out like we should," he said. He did note, however, that his office's response time to inquiries has increased significantly.

"If we get a call in the morning from a company just asking for some information, we get the packet out that day by express mail. We've had a lot of positive comments from business people about that," he said.

Hinebaugh said the county learned several lessons through the closing of B&L, such as not taking existing businesses for granted and the importance of diversifying the county's business base. While Hinebaugh said large companies are in no way discouraged from locating here, he would rather see numerous smaller companies come in.

"We learned to not put all our eggs in one basket," he said.

Hinebaugh reported that there has been an overall business growth in the county over the last year, and in order to stay with that trend, he said the county must continue to improve the industrial parks, improve the highway network, add railroad access to the parks, expand the airport, identify and develop communications needs, start a shell building program, and develop supporting capital budget monies.

"There is no 'silver bullet' solution to the problems we face in economic development," Hinebaugh said. "It is a multi-faceted issue. We've put a lot of effort into laying the groundwork for development, even though it might not be apparent to the public. Progress is slow, but we are definitely making progress."

Hinebaugh said citizens are cordially invited to visit his office in the Garrett County Courthouse and discuss the update issues or any other economic development concerns.

Q. My 6 3/4-inch cigar humidor is made out of painted glass and is marked "Wave Crest." It's off-white and decorated with flowers and leaves. A sponge can be placed in the lid to humidify the cigars inside. How old is it, and who made it?

A. Cigar humidors are collectible no matter who made them.

You have a Victorian art glass treasure manufactured by the C.F. Monroe Glass Co. of Meriden, Conn. It is worth about $1,000.

Monroe made Wave Crest ware from 1892 until sometime before it closed in 1916. It bought glass banks from other companies, including Mt. Washington-Pairpoint. Monroe hired talented artists to paint the glass.

Q. I recently purchased what I thought was an ironstone china-covered butter dish. Now my mother tells me what I bought was a soap dish. Who's right?

A. Butter dishes are square or round, not rectangular. They have medium to high domed lids. Homemade butter was shaped into a round mold, and the dishes were made to fit the mold.

Soap dishes are either oblong or oval to match the shape of a bar of soap. They have lids that are just slightly raised.

We once thought the number of holes in the dish's liner was a clue, but it's not. Both butter dishes and soap dishes can have liners with one or several holes.

Those are a few guidelines to help you, but understand that there might be a few exceptions to the rules.

CRAFTY SOLUTION – Among my hobbies is one shared by many these days – the making of pretty country-style wreaths and other such decorations.

There are times when thin wire is needed to attach flowers or ornaments. A while back, I was out of craft wire in the middle of a project and discovered I didn't need to purchase more after all.

My solution: the tie wrap that comes on celery and other grocery items. I simply peeled off the paper from the wire and had ample thin, strong wire to finish my project. I hope this "discovery" will be a help to others. It not only recycles a readily available resource, it also helps the hobby budget. Cheryl F. Bensalem, Pa.

EASY MEMO – One day while cleaning off my refrigerator, I didn't like the cluttered look of magnets and notes. I needed another way to keep up with my appointments and notes.

I had a gingerbread-man-shaped cookie sheet, hung it on the wall in a bare space and now use it for a memo board. My refrigerator looks nicer with just the magnets. Liz T., Ashdown, Ark.

MARGARET BOURKE-WHITE: CAPTURING THE WORLD ON FILM

After 21 Life magazine covers, six books and a photogallery of history's most recognizable faces, Margaret Bourke-White made an unmistakable mark on world news before TV and satellites. This early feminist spent her childhood in a home bursting with books and her father's gadgets. Joseph White, an amateur photographer, also introduced her to the camera.

Bourke-White, featured in February's Biography magazine, grew up wanting "to do all the things that women never do." In college, she met Everett "Chappie" Chapman. The two spent hours shooting and developing photos for the school newspaper. In 1924, they married. After two years of Bourke-White's catering to Chappie, they divorced. She vowed never to place her ambition second to a man's needs.

One morning, she noticed a preacher converting a congregation of pigeons. She raced to a nearby photo store, coaxed a loaner and shot her first powerful photo. Others followed – inside steel mills, as the first correspondent to visit Russia, documenting America's Dust Bowl victims. She collaborated with "Tobacco Road" author Erskine Caldwell on a book on Southern tenant farmers. Amid poverty, lynchings and chain gangs, sparks flew. The two married, going to Moscow to cover the war. When foreigners were expelled, she convinced officials to let her stay, becoming the only foreign photojournalist to capture Moscow's bombing and Stalin.

She covered the war in other arenas as well. Caldwell cabled for divorce. While being bombed and shot at, Bourke-White had a string of lovers, including Major Papurt, whom she planned to marry until he was killed. She drowned her sorrow documenting the Holocaust. After the war, Bourke-White took powerful photos of Ghandi, South African diamond miners, Korean guerrillas.

But in 1952, Parkinson's Disease slowed her. She tenaciously tackled her affliction for over 20 years, having lovers, entertaining aspiring photojournalists and writing her autobiography. She left behind a prolific legacy.

Center for the Healing Arts

Mary Finnell, L.M.T., N.D.

The Center for the Healing Arts offers services in holistic health care by appointment for the integration of body, mind, and spirit. Mary Finnell, L.M.T., N.D., opened her Deep Creek office one month ago, but has been practicing from her Morgantown, W.Va., office for five years.

With 11 years of business background, Finnell has completed programs at Florida Institute of Natural Health, Kripalu Center for Yoga & Health, and School of Natural Medicine in Bolder, Co.; studies in intuition and energy medicine with Carolyn Myss; study and teaching of polarity, therapeutic touch, reflexology, and iridology; and has been on the faculty of Garrett Community College teaching professional massage therapy for the last three years. She also teaches healing arts to the lay public and practitioners in the form of classes and workshops.

Finnell offers an approach to health care that is educational and self-empowering. Finnell says, "I teach people to fish rather than give them a fish, so to speak. They learn to heal."

An herbal pharmacy is also located in her studio at Deep Creek Lake, supplying all formulas to both her offices and by mail order to long-distance patients.

Finnell said most of her patients and clients call because they want an alternative to the drugs and surgery of allopathic medicine, or because conventional medicine has not helped them.

"I feel interest will grow in natural healing as people wish to be more empowered in their health choices and aware of the self-healing process. Holistic approaches to natural healing prevent unnecessary operations, degeneration and chronic pain," she said.

For an appointment or more information, interested persons may call Finnell's Deep Creek office at 301-387-7602.

GCHS History Of Fund-Raising One Of Success

The Garrett County Historical Society has benefited over the years from the hard work and dedication of its members and the community at large. Evidence of the success of these efforts can be seen through examination of the efforts of the Society's fund-raising committee, whose various members have represented a cross-section of county citizens interested in the preservation and dissemination of local history.

During 1995, the Society's officers, board, members and other interested citizens began searching for a new building to house its headquarters and museum. There no longer was adequate space at its Center Street location to display the artifacts and to accommodate the increased interest in research and genealogy at that location. After exploring several possibilities, a fund-raising committee was appointed to begin raising funds to either purchase or build a larger facility.

In December 1996, the Society purchased the Professional Building in downtown Oakland for $150,000, with a down payment of $10,000 and a mortgage for the balance. In April of 1997, the old building was sold to Jane Avery for the Our Town Theatre. After closing costs the net proceeds of $50,795 were applied to the mortgage. The committee began in earnest to hold fund-raising activities to retire the building debt and by the end of that year had reduced it to $69,000.

Efforts continued unabated throughout 1998. A letter and phone solicitation of the members of the Society raised over $11,000 over the course of the year. A bequest of $20,500 from the Ruth Calderwood estate was also applied to the mortgage. The committee continued to sponsor Bingo games, raffles, dinners, and a Victorian house tour, and solicited donations, memorials and contributions from businesses and other civic organizations to raise funds. A book, Ghost Towns of the Upper Potomac, was published and sold to raise funds as well. After replacing costs of publication, the sale of the book raised more than $6,000. As of December 31 the building debt had been reduced to $8,000.

Last year the fund-raising committee also took on the project of restoration of the windows in the building. Bill Clary and his crew contracted to scrape and reglaze the salvageable windows and replace broken window glass and missing storm windows. They also painted the windows inside and out and washed all 49 of the buildings windows as well. Clary's crew also removed, cleaned and replaced the air conditioners and painted the stairwell and hallway on the second floor.

To help pay for this work an application for a grant of $5,000 was submitted to Preservation Maryland. An award of $2,000 was received, requiring a match of the same amount, which was met by the Society. A request to the county commissioners for assistance with this project netted $3,500, and the committee raised the remaining $2,900 to pay the cost of $10,400.

The committee consisted of Terry Helbig, chairman, Dorothy Cathell, secretary and Martha Kahl, treasurer. Others who served on the committee at various times or assisted with special fund-raisers or provided advice were Dolores and Willard Hayden, Dotty Leighton, Oakland mayor Asa McCain, Ken Hardesty, Randall Kahl, Gary Fitzwater, Barbara Boone, Lewis Jones, Hal Forsyth, Betsy Gergoff, Ernie Gregg, and Matt Novak.

The members of the outgoing fund-raising committee expressed their gratitude to Edie Browning, who donated her painting of Mitchell's barn, Bob Burrell for his stained glass window hangings, and Mary Walbert and Carolyn Marley for hand-crocheted afghans she donated for raffle items. Also, a special thanks was expressed to all the businesses and individuals who contributed items for an auction, and to Historical Society members and members of the community at large who made monetary donations and memorials.

A new fund-raising committee has been named for 1999 to raise the funds needed to extinguish the remaining building debt. When this debt has been retired, other special projects, including building modifications to enhance safety and make better use of space, will be addressed.

Persons interested in making a donation to the Historical Society may do so by sending a check to the GCHS at 107 South Second Street, Oakland, MD 21550.

MUSEUM CLOSING IN ON DOTTED LINE - The mortgage on the Garrett County Historical Society Museum and headquarters building, located on South Second Street in Oakland, is within $8,000 of being fully paid off. Hard work by the Society, spearheaded by a number of individuals who have served on and assisted with the organization's fund-raising committee, has resulted in this lofty goal coming within the Society's reach in just over two years since the building was purchased. Yet the impending retirement of the building debt does not mean retirement of the Society's fund-raising efforts, however, as monies are still needed to pay for building modifications that will enhance safety and provide better use of space, among other projects. As the end of the millennium approaches, not to mention the end of a tax filing period, persons interested in contributing to the Historical Society's efforts at preserving our local history for the education and enjoyment of future generations of Garrett Countians are reminded that donations to the 501(c)3 organization are tax-deductible.

land All-State Orchestra, which will perform next month in Baltimore.

She has also been selected to the All-Eastern Honor Orchestra, sponsored by the Music Educators National Conference every other year during its regional convention. To be nominated for this orchestra, a student must have been in his or her state's All-State program the previous year and the current year; selections for the orchestra are then made from the ranks of nominees from each of the 12 states in the region.

February will also mark Stewart's performance in Carnegie Hall in New York City under the direction of Maestro Benjamin Zander, where she and the orchestra will perform Mahler's Symphony No. 5. As an added feature, Maestro Kurt Masur, conductor and music director of the New York Philharmonic, will conduct the orchestra through a reading of Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet Overture.

Stewart continues to perform with the Pittsburgh Youth Symphony Orchestra and the Southern High School Concert Band. Plans are being made for a spring recital in Oakland that will feature Stewart in performance with a group of musicians from West Virginia University.

ELIZABETH

Rated R - Running time: 2:04

The reign of Elizabeth I of England, from 1558 to 1603, is a fascinating story, full of the kind of intrigue scriptwriters always attempt to create. The daughter of King Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn, sister to "Bloody Mary" and one of the most famous independent women in history, Elizabeth ruled for 45 years without ever marrying, despite constant advances by suitors from various European countries and the fact that it was considered every monarch's duty to provide heirs to the throne. But, her lack of offspring notwithstanding, Elizabeth's reign has been referred to as a "golden age" of England thanks to her many wise decisions and her uncanny talent at preventing conflict between the usually antagonistic European nations.

Elizabeth, a film written by Michael Hirst and directed by Shekhar Kapur, chronicles the events leading up to Liz I's accession and the beginning of her reign, when it was still quite unclear whether she would survive the appointment. Unfortunately, though accoutered with beautiful production values and excellent acting, Kapur's Elizabeth drains much life out of this interesting story, resulting in a dark, ponderous saga that crawls at times. Moreover, Hirst's script crams many important events of Liz's life into the film even though it is intended only to capture her first few years on the throne.

Cate Blanchett (Oscar And Lucinda) does a fine job as the independent monarch, not only resembling her physically but putting true emotion and lifeblood into this much-lectured-about historical figure. Her relationship with Lord Robert Dudley (Joseph Fiennes, Shakespeare In Love), a gentleman of the court with whom Elizabeth had the closest thing to a romantic affair, is properly obscured by Kapur; we see that they care deeply for each other but the idea of sex is only hinted at.

Other standout performances are by Oscar winner Geoffrey Rush (Shine) as Sir Francis Walsingham, Elizabeth's sinister ally; Fanny Ardant as Mary of Guise, the war-happy French regent; and Christopher Eccleston as the Duke of Norfolk, the courtier who plots against Liz throughout the film.

As the short but tumultuous reign of "Bloody" Mary I (Kathy Burke) comes to an end, the dying queen makes a reconciliation of sorts with her half-sister, Elizabeth. However, Protestant Liz (Blanchett) does not agree to continue Mary's allegiance with the Catholic church. Mary's low approval rating came from her making toast out of hundreds of Protestants, as is vividly depicted in the opening scene where three such "heretics" burn at the stake.

After Elizabeth is crowned, the gang-suiting begins, since no one thinks she can do her job without some testosterone in the house. Prince Phillip of Spain is the primary candidate, but since the Engiish people detest the idea of a Spanish ruler, she balks. Another choice is France's Duc d'Anjou (Vincent Cassel), who actually shows up in person. But when Liz finds him wearing a dress, she decides marrying him would mean sharing her wardrobe. She can't marry Dudley, so she dismays everyone by opting for the life of a bachelorette. And surprise, surprise--it turns out she can make informed decisions after all.

This film will probably be nominated for an Oscar for best costume design; Alexandra Byrne's impeccable stylings have already been nominated once for Hamlet (1996). As is usual with period dramas, the music (by David Hirschfelder) and production design (by John Myhre) are also very effective and noteworthy. The feel of 16th-century Europe is captured; the mood is right. But Hirst's fiddling with the facts may annoy history buffs, and Kapur's dark interpretation may turn off some mainstream moviegoers. ★★★★

Garrett Notes Record Number In Bird Count

BARN OWL

The results from the 99th annual National Audubon Society Christmas Bird Count (CBC) have been released, and Garrett County noted its highest specie total to date. Held on December 19, the count in Garrett County was compiled by groups of volunteers, working both in the field and at home feeders, and totaled 8,523 individual birds.

The team of field observers, composed of Kevin Dodge, Ken Bauer, Denise Bee, Courtney Englar, George and Barbara Gaffney, Sheila Hughes, Jeff Opel, Bill and Fran Pope, Bob Ringler, Judy Sconyers, Connie Skipper, and Debbie Terry, spent a total of 61 hours — 31 on foot and 30 in cars — scouring the countryside for birds. They traveled 349 miles — 22 on foot and 327 by car — in search of and counting birds.

The team members watching and tracking visitors to bird feeders included Dessie Bowman, Harold and Frances Hoecker, Edith Jack, Cheryl Newcomb, Jesse and Barbara Skipper, Kathryn Speicher, Sallie Thayer, and Glenn Welch. The group logged in 30.5 hours of observation.

This year's species total was 73, the highest number ever in the Garrett County Christmas Count circle (the geographic area designated for the event). "The weather was very cooperative with a low of 22 degrees F, high of 40 degrees F, and little wind. It was a pleasure to be out and about that day," said count coordinator Connie Skipper.

Waterfowl were abundant on December 19. Five parties covered Deep Creek Lake and did a "thorough job of it," Skipper noted. Green-winged teal, gadwall, ring-necked duck, lesser scaup, hooded merganser, ruddy duck, and American coot were all present in exceptionally high numbers, she stated.

"Because of our mild fall, we had some species hang on that would normally have migrated to escape our harsh winters," Skipper explained. These included the following species: killdeer, eastern towhee, hermit thrush, American robin, and cedar waxwing. Red-bellied woodpeckers and Carolina wrens, both more southern species, seem to be doing well.

Skipper noted an unusual addition to this year's count. "Probably the best bird of the count was a barn owl spotted by Judy Sconyers and Ken Bauer, the first ever on a CBC," she said. Skipper also noted that the oldsquaw, spotted by Jeff Opel, was "a very good bird," because it has only been recorded on two previous CBCs.

Once again an adult bald eagle was spotted. Glenn Welch, a first-time feeder watcher, saw and photographed an eastern screech owl in a tree by his house. "We were fortunate to have two excellent birders from downstate help us out this year — Bob Ringler and Debbie Terry," Skipper concluded.

The top ten birds in terms of numbers are as follows:

1. American coot — 2,590
2. Mallard — 988
3. Canada goose — 798
4. American crow — 616
5. European starling — 428
6. Slate-colored junco — 392
7. Black-capped chickadee — 369
8. Ring-necked duck — 290
9. Hooded merganser — 239
10. Ruddy duck — 215

Skipper said that each person who participated deserves thanks for making this Christmas Bird Count "such a success." She noted that the 1999 Christmas count has been scheduled for December 18. The Mid-winter Bird Count date is set for February 6, 1999. Anyone wanting more information or to volunteer, may contact Fran Pope, count compiler, at 301-334-4908 or Connie Skipper at 301-387-5227.

County contributed a matching amount and the Federal Emergency Management Agency contributed $15,277. The analysis was completed in March 1998.

"We are very grateful for the funding approved by the Board of Public Works, for this project and many others in the past," said Friendsville Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle. "The funds affect every citizen of our town. These funds have helped the town progress and encourage economic development."

Chaired by Governor Glendening, the Board of Public Works also is composed of Comptroller Robert L. Swann and Treasurer Richard N. Dixon. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions, and other procurement actions.

Attend Hearing

scored the need to keep the zoning process objective.

Though many attending stated grievances with the proposed amendment, some raised possible solutions. "One of the solutions mentioned was the use of a by-pass," McCain stated. The by-pass would mitigate traffic hazards involving emergency vehicles, which could be housed close to an access road, it was suggested.

Control of traffic signals by the emergency vehicles would effectively stop cross traffic. However, it was pointed out that traffic back-ups would result from control of traffic signals by the emergency responder.

The town council elected to table the issue for now and no vote was taken. "We will meet with our attorney and look at all possible aspects of this," McCain stated. The matter will be brought before the council for a vote within a month, he concluded.

Geography Bee Winner Named At Broad Ford

Alex Murray, a fifth grade student at Broad Ford Elementary School, won the school-level competition of the National Geography Bee on Monday and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship. The school-level bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the 11th annual National Geography Bee.

The bee is sponsored by the National Geographic Society and Bank One, which operates more than 1,500 banking centers in 12 states and is the largest credit-card issuer in the nation. This year, Bank One is giving each school that registers for the bee a one-year membership in the National Geographic Society, which includes a subscription to National Geographic magazine.

The kick-off for this year's bee was the week of November 30, with thousands around the United States and in the five U.S. territories participating. The school winners, including Alex Murray, next take a written test, and up to 100 of the top scorers in each state and territory will be eligible to compete in their state bee, April 9.

The National Geographic Society and Bank One will provide an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, D.C., for the state champions and their teacher-escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee national championship on May 25 and 26.

The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship. Alex Trebek, host of "Jeopardy!" will moderate the national finals on May 20. The program will be produced by Maryland Public Television and will air on PBS stations.

Alex is the son of Dan and Arlene Murray, Swanton. He is a student in John Burdock's fifth grade class and participates in the fifth grade talent pool of the School Enrichment Program. The second place winner was Kendra McLaughlin. The school-level competition for the bee was sponsored by the School Enrichment Program at Broad Ford Elementary.

In Memory of our Dad
who passed away on January 16, 1997.

When tomorrow starts without me, and I'm not here to see
If the sun should rise and find your eyes all filled with tears for me.
I wish so much you wouldn't cry the way you did that day
While thinking of the many things we didn't get to say.
I know how much you love me, as much as I love you,
And each time you think of me I know you'll miss me too.
But when tomorrow starts without me, please try to understand,
That an angel came and called my name and took me by the hand
And said my place was ready in Heaven far above,
And that I'd have to leave behind, all those I dearly love,
But as I turned to walk away, a tear fell from my eye,
For all my life I'd always thought I didn't want to die.
I had so much to live for, and so much yet to do,
It seemed almost impossible that I was leaving you.
I thought of all the yesterdays, the good ones and the bad,
I thought of all the love we shared and all the fun we had.
So, when tomorrow starts without me, don't think we're far apart
For every time you think of me, I'm right here in your heart.

Your Girls and Families

Thank You

The members of the Oakland Rotary Club and 99KHJ wish to thank everyone who participated in so many ways with this year's Christmas Project. Businesses who sponsored Christmas giving trees, organizations and individuals who made monetary donations, people who purchased gifts from the giving trees, packed and delivered presents and food baskets county wide all helped to make Christmas a much brighter one for 450 Garrett County families.

Thank each of you for sharing the spirit of Christmas and the gift of giving.

KITZMILLER VFD RECEIVES DONATION — The Agricultural Care and Education (ACE) program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Garrett County Health Department, and Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS) recently donated Little Anne resuscitation mannequins to the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department. Pictured accepting the mannequins from Walter P. Donaldson, president of Garrett Memorial, is Becky DeWitt, EMS lieutenant for the Kitzmiller VFD. "This donation will enable the department to do CPR instruction in our community using our own equipment," DeWitt said. Along with being a volunteer fire department, the Kitzmiller VFD is part of the Emergency Management System (EMS), which was started in 1984. The department consists of 34 people who serve on a volunteer basis and primarily cover the Kitzmiller and Blaine, W.Va., areas. The organization, under the direction of unit captain Rick Armstrong, handles approximately 150 emergency calls per year.

STUDENTS ATTEND CONFERENCE - Students from Northern and Southern middle schools attended a leadership conference at Redland Middle School in Montgomery County recently. The convention, titled "The Quest for Leadership," focused on a medieval theme in King Arthur's court and consisted of four basic workshops: leadership vs. peer pressure; goal setting and time management; communication and public speaking; and parliamentary procedure. In the peer pressure workshop students learned how to resist negative pressure, become independent thinkers, and join groups with positive attitudes. Students learned how to write legislation and use proper parliamentary procedure in other workshop. They also participated in a mock general assembly. Those who attended the conference in the photo above left to right in the first row are Brian Crabtree, Alexis Storey, Scott Pusateri, Heidi Macmillan, Adam DeWitt, Matt Younkin, and Tiffany Yoder. In second row are Kellie Rounds, Steve Rounds, Courtney Resh, Molly Wolf, Amanda Frantz, Valerie Mastej, Matt Lucas, Brandon Louden, and Shawn Shiflett.

USDA Grants, Loans Available To Rural Areas

The United States Department of Agriculture Rural Development has nearly $5 million available in Delaware and Maryland for day care centers, health clinics, police and fire equipment, ambulances, hospitals, and other community facilities, according to USDA Rural Development state director John S. "Jack" Walls.

"This program can be a big help," Walls said, "especially in smaller towns that can't afford services that are really needed, like fire and rescue equipment. One of the best features of the Community Facilities (CF) program is its flexibility. Funds can be used for everything from mental health centers and nursing homes to telecommunications and street maintenance equipment."

USDA Rural Development allotted $2,050,000 for communities in Delaware and $2,863,000 in Maryland. Loans can be made to rural communities of up to 20,000 population and grants can go to towns of up to 20,000 people. Funds can also go to non-profit organizations who in turn provide public services.

Persons interested in the Community Facilities program are invited to call Peter Wesp in Frederick at 301-694-7522, ext. 5.

Other projects that can be funded through the Community Facilities program include: museums, theaters, community centers, senior centers, social service centers, schools, dorms, libraries, court houses and other public buildings, fire stations, rehabilitation centers, sheltered workshops, group homes, visiting nurses, home health providers, physician buildings, major health equipment, buses and senior vans, airport hangars, railway spurs, and the construction and repair of streets and sidewalks.

New Dimensions Program Accepting New Participants

The New Dimensions Program sponsored by Garrett Community College is accepting new participants for Fiscal Year 1999. New Dimensions can help program participants with the following services: counseling and support which includes career exploration, goal setting, and action plan; Career Path Class, a five-week, 10-session class of self-evaluation and career exploration; obtain a Graduation Equivalency Diploma (GED); tuition assistance for credit and non-credit vocational classes at GCC; child care and/or transportation assistance while attending college; emergency car repairs, work uniforms, and other emergency expenses; and referrals to community agencies for additional services.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 301-387-3071 or 387-3103 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education. EVERY PRESCRIPTION IS A "MIRACLE" MEDICINE

When your physician writes a prescription for you, he has selected, from the many thousands of different medicines in our prescription department, the exact one that will help you most. That is why a prescription is usually more beneficial than any over-the-counter medicine.

For, the most important part of any treatment is your physician's ability to diagnose the cause of the trouble. That diagnosis is an extra ingredient which makes each prescription a "Miracle" medicine.

Finding Yourself...

Do you ever feel like just giving up and running away...driving faster and faster, mile after mile, with no destination? Do you think that if you flee far enough and fast enough from everyone and everything, you will feel better? Unfortunately, this is fruitless, because you can never run away from yourself, no matter how far or how fast you run.

In this "life in the fast lane," there is so much turmoil. We read each day of domestic disputes, crime, and corruption. It is enough to make you want to run and hide, but you do not have to do that.

Instead, try to find yourself again. God is waiting to help you discover a new self. You will find Him to be an ever-present source of comfort, protection, and ever-present love.

Visit your church or synagogue this week. God will help you find yourself again. You will like what you discover.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WAS JESUS A RADICAL?
January 17, 1999

Background Scripture: Matthew 18:1-4; 20:17-28
Devotional Reading: Galatians 5:13-15

Do you realize that the word radical when used as an adjective can have two very different meanings? Today we tend to think of only one meaning: extreme, drastic, or beyond moderation. But radical can also mean fundamental, essential or basic. In fact, the term originates in the Latin word radix, which means "root." (Thus the name radish derives from the fact that it is a root.) Originally, then, a radical was a person who went to the root of things.

In that regard Jesus was certainly a radical. What makes his teachings and his life so authoritative is that he always went to the root of things. He dealt with internal realities rather than external appearances. He was not concerned with ritual so much as righteousness, with words so much as deeds. Even when he said, "You have heard that it was said, 'You shall not commit adultery.' But I say to you that everyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart," he is emphasizing the fundamental, basic realities of true religion. (Matt.5:27,28).

A RADICAL 'GREATNESS'

I firmly believe, however, that Jesus was also a radical in that other sense of the word. What he proposed was not a myriad of moderate changes, but a drastic, even extreme change in spiritual values and actions. His language was uncompromising: "If your right eye causes you to sin, pluck it out and throw it away." His actions—driving the money-changers from the Temple—were no less drastic. His call to discipleship still seems fanatical and he suffered a radical's death on a cross.

Truly, Jesus came to help us see ourselves, the world and life with radically different eyes. When he was asked, "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?", no one in the crowd that day could have anticipated his radical answer. "And calling to him a child, he put him in the midst of them, and said 'Truly, I say to you, unless you turn and become like children, you will never enter the king of heaven. Whoever humbles himself like this child, he is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven'" (Matt. 18:1-4).

Two thousand years later these words may not sound so extreme, but they are if we really take them to heart. He is proposing not just some changes in our concept of 'greatness,' but a virtual revolution in our basic attitudes toward all the things that really matter. He is not a fixer who comes to make minor repairs in our lives, but one who wishes to make extensive renovations.

A DIFFERENT 'GREATNESS'

This radical new view of "greatness" was something emphasized throughout his ministry. Once was not sufficient for the disciples to get it right. In fact, they struggled with it for the rest of their lives as we do today. Despite our exposure to his teachings and example, we still have trouble with it. The reason: because it is so radically different from what the world teaches us.

As Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, "the mother of the sons of Zebedee came to him with her sons and kneeling before him she asked him for something... Command that these two sons of mine may sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your kingdom" Although the other disciples were indignant, Jesus was not offended and seized the opportunity once again to drive home his revolutionary teaching on greatness: "...whoever would be great among you must be your servant" (20:28).

Jesus was speaking not only about 'greatness,' but also his whole concept of life: "...the son of man came not to be served but to serve, and give his life as a ransom for many." Now as then it is a radical, yes even extreme concept of what life is for.

Hog Prices Hit Record Low, Pork Prices At Grocery Remain High

Over the last several weeks and months cash hog prices have plunged to record low levels, with some mid-western markets reporting prices as low as $8 per hundredweight.

Recent spot market prices are dramatically below the 10-year average hog price of $45.96 per cwt. and are still far off the projected "break-even" price for hog production at around $38 per cwt.

These difficult times for hog farmers across the country are reflected in the Maryland economy as well. Maryland has already lost the bulk of its pig farms since 1990, and industry officials say more will disappear. The current industry crisis is expected to shake out another 20% of the nation's hog producers. A number of factors are blamed:

· The prices paid farmers for their pigs dropped to a 50-year low last month.

· A glut on the market. Production is at an all-time high as farmers geared up to met a promising Asian market, but that vanished almost overnight due to recession in that part of the world.

· Consolidation of the U.S. pork processing industry, which has reduced the capacity of companies to slaughter all the hogs ready for market.

Maryland hog producers say the whole hog industry is undergoing a change. "It used to be the packers and the independent producers like us," one of the producers said. "We would raise the hogs and sell them to the packing houses. Now, the business is moving toward a totally integrated system patterned after the poultry industry. The packers want total control from farrow to meat. And when they have control of production, they'll pay us farmers whatever they want."

One Talbot County hog producer said a recent rise in hog prices and predictions that they will go higher by summer is encouraging. Instead of losing $75 on each hog going to market, he estimates his deficit has been cut to $45 an animal. Since mid-December, hog prices in his locality have risen from 15 cents a pound to 22 cents last week. "That's still a long way from my 38 cents to 40 cents break-even point, but it's a move in the right direction," he said.

What bothers that particular producer as much as the low price he is offered for his hogs is the high price of pork in the supermarkets. He said retail pork prices have slipped only slightly since the summer of 1997, while the price farmers are paid for their hogs has dropped from 60 cents a pound to a low of 15 cents in recent weeks. The farmer's share of the retail pork price fell from 40% in July 1997 to about 12% in November 1998.

Farmers feel that if the retail price of pork were more reflective of the price they receive, it would quickly cut into the big surplus of pork on the market and boost farm prices. The Talbot County farmer said, "The consumer is not benefiting from our misfortune, somebody is making a record profit. Quite frankly, I think someone should go to prison for what is happening to the consumer."

Local Garrett County hog prices never fell to the national low. In July of 1997, top quality hogs sold here for up to $57.50 per cwt., falling to $31.50 per cwt. last week. Joe Friend of Friend's Stockyard said the local price held because not many hogs are being sold.

"The supply just isn't here," he said. He explained that the volume is down because local hog farmers have gone out of business or continued raising hogs only as a sideline. He said that pork loin at local markets ranged in price from 98 cents per pound to $1.98 per pound for the New Year's holiday. "The difference between the price hog farmers receive and the price consumers must pay is an embarassment in this country," he said.

There are more rough times ahead for the industry in Maryland, according to Mark Estienne, an associate professor at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore. He said the independent producers, like most of those in Maryland, are being forced out of business as the industry moves toward an integrated system.

Under this arrangement, the packing houses own the hogs and pay farmers to grow them much in the same way that Eastern Shore farmers raise chicken for poultry processors.

"Adjusted for inflation," Estienne said, "pork prices are the lowest in history. This is driviag a lot of independents out of business. A lot of Maryland pork producers have gone out of business.

"We don't have integrated systems like they have in North Carolina, Virginia and Pennsylvania," Estienne said.

In the early 1990s, Estienne said, there were nearly 1,500 hog farms in Maryland. "Today, there are probably less than a couple hundred." If there is to be growth in the industry here, he said, it will probably be in some kind of a contractual arrangement where farmers are paid to grow pigs for a pork processing company.

Estienne explained that big pork processing companies "buy tons and tons of feed and they get a better price."

Another thing that hurts the industry here, he said, is that these companies like to fill a tractor-trailer with pigs at one farm instead of having the truck make stops at five or six farms.

"There will still be some niche markets, like selling to Mom and Pop butcher shops," Estienne continued, "but I think the days of having a large number of pork producers in Maryland are over."

Fed. Government Attempts To Help U.S. Hog Producers

This past week, after a dozen hog producers met at the White House, and after urgings from farm organizations like the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) and USDA Secretary Dan Glickman, Vice President Al Gore announced that the government will pay hog farmers $50 million to compensate for low pork prices.

In addition, the Agriculture Department will spend $80 million to speed its voluntary pseudorabies program to help reduce the over-supply of hogs. That money will be used to compensate famers for the slaughter of as many as 1.7 million hogs infected with the virus.

As 1998 ended, AFBF President Dean Kleckner and several state Farm Bureau leaders urged Glickman to take immediate action to help hog producers. They told the secretary that unless the situation improved, scores of American pork producers would be forced out of business in a matter of weeks. The leaders urged Glickman to initiate a short-term guaranteed loan program to help put cash in the hands of pork producers.

Glickman said he and department staff recognized the peril many of the country's hog producers are facing, but said he did not have the authority to authorize disaster-type loans for hog producers. Instead, he urged them to apply for the approximately $1 billion in guaranteed loans still available to livestock producers.

Glickman noted that many livestock producers had not taken advantage of the available first-come, first-served guaranteed loan funds.

In response, AFBF wrote to members of Congress urging lawmakers to immediately legislate relief for the nation's pork producers. AFBF called on Congress to grant Glickman the authority to approve disaster programs for pork producers and to allow the secretary to implement a non-recorse marketing loan on live hogs. Farm Bureau said the recommendations would not negatively impact the marketplace or distort market signals.

In a Christmas Eve statement, Glickman said his department would also increase efforts to eradicate the swine disease pseudorabies by accelerating indemnity payments to producers. Stepped-up efforts under the pseudorabies program have the potential to remove nearly two million hogs from the market. further reducing the oversupply of animals and potentially opening more foreign markets to domestic pork.

Government approval of aid for hog producers comes at a time when the market is showing slight signs of recovery. Low prices are expected to end sometime in the summer, said John D. Lawrence, an economics professor at Iowa State University, who expects prices to begin to moving upward sometime next month. He said it will take major debt restructuring for many hog farmers to survive, however.

Glickman also announced a moratorium on government-backed credit to build new pork production facilities, a move Kleckner said "is another small step, but a good sign that he and his pork task force are looking for and finding things that could make a difference."

All across the country, farmers and farm leaders continue to stress the need for the hog price situation to be addressed and turned around quickly.

"This is not a normal hog cycle by any shape," said Illinois Farm Bureau President Ron Warfield. "It's a crisis and I can't compare it to anything I've seen in my lifetime in the ag industry and we've been through several of them. We need something to address it."

"If something isn't done in the next two weeks, eventually there will be no one to produce the hogs," added North Caolina Farm Bureau President Bob Jenkins.

Hog Producer Payment Program Released By FSA

Vice President Gore announced on Friday, Jan. 8, that the Department of Agriculture (USDA) will make approximately $50 million in direct cash payments to small hog producers to help them weather the current economic crisis. Details of the program were announced by agriculture secretary Dan Glickman on Tuesday, Jan. 12.

Who Is Eligible for Payments?

Producers qualify for the direct cash payments if they (1) marketed fewer than 1,000 hogs during the last six months of 1998 and (2) are still in operation. Two restrictions apply. First, producers are not eligible for payments on hogs marketed under fixed-price or cost-plus contracts. Second, any operation whose gross income for 1998 was grater than $2.5 million will not be eligible for payments, as is true for USDA's crop disaster assistance programs.

Eligibility is based on marketings during the last six months of 1998 to avoid distorting current marketings. The six month period also accommodates the marketing practices of small producers who may not market hogs every week or month, but who need help to weather the current economic crisis.

How Many Producers Are Eligible?

USDA estimates that 80-90 percent of producers, or nearly 100,000 nationwide, are eligible for these payments.

How Much Will Producers Be Paid?

Producers will be paid up to $5 per slaughter-weight hog (or the equivalent for feeder pigs and other swine) multiplied by the number of hogs marketed during the last six months of 1998. The actual payment may be less than $5, given the limited amount of funding available under law. Producers will only be paid for up to 500 market hogs (or an equivalent number of feeder pigs), so the maximum payment that will be paid to any operation is $2,500.

What Must Producers Do To Sign Up for Payment?

Payments will be made through USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) local offices. From February 1 to February 12, FSA will conduct a sign up for the payment program. During this sigh-up period, producers will be required to apply for the program at their local FSA office.

What Records Will Producers Need To Apply?

Producers will be required to certify that they meet the eligibility requirements of the program. FSA will have an application form that producers will fill out when they sign up for the program. It is expected that the form will require producers to include (1) the name of the operation and a list of persons involved in

Farm To Supermarket Care Needed For Quality Milk

Even in a high-tech age of rapidly expanding consumer choices for dairy products — including high temperature-short time (HTST) pasteurized milk — dairy processors still need to be mindful of old-fashioned basics in "Optimizing the Shelf Life of Fluid Milk."

That was the handle for the inaugural C. Walter England Dairy Technology Lectureship presented in late 1998 during an HTST Pasteurizer Short Course at the University of Maryland. The guest lecturer was John E. Rushing, professor of food science and internationally known Extension dairy processing specialist at North Carolina State University.

Dr. Rushing declared there is no simple recipe for achieving optimum shelf life. Rather, the key lies in a combination of factors from farm to supermarket. On-farm factors include:

- top quality milk produced by healthy, properly fed, and well-managed cows;
- clean and sanitary equipment and environment;
- proper cow preparation and milking procedures;
- clean and healthy personnel; and
- proper pumping and immediate refrigeration, with pasteurization as soon as possible.

Why stress on-farm factors?

Organisms that survive pasteurization are an indication of poor farm conditions. Many flavor and fat-related problems often find their origin on the farm. Thermoduric organisms can be introduced that will grow in long-shelf-life milks. This can result in malty and ropy problems.

Dairy plant managers also pay an important role in the shelf-life picture, Rushing noted. They need to pay attention to these procedures:

- Isolate the filler and control the filler environment.
- Filter air into silos and protect from sprays and aerosols.
- Package milk immediately and protect packaging.
- Develop a sanitation monitoring program.
- Keep milk products cold (32-36° F), move immediately, and train truck drivers and store personnel.

In conclusion, Rushing presented this take-home message: "Pasteurization destroys spoilage organisms; keeping milk clean and cold reduces spoilage organisms. You can't make good milk from bad."

Dr. England Honored By University of Md.

C. Walter England of Silver Spring appears to have no challenger as the oldest living alumnus of the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

As Dr. England neared his 99th birthday in late 1998, the college's Department of Animal and Avian Sciences honored him by establishing the C. Walter England Dairy Technology Lectureship.

The inaugural lecture was presented during an HTST Pasteurizer Short Course on the College Park campus for dairy processing plant personnel. There were 58 participants from five states. John E. Rushing, 51, professor of food science and internationally known Extension dairy processing specialist at North Carolina State University since 1982, was the guest lecturer.

Dr. Rushing is a past chairman of both the Dairy Foods Division and the Extension Division of the Institute of Food Technologists, an international professional organization. Rushing has conducted a number of mini-courses in connection with trade association annual meetings, and he has a reputation as a problem solver among members of the Carolina-Virginia Dairy Products Association. He has received numerous awards for his professional and educational activities.

Dr. England, the man being honored, also had a distinguished professional career during his active years. He supervised the dairy technology program at the University of Maryland for 11 years, 1933-44, and was technical director for C.Y. Stevens Industries in Washington, D.C., for 10 years, 1944-54. From 1954 to 1969 he operated his own commercial dairy and foods laboratories at both Beltsville and Frederick.

England helped to gain passage of the first dairy inspection law in Maryland. His guidance in the design and efficient operation of processing plants and his creation of accepted dairy products standards have been recognized throughout the nation.

A native of Calvert (Cecil County), England received a B.S. degree from Maryland in dairy processing in 1923 and earned M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in the same field at Cornell University in 1931 and 1933, respectively.

He has been honored by the University of Maryland's ag alumni chapter and the Dairy Technology Society of Maryland and the District of Columbia. His portrait hangs in the Maryland Dairy Shrine's Hall of Fame at the Clarksville facility of the Central Maryland Research and Education Center.

Maryland Farmer Wants To Raise Deer For Meat

To most farmers, deer are pests that eat their crops. But Leonard Miller of Taneytown thinks that raising deer for their meat could be a profitable business.

Miller faces considerable odds not only in the skeptical farm community but in the Legislature as well. Maryland is one of three states that prohibit deer farming.

Deer devoured an estimated $38 million worth of corn, wheat and soybeans in the state in 1996, according to a survey by the University of Maryland. That did not include damage to other vegetables and fruit.

With a growing market for venison among gourmet restaurants and grocery store and health-conscious meat lovers seeking to cut back on fat and cholesterol, Miller thinks deer could give his farm a boost.

Venison consumption in the United States has risen 30% a year for the past five years, said Barbara Fox, executive director of the North American Deer Farmers Association. More than 80% of that meat comes from New Zealand, which is the major exporter worldwide.

Deer farming caught on in the United States in the 1970s, starting with two farmers who began raising European species such as fallow and red deer.

Miller, who has three teenage children, hopes domesticated deer could be the product that ensures his farm's viability into the next generation.

He used to raise dairy cattle but has sold off his herd over the past few years. Fluctuating milk prices and the labor-intensive nature of dairy farming convinced him it would not ensure the farm for his children.

Miller ordered several deer, but as he looked into state regulations he learned he could be breaking the law if he penned the deer on his farm.

He had hoped to get the Maryland Farm Bureau to include a proposal on deer in its legislative agenda for the coming legislative session, but the organization rejected the idea.

The Farm Bureau was concerned about diseases the animals can spread to existing livestock herds, such as cattle, said Emily Wilson, the group's assistant director of government relations.

But Miller maintains that deer can be managed and inoculated like any other farm animal.

it, (2) the number of finished and feeder pig marketings in the last 6 months of 1998, and (3) the buyers of the hogs and pigs.

The form is also expected to include (1) a statement affirming that the producer is still in business, (2) a statement affirming that the producer did not market his or her hogs under fixed-price or cost-plus contract, and (3) a statement affirming that the producer is aware that USDA will be conducting spot checks. For those producers selected for spot checks, additional information may be requested.

Any producer who receives a payment based on erroneous information will be required to repay USDA. And any producer who receives a payment based on a fraudulent application will be required to repay USDA and may face criminal prosecution.

When Will Payments Be Made?

Payments will be made about two to three weeks after the end of the sign-up period.

What Is The Legal Authority For these Payments?

The payments will be made under USDA's Section 32 program (Section 32 of the Act of August 24, 1935). USDA typically uses Section 32 to purchase commodities that are in surplus for distribution through federal food assistance programs. Section 32 also permits direct payments to farmers to re-establish their purchasing power. This is the first time in 38 years that payments will be made directly to producers under the Section 32 program. The use of Section 32 funds for direct payments will not reduce the amount of assistance for food and nutrition programs.

How Can I Get Further Information?

Local FSA offices are the best source for producers seeking additional information. Program details will also be published in the Federal Register in the near future.

SUSAN PETERSON

JASON SHANK

Technology education teacher Jason Shank and music teacher Susan Peterson joined the teaching staff at Southern Middle School this year, where both had previously substitute taught.

Susan Peterson

Peterson, who earned a bachelor's degree in music education from the College of Wooster, Ohio, taught music in various grades for five years in both Ohio and New York. In addition, she taught band and chorus in fifth and sixth grades. While teaching in the public school systems, she also taught private piano and flute lessons.

Since moving to Garrett County in 1987, Peterson has received certification from the Maryland State Department of Education. As a substitute for the Garrett County Board of Education she has taught at Red House Elementary School, Southern Middle and High schools, and Northern High School. She is currently the director of the St. Mark Lutheran Church choir.

Peterson was hired to teach general music at Southern Middle. In this newly created position, she teaches those students who are not involved in performance groups, such as band or chorus. "The curriculum is designed to give students a broad experience of music as an informed and appreciated audience," she explained.

In addition to music classes, Peterson also teaches several reading enrichment classes, which she described as "very enjoyable." The faculty and staff at SMS, she said, are "very warm, supportive, and pleasant to work with."

Peterson and her husband Tom have three sons, David, Johnny, and Jamie.

Jason Shank

A graduate of Frostburg State University, Shank earned his bachelor of science degree in secondary social science education after receiving his associate of arts degree from Garrett Community College.

As a substitute teacher in Garrett County, Shank had long-term assignments at Southern High and Middle schools. His responsibilities in the classroom included developing units and programs of study, evaluating and assessing student performance, incorporating technology into the classroom, and participating in the team function of the teaching staff.

In addition to his work in Garrett County classrooms, Shank has served as coach for girls' varsity and junior varsity basketball and volleyball teams.

Shank is finding both demands and rewards in his work with students in various techonology area. Among his class projects are ones which develop carpentry skills. "It is a challenging position because the students are using tools on a regular basis. It is also exciting because the students get to make projects that they can actually design, build, and take home," he said.

Shank lives on a small farm in Pleasant Valley.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Pfc. John D. Leuba, son of Robin E. Leuba and Patrice J. Wells, Accident, recently completed a six-month deployment to Okinawa, Japan, with 2nd Battalion, 8th Marines, as part of the Unit Deployment Program (UDP).

While deployed, Leuba's unit participated in many community relations projects, bolstering the relationship of the U.S. military and Okinawan citizens.

UDP units based in the United States come to Okinawa for six months to train. From Okinawa, Leuba's unit can deploy to mainland Japan, Korea, and many other Pacific countries.

The 1996 graduate of Northern Garrett High School joined the Marine Corps in June 1997.

GCC Sets Property And Casualty Insurance Course

Allegany College of Maryland and Garrett Community College will cooperatively offer the Maryland Property and Casualty Insurance course beginning Monday, Jan. 25. Designed to prepare individuals to sell various types of property and casualty insurance, the course is required by the Maryland Department of Licensing and Regulation in order to qualify for the Property and Casualty Insurance Certification examination. Course sessions are scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, from 6:45 to 10 p.m., through April 7.

Topics include general concepts and principles; fire, inland and ocean marine insurance; liability insurance; automobile insurance; multiple-line policies; crime insurance and bonds; workers' compensation and other coverages; and state insurance law and regulations.

A variety of instructional techniques will be used as the course content is delivered over the Maryland Interactive Distance Learning Network, a fiber-optic, live video and audio presentation originating at Allegany College of Maryland. Students will engage in self-study, lecture, case studies, quizzes, and sample examinations designed to ensure proficiency in course competencies.

The first two sessions, Jan. 25 and 27, will be held in the Center for Continuing Education at Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland. Thereafter, if there are sufficient Garrett County enrollments, GCC students will meet in the Technology Center at GCC in Room TC-254. Potential students are advised to register early and make arrangements to purchase course materials. Students should begin study and preparation before the first session on selected topics. Thorough and conscientious pre-class preparation is essential and required.

The course instructor, Ed Seward, is an account executive in property and casualty. He holds a B.A. degree in business administration and was awarded the professional designation of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter (CPCU) and Accredited Advisor in Insurance (AAI) after completing extensive post-graduate studies.

The cost for this course is $354 plus textbook for Garrett County residents. Students who reside outside Garrett County must pay an additional differential fee. For additional information interested persons may call Tom Kirstead at 301-387-3084.

Initiative Backs Cigarette Tax Increase Plan

The Maryland Children's Initiative, composed of over 350 community, religious, and health care organizations from across Maryland, strongly endorses the proposal by Governor Parris Glendening and Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend to increase the state's cigarette tax by $1 per pack. "The proposal will dramatically decrease teen smoking and we call upon the Maryland General Assembly to pass it. We congratulate Governor Glendening on being only the second governor in the nation to propose a cigarette tax increase of this magnitude," said Vincent DeMarco, executive director of the Children's Initiative.

"We will work very hard to mobilize the citizens of Maryland behind the governor's proposal," DeMarco continued. "With the leadership of the governor and lt. governor and the support of a solid majority of Marylanders, we will convince the General Assembly to enact this very important public health measure."

The Maryland Children's Initiative originally proposed to raise the cigarette tax by $1.50 per pack. "We agree with the governor's decision to make the tax increase $1 per pack because the tobacco companies raised the price of cigarettes 45 cents per pack after the recent tobacco settlement," DeMarco said.

The Maryland Children's Initiative is a project of Smoke Free Maryland, the Maryland State Teachers Association, the Maryland Association of Student Councils, the Safe and Sound Campaign, and Addiction Treatment Advocates of Maryland.

COVER STORY

WB gets upscale sitcom in Zoe, Duncan and pals

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Zoe, Duncan, Jack & Jane is the clumsy title of a very promising new teen sitcom premiering Sunday, Jan. 17, on The WB Network.

Set in New York, the series follows four close friends in their late teens: Zoe Bean (Selma Blair), a wistful beauty; Duncan Milch (David Moscow), her lifelong chum; and their mutual friends, a pair of squabbling fraternal twins, Jack and Jane Cooper (Michael Rosenbaum, Azura Skye).

The show's pilot is smart and funny, with writing and acting that will appeal to both teenagers and young adults, the network's core audience. But what is up with that unwieldy title, anyway? After all, the show was developed as the easy-to-remember Zoe Bean.

"It's actually kind of funny about the title," says executive producer Michael Jacobs, whose Boy Meets World is in its sixth season on ABC. "(The network) wanted the audience to realize that it was an ensemble piece about the four kids. So we said, 'You mean an ensemble like Seinfeld?' And they said, 'Let's just use all the names,' and we said, 'Fine.' All the characters are terrific and interestingly named."

The show may be an ensemble piece, but the pilot episode tells us far more about Blair's character than the rest of the foursome. The story line has Zoe running into Columbia University dreamboat Montana Kennedy (guest star Scott Foley, Felicity) while waiting for a subway train.

The two strike up a nice conversation. As he leaves, Montana says something that is drowned out by his approaching train. Zoe thinks – hopes! – that he was asking her out. But to resolve the issue without asking Montana directly, Zoe is forced to take desperate action: She must befriend a classmate, Montana's sister, Breeny (Sara Rue).

Selma Blair

And Breeny – the show's most audacious and risky character – is literally hell on wheels. She uses a wheelchair and exploits her disability to wreak terror on the dodge-ball court.

"We think Breeny is a terrific character," Jacobs says. "When we first pitched the idea ... the network didn't know whether we would be able to pull it off. Now it's one of their favorite characters."

Blair, who co-stars with Sarah Michelle Gellar (Buffy the Vampire Slayer) in an upcoming Dangerous Liaisons teen adaptation called Cruel Intentions, is a real winner as Zoe. She's insecure, but without the maddening mannerisms of the Felicity McBeals elsewhere on TV; think Neve Campbell but with a sense of humor.

Among her cast mates, Moscow – Tom Hanks' little alter ego in Big – is funny as Duncan, but he will be funnier when he refines the character from the broad strokes he uses in the pilot. Both Rosenbaum and Skye, likewise, have presence to burn, leaving viewers wanting to learn more about Jack and Jane – and soon.

In short, Zoe, Duncan, Jack & Jane is fresh and full of promise, especially in this lackluster TV season. But the show will have to deliver on that promise quickly if it is to survive against its competition, a little show that Fox executives wisely did not decide to call Mulder & Scully.

William Devane portrays a troubled Chicago police officer in Turks, premiering Thursday, Jan. 21, on CBS.

Joseph Turk (Devane) has everything together on the job, but his home life is not running as smoothly. His strong morals inspired two of his sons to become policemen, complicating their lives and placing them in danger, and may also be influencing his other son to turn against the law. PBS' Living Edens visits an icy paradise

It's not the Georgia Ray Charles sings about, but the subject of the latest installment of The Living Edens will certainly stay on your mind.

"South Georgia Island: Paradise of Ice" airs Wednesday, Jan. 20, on PBS (check local listings) and features narration by Avery Brooks (Star Trek: Deep Space Nine) and music (principally cello) by Emmy winner Laura Karpman.

Situated in the Atlantic a thousand miles east of South America's southern tip, South Georgia is a nursery for the Antarctic, hospitable only in comparison to the frozen continent. Here birds and marine mammals in the millions come each year to bear their young.

Yet the island surely is an Eden, as the series claims. Pristine and starkly beautiful, its hundred-mile length is marked by sheer rock faces reminiscent of Everest, creeping glaciers, and in summer, brown beaches and a few marshy pools where insects thrive.

King penguins live here yearround, leaving their chicks in huge huddles while parents fish to keep them fed all winter. Even in the summer nesting season, an exposed egg can freeze.

In the brief summer, the multitudes come: macaroni and Gentoo penguins, snow petrels, skua, ducks, sooty albatrosses, and elephant and southern fur seals. All claim a place on the beach, on the rocks or in nesting burrows.

Some of the show's most remarkable creatures are not seen until the closing credits run. These are the camera crews who visited South Georgia for a full year to photograph grand vistas, mating rituals and young of all kinds emerging into a cruelly cold world.

Wednesday, PBS' The Living Edens visits a breeding ground for king penguins and other Antarctic critters in "South Georgia Island: Paradise of Ice" (check local listings).

Q: Law & Order is one of the best shows on TV, but I have to say that Chris Noth's character of Mike Logan is sadly missed. Any hope that we may get him back on a regular basis? –N. Fitzsimmons, no address.

A: No, especially not while Dick Wolf is executive producer of L&O. Both men have healthy egos, and Noth still is rankled at the way Wolf handled his departure from the show.

For the record, Noth says he was ready to leave – he was tired of the series grind – but had hoped to make a joint announcement with Wolf, who simply issued a terse statement that Noth's contract was not being renewed.

While NBC would love Noth to do more Mike Logan vehicles like Exiled: A Law & Order Movie, which aired in November, the actor bitterly fought against Wolf being put in charge of that project and has hinted that he won't do any more of the movies if it means he has to work with Wolf.

Q: I know that I have seen actor William Ragsdale (Brother's Keeper) somewhere before, but where? He is gorgeous! –Valerie Winters, San Francisco.

A: Ragsdale, 37, has a number of TV and movie credits, but he probably is best known as Herman Brooks in the raunchy Fox sitcom Herman's Head. He also played Dan, Ellen Morgan's pizza-delivering boyfriend, in Ellen, and he starred in the cult-hit horror comedy Fright Night and its less successful sequel.

Q: Was Roddy McDowall ever in a weekly TV series back in the late '60s? I could swear I remember him on one, but my husband insists I am thinking of the guy who played Wilbur on Mister Ed. –Kathy Dees, Buedingen, Germany.

Chris Noth

A: Sorry, Kathy. The perennially boyish McDowall, who died of cancer in October, made his TV series debut in 1974's Planet of the Apes TV adaptation on CBS, although he had appeared in TV movies before then. Perhaps you were, indeed, thinking of Alan Young in Mister Ed, which ran in the 1960s.

Q: I've noticed Tom Bosley and William Schallert on several life insurance commercials recently. I could have sworn these veteran actors both died in recent years, or am I mistaken? –T.B., Mooresville, N.C.

A: Happily, you are mistaken. As of this writing, Bosley, 71, and Schallert, 76, are still very much with us.

Q: Who played the private eye Boston Blackie in the 1950s TV series? –Bill and Don, Fontana, Calif.

A: Kent Taylor played the title role in Boston Blackie, which aired via syndication from 1951 to 1953.

Massage Therapy Program At GCMH Yielding Positive Results For Patients

For the past two years Garrett County Memorial Hospital and area massage therapists have been involved in a project called "Touchworks: Massage Therapy in A Rural Hospital Community." A $10,000 grant ($5,000 annually) was awarded by the American Massage Therapy Association Foundation to establish massage therapy as a complimentary patient care treatment for the hospitalized patient. The Touchworks project was a collaborative effort which involved physicians, nurses, patients and their families, and massage therapists. Patients involved with the project received massage therapy at no charge through the grant funding.

During the first year, 25 patients were referred to the project by their physicians. Referrals were made for a variety of problems such as: back pain, headaches, insomnia, arthritis, high blood pressure, fibromyalgia, and depression. The patients were seen initially during their hospital stay, and then had three follow-up visits at home after discharge. The results were positive. Patients reported they felt better, were more relaxed, were able to sleep better, and had less pain.

The second year of the project focused only on patients during their hospital stay. The referrals included patients in the Family Centered Maternity Suite and the Subacute unit, as well as the general medical-surgical patient areas. During this phase of the project, 170 patients were treated with massage therapy. Again, patients expressed positive outcomes from their body work.

Clinical massage therapy at the hospital was provided by Glenna Boyd, Vickie Carlson, Betty Davis, Christine Felkner, Pegg Janney, Cynthia Knight, and Debora Nichols. Therapists are required to hold the appropriate certification and be approved by the Professional Health Associates Committee of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A hospital spokesperson said that massage therapy as a complimentary procedure is increasing in popularity because of the noted improvement in the patient's healing process. Research is showing that combining massage therapy with traditional medicine can help patients recover faster from illness and stay healthier. Widely recognized for its relaxation benefits, body massage can help to ease muscle tension and stress, and to relieve pain. It can help reduce scar tissue after injury and increase joint flexibility, as well as boost the immune system, the spokesperson said.

Massage therapy has been an accepted method to improve physical and emotional health in other cultures for many years. "As the research proves more and more the benefits of this complimentary therapy, we hope that the insurance companies will begin to reimburse for this therapy also," stated Charlotte Garner, project coordinator for the Touchworks program. "Now that the grant has concluded, massage therapy is still available to patients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital upon referral by their physician with the patient being responsible for the therapy fees."

Blaze Damages New Germany Ranger Station

A fire believed to have been caused by a malfunctioning furnace caused an estimated $110,000 damage to the a Department of Natural Resources ranger station at New Germany State Park Saturday evening.

Approximately 30 volunteer fire fighters from the Grantsville and Deep Creek fire departments responded to the 6:30 p.m. alarm after DNR Ranger John Frank had returned to the station from his rounds and saw heavy smoke pouring from the eaves of the 35-by-60-foot block structure. Fire fighters brought the blaze under control in less than one-half hour.

According to Deputy State Fire Marshal Bob Thomas, the staff had been having problems with the furnace in the building and had it serviced on Friday. He said that the furnace apparently malfunctioned and caused a fire in some of the duct work, which ignited combustible material in the furnace room.

The structure and its contents, which included computer equipment, were damaged, primarily from heat and smoke, Thomas said, who added that Deputy State Fire Marshal Jim Woods from the Hagerstown office responded to the scene to conduct the investigation.

According to John Surrick, a spokesman for the DNR, the damage to the station should not inconvenience visitors to New Germany State Park since it was used primarily as a registration office for campers and hikers. He said that another building is being used for registration purposes temporarily, until the station can be repaired.

Also responding to the scene were the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the county air cascade vehicle, which is housed at the Deep Creek VFC. There were no injuries reported.

IT TAKES MORE THAN A LITTLE ICE to stop those hard-core local fishermen, who are on the prowl for their quarry even when the water is too hard to lap the shore. Ice-fishing is a popular sport on the mountaintop, where lakes and ponds have been frozen deeply enough over the past month to safely support the fishers and their tackle. However, with the temperatures higher this week and the amount of rain coming down, all ice-venturers should take heed that the frozen slabs are thinning rapidly. Breakthroughs are extremely dangerous, as the cold water combined with bulky clothing can hastily present a life threatening situation. All are advised to thoroughly check the ice before stepping out. This photo was taken Tuesday at Deep Creek Lake State Park by John McEwen.

Early School Closing Noted

Garrett County Schools are currently scheduled to dismiss at noon on Monday, Jan. 25, for a professional development day. If schools are closed as a result of inclement weather on January 25, students will be dismissed at noon on the next full day of school for a teacher professional day.

If schools have a delayed opening on January 25, schools will not dismiss early that day, but will be dismissed at noon on the next full day of school for a teacher professional day.

Republican Obtains Draft Plan For Retail Store Off Weber Road

In response to its Maryland Freedom of Information Act request The Republican has received a partial draft of a site plan submitted by the Wyatt Development Corporation to the state of Maryland, presumably showing some particulars of a giant retail store the company wishes to build at the intersections of Weber Road, Maryland Highway, and Route 219.

The drawing, dated November 6, 1998, outlines a 151,980 square foot structure surrounded by over 600 parking spaces. A traffic light is suggested for an entrance on the east side of the property, across from Treasure Island, and a large stormwater management facility (a collection pond) is portrayed just to the south of the traffic light on the west side of Weber Road.

Wyatt Development submitted the drawing to the Developmental Disabilities Administration as part of an initial inquiry regarding a state easement for a driveway next to an Appalachian Crossroads residence along Weber Road. The drawing shows a driveway area 50 feet wide and 230 feet long running north along the eastern side of the Appalachian Crossroads property. "I do not believe the drive would have any negative impact on the facility," Howard Hill of Wyatt Development stated in a letter to the DDA that was released along with the site drawing.

Karen Post, DDA's western region director, was the recipient of Hill's request. She commented yesterday that she has not heard from him since, and that the state's consideration of the request has not gone forward, adding that she wants to meet with him to discuss the matter in greater detail. Post said that she is waiting for him to contact her, and the request will be held until they meet.

In another development regarding real estate matters possibly involving large retail companies, three local officials confirmed this week that they have received inquiries from Langan Engineering, a New Jersey shopping developer that has constructed numerous Wal-Mart stores

SGRS Back To Drawing Board After Oakland Council Denies Zoning Change

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad will have to seek another location to move its quarters to after the Oakland Town Council voted to turn down its request Tuesday evening for a zoning ordinance change that would have allowed the squad to seek an exception to relocate on a site at Third and Omar streets.

"We're extremely disappointed," Jay Kestner, president of the rescue squad, said in commenting on the vote. "It almost feels as if the Town Council was not being totally open with us, because they held the Tuesday night vote without informing us or our attorney, Cris Kepple Sweitzer. If we had known that the vote was going to take place, we would have been there.

"We've since learned that Mayor McCain has said that the vote had been scheduled during a January 4 town council meeting, but no one told us, not even during when the town council met with over 20 of our members eight days later on January 12.

"What makes the vote doubly disappointing is that we have to have a majority of squad members vote to approve a new site, and the Third and Omar streets property was approved—It's hard to get a majority vote like that. Also, I really don't know if we have another year left in our current quarters [along Oak Street]."

The squad wishes to move from its Oak Street quarters because of the building's inadequacies. Buckets are in place inside the building to catch leaks from the roof, the cramped quarters could trap personnel in the dorm room in the event of a fire in the main part of the building, and the electrical wiring and plumbing needs to be renovated, according to squad treasurer Ann Smith and fellow squad member David Moon. They also cited a lack of adequate parking, and the traffic hazards posed by emergency equip-

Local Law Enforcement Officers Prepare To "Go Jump In A Lake"

by Peggy Santamaria

It will be a first in Garrett County --- and it will give new meaning to the phrase "Go jump in a lake." The Deep Creek Dunk, on the drawing boards with a February 22 launch date, will feature scores of law enforcement personnel and local residents plunging into the icy waters of the Deep Creek Lake. Fortunately, there is a good reason for this apparent madness: those leaping into the lake will be raising funds for the Special Winter Olympics, competitions for physically and mentally challenged individuals held in Garrett County.

The Deep Creek Dunk, the brain-child of Maryland State Police, is being coordinated by Capt. Greg Shipley of the MSP public affairs unit. Shipley explained that the Special Olympics has been "adopted" by state police as a fund-raising project.

Each "dunker" will raise $50 to encourage him or her to go jump in the lake. Though at first glance this may not seem to be a very appealing February activity in Garrett County, the Deep Creek Dunk is already lining up the participants who seem anxious to dive into the frigid waters. "We have the cooperation of law enforcement, including the sheriff's office and the DNR, and local business people. We're getting a great response. Everyone seems very excited about it," Shipley said. Col. David Mitchell, superintendent of the state police, will be on hand for the event if not actually in the lake.

The commander of the McHenry barrack of the state police, Lt. William Lucas, has thrown his hat in the ring, so to speak, as a dunker. Sheriff Dick Sanders, an old friend of Lucas, commented on his own participation in the event. Asked if he would be among the dunkers, Sanders answered: "I'll be there. If he (Lucas) goes in, I'll go in," he chuckled.

The dunk is patterned on the winter dip into the Chesapeake Bay at Sandy Point State Park — "the Polar Bear Plunge," — which is staged annually by the state police to bring in money for the Special GOSNELLS HOSTED BY GLENDENINGS - Stephanie and Rachael Gosnell, Accident, received personal invitations from Maryland's First Lady to attend the annual Christmas Open House at the Governor's Mansion in Annapolis. Both young women made the dean's list at the United States Naval Academy this past semester after each earned a grade point average of 3.4 or higher. The twin sisters Stephanie, second from the left, and Rachael are shown above flanked by the state's first couple, Frances Ann and Parris N. Glendening.

Oakland Man Dies After Rt. 135 Collision

A two-vehicle accident Monday night on Maryland Highway (Route 135) claimed the life of an Oakland man who succumbed to his injuries the next day, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Michael Charles Eggleston, 33, was severely injured when he was ejected from his vehicle as a result of the 9:27 p.m. collision on Maryland Highway near its intersection with Fibiwee Lane.

The sheriff's office preliminary investigation indicated that Eggleston was traveling westbound on Maryland Highway when his vehicle struck the rear of another westbound vehicle operated by Richard Andrew Granke, 18, Oakland. His vehicle then crossed eastbound Maryland Highway, went off the roadway and into a wooded area where he was ejected as the vehicle impacted a large tree.

Personnel from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded to the scene, along with sheriff's deputies. The rescue squad transported Eggleston to Garrett Memorial Hospital, and he was subsequently flown by helicopter to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., where he died the following day.

The accident remains under investigation by the sheriff's office collision reconstruction team.

Eggleston was born July 8, 1965, in Milwaukee, Wisc., a son of Rosalind Eggleston-Wiseman, Oakland, and the late Stanley L. Eggleston.

He was employed as the general manager of Denny's Restaurant in Oakland, and was a member of the Apostolics of Oakland Church.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his wife, Christy (Liller) Eggleston; one son, Seth Michael Eggleston, at home; two daughters, Rachael Lynn Eggleston, Addison, Pa., and Heather Dawn Eggleston, Grantsville; five brothers, Stanley Eggleston, Oakland, Jeffrey Eggleston, Baltimore, Matthew Eggleston, Northeast Maryland, Daniel Eggleston, Bittinger, and Richard Eggleston, Oakland; and his paternal grandfather, Charles A. Eggleston, Merritt Island, Fla.

Friends will be received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today, Thursday. A service will be conducted at the Apostolic Church of Oakland at the Old Mountain Lake Campground on Friday, Jan. 22, at 1 p.m., with Pastor Greg Cummings officiating. Interment will follow in Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

The family suggests memorials be directed to Hospice of Garrett County.

Hafer, Edwards Not Supportive Of Tax Increase Suggestions

Both the governor of Maryland and the speaker of the house have suggested at the outset of this year's General Assembly that various taxes for Maryland citizens should perhaps be raised this year, but Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer have both publicly expressed their opposition to these ideas.

"It's absolutely unconscionable in these good economic times to impose any new taxes on the citizens of Maryland," said Hafer last week. "If we increase government spending and taxes in the good times, that will lead to more increased taxes to supplement the budget in bad times."

The delegate's stance on the issue is somewhat less adamant, but he is also not supportive of tax increases this year.

"We have a surplus right now of somewhere around $200-$250 million. The governor wants to use a lot of that to fund school construction, mainly for higher education. I am supportive of that. I think that's what we should do when we have a surplus," Edwards said. "But I'd also like to see a little of it given back to the taxpayers by maybe speeding up our 10-year tax break plan."

Edwards was referring to the approved 10-year tax reduction plan that will decrease state income tax by 10 percent in annual increments, to be complete by the year 2002. Both Hafer and Edwards would like to see some of the surplus go toward making the tax break complete by 2000.

Governor Parris Glendening has yet to present his budget for the year. Edwards reported this morning that the House and Senate members expect to see the governor's plan perhaps today, or at least by early next week. Edwards said he's not sure the governor is even going to formally suggest a tax increase.

"We won't know anything for sure until we see it in writing, of course," the delegate said.

Glendening has mentioned the idea of raising the taxes on gas and cigarettes, but has not publicly discussed a sales tax increase. Speaker Casper Taylor has proposed that the state raise sales tax from five to six percent to generate, he said, approximately $520 million a year for mass transit and highway construction statewide. Glendening and other legis-

Projects Sought For All-American City Application

The newly formed Garrett County All-American Community Committee, which was appointed recently to complete an entry application to put the county in the running for the 1999 All-American City Award, is seeking input from the community. Part of the application for the award calls for the description of three projects that have had a significant impact on the community since 1996. The committee is asking the Garrett County public to enter projects for its consideration.

The All-American City Award is a program sponsored by the National Civic League and supported by the Allstate Insurance Company, with the purpose of encouraging and recognizing civic excellence. It has been given annually, nationwide, for 50 years. The award has no monetary prize, but winners are treated to a trip to the White House, are given national publicity, and then are free to utilize the designation of an ACC winner in all forms

Christmas Trees Chipped; Now Will Be Re-Used

The fifth annual Christmas Tree Recycling Event, sponsored by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling and the Oakland Timberjax Tree Service, was a success this year, as reported by Nikki Brown of the recycling office. A total of 134 trees were chipped on Jan. 16 at the two sites, one in Grantsville (28 trees

CHRISTMAS TREES RECYCLED — Instead of throwing out their Christmas trees this year, about 130 local families chose to dispose of them in a more environmentally friendly fashion, with the help of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling and the Oakland Timberjax Tree Service. For the fifth year, the recycling office arranged for two tree drop-off sites, one at the Grantsville municipal parking lot and the other at the Southern High School athletic field parking lot, where a total of 134 trees were chipped (28 at Grantsville and 106 at Oakland). Participants were invited to take chips to use as mulch or as a bulking agent in compost piles. The remaining chips are to be used on wetland areas at Southern High School or at the county landfill. Local Musician Wins 12-State Regional Title

"A masterful performance" is how one adjudicator described the presentation of Oakland trombonist and Southern High School student Amanda Stewart, who traveled to Boston University last weekend and won the Music Teachers' National Association's Solo Brass Competition for the 12-state eastern region. The 16-year-old daughter of Brad and Patsy Stewart will now advance to the national competition in Los Angeles, slated for March 19-22.

The competition judge, a professor of music at Plymouth College, Plymouth, N.H., stated on his adjudicator's comment sheet that Stewart has "a tremendously full sound...very song-like" and, "There is no question in my mind that this was a masterful performance."

While in Boston Amanda met Joseph Alessi, principal trombonist for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, who invited her to New York this summer for a tour of The Julliard School and to participate in one of his master classes.

At the national competition in March, Stewart will perform the repertoire which she used at the regional competition and at the Maryland state competition at St. Mary's.

Amanda continues to perform with the Pittsburgh Youth Symphony Orchestra and in the Southern High School Concert Band. Plans are under way for a spring recital in Oakland, which will feature Amanda and musicians from West Virginia University, where she trains with WVU faculty trombonist Keith Jackson.

Sunday Play Readings To Resume At OTT

By reported popular demand, Sunday play readings at Our Town Theatre will resume this month, beginning on Jan. 24 with a reading of Rashomon, an ancient Japanese murder mystery seen from four points of view. The reading will begin at 3 p.m.

The Sunday play readings at the Oakland theatre are informal gatherings of readers and listeners "who want to enjoy a good story," a spokesperson said. No theatre experience is required. A modest donation to the theatre is requested, and refreshments will be available.

On Super Bowl Sunday, Jan. 31, the woman's comedy A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking will be read, beginning at 3 p.m.

Sunday afternoon readings will continue in February, following the theatre's production of Love Letters, to be performed Feb. 4 and 5 at 8 p.m., Feb. 7 at 3 p.m., and Feb. 11-13 at 8 p.m.

GBI Jails MLP, Pennsylvania Men On Theft Charges

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation made a pair of arrests this week in connection with two theft investigations.

The first arrest came Friday as Brandon Lee Mitchum, 22, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with stealing $65 worth of office equipment from Deep Creek Outfitters. Mitchum allegedly stole the equipment earlier this month while employed at the McHenry business.

Following an appearance before the district court commissioner, Mitchum was released on his own recognizance.

The second arrest was made yesterday as GBI investigators charged Michael Matthew Tressler, 19, Springs, Pa., with one count of felony theft. The charge stems from an October theft of $1,100 worth of stereo equipment, compact discs, and cash from a vehicle parked at an Oakland Drive residence in Mtn. Lake Park.

Tressler has been released on his own recognizance.

Annual GRIC Membership Meeting Held

The Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC) recently held its annual meeting of the membership. Dr. Steve Herman, GRIC's acting general manager, announced the results of the recent election of GRIC's board of directors, in which 236 members cast ballots.

Newly elected directors are Ken Perrin, a Swanton resident and postmaster of the Oakland Post Office, and Kirk Lantz, a resident of Aurora, W.Va., and a teacher in the West Virginia public school system. Re-elected to the board of directors were Debbie Bishop, Elizabeth Morin, and Scott Rush. Directors serve for 2-year terms.

Prior to the annual meeting an election of GRIC's officers had been held, with Howard Bell, a McHenry resident and a retired attorney, elected president. Re-elected to their respective offices were Jerry Geisler, vice president; Scott Rush, treasurer; and Dusty Huxford, secretary. Officers serve for one-year terms.

Mary Ruddell, a Cumberland resident employed by Zeitgeist Publishing, was also re-elected as an ex officio director of the board.

The board of directors also recognized the service of outgoing directors Jim Simms and Ann Sherrard, and expressed its gratitude to Mikal McCartney, "who served with dedication and distinction as GRIC's first president," according to a spokesperson. McCartney will remain on the board.

The meeting also featured Herman's presentation of an overview of GRIC, during which he noted that the venture is a private but nonprofit telecommunicationscooperative incorporated in the state of Maryland. GRIC's mission, according to Herman, is to provide Garrett County and the surrounding community with advanced telecommunications services at competitive rates. He also reported that GRIC is now serving clients in six counties in Maryland, West Virginia, and southern Pennsylvania.

Don Storck, GRIC's contract manager, told the assembled membership that the subscriber service has grown to over 3,500 active accounts. The moratorium that GRIC had imposed on new membership, pending shipment and instillation of new routers, has been lifted, and new members are being processed, Storck said. GRIC projects rapid growth to 4,000 members.

GRIC's next annual meeting of the membership is tentatively scheduled for November.

Police Organize Anti-Theft Task Force At Resort

Members of the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, will coordinate with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett County Narcotics Task Force to participate in the "Wisp Ski Theft Initiative." The project will be under way during January and February.

This anti-theft operation earned recognition from the Governor's Office of Crime Prevention last year and the McHenry barrack was presented with the governor's Certificate of Merit for accomplishments through this program. The project has been instrumental in reducing thefts of ski equipment at the Wisp Ski Resort over the last three years, according to the task force supervisor, Sgt. W.R. Paugh. "When we started this program in 1996 there had been over $100,000 in thefts up to that point in the season," he explained.

Both uniformed and covert police personnel take part in the operation, which involves placing ski equipment from local shops in the areas of the resort which have been subject to thefts. "The troopers observe the area until someone attempts to remove the skis. The perpetrators are confronted and arrested after probable cause has been established," Paugh said.

Some local businesses have contributed to the success of the theft prevention initiative. "I'd like to recognize members of the community who have been involved in this program. High Mountain Sports and Rudy's have let us use ski equipment for the operation. We really appreciate this," Paugh noted.

Grantsville Seeks HotSpot Funding To Build Houses

The town of Grantsville, in conjunction with Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. has submitted an application requesting a state grant through the HotSpot program to fund the building of six new homes within the town limits.

Grantsville mayor Gerry Beachy reported on the grant submission during a regular monthly meeting of the HotSpot committee Tuesday morning. If approved, the grant would provide $950,000 to finance the installation of a stormwater management system and the construction of six single-family homes near the Grantsville Senior Center, Beachy said.

The homes would be available to people participating in Community Action's First Time Home Buyers Program, which offers comprehensive training in budgeting and home maintenance skills.

Man Arrested On CDS Charges

A traffic stop by Maryland State Police on I-68 Saturday led to an arrest on charges of possession of a controlled dangerous substance. A report filed at the Barrack W, McHenry, stated that Kevin Aaron Stephens, 26, Indianapolis, Ind., was originally stopped for speeding on the interstate near the Casselman River at 3:20 p.m.

Once stopped, the investigating officer learned the suspect's driving license had been suspended for driving while intoxicated and drug law violations. A search of the vehicle revealed a hidden compartment between the glovebox and firewall which contained drug paraphernalia.

The suspect was taken to the Garrett County Jail pending a bond hearing.

Commission Seeks Women's Hall Of Fame Nominees

The Garrett County Commission for Women has requested nominations of local women for induction into the Garrett County Women's Hall of Fame. Organizations and individuals are invited to submit names to the commission. "Nominations should represent women who have made outstanding contributions to Garrett County and are examples for tomorrow's leaders," stated Sandi Flockhart, chair of the commission.

Established in 1995, the Women's Hall of Fame provides permanent recognition of the significant contributions of Garrett County women, Flockhart said. Among the women previously inducted are Polly J. Hanst, Wilda W. Massi, Ruth H. Ryan, Martha U. Jachowski, Dr. Alta Schrock, Edith G. Brock, Brenda J. Butscher, Jane B. Avery, and Martha Glotfelty.

Under the guidelines of the GCCW, a selection committee representing a cross section of county citizens will review the nominations and designate up to three new hall of fame members. Nomination packets with complete instructions may be obtained by calling Earleen Beckman at 301-533-0001. Packets will also be available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. Deadline for submitting nominations is February 20.

The 1999 inductees will be honored at a breakfast on Saturday, March 27.

ARC Bloodmobile Scheduled At Accident Church

A Red Cross bloodmobile is scheduled at Zion Lutheran Church in Accident on Friday, Jan. 29, between noon and 6 p.m. As regional blood inventory levels remains critically low, all persons eligible to donate blood are encouraged to consider supporting this bloodmobile. All blood donor types are needed.

To donate blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, be in generally good health, and must not have donated within the prior 56 days. Donor identification is required, and donors should bring their Red Cross donor card or driver's license to the bloodmobile.

Free Design Consulting, Incentives Available For Oakland Businesses

Downtown Oakland property and business owners have the opportunity to improve the appearance and value of their property through the Downtown Design program, a free architectural service offered through the Main Street Maryland program. In addition to the design suggestions of a noted architect, which could range from major facade renovations to new business signs, the Main Street office is offering financial assistance as an incentive to make those changes.

"Both of these programs offer business and property owners in Oakland a unique opportunity to become an active part of Oakland's revitalization effort," said Main Street Program Manager Glenn Tolbert. "It's a fact that people shop and visit downtowns that are attractive. Good examples of successful downtown shopping areas that prove this point are Annapolis and Frederick. To compete, our buildings and businesses must look their best."

The Downtown Design program will make available the services of architect Richard Wagner, Ph.D/A-IA, of David H. Gleason and Associates of Baltimore. Wagner is the director of the Historic Preservation Graduate Program at Goucher College and is a former manager of the National Main Street Center. He is the author of the design materials for the National Main Street Program.

Financial assistance is available in the form of a matching grant program and technical information on tax credits. The Downtown Design Grant program will match up to $500 of private funds spent for facade improvements or new business signage. Information concerning exact location and other details will be available in the near future.

Olympics. "We've done that one for two years; this will be the third. It has been a very popular event and it has done very well as a fund-raiser," Shipley said. Held last weekend, the "plunge" brought in about $200,000 for Special Olympics.

The Deep Creek Dunk will be open to anyone who wishes to participate. As an incentive, dunkers will earn shirts with a specially designed logo. More information concerning exact location and other details will be available in the near future.

GC's Adoptive Family of the Year

Beilers Give Six Chance To Say "There's No Place Like Home"

"All six of our kids are comfortable with the fact that they are adopted. When we didn't know how to first explain to one of them (who had come to us at the age of 2) that she had been adopted, she just asked us, "Who are my birth parents?" because all the other kids had been talking about their birth parents. It was kind of funny because you could tell that she would have been kind of disappointed if we had answered that we were her birth parents, as if she were thinking 'Everyone else has other birth parents, why can't I?'."

—Dan Beiler

A SOFA FILLED WITH LOVE - The Beiler family, Rock Lodge Road residents, pile on the family sofa (and mom and dad) for this informal portrait. While there are many Garrett County families that could fill a sofa with more kids and just as much love, what makes the Beilers unique is that Dan and Charla Beiler have adopted all six of their children pictured here. (They also have two adult children from Charla's previous marriage.) Piled from left to right are Krista, Micah, mother Charla, Ryan, father Dan, Erin, Tamra, and D.J. The Beilers were recognized this past November, which was National Adoption Month, as Garrett County's Adoptive Family of the Year for 1998. Committed to the philosophy and practice of providing a stable, nurturing environment for children, the entire family continues to open their home to other children through foster care and the Fresh Air program. The Beilers are also active in community awareness of adoption and the need for more adoptive families both locally and across the country, and they encourage persons interested in foster care or adoption to contact the Garrett County Department of Social Services at 301-334-5406.

by David Foster

Family may mean different things to different people, but one thing most can agree on is that family are the people with whom one feels most safe and at home with. Perhaps the major difference among definitions of family lies not in what the word means, but how far it extends. One local family that pushes this concept to its limits in an extraordinary way, but retains and even enhances its basic idea through its ordinariness is the Beiler family, recently honored as Garrett County's Adoptive Family of the Year for 1998.

The Beilers' home along Rock Lodge Road doesn't look unusual from the outside, nor inside does it strike the eye as anything overly special. That's fitting, for Dan and Charla Beiler and their six children, D.J., Krista, Tamra, Micah, Erin, and Ryan, are a typical American family, gathering for meals and juggling schedules of activities, ballgames, practices, and schoolwork to make things work.

"We started off in foster care about 10 years ago through Garrett County Social Services with hopes of adopting a newborn baby," Charla Beiler said, "and we've adopted five of those kids through Social Services and one through a private adoption at the mother's request.

"We got into this as a ministry, because years ago when we were both members of the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad (Dan still is), and we would see some of the conditions in some homes as we were out on calls. We saw children living under conditions that made us think about the need for foster care, and we started taking notice of ads seeking foster families.

"After discussing the idea Dan and I decided we wanted to get involved, so we took the six months of classes offered through Social Services and began providing foster care, which led to adoption.

"This has become our ministry, our way of showing compassion and doing our part to make the world a better place for others. Our society can be very self-centered, and can promote the attitude that 'you shouldn't get involved in other people's problems.'"

"Once we started looking at adoption as a ministry, we started thinking that God got the kids to us, and that they are here for a reason," Dan said. "We have something to give to them, and they have things to give to us."

Looking at a way of life as a ministry doesn't solve the problems which that way of life entails, the Beilers agree, and they and each of the children have to learn together how to make a family. "There's a different set of problems when you have a blended family, whether it's brought about by adoption, divorce, or any other way," Dan said. "It can get difficult because there's so many people involved."

"We've changed our parenting styles over the years," said Charla. "I used to think, 'Oh, I'll take these kids in and love them and make everything better by smothering with love,' and that giving the basics of food, love, and understanding would lead the kids to be very appreciative and cooperative—that isn't the reality, though. Some of them, especially the teenage foster care kids, resented that at first. 'Why is it any of your business what happens to me?' seemed to be the attitude.

"We've had to work to get past that resentment by giving unconditional love and consistency; no matter how they act out through behavior, grades, ignoring us completely, etc., we still make a point to include them in everything we do, and give them the opportunity to participate and be involved. Some of them may have not been given the opportunities we can give them, just being someone they can talk to, someone to listen to them and their concerns," said Charla.

Dan has had to grow with his role as well. "I was more willing to make an issue over more things in the early going; as I've gotten older I've learned to pick my battles more carefully and compromise when it's called for. You have to decide what to stress and not to stress; you don't want to lay a lot of rules on them, but you don't want them to get away with too much either."

Each new adoption challenged the family's flexibility, just as a new birth would. "Every time you bring in a new kid the pecking order changes, and when you're building a family where the pecking order changes when new kids come into the midst of the age mix, and they all can be from somewhat unstable backgrounds to begin with, that can be tough," said Charla.

"We consistently work to focus on them as individuals, celebrate their individual strengths and interests, open up the door and let them pursue interests, whether sports, music, etc. The majority of our kids had very low self-esteem when they got here, and that was key to us building their self-esteem back up by encouraging them to pursue their interests and talents."

"One of the things we conciously try to do is to make some family traditions, working to build family memories for all of us," Dan added. "For example, the whole family goes together to pick out our Christmas tree, and each of us takes a turn with the saw at cutting it down."

Laundrytime, while probably not everyone's idea of a family-building activity, provides another avenue for teamwork, said Charla. "When a basket of laundry comes out we fold clothes together, helping each other out. The kids pitch in together, because we try to instill in them that if you see that someone needs help don't wait to be asked, just jump in and help out.

"We also make a point of trying to gather together around the table for every evening meal; we've read many times where people don't do that anymore, but Dan and I were raised that way, so we try to sit everyone down and eat together.

"We also home-school all of the kids. That's not a rejection of Garrett County's public schools, which we think do a great job, but we had started home schooling six years ago when we had two children with learning disabilities that we started schooling at home to see if the one-on-one interaction helped, and it did. We have a computer, and they spend lots of time at the library researching special projects. We're able to promote self-learning, in that we stress that if they don't know an answer, how would they go about finding it on their own?"

The kids aren't the only ones who have benefited from this busy household that draws children from a variety of homes together—Dan and Charla have too. "This has brought our marriage closer together," Dan said. "We have our stresses, but like any other couple we have to communicate, work together, and make decisions. With this many kids we are forced to communicate to get things done."

"At one time we had a child who had been a burn victim," Charla recalled, "and her physical needs required lots of bathing, during which she was in lots of pain. Some days I just said 'I can't do this anymore,' but as Dan and I worked through it together and communicated with each other and with the child, it brought all of us closer together for more support.

"Sometimes kids from the worst situations have been very forgiving, and have had attitudes of acceptance that I don't think I could have had. There are so many kids out there that need a good home, and by that I don't mean one with lots of money, but lots of tender loving care and 'being there' for the children.

"The kids aren't with us because the parents had a lack of love, but more a lack of knowledge, ability, and skill ... taking care of their needs," Dan commented. "The parents may have had problems of their own that haven't given them time to learn how to be a parent. A problem is that you can't put kids on a shelf and say 'I'll be back when I've learned how to be a parent'; 18 months in the life a 3-year-old is half their life, so you lose a lot of bonding and developmental time in 18 months of 3-year-old's life. The child needs a stable environment and unconditional love at that and any age."

Charla added that while she and Dan didn't think of themselves as anyone special, being an adoptive parent "takes someone who is truly committed, who has a love for children, who doesn't give up easily, [and is] willing to stick by the child through good and bad. The child needs to learn how to trust again, and the key is consistency on the adult's part."

The Beilers' happy family is proof of the success of their efforts—their "ministry." As their oldest, D.J., commented, "The main thing I like about adoption is that it's helped me learn how to trust."

A mom and dad could not ask for a better evaluation of their parenting skills.

Projects Sought

of public relations.

Although the word "city" is in the title of the award, the winners may be towns, counties, provinces, neighborhoods, or regions. Bob Stephens, chairman of the new committee, brought the idea of seeking the award, as a county, to the commissioners some weeks ago. They agreed and offered to cover the application fee of $375.

Now Stephens and his 14-member committee are asking the Garrett County public to submit ideas for the three projects to be highlighted in the application. The projects must have had a significant impact on the community since 1996, with one of the three described projects having made a significant impact on youth.

"This isn't going to be easy because we have so many community projects that help so many people," Stephens said. "The committee is going to have a tough time narrowing down the list to just three."

The committee will gather project descriptions until Monday, Jan. 25, and then will study the submitted material to decide on the three projects to the used in the application. Persons who would like to submit a project are to complete a specific form. Several of these forms have already been mailed to a variety of civic and service organizations and county agencies. Other persons interested in filling out the form can obtain one from Stephens at the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families (301-334-1189) or the Garrett County Weekender office, both in Oakland, or at The Republican newspaper office in Grantsville.

The form asks the writer to describe the project in 200 words or fewer and then explain what prompted the community to undertake the said project. Applicants are asked to explain what attempts were made to involve the citizens directly affected by the project in its development and to what extent were they successful. Quantifiable results are required to illustrate what significant impacts the project has had on the community.

The committee is scheduled to meet late next week to discuss the submitted projects and to begin the selection process. The application deadline is March 18 at 5 p.m.

It's Only Fair...

Despite the fact that Maryland is enjoying a state budget surplus of nearly $250,000,000, our top elected officials, namely Governor Glendening and Speaker of the House Casper Taylor, are insisting that taxes must be raised. Apparently the expense of the operation of mass transit systems in the urban areas (subways and buses), as well as highway construction/maintenance, is exceeding income. Therefore, all of us, even those of us who never set foot on a Baltimore subway or bus, must dig deeper to help finance those systems.

Taylor is proposing a 20% increase in the Maryland sales tax, upping it from 5 to 6 cents on the dollar, while the governor is pushing for a nickel per gallon hike in the gasoline tax, even though Maryland's gasoline taxes are already among the highest in the nation. The monies generated will go into the state's trust fund that is designed to cover transportation/highway needs, but is falling short of meeting expenses.

Increases in taxes are never pleasant, but they are made much more tolerable if two conditions exist: they are used for the equal benefit of all citizens in the state; and, if the state lawmakers have first done all they can to eliminate waste in the current budget. We are pretty sure that we have neither of these scenarios.

Concerning the first condition, our own state delegate, George Edwards, has a far more equitable idea, which would be to have a regional sales tax, meaning that urban residents who benefit from the mass transit systems would pay a higher sales tax than those of us in outlying, rural areas who receive no benefit whatsoever from those systems. Of course, getting such a proposal through the legislature would be next to impossible since most of the legislators are from urban areas.

As to the elimination of waste in state spending, we can only chuckle.

At least Governor Glendening is proposing that the state surplus this year be used for school construction projects, which would suit us fine if Garrett County can secure some of those funds for such sorely needed projects as the construction of an auxiliary gym at Northern High School and the renovation of the miserable gym at Southern High School. In relative terms, it would be a tiny portion of that surplus needed to complete these projects. Delegate Edwards has already sent a letter to the governor with these requests, and he is hopeful for success. It seems only fair that if our sales tax and gasoline tax dollars are going to primarily support the subways of Baltimore, at least a few pennies from our urban neighbors who use those subways should be allocated to Garrett County to support a couple of our most needed projects.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am perturbed about the hypocritical and double standards that we have in the county. Most of this occurs and goes on in the name of God Almighty, local social clubs, lodges, or some organization that is claiming to bring about so-called good for whatever reason.

As far as I see, it's just a whole lot of confusion and fickleness. On one hand, there are laws about drinking and driving under the influence. But on the other hand, some of the same people who are in positions of public office and authority seem to ignore what the law is since they are an official public servant at taxpayers' expense. As I see it, such people aren't even worth the dynamite to blow them up with because you would go to jail for doing this to such a person. How about that?

I am not going to be specific at this time since most people I know who do this would make sure their attorney would see to it that life continues on with them, but if you ruffle any feathers, then usually your rear end is the grass and the other person is the lawn mower. It broke my heart recently when I read about that little girl who was killed by a drunk driver. I have four children and a wife and I'll be honest with you, Mr. Editor, I don't really know what I would do if some drunk driver killed any of my children or my wife.

Is it really a first-time offense, or is it just because they were finally in an accident and got caught? The laws for drunk driving should either be banned, since they're not enforced, or they should be enforced. I guess we just like to do what is convenient and not correct until someone in our family or one of our friends or neighbors gets killed.

To the Editor:

I am writing today for two reasons. First, I wish to thank the volunteers who participated in the Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging sponsored "Share the Holiday" project. Several members of the community opened their hearts by driving a home-cooked Christmas dinner to frail elderly who were alone on the holiday. In addition to community volunteers Muriel Franc, Pat Bowser, Linda Gordon, Debbie Dixon and Susan Athey-Oxford, the Agency extends its thanks to several Community Action staff for their participation and generosity. It is important for all involved to know how much the meal and the personal contact meant to a frail, homebound senior.

I am also writing because now that "Old Man Winter" has finally arrived, the Area Agency on Aging would like to encourage readers to remember their elderly neighbors when the snow begins to pile up. Many seniors are physically unable to shovel snow due to age and overall health conditions. A minimal amount of time in many instances can mean a huge difference in the life of a senior. A pathway shoveled to the mailbox and/or garage can assure the senior's ability to receive and mail important correspondence or travel to the local market for needed groceries. As significant snow often prompts school closings, students could volunteer their services to shovel snow for an elderly neighbor.

Shopping an also be a hardship for a senior during bad weather. We suggest that individuals who have an elderly neighbor call them to see if they need any groceries when doing their own shopping.

The Area Agency on Aging coordinates various volunteer services which assist senior citizens. We would be happy to provide the names of seniors who need extra assistance during the winter months.

Thank you for sharing this with your readers.

Sincerely,
Adina Brode
Director
Area Agency on Aging

To the Editor:

The Republican does a great service for both the community and fledgling young businesses with "Let's Get Down to Business" column each week. However, your story this week on "The Center for Healing Arts" might have missed.

It was stated that, "an Herbal Pharmacy is also located in her studio at Deep Creek Lake." It is Against The Law in the state of Maryland to have a pharmacy on any premises without a licensed pharmacist. It does not matter whether the business dispenses controlled substances or not, the fact that the industry that has cried about a tax increase which would protect children is the same industry that wasted no time to increase their prices following the tobacco settlement. Will Cas Taylor bow to Big Tobacco again, or will he stand up for the children of the state?

I encourage those who read this to call Speaker Taylor, encourage him to support the tobacco tax, and let him know that our children matter. Call his office at 1-800-492-7122 and share your concerns.

To the Editor:

It has been my extraordinary pleasure to attend several home basketball games at Southern High over the past month. I have come to know many of the students in all the grades at the school, as well as some of their families, and it is clear to me that we should all take pride in what a wonderful group of young people are currently enrolled at Southern. The athletes, their coaches, the cheerleaders, the band, and many other associated groups and individuals clearly are excelling at their chosen activities because of hard work and dedication, and we should all feel proud of their accomplishments because it is a collective effort on the part of the community as a whole that generates these results.

I have to admit, though, that one thing did detract from my enjoyment of the activities at the gymnasium. When I paused to look around me at friends and family members who were also enjoying the game, I was saddened to also observe the awful condition of the gymnasium itself. Anyone who goes into the gym can observe the problems: paint peeling off the walls, poor lighting, window mechanisms, and other mechanical portions in various stages of disrepair. When one considers the quality of teaching and sports development at the school, it seems so sad to think that this is the best we can do for our young people. The teachers and coaches teach them that they need to work hard and take pride in their accomplishments, yet we also seem to be saying to them that we as a community and school system do not take pride in our institutions.

I have children in all levels of education (except college) in this county and I have seen nothing in any of the schools I have been to that cries out for attention more than the gymnasium at Southern. I would ask that the school board and county government please address this problem as soon as possible so that we can fully enjoy the moments that our young people provide for us at this building. They make us proud of them in so many ways, it seems the least we should do as parents and citizens of southern Garrett County is to make this problem our collective concern. If you agree with me, tell your school board members that you do not like the status quo and would like to see the building improved.

If you agree with me, tell the county commissioners this problem is an aberration in a county that in most other ways takes great pride in the way it is presented to the outside world. If you so not agree with me, explain to me what message you think is sent to our high school students by not addressing this problem.

Thank you for your time,
Rick Perry

To the Editor:

A provision of the Balanced Budget Act calls for an arbitrary $1,500 cap on outpatient rehabilitation services for Medicare beneficiaries. These services are performed in nursing homes, often after an elderly person has suffered a stroke or a fall. The Physical Therapy Caucus of the Western Maryland AHEC is gravely concerned that patients will not receive adequate rehabilitation if this cap is left to stand. For instance, an average stroke patient requires a substantial amount of therapy to regain function or learn to live safely with limitations. If inadequate amounts of therapy are provided, the patient may be subject to falls, need more substantial home care, or develop other injuries or conditions. Senior citizens' health and independence will be threatened without the benefit of full rehabilitation services after an accident or illness.

The American Physical Therapy Association points out that: 1) the $1,500 limitation will deny Medicare beneficiaries access to necessary rehabilitation treatment; 2) the $1,500 cap does not consider the medical condition of the patient or the health outcomes of rehabilitation services; 3) the $1,500 cap dramatically reduces Medicare beneficiaries' choice of care giver. Beneficiaries in rural areas will have a particularly difficult time obtaining access to needed services; 4) the $1,500 limit was imposed without Congressional hearings; and 5) the $1,500 limit combines physical therapy and speech therapy under the same cap. There is no rationale on which to base this shared cap. It is illogical and contrary to current practice.

Senior citizens deserve access to necessary treatment. This arbitrary cap puts the government squarely between the patient and his or her medical caregiver. Such interference in medical decision-making is the wrong direction for the Medicare program. Bipartisan bills to repeal this provision were entered in the last Congress but not heard. The Caucus strongly recommends that concerned citizens write their representatives in Congress to support new legislation to repeal this cap and move to a more efficient, patient-centered manner of controlling use of therapy services. For more information and a sample letter, contact the American Physical Therapy Association at www.apta.org on the Internet or at 1111 N. Fairfax Street, Alexandria, VA 22314. For more information about the Physical Therapy Caucus, visit the Western Maryland AHEC's Web site at www.allconet.org/ahec/physical.

Sincerely,
Michael Staggers, MS, PT

THE PLAIN READER

Chopping ice off the back roof last week made an interesting context for reading The Plain Reader: Essays On Making a Simple Life (Ballantine, $12.95). The simple is not always easy, but the editor of the Reader, Scott Savage, argues, living simply is always worth the trouble.

Savage with his family and others live in a plain Quaker community. They have founded the Center for Plain Living, and publish the quarterly magazine PLAIN ($18 a year, 60805 Pigeon Point, Barnesville, OH 43713).

Once upon a time all Quakers lived a plain lifestyle and in doing such were first cousins to the plain-living Anabaptists (Mennonite, Amish, Brethren). Most Quakers have gone modern, and have become liberals in recent decades. It often takes a convert to discover the roots of a movement. Savage and his friends have done just that.

The Savages left the run-of-the-mill affluent American lifestyle for a life of wearing home-made clothes, eating homegrown food, and driving a buggy, when they are not walking, that is. They publish their magazine on an old, hand-set printing press. The writing is gentle and lively, illustrated by gorgeous woodblock prints.

The Plain Reader collects some of the best articles from PLAIN magazine. The Reader serves well both as an introduction to the ideas of Savage and his colleagues and as a handy summary of the high points for those who have read PLAIN from the beginning.

Though the preponderance of writers come either from the Anabaptist or plain Quaker traditions, there are other voices as well. Wendell Berry, for example, has achieved guru status in the back-to-the-land movement of the past three decades. Jerry Mander is program director for the Foundation of Deep Ecology, and has a view of the world which defies labels. John Taylor Gatto was a "New York State Teacher of the Year," and has gone on to explain to all who will listen why public schools are educationally bankrupt.

A PLAIN favorite, who has three essays in this collection, is Gene Logsden. The first books of his I read, years ago now, were "how-to" modern homesteader type works. He has matured into something of a philosopher toward simple living, not merely living on a modern, ex-urban homestead.

The Plain Reader is not a "how-to" book, except in its instruction on pulling the plug. You just go over to the electric socket, and pull it. While The Plain Reader repudiates what they call "the technosphere" (television, computers, etc.), it is not an "anti-" work. Savage and friends are positive people with an emerging vision of "making a life" rather than just living.

Plain living is not merely technologically simple (or at least simpler), but making a life in which relationships and community are primary. What supports relationships and community is embraced; what does not is rejected. The essays are clustered around issues of wholeness: "Choosing Health," "Working," "Unplugging the Media," "Reclaiming Distance and Place," and "Seeking Knowledge and Wisdom."

The one criticism I have of PLAIN and, consequently, of The Plain Reader, is that there is no philosophical rigor to their movement. Savage and most of his co-authors are explicitly Christian. He writes in the introduction: "In my life I choose to follow Christ." From there they reflect on where Christ has led them.

What is not clear is why they use a shovel, but do not use a computer. What are the criteria by which such decisions (both in the affirmative and in the negative) are made? In making clothes at home, is it all right to use a sewing machine or should one use a needle and thread? If the sewing machine is okay, then at what level of technology does it stop being okay? They need to clarify how they make the unending series of choices about what technology is appropriate to the life they seek to lead.

That reservation stated, I encourage all who are troubled by the technological consumerism of our time to buy and read The Plain Reader. The book itself is a lovely thing, probably the nicest paperback I have ever held. That too is part of the message, for Savage and his friends seek to make all things lovely.

Trees Chipped

chipped) and the other near Oakland (106 trees chipped).

Trees were recycled in Grantsville in the morning and at the Southern High School athletic field parking lot in the afternoon. While some residents had dropped their trees off at the site, other individuals waited for the chipping to begin and then were given as much pine mulch as they wanted. The chipped trees can also be used for a bulking agent in compost piles. Most of the remaining mulch will be used at Southern High School for a wetland area. Still more of the chips are to be utilized at the county landfill.

Brown acknowledged the generous donation of equipment, labor, and time contributed by the Oakland Timberjax Tree Service. The company, owned by Randy Sisler, provides tree trimming and removal services and also manages five Christmas tree farms in the county.

In addition to the trees left at the two sites on Saturday, others have been dropped off at the landfill and at two collection sites, Brown said. They will be mulched and used in various recycling projects. Personnel from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources' Fisheries Service will use about 100 trees to improve fish habitat, Brown reported. The remaining trees will be chipped and used on the landfill roads and in leaf composting.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Hartman's Accident Amoco

Anyone who hasn't stopped in Hartman's Amoco Station in Accident for a while may find a rather big change has taken place — and it's not just that the gas pumps have been computerized to handle credit and debit card transactions.

Where overhead doors once gaped open into large service bays, brightly lighted windows look in on a cluster of tables and booths that form a little café — quite a different look than that of lube racks.

The smell of motor oil has been replaced by the aromas of cappuccino and black coffee brewing; cheese melting on pizza; or fresh donuts from D'Atri's in Cumberland.

Rick Hartman's Amoco station-convenience-store-cum-coffee shop, which replaced the traditional service station previously operated on that spot, offers a broad spectrum of products and services, ranging from good wines to photo copying. Garrett County visitors and residents may stop in to fill up the gas tank or buy an ice cream cone.

Those who wish may order a hot daily luncheon special or even stop in for breakfast on the way to work. "Breakfast here is getting to be more popular. We serve a variety of foods, like chipped beef and gravy, eggs, and baked goods," Hartman said. He pointed to a rather new item in stock, Oatmeal To Go, packaged in little plastic cups. "You just add hot water. A lot of people are buying that. I'll have to order more."

The most recent addition to Hartman's establishment is an automated teller machine (ATM). "Often people would stop in here looking for an ATM. I'd have to send them away. The closest ATMs to Accident are in McHenry," he explained.

Hartman decided to respond to the needs of his customers and to install a cash machine at his station. He did and the ATM business has been brisk.

Open for over 100 hours a week, Hartman's business is operated by a staff of about five. Barb Lynch, assistant manager and office manager, takes care of everything from dealing with suppliers to getting equipment repaired. And there are others. "Well let's see. There is Diana and Kristin — They handle our 'customer relations' here," Hartman smiled. "And Holly. She keeps things running here. I guess you could call her our food service director," he said, searching for the most appropriate description of her function.

A native of Garrett County, Hartman demonstrates a commitment to his community. School students have used his station to hold car washes and bake sales as fund-raisers for various projects and events. When the Northern High School Band won the state championship, the advertising sign in front of Hartman's carried a message of congratulations to the student musicians.

Hartman's Amoco is open seven days a week.

SERVING THEIR CUSTOMERS - Owner Rick Hartman and office manager Barb Lynch can be found at Hartman's Accident Amoco from early morning until late at night, meeting the needs of residents and visitors to the county.

Participation In Area Blood Drives Urged By GCMH

Officials at Garrett County Memorial Hospital have joined forces with the American Red Cross to encourage area citizens to participate in one of the upcoming scheduled blood drives.

Three blood drives are scheduled in the coming weeks: Friday, Jan. 29, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Zion Lutheran Church in Accident; Friday, Feb. 19, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Elks Lodge in Oakland; and Friday, Feb. 26, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Kitzmiller fire hall.

"Inclement weather conditions have forced some scheduled blood drives to be canceled and [have been] cited as a cause for poor donor turnout at other recent blood drives," remarked Joyce Nutter, director of the hospital's laboratory services. "It is important to maintain the available supply of blood, therefore, we felt it important to publicly encourage participation in the upcoming blood drives.

"The eligibility requirements for donating blood are: age 17 or older, weigh at least 105 pounds and be in general good health," Nutter added.

Persons interested in additional information on scheduled blood drives may contact the American Red Cross at 301-387-2570. The American Red Cross, Johnstown Region, is a non-profit blood collection processing, testing, and distribution organization which serves portions of five states and spans 66 counties, including Garrett County.

Learning Links Slated Again At Yough Glades

Learning Links, a program designed for children and their parents, will be held at Yough Glades Elementary School again this year, according to Barbara Baker, program coordinator. The sessions will be held on Tuesdays, 5-7 p.m., at the school. They are open to all children from 3 years old up to fifth grade.

During the first hour of the sessions, children will work with parents on literature games, crafts, and with computers. Parents will also have the opportunity to complete Maryland School Performance tasks with their children.

During the second hour, younger children will work at activity centers while the older ones will play fitness games. At this time, parents will work with facilitators to discuss a variety of parenting issues, such as getting along in school and helping with homework.

"This is our fifth year of Learning Links and the response has been very positive," Baker said. "It is a great opportunity for parents to see some of the wonderful things their children are doing in school."

Funding for this program was made available in part by a grant from the Parent Network of the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth, and Families. For more information or to register for the program, persons may contact Baker at 301-334-3334.

throughout Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Each of these inquiries concerned property north of Oakland along Route 219 in the immediate vicinity of Glotfelty Enterprises.

"Langan Engineering called us to ask about the availability of water and sewer along Route 219 around the Glotfelty farm," Scott Winters of the Garrett County Planning and Zoning Office said. "They said they were conducting a 'Retail Site Study.'"

"Langan Engineering called me to ask for a map of Oakland's water lines," Oakland water engineer Randy Sharpless said. "They also asked where our nearest water line to Glotfelty's is located, and what the size of the water main in that area is. I informed them that Oakland town water ends at the Food Lion store, and that the water main is 8 inches in diameter at Food Lion."

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain reported that "Langan has asked me for a copy of the town's zoning regulations, although they didn't identify who they represented."

Blood Pressure Drugs May Lower Risk for Dementia

An estimated 600 million persons in the world with high blood pressure are at risk of developing serious health problems. In addition to stroke and heart disease, elderly persons with untreated high blood pressure also may be at risk for dementia. "Dementia" is a broad medical term referring to progressive loss of memory and other intellectual functions. Over time, persons affected become confused, unaware of surroundings, and generally incapacitated. While dementia can occur at any age, the term "senile dementia" refers to the condition in the elderly. Alzheimer's disease is one of the most common forms of dementia.

According to a recent report elderly persons with high blood pressure who are treated with high blood pressure medicines may have a lower risk of developing dementia. Researchers at 19 medical centers in Europe studied 2,418 elderly patients with high blood pressure. This is the first time researchers have found a positive link between blood pressure control with medicines and an actual reduction in the incidence of dementia.

Northern Middle Special Students Review Project

Special students at Northern Middle School recently reviewed one of their first-semester projects — a Thanksgiving Feast. This annual event was under the supervision of teacher Lisa Carr and assistant teachers Nancy Friend and Kathy Margroff.

The feast was used as a focal point for teaching a variety of subjects. The teachers presented history lessons, writing assignments, and exercises in social manners. "The students were challenged with activities that increased their social and academic skills," Carr explained.

Planning and preparing the feast provided creative teaching opportunities that included menu planning, writing invitations, and comparing food prices. The students also needed to learn to estimate and measure in order to prepare and serve the correct amount of food for the guests. By performing these tasks, students sharpened skills previously learned in the classroom or acquired new skills.

Members of the community address the class on other topics relevant to the feast. School nurse Becky Aiken talked to the class about the importance of physical and mental hygiene and Elaine Marple, a dental hygienist, advised the students on the importance of proper diet and brushing habits to maintain dental health. She also distributed toothbrushes, toothpaste, and floss to all students.

Lisa Bonar, sales director for Pampered Chef, also addressed the class. She showed the students how to prepare a vegetable tray, punch, apple treats, and dip. Bonar also donated an apple corer and a vegetable slicer to the class.

Some of the students designed and made costumes appropriate to the Thanksgiving Feast theme. Final preparations entailed cleaning and decorating the room for the occasion.

Each student selected an assignment for the day of the banquet. Their responsibilities included escorting guests to their seats, making welcoming speeches, and serving meals, drinks, and desserts. "With such a large class, the whole process was slow. We had to depend on the students to come together as a team to complete all assigned tasks," Carr said.

With much preparation by the students and help of community members such as Sheila Lewis, Sheri DeWitt, and Carolyn Tice, the feast took place. Guests for the event were school staff and administration and school board members. "It was another great success," said Friend.

Below from left are Eric Custer, Jerry Cosner, Mike Mosta, Marvin Silbaugh, and Rico Alston. Above right, Keith Platter displays the slices of turkey that he and his mother Sharon baked. Vice principal Elmer Redinger holds up the "larger" plate that he wished for in past years, saying that the other plates were too small to hold all the delicious food.

GRANTSVILLE SAYS THANK YOU - Penn Alps Restaurant hosted a Grantsville Employee Appreciation dinner last week, and awards were presented to several residents who have provided many years of dedicated service. Mayor Gerry Beachy presented a gavel to former mayor Fred Holliday, above left, and a gift as a token of appreciation for his 15 years in office. Special thanks, awards, and gifts went to long-time town employees. Pictured above right, clerk Gloria Martin was honored for 30 years of service to Grantsville, Heath Martin for 15 years of service, and Harry Knight for 10 years of service. Bill Hetrick, who was recognized for 15 years of service, was absent for the photo. Beachy also praised and thanked the council members for their work on behalf of the town. From left pictured with Beachy in the photo below are council members Jim McRobie, Jim Wilburn, Rich Towers, and Ron Gillum.

Grantsville Mayor Honors Martin, Other Employees

Grantsville's mayor, Gerry Beachy, honored town employees at a dinner last week for the service they have provided to the community. Among those recognized was Gloria Martin, for her 30 years of service. Employed as town clerk for three decades, Martin has outlasted seven mayors, Beachy noted.

As town clerk, Martin's responsibilities encompass a wide range of duties, including maintaining all town residents' tax records, the town's investments, utility bills, all banking responsibilities, and accounts payable and accounts receivable. The scope of her work has grown over the years. "Business responsibilities have increased. There is more federal and state paper work — more regulations," she said.

When she began working for the town in the 1960s, Martin said she worked out of her home, which allowed her to raise her children and run her home, as well as the business of the town. "When they told me I would have to start coming into the office, other people said it would be the best thing that could happen," she said, and noted that in fact it was.

Working at home, Martin found she was handling town business at all hours of the day and night, weekends, and holidays. Confining town business to the town office has restored a balance to her home life that was absent for many years, she explained.

In the 30 years she has served Grantsville, Martin has seen changes and growth, including new businesses coming to town, more homes being built, and development and expansion of the town park, which is the site of multiple activities for the community's children, youth, and adults. "One of the best changes I've seen has been the park. The town owns it and the Lions Club maintains it," she explained.

In discussing the working relationships she has had with town personnel over the decades, Martin reflected on many positive aspects. "I feel I've been about as fortunate as a person can be. I've had good working relationships with all the mayors and council members — and there have been a lot of them," she commented.

Though she has been working for many years, Martin said she feels very good about where she is and what she doing, and that she is not yearning for retirement. "I love Grantsville for the quiet, serene place it is. I just thank God for the 30 years I've had," she concluded.

Martin received an engraved pen and pencil desk set, a certificate of appreciation, and a cash gift.

Other employees were also honored for long years of service. Bill Hetrick was recognized for 15 years of service, Harry Knight for 10 years, and Heath Martin for five years. Each was presented with a certificate of award.

Beachy commended town council members Ron Gillum, Jim Wilburn, Rich Towers, and Jim McRobie for dedication and service to the people of Grantsville. The event was noted as a "success" by Beachy, who said he would like this to be the first in an ongoing tradition of employee appreciation dinners.

RAM Notes

Jan. 25 — noon dismissal of students (see related information below)

Jan. 26 — exam periods 1 & 3

Jan. 27 — exam periods 2 & 4

If schools have a delayed opening on Jan. 25 because of inclement weather, students will be dismissed at noon for a professional day on the next full day of school.

•A group of students in the Maryland's Tomorrow Program have met twice a month during activity period to plan and implement Service Learning projects. Another group of 10th graders in the MTP have been writing to fourth grade pen pals at Yough Glades Elementary School. ment exiting the building onto Oak Street, where a hill and a bridge combine for poor visibility.

"The current site is really bad for our members' morale," Smith said. "It would be for anyone who had to spend long shift hours in a building like this, because not only is it uncomfortable, more importantly you have to question its safety. One major safety issue is that we aren't able to set up a separate laundry/washing area for cleaning our clothes, gear, and bodies after coming into contact with blood-borne pathogens. This and other issues begin to add up, and can begin to bring down the morale of people who are volunteering their time and efforts to ensure the safety of all of southern Garrett County's citizens."

"According to reports the town wants to offer us the old chicken plant property west of town [along the Oakland-Rosedale Road, off of Route 39]," Kestner said. "Well, we've looked at this property in the past and we feel its not an option for several reasons, including flooding problems in the area, railroad tracks that could cut off our access, and the extra distance it puts between us and the Deep Creek Lake area, which is second only to the town of Oakland in calls for our assistance.

"At this point we seemed to have exhausted all our options within the town limits of Oakland, to the best of our knowledge," Kestner continued. "This is really unfortunate, because you want to locate a rescue squad in a location most accessible for its volunteers, especially during the day shift hours when a number of volunteers are at work in town.

"There's at least one other option we could pursue south of town, but it isn't ideal. We are still open to the town council or someone else to talk to us about a location other than the old chicken plant site."

"We don't believe this is an 'us versus them' situation," Smith commented. "We'd just like people to consider that the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was established by its members 25 years ago as a free service, and we have continually voted among ourselves to stay that way. We're the only squad in the entire state that doesn't charge for transporting a patient and doesn't have a subscription fee. It costs us an average of over $100 per mile just to get the ambulance out the door, $300 just for a basic transport to the hospital, and if medicines and IV fluids are administered the cost of the run can easily exceed $600."

"We're here for the community," Kestner concluded. "We're just asking for everyone's support at this time."

Rotary Helping Build Library In Grantsville

Two Grantsville Rotarians, Elmer Yoder and Delmas Yoder, recently contributed money that will help build a new library in Grantsville. The funds were donated to the Rotary Foundation and will come back to the local district 7350 as a grant from the foundation to be used for an education project for children ages 1-16.

With plans being developed to seek funds to build a larger library in Grantsville, the Rotary members elected to direct monies toward the future facility. They have also established a subcommittee whose members will work with the library project. Serving on the committee will be Trish Tilley, Joe Bender, Dan Klotz, Bob Diehl, and Olen McKenzie.

Rose Cupler, the Grantsville representative to the Ruth Enlow Library board of directors, explained that land has been purchased for the building, but there is currently no money available to proceed with the project.

Good Will From Goodwill

by Miriam Loos and Clara Withnell
Goodwill Mennonite Home

Goodwill Mennonite Home was bustling with Christmas activities for the whole month of December. Residents went shopping at the mall, then wrapped presents. They use the profits from the sales of their crafts to purchase gifts for the Union Rescue Mission in Cumberland. Then they wrote cards, baked cookies, and trimmed the tree in the Activity Room. Various groups caroled throughout the halls, many bringing favors and gifts for the residents.

Mary Detrick's daughter and son-in-law, Janice and William Litton, brought beautiful poinsettias from their greenhouse. In the spirit of giving, donations from Ruth Hayhurst, Mr. Bonner, the Springs Sunday School Class #2, and Glade Mennonite Church paid for materials for a new bird feeder. Ed Yoder, retired from the maintenance department, built it, using one-way glass so people in the activity room can watch the birds without disturbing them. We received a large donation of fabric from Dorothy and Belmont Lenhart and a set of World Book Encyclopedias from Margie Campbell of the housekeeping staff. The Oakland Women's Civic Club made favors for each resident, as they do throughout the year.

Martha Bender and her dietary staff prepared and served traditional holiday foods, including turkey, dressing, oyster stew, egg nog, and even "snowman" ice cream. The Sunday School class of Springs Mennonite Church brought children from Mountainview Christian School with gifts for each resident. Claude Maust, Lura Folk, and Cleamon Yommer are resi-dent members of Springs Mennonite Church.

The Activity Department had a Christmas tea that turned into a great afternoon for reminiscing. Zion Lutheran Church in Accident hosted the birthday party. Honorees were Alma Dodge, Ruth Whitacre, Andy Welfley, Annie Whiteman, James Cayton, Margaret Lapp, and Mary Harman, who is the resident member.

We send our sympathies to the families and friends of Margaret Savage, Lawrence Hartle, Alma Dodge, and Iva Fike, who passed away in the month of December.

Our welcome mat goes out to our newest residents, Mike Hillegas from Salisbury, Pa., Alicia Vickers from McHenry, Nellie Will from LaVale, and Sara Alexander from Accident.

We're truly grateful to these people who conducted our Thursday morning chapel services; Bill Bover of Welsh Memorial Baptist Church in Frostburg (resident member Muriel Waits); Joseph Snodgrass of Maranatha Assembly of God Church in Grantsville; Steve Heatwole of Springs Mennonite Church (residents Lura Folk, Claude Maust, and Cleamon Yommer); Richard Green of God's Ark of Safety in Frostburg; and Scott Shumaker.

Jack Smouse reported on the following evening entertainers: Grantsville Community Choir, Maple Glen Church choir, a group from Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren, Grantsville WOW Auxiliary, Oscar Preston as Santa Claus, Frank and Helen West, Grantsville Girl Scouts, Holly Bender, Sherry Maust, Karen and Mike Mitieszyn of the Last Generation, Sand Spring Church of God, the Friendsville Rangers, Janelle Bender and students from Northern High School, the Glory Bound group (including Linda Lancaster and Wilma Hutzel of Goodwill's staff), Trinity Assembly of God Church children and adults, a group from the World Lighthouse Worship Center, Paul and Marie Williams, the choir from Salisbury's Church of the Brethren, Martha Albright (Ruth Whitacre's granddaughter), Rev. Dwight Yinkey, Naomi Byler of Oak Dale Mennonite Church directing 26 children, a group from Glendale Assembly of God Church, people from the Swanton Mennonite Church, the Ed Miller family, the Ken Smith family, Elmer Beachy and singers from Mountain View Christian Fellowship, Janet Chalkley and Pegg Janney, the Hammers and Strings group, the Skidmore and Curtis families, Jack Smouse, Pam and Tammy Brenneman, and 92-year-old resident Kate Miller, who sang "Silent Night" in German.

Idella Bender and Shirley Teets of the Activity Department call Jack Smouse the "Jack of All Trades." In addition to the organ, he also plays the lap dulcimer, harmonica, button accordion, and humanatone, so he's an instant entertainer when they need him. Almost every evening when the people who are scheduled to present the program arrive, Jack is there to greet them and set up the mikes or projector. He also builds and repairs whirligigs, mends residents' clothes for those whose families are unable to do so, and spends a lot of time socializing with residents.

The Retirement Village celebrated the holidays with a covered dish lunch in the Multi-Purpose Room. One morning Jack Smouse hired Garrett County's People Movers bus to take his neighbors to the mall for shopping. A group of homeschooled families, the Skidmores, Curtises, Robisons, and Chuck Bean came caroling through the Village one evening.

A camera was found in the main lobby of the nursing home over the holidays. Please call the administrative office at 301-895-5194 to identify and claim.

GCSO's Reality Program Slates Next Session

The fourth Reality program will begin at the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on Saturday, Feb. 6, according to Sheriff Dick Sanders. Since the inception of the Reality program last August, 14 students have participated in the alternative sentencing program for local youth.

Reality program participants meet for four sessions on four consecutive Saturday nights, during which they focus on the symptoms and consequences of alcohol and drug abuse. The program's goal is to help participants see that they have choices and make better decisions regarding the use and abuse of alcohol and drugs. Participants are also encouraged to think about their responsibilities to their families and the community.

The Reality program is under the direct supervision of the Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and is sponsored locally by the BPOE 2481 Oakland Elks Lodge.

For more information about the Reality program interested persons may contact Lt. Larry Gnegy of the Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911.

Panelcraft Building Systems

The time to be concerned about how to keep from using so much heating fuel is when you build. Use Panelcraft's Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs).

SIP structures are known for their structural integrity. Nature's storms, earthquakes, tornados, etc., just need a little greater force to do the same amount of damage to SIP structures versus conventional.

Faster - Stronger - Warmer

SIPs consist of Polystyrene laminated between two pieces of structure board, thus creating a very rigid, super insulating panel which is used for Walls, Roofs, Ceilings and Floors, virtually any aspect of your project!

Daddy

You are always there for me no matter where you are. I always know you love me whether I'm near or far.

You never let me down and you always make me smile. No matter where I am, please stay my Daddy for a while.

You even make me laugh whenever skies are gray. You save me an extra joke for those rainy days.

Never in my life will I ever find another person like you. Who not only is my Daddy but my best friend too.

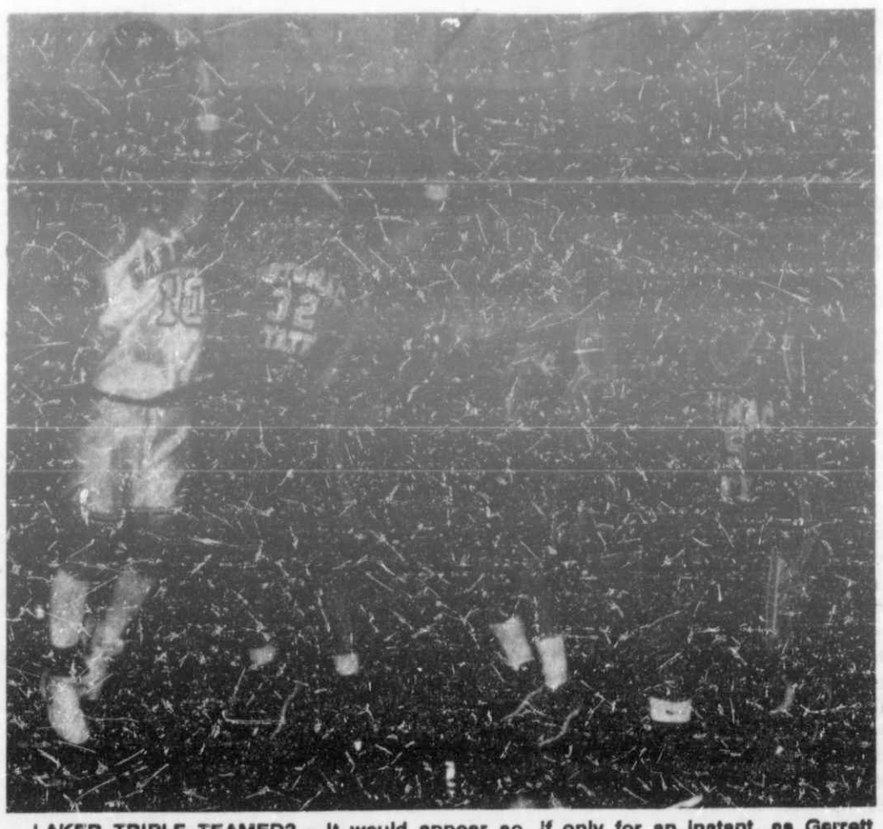
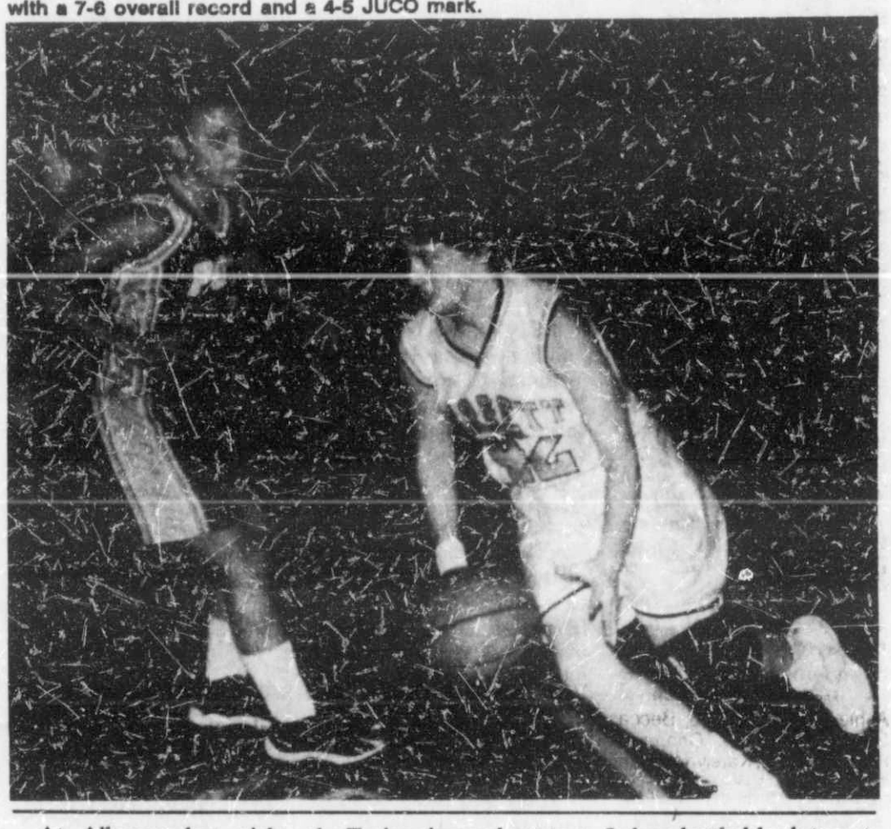
GOING TO THE HOOP is something the Garrett Community College Lakers did extremely well Monday night when they crushed visiting CCAC-South, 104-67. Above left, Garrett's Dexter Levi goes up high above a defender to record two of his game-high 22 points. Meeting no resistance for two more points in the right photo is Laker Josh Bunnell. The easy win was sandwiched by a pair of tough losses to Allegany College and Catonsville. See story.



LAKER TRIPLE TEAMED? - It would appear so, if only for an instant, as Garrett Community College freshman forward Anna Shelton (#10 above) goes up for two Laker points against the visiting Potomac State Catamounts Monday evening. The two teams battled throughout the contest, exchanging the lead nine times and knotting the score on six occasions, before the visitors pulled away to down the Lakers 76-67. Below, freshman guard Mindy Sypolt begins a drive down the lane that netted two of her eight points on the night. Following a 76-66 loss at Allegany last night, GCC is left with a 7-6 overall record and a 4-5 JUCO mark.



Laker Win Sandwiched By Losses To Trojans, Cardinals

It was a victory sandwiched between two defeats this past week for the Garrett Community College men's basketball team, as the Lakers dropped an 84-78 Maryland JUCO contest to powerful Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland Saturday, ripped CCAC-South at GCC on Monday, 104-67, and then fell to Catonsville, another strong JUCO squad last night, 77-58, on the Cardinals' court. The 1-2 effort left the Lakers with a 10-6 record overall.

It is only a small percentage of teams that go into Trojan Square Garden in Cumberland and come back out as winners for the evening, but the Lakers nearly pulled off an upset of the nationally ranked Trojans Saturday night. The Lakers trailed by 13 at halftime, 48-35, but cut the Trojans lead to just two points, 75-73, with just under two minutes remaining in the game. They closed to within two points again, but could get no closer.

It was the 14th win in 17 games for the Trojans, and their seventh victory in nine JUCO games.

Garrett was down by 16, 68-52, with just over seven minutes left in the game, but Benitez Jackson ignited a rally for the Lakers by hitting a pair of jumpers in a six-point run, and then drained a three-pointer that cut the deficit to nine points, 72-63, with 4:38 remaining.

Jackson hit another jumper a few minutes later to bring the Lakers to within four points, 73-69, with 2:33 re-maining. Allegany's Kashun Bynum hit a pair of free throws to make it 75-69, but a foul shot by Lionell Sewell and another three-point bucket by Jackson made it 75-73 at the 1:55 mark.

Two more foul shots by Bynum put the Trojans back up by four, but an inside basket by Sewell made it 77-75 with 1:27 remaining. Lamont Sides connected for a basket, and after a steal by Dominick Taylor, Hugh Brown hit a lay-up to give Allegany an 81-75 advantage with 43 seconds left.

Michael Fields answered with a three-pointer for the Lakers with 33 seconds remaining, but the Trojans connected on three final foul shots to secure the six-point victory.

Sewell had an outstanding night for the Lakers, as he made good on eight of nine shots from the floor and connected on two of three free throws for 20 points. Fields was right behind with 19 points and 10 rebounds, Dexter Levi recorded 14 points, and Jackson finished with 12.

Pacing the Trojans was Lamont Sides with 23 points, including 15 from three-point range, while Brown finished with 13 points and eight rebounds, Taylor recorded 13 points and 10 assists, and Derrick Worrell and Tahron Briscoe each netted 12 points.

"We made a good run, but had too many mistakes in the final two minutes," stated GCC coach Dennis Gibson. "It takes a superior effort to beat a team the quality of Allegany, and some of the really good things we did were negated by some of our mistakes."

Allegany coach Bob Kirk said, "Everybody plays a different game against us, and we bring out the best in everybody."

The Lakers certainly did not lose any of their intensity in the Monday's game against visiting CCAC-South, as is often the case following a win or near win against an outstanding opponent. The Lakers seized control of the game early by scoring the first 14 points and 23 of the first 25 points. They held a com-

Laker Women Fall In Close Battles With Pot. State, Allegany College

It was a tough week for the women's basketball team of Garrett Community College, as the Lakers lost a 76-66 battle with Potomac State Monday and then fell last night to Allegany College by a similar score, 76-66. Both games were hard-fought battles; the lead seesawed back and forth throughout the match-up with the Catamounts, while the Lakers fought back valiantly after a slow start against the Trojans, only to run out of time. The losses give Garrett a 7-6 overall record and a 4-5 JUCO mark.

GCC was up 37-32 at halftime in McHenry against Potomac State, which went on a 44-30 tear in the second half to take the win. It was a tight game that included six ties and nine lead changes. The Lakers' achilles heel was their propensity to foul, as they totaled 22 miscues to Potomac State's 15, and the Catamounts hit a total of 18 free throws.

The Lakers spread their scoring around, but the Catamounts spread their scoring around even more. GCC's Chrissy Lambert and Tasha Blackmon each tallied 12 points, while Erica McBride added 10 points and Mindy Sypolt and April Sisler each scored 8 points. Blackmon and McBride also pulled down a team-high 7 rebounds each, Lambert, McBride, and Susanne Albright dished out 3 assists apiece, and Sybolt had 3 steals.

Potomac State was led by 21 points by Takia Barnes, 20 points by Charlis Jordan, and 14 points by Erin Furey. Barnes and Jordan also pulled down 15 rebounds apiece, while Furey had 9 assists and Kei Hammond had 3 steals.

At Allegany last night GCC fell behind early as the Trojans jumped out to a 45-24 halftime lead, but the Lakers battled back to out-

A hard-fought contest Monday night left the Northern High School girls' basketball team down by five at the buzzer against Fort Hill, 49-44, to give the Huskies a 4-8 record.

The Huskies held a 14-10 lead at the opening of the second quarter, but the Sentinels came back to go up by two at the half, 24-22. Fort Hill never relinquished the lead throughout the second half, taking a five-point victory.

Bridget Frazee and Heather Nugent led Northern with 13 points apiece and Heidi Frazee added a dozen points. Bridget Frazee also pulled down 8 rebounds, while Jackie Brenneman had four points and four steals. The Sentinels were led by a game-high 14 points by Emily Coyle, who also had 7 assists and 2 steals. Jessica Vance added 13 points, 13 rebounds, and 2 steals.

The Huskies will travel to Mt. Savage for a Monday night match-up, then return home for a Wednesday evening battle with Southern. The junior varsity tip-off is set for 6 p.m., followed by the varsity contest at 7:30 p.m.

Ram Girls Trounce Beall By 37 Points, Then Drop By 25 To Alco

The girls' varsity squad of Southern High School split its contests for the week, annihilating Beall 66-29 Monday evening before being throttled by a 64-39 margin by top-ranked Allegany last night. The action gives the Rams a 6-7 overall record and a 4-3 WMIL mark.

The Rams' wrecking crew came out and began demolishing the Mountaineers right off the bat, taking a 26-4 lead at the end of the first quarter. Southern continued its run throughout, going up 35-12 at the half and 52-16 at the end of the third quarter en route to the 37-point win.

With a 28-9 team advantage in field goals over Beall, the Rams were paced by Ashley Liller's 16 points, while Jessica Saturday added 12 points and Jessica Lemley scored 11 points. The Mountaineers' Sarah Lashley scored 11 points, and Cheri Simmons had 4 points and 6 rebounds.

The Rams junior varsity squad also hammered its opponents, 49-10. Ashley Spady's dozen points for Southern led all scorers.

Southern trailed by only 4 points at the half last night against Alco, but a 20-10 third quarter tally by the Campers put the game out of the Rams reach. The win gave the hosts their 21st consecutive WMIL win for a 6-0 league mark on the season, and a 10-2 overall record.

Southern shot only 50 percent from the free throw line, while the Campers connected on 8 of 10 foul shots.

The Rams were paced by 12 points by Liller and 11 points by Saturday, while Teagarden added 8 points. Allegany's Tracey Little and Cassie Murray combined for 44 points, 18 of which came in the game-breaking third quarter. Little totaled 23 points on the night, Murray 21, and Teandra Smith scored 10 points.

Southern's junior varsity fell by a 32-24 score, as Jennifer Bosley paced the Rams with 10 points. Kori Corthron scored 14 points for the Campers.

The Rams travel to Northern Wednesday night to take on the Huskies, with a 6 p.m. junior varsity contest preceeding the 7:30 p.m. varsity battle.

Tom Bosley paced Bosley Construction with 19 points, Paul Lewis netted 14, and Dan Bosley scored 11. Kevin Liller hit a game-high 25 points to lead Mettiki.

Jason Shank had a 21-point performance for Gonder, Billy Braithwaite scored 18, and Tom Panther also reached double figures with 15. Leading four players in double figures for K&H was Norm Minnick with 17 points. Hershel Sebolt scored 12, Mel Evans finished with 11, and Stan Eggleston chipped in with 10.

manding 57-27 lead by halftime.

Levi paced the Lakers in scoring by recording 22 points, and also pulled down nine rebounds. Sewell finished with 15 points and nine rebounds, Charles Somerville netted 13 points, and Fields contributed 12 points, nine rebounds, six steals, and six assists. Thomas Somerville also reached double figures in rebounding with a team-high 10. The Lakers out-rebounded the visitors by a 65-41 margin.

CCAC was led by Kirk Evanov, who scored 20 points, Mike Brown with 15 points, and Dana Craig with 14 points and 19 rebounds.

Coach Gibson emptied his bench, and every member of the team contributed to the 104-point total.

One of their finest nights in shooting the ball against CCAC-South was replaced last night with possibly the poorest shooting effort of the season by the Lakers, who didn't score a single point until the Cardinals were up 16-0. The Lakers stayed almost even in rebounding (49-45, Catonsville), and they had a number of open-shot opportunities, but they simply could not get the ball to fall. They also killed themselves with turnovers, committing 30 of them for the evening.

After spotting the Cardinals 16 points, Garrett did finally get into the game and tied the score at 24-24 with three minutes left in the half. Turnovers by the Lakers allowed the home team to rebuild its lead to six points, 35-29, by halftime.

The second half started much like the first, as the Lakers managed to hit just one basket, a three-pointer by Benitez, in the first eight minutes of play. A second attempt to rally brought the Lakers no closer than 12 points.

Tyree Locke, Eric Evans, and Jermaine Diggs led Catonsville's scoring with 14, 13, and 10 points, respectively. Levi paced the Lakers with 18 points and Fields finished with 14.

"After we came back late in the first half, I thought we had a great opportunity to win the game," stated Coach Gibson. "But we kept missing the mark and they put us away early in the second half.

"You simply cannot miss so many open shots and turn the ball over that many times and expect to beat a team the calibre of Catonsville," he added.

Gibson and the Lakers will re-group and travel to Hagerstown Community College this Saturday for a 7 p.m. game. Then they will host a pair of 7 p.m. games next week, with Howard Community College coming to McHenry on Monday and Cecil CC arriving next Wednesday.

Friend Playing Significant Role For Shepherd Rams

Former Southern High School basketball standout Emily Friend, now a junior at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W.Va., is playing a key role in the current success of the Shepherd women's team, as the Rams are currently 10-5 and lead the West Virginia Conference with a 7-1 mark (as of Monday).

Friend, a 5-11 forward, has played in all 15 games, having started in 14 of them. She is averaging just under seven points, three rebounds, and one steal per outing for fourth-year head coach Betsy Blose. She registered a season-high 17 points against Carson-Newman College back in November.

After a 2-4 start this season, the Rams turned things around and have won their last six games, and eight of their last nine. They are now ranked eighth in the latest NCAA Division II East Region poll. Among their victims this season is Indiana University of Pennsylvania, currently ranked number one in the East Region.

"Everyone (on the team) has pulled together and stepped up their game," Friend said. "We have so much depth and, if someone is off, there's always someone else to pick up the slack. Our confidence level is high right now. We're opening people's eyes and they're thinking, 'Hey, maybe Shepherd is the team.'"

Friend, a 1996 graduate of Southern, is a daughter of Larry and Becky Friend, Loch Lynn.

Mt. Top League Sees Condoerr, Midas Winners

Condoerr and Midas Muffler were winners this past Sunday in Mt. Top Unlimited Basketball League action, as Condoerr knocked off Dawson Trucking, 77-69, to remain undefeated and Midas edged the Aquatic Center in double overtime, 93-89. The latter contest was the third straight time that the Aquatic Center had gone into overtime.

Leading the scoring for Condoerr in its win over Dawson Trucking was GCC coach Dennis Gibson, who recorded 29 points, while teammate Tom Stem connected for 20. Dawson was paced by Doug Copeland and Mark Dawson with 21 and 17 points, respectively.

Ripping the nets for 36 points was Jason Brenneman for the winners, and Greg Inglese finished with 24, nine of which were scored in the overtime periods. Leading the Aquatic Center was Jared Beckman, who scored all 30 of his points in regulation. Darin Orendorf netted 18.

The Aquatic Center will face Condoerr in this Sunday's (Jan. 24) 3 p.m. game, and Dawson Trucking will take on 219 Motors in the 4 p.m. match-up.

Rams Stopped At Home By Tucker, Then Whip Spartans

A disastrous third period led to a 79-71 defeat of the Southern Rams at the hands of the Mountain Lions of Tucker County Saturday evening in Oakland, but the Rams bounced back Tuesday night behind a 33-point performance by John Andrews to defeat Bishop Walsh on the road, 69-59, to give them a sweep of that match-up for the season and improve their record to 7-2.

The Rams remain unbeaten in Western Maryland Interscholastic League play (5-0) and will attempt to solidify their top ranking in the WMIL this Friday night when they travel to Cumberland for a return contest with a talented Allegany team.

After a sluggish start against Tucker County on Saturday, the Rams found themselves trailing by four, 15-11, at the end of the first period. They out-scored the Lions in the second stanza, 20-11, to take a 31-26 advantage into the locker room at halftime, but Tucker responded with a 30-10 run in the third period to give the visitors a 56-41 advantage going into the final quarter. The Rams followed suit by scoring 30 points in the final period, but it was not enough.

Derek Simmons and Jim Aliff led the Lions in scoring with 24 points each, with Simmons connecting for eight points and Aliff, seven, in the third quarter. Wes Rumer, who also reached double figures with 11 points, also scored seven in the third period.

The Rams were paced by Mike Paesani, who hit a game-high 25 points, while John Andrews connected for 19 points and Nathaniel Panther netted 12. The fourth-quarter charge by the Rams was led by Andrews, who recorded 12 of his points in that period, and Paesani, who had 11.

Paesani also pulled down seven rebounds and Nathan DiSimone dished out six assists. Aliff grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds for the Lions, who came into the game ranked number 3 in the West Virginia AA standings and improved to 4-5 overall.

The Southern junior varsity was victorious in the first game, as Ryan Ewing scored 10 points and Jamie Bosley, nine, for the Rams in a 45-29 win. Scott Lechliter netted 11 for the Tucker jayvees.

While the Southern varsity was successful in sweeping the Bishop Walsh Spartans Tuesday night, it was not by the 30-point margin as in their first meeting a few weeks ago. The Spartans played evenly on their home floor through the first half, and into the second half, as the score was knotted at 14-14 at the end of the first quarter and the Rams led by just a basket, 29-27, at halftime.

Southern stretched its advantage to four points, 40-36, by the end of the third stanza and then outscored the Spartans in the final eight minutes by a 29-23 margin to get the 10-point victory.

SHOOTING FOR TWO Saturday evening against the Tucker County Mountain Lions in the above left photo is Southern High School's Mike Paesani, who netted a game-high 25 points. It was not enough, however, as the Rams sustained their second loss of the season in eight starts, 79-71. Driving toward a defender and the camera in the photo at right is Ram point guard Nathan DiSimone, being trailed by teammate Nathaniel Panther. The Rams got back into the win column Tuesday night by defeating Bishop Walsh for the second time this season. They will travel to Allegany this Friday. See story.

The game-high 33 points scored by Andrews came on a dozen buckets — four from three-point range — and five of eight at the foul line. Paesani had another good night for the Rams, as he recorded 19 points and 10 rebounds. Panther just missed double figures with a nine-point effort.

Leading the Spartans was Jared Ronai, who finished with 19 points and five assists before fouling out of the game. Mike Serpone recorded 11 points, Mac Young pulled down 10 rebounds to go with eight points, and Joe Rowan grabbed seven boards.

The Southern junior varsity also won the preliminary game, 47-34.

After the Rams meet Allegany Friday, they will play at Keyser next Tuesday.

All-Area Honors Are Awarded To Local Gridders

Seven members of the Southern High School varsity football team recently learned that they were named to either the first or second All-Area football team for their outstanding efforts during the 1998 season. A number of other local players, from both Southern and Northern High School, received honorable mention All-Area recognition.

Named first-team All-Area for the Rams on offense were running back Josh Bosley and lineman Billy Stoner, and selected first-team on defense were lineman Robert Unger and defensive back Jason Weaver.

Weaver was also named to the second team on offense as a running back and Virgil Moats as a lineman. Second-team selections on defense included lineman Ryan Channel and linebacker Nick Dolan.

Bosley recorded 901 yards of rushing on 148 carries this past season for an average of 6.1 yards per carry. A 5-10, 175-pound junior, Bosley also scored 80 points for the Rams, gained 59 yards in pass receptions, and picked up 72 yards returning kicks.

Stoner, a 6-1, 210-pound senior, provided much of the blocking for backs like Bosley and Weaver, and was also a standout linebacker for the Rams. He received honorable mention All-State honors as a linebacker.

Unger, a 6-0, 200-pound senior, and Weaver, a 5-9, 165-pound senior, were leading tacklers for the Rams this season, and Weaver was also one of the area's leading rushers. Moats, a 5-9, 210-pound senior, was another key figure on the Ram offensive line.

Channel, a 5-9, 235-pound junior, was another top tackler for the Rams from his defensive line spot, and will no doubt anchor the Southern defense next season. Dolan, a 5-8, 165-pound senior, was not only a standout from his linebacker position, but also on offense, as both a blocking back and running back.

Receiving honorable mention honors from Southern were: Keith Parks, end; Mike Lantz, offensive lineman; Moats, Josh Teets, and Tommy Diehl, all defensive linemen; and Stoner, linebacker.

Honorable mention picks from Northern High School were: Rob Dozier, running back; Dan Rounds, offensive lineman; Ryan Savage, defensive lineman; Corey Sisler and Mark Wolfe, linebackers; and Jed Wilhelm, defensive back.

The Huskies fell by a 65-52 spread, but came back last night to defeat Salisbury. See story.

Huskies Fall To Sentinels Before Defeating Salisbury

The Northern High varsity boys dropped a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest Tuesday evening to visiting Fort Hill, 65-52, a loss that dropped the Huskies' WMIL mark to 4-2, but they got back into the win column last night with a 65-42 victory over visiting Salisbury in a make-up contest.

The Huskies stayed close to Fort Hill throughout Tuesday's game, but were held at arm's length by the Sentinels, who improved their record to 7-4 and their WMIL mark to 2-1. Northern trailed by four, 16-12, at the end of the first quarter, were down by seven at intermission, 28-21, and were 11 behind after three periods, 47-36.

Dustin Long hit a game-high 24 points to lead the Huskies' offensive effort, while Rob Dozier also finished in double figures with 10 points. Jared Fradiska and Jamie Kline paced the Sentinels' scoring with 22 and 21 points, respectively. Jordon Hamilton contributed 10 points.

Long led the way again last night for the Huskies in their second win over Salisbury this season as he pumped in 25 points, grabbed 10 rebounds, and blocked four shots.

The Elks stayed close in the first quarter, with Northern leading by only two, 16-14, at the end of the first quarter. But the Huskies went on a 24-8 run in the second stanza to build a 40-22 lead by halftime. They stretched their advantage to 56-33 by the end of the third quarter.

Also reaching double figures for Northern were Dozier with 14 and Craig Kamp with 11.

Pacing Salisbury's offense were Dave Short, who finished with 13 points, and Jesse Hoover, who netted 10. It was the eighth loss in 11 games for the Elks.

The Northern junior varsity recorded a 50-42 win in the first game, with Jeremy Carr scoring 18 and A.J. Thomas 11 for the Huskies. Shawn Haines netted nine to lead the Salisbury jayvees.

Coach Mike Friend and the Huskies will compete again this Friday at Hancock and host Turkeyfoot next Tuesday.

Ram Grapplers Place Seventh With Three Individual Titles

Four individual championships, one second place, a fourth place, and two eighth places led the Southern High School wrestling team to a seventh place finish in the 23-team Winner's Choice Tournament, held Saturday in the National Guard Armory in Fairmont, W.Va. Schools from West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New York were represented in the event.

Sophomore John Hayhurst captured second place in the 171-pound class, while Jeremy Hayhurst, also a sophomore, finished fourth in the 160-pound class.

Placing eighth for the Rams were sophomores Nick Sines in the 125-pound division and Jeremy Lear in the 130-pound division.

The Rams, coached by Kurt Lear, will face a difficult test this evening when they travel to Northern to take on the undefeated Huskies. They will return to Northern this Saturday to participate in the re-scheduled Garrett County Invitational, an event that will feature 10 teams from Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

Garrett County Wrestling Invit. To Be Saturday

After severe winter weather conditions postponed the annual Garrett County Invitational Wrestling Tournament a couple of weeks ago, the event was rescheduled for this Saturday, Jan. 23, at Northern High School. Wrestling will get under way in the Husky gymnasium at 10 a.m. and continue throughout the day, with championship rounds expected to begin at about 6 p.m.

The Northern Huskies, who are the defending champions of the tournament, will host nine other teams from Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania. They include: Southern and North Caroline from Maryland; Hyndman, Berlin, and Somerset high schools from Pennsylvania; and Buckhannon Upshur, Lewis County, Phillip Barbour, and Martinsburg.

es. Members of this squad are: Andrew Grant, Brandon Heselbach, Brian Oxford, Andrew Rounds, Michael Schwalm, and Dustin Slider.

The U-19 boys' team lost three of four matches, but those losses came against the teams which took the top three places in the tournament, making it difficult to physically play with such intensity for so many matches. In the first game Arsenal was ahead 3-0 to the eventual tournament winner before succumbing to a an 3-3 score. Goals were scored by Jacob Snodgrass, Steve Allison, and Nick Glotfelty, with two assists credited to John Menker. Bo Jonson made 18 saves in the net.

In the second game, Arsenal dropped the match by a 3-1 margin. Jacob Snodgrass scored the lone goal while Jonson made 17 stops. In the third game the team made a strong showing with a 9-0 victory. Jacob Snodgrass scored three times, with John Menker, Jeff McDaniel, and Steve Allison each finding the net twice. Bo Jonson made 6 saves. In the quarter-final match Arsenal dropped a 5-1 decision to close the day. The goal was scored by Jeff McDaniel off an assist by Steve Allison. Jonson made 14 saves as goalkeeper. This team is composed of: Steve Allison, Nick Glotfelty, Bo Jonson, Jeff McDaniel, John Menker, and Jacob Snodgrass.

"Though the club experienced more losses than victories, the opportunity to learn from these tournaments makes a major difference in the ultimate development of the players. It is an excellent barometer of the progress of the club as it competes against higher levels of play and provides and reveals areas that need additional work in order to be more successful in the future," stated the club spokesperson.

The Arsenal club will travel to its next tournament in February, which will be held again at Bridgeport.

Hafer, Edwards

lators have mentioned the idea of a five-cent increase on the gas tax.

"I think people will just drive right through our areas, here in Garrett and Allegany counties, if they have to pay one of the highest gas taxes in the country," Edwards said. He noted that if the gas tax is implemented, Maryland will have the seventh or eighth highest rate.

Edwards went on to explain that the transportation costs in Maryland are paid for solely through the Transportation Trust Fund, which is funded by gas taxes, driver license fees, vehicle sales tax, and a small percentage of the corporate income tax. All the state road construction and mass transit needs are funded by the trust, and Edwards feels this ought to be changed.

"We're one of the few states that does it that way," he said. "Only 30 to 40 percent of that money goes for roads and bridges. The rest is for mass transit, mainly in the Baltimore/Washington corridor area. So that means a large portion of tax money paid here in Garrett and Allegany counties goes right into that area."

He said the fund pays for subways, buses, and the MARC train system, among others. He noted that Garrett Transit "gets a little money" from the trust fund.

Hafer said he believes the gas tax increase suggestion is not fair to rural and suburban areas, where citizens rely heavily on their cars.

"Since most people in the city have ready access to mass transit, only they will directly benefit from it," Hafer said. "However, a gas tax will ultimately affect those who do not benefit from mass transit."

Edwards said he wants the state leaders to take the time to find another way to fund the transportation costs. He served on last year's Mass Transit Panel, which was set with the task of examining the state's methods and suggesting improvements.

"Most other states have regional sales taxes, so that the money paid in a certain region goes toward that region's needs. I'd like to see that happen, but I don't think we have the political numbers to convince the folks in the more populated areas," he said. "Even if we raise the gas tax by a nickel, that will only bring in $120 million. That's not nearly enough to pay for all the needs. We have to find another way."

Edwards reported that he feels the other state leaders are willing to talk about changing the system.

The governor has also suggested a hefty cigarette tax of $1 per pack, with $.50 to be added this year and $.50 next year. President Bill Clinton is also suggesting a significant federal tax increase. The idea behind the increases is to thwart young people from buying the product, but Hafer and Edwards are apparently dubious of the effectiveness of the increases.

"A cigarette tax will send most folks to West Virginia to buy the product," Hafer said. "This also opens up the potential for black market cigarettes to find their way into the hands of many Marylanders."

Edwards has contacted Glendening about one specific issue, in relation to the current budget surplus.

"I want to see the auxiliary gym at Northern High School built, and the renovation work at Southern High completed," he said. The delegate has already sent a letter to Glendening outlining the two projects and asking him for help. He also put a request in for the construction of an auxiliary gym at Westmar.

"With all this money available, I would hope the governor would see clear to helping us out with these projects," he said.

Pamela Roberts, Anthony Perando Wed In September Double-Ring Event

Pamela Lynn Roberts and Anthony Scott Perando were united in marriage on Sept. 5, 1998, in a double-ring ceremony performed by Pastor Gail Hixon at the Rt. 135 Assembly of God Church.

The bride is the daughter of Frank and Bonnie Roberts, Terra Alta, W.Va., and the groom is the son of Wolford and Carol Perando, Oakland.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a champagne satin gown, imported by Demetrios. The bride accented the dress with a champagne pearl necklace and a crown-style champagne veil. For "something borrowed," she wore her sister-in-law's pearl bracelet, and for "something new," she wore mother-of-pearl earrings given to her by the groom. The bride carried a crescent bouquet of calla lilies.

Attending the bride was the matron of honor, Barb DeWitt, her sister. The bridesmaids were Christy DeWitt, Kelly Carr, Jaime George, and Amber Roberts. They wore black full-length gowns, trimmed in satin with V-cut backs. They each carried a fresh bouquet of champagne and deep burgundy mini-carnations.

The groom wore a Chapian evening tuxedo which matched the bride's dress. The best man, Michael Nazelrod, and the groomsmen — Wolfe Perando, David Sines, and Ed Perando — were all attired in classic black tuxedos.

The ring-bearers were Mathew and Cody Roberts, and the flower girl was Courtney Cupp.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom were taken by carriage (of Classic Carriage Services) from the church to the reception. At this event, the cake-cutting ceremony was followed by a Victorian custom of ribbon pulling, allowing the bride to offer happy wishes to her bridesmaids. Charms were attached to ribbons and then hidden between the layers of the wedding cake. Each bridesmaid pulled a ribbon to retrieve a charm, which each forecasted a particular good fortune.

After a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, the couple established residence in the Swallow Falls area.

Editor's note: This wedding story was published in last week's issue, but is being rerun because of errors on the part of the writer.

Karlstrand Named Garrett Memorial's Employee Of Year

Betty Karlstrand, CHUC, was named Garrett County Memorial Hospital's 1998 Employee of the Year at the December Service Awards ceremony. "I am very appreciative and want to thank everyone," Karlstrand said. "I was very surprised."

Employed at GCMH for the past 18 years, Karlstrand has provided secretarial support in a variety of the hospital's departments. "Betty organizes the nursing unit, greets patients and families, works with the other departments to schedule tests ordered by the doctors, and in general works very closely with the physicians and nurses," explained Linda Wengerd, RNC, med-surg nurse manager.

"When it's extremely busy and hectic in the unit, it's a relief to have Betty here. She can keep up with everything and efficiently juggle many tasks at one time."

Other employees described Karlstrand's qualities by frequently mentioning her professionalism and willingness to go out of her way to help others. For her part, Karlstrand said that interacting with patients is her favorite part of her job, a skill of hers that has not gone unnoticed. "Betty really enjoys children and is very good with all of our patients," Wengerd commented. "Betty often takes the time to check on them, whether it's making sure their needs are being met to extending a kind word."

Karlstrand's interests include reading, crocheting and embroidery. She and husband Raymond, who have been married for 40 years, reside in Swanton and have one daughter, Vickie.

As Employee of the Year, Karlstrand received a $500 cash bonus, is entitled to a reserved parking place for one year, and will receive an additional eight hours of paid time off each year for the duration of her remaining employment with GCMH.

MY COMMENTS

As far as I know again this week the only big news in Bittinger was the weather. We got a nice snow cover, followed by an ice storm that put the power off pretty much on Rock Lodge Road extending from Beachy Road past Mosser Road last Saturday night. Then a bit more snow followed another ice storm on Friday. The ice put a burner on the good skiing weather, however, not completely ruining it.

Ann and Pat McLister drove up from Frederick to do some cross country skiing across the woods to the 4-H Center with Lloyd. While they were having a lot of fun skiing, I did the baby-sitting duty for our girls and the McLister girls, Colleen and Natalie, and their little brother Paul. The girls played with my make-up and their nail polish. They looked like they were slightly over made-up. They did play out in the snow for awhile.

Natalie and Colleen returned on Sunday evening for an overnight stay. They watched their favorite movie on video, Titanic. The final straw for me was that, when I got up the next morning they had put it on again. I don't like to watch thousands of people die in a shipwreck. I get very depressed from that movie.

Meredith and Emma Bass attended a swim birthday party for the Herpel triplets, Grace, Ed, and Will, on Monday afternoon. They share the same birthday with Martin Luther King and they had a big day off from school to celebrate.

I can report that the Bittinger 4-H Club held an annual officer training workshop at Garrett Community College on Saturday morning. Not much fun, just the kids' duty to receive much needed help.

If you want a chance to see something very special, get out on a sunny morning soon. One of the best gifts I ever received from literature was from the Robert Frost classic poem, "Birch." "Often you have seen them/Loaded with ice on a sunny winter morning/They click upon themselves/As breezes rise, and turn many colors/The stir cracked and crazed their enamel." What he said here is that the ice turned into prisms, making the rainbow effect from light through prisms. It is a rare treat and rarely you just happen to see it. You need to go out and look for it. I was lucky to see it one time when Lesa Whittemore and I were skiing back on the first ridge off Meadow Mountain. A big hickory tree was decorated with hundreds of tiny colored lights. We just stood there and stared at it. Watch for it and you will get a great treat.

You come to my mind often and stay in my heart always. I will forever treasure all the times we shared. The sadness I feel will never disappear. You may be gone, but love never dies. You live in me. IN DREAMS

Rated R - Running time: 1:40

We are all aware of the power our mind has over us when we are asleep and dreaming. Though we are physically unable to move, our nervous system is in full working order; what's more, it can be fooled into thinking that the surrealistic drama unfolding behind our eyes is actually happening to us. But what if it were actually happening, to someone else? That is the premise of In Dreams, a psychological thriller directed by Neil Jordan (The Crying Game) and written by Jordan and Bruce Robinson (Return To Paradise). It is an eerie story about a disturbed little boy who grew into a killer capable of invading a woman's dreams. But uneven directing made it into a film that is only part scary--and part laughable.

Annette Bening is Claire Cooper, a woman troubled by incessant nightmares and visions. Her husband Paul (Aidan Quinn) is a 747 pilot, and their daughter Rebecca (Katie Sagona) is the love of their lives. Claire does her best not to trouble her family with her disturbing visions, which usually focus on a little girl and a mysterious adult figure. But Paul feels she should notify the police, since there is a young girl missing and maybe Claire's psychic powers could be of some help. Then the unthinkable happens: Rebecca is abducted. Now Claire knows her dreams are not visions of the past, but of the future. Not only that, she senses that the abductor is communicating with her. She figures this out when her computer starts printing out what she's saying, and she doesn't even own a copy of the IBM ViaVoice™ program.

Now, with everyone thinking she's gone crazy from the loss of her child, Claire must try to find the psycho by coaxing more information out of him via her dreams. In other words, she must force herself to endure the nightmares so she can stop his reign of terror.

It turns out the subject of Claire's dreams is the unnamed man played by Robert Downey Jr. As a boy, he was left chained to his bed by his abusive mother while the town was being flooded to make a reservoir. After being saved and institutionalized, and then escaping, he has become a full-blown nutcase with one wish: a family to love him. And he wants Claire as his surrogate wife.

This film could be really scary, and in some parts it is. Downey's crazed killer, though he only appears in the last third of the film, is seriously demented, and his Oedipal relationship with Claire as his wife/mother is definitely disturbing. Bening is no slouch herself when it comes to looney behavior, but it appears that she had good days and bad days during filming. Some of her scenes are genuinely chilling; others are overacted to the point of silliness. The same goes for Downey, and this implies a directing problem. Perhaps Jordan was so concerned with his images of apples and the color red that he wasn't watching the actors. Overall, a mediocre film with a few adequately chilling moments. ★★★

A CIVIL ACTION

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 1:52

Q: What's the difference between a catfish and a lawyer? A: One is a bottom-dwelling, garbage-eating scavenger. The other is a fish.

There are entire websites on the Internet full of jokes like that, about those personal injury lawyers whose TV ads promise results or no fee. In writer/director Steven Zaillian's A Civil Action, John Travolta plays one--Boston attorney Jan Schlichtmann, a bottom-feeder who grows a conscience. But in Zaillian's outlandish story line, Jan grows a little too much conscience for his own good. And a little too much to be believed.

Based on a true story by Jonathan Harr, A Civil Action features fine acting by some of the best in the business. Travolta turns in another good performance as the wealthy, conceited lawyer who lives on other people's misery, but like his Jack Stanton character in Primary Colors, has more heart than he or we give him credit for. Robert Duvall, whom I have never seen do a poor job, is again exquisitely subtle as Jerome Facher, the experienced "big dog" attorney Jan goes up against. And William H. Macy, whose face is appearing in more and more of the best films, adds his nervous manner to the proceedings as Jan's increasingly desperate accountant.

The film begins with a voiceover of Jan describing what kinds of clients are more profitable than others. A seriously injured middle-aged white man, for instance, is more "valuable" than a dead child. By contrast, the people in the small town of Woburn, Massachusetts, are the least profitable. They've had several children die of leukemia. They think it has something to do with the town's bad-tasting water supply, but they don't know who if anyone is contaminating it. However, when Jan travels there to turn down their petition for a class action suit, he sees an old tannery operating on the riverside, dumping waste materials into the water. Then he notices the Beatrice Foods logo on one of the vehicles. Cha-ching.

Jan decides to take up the cause, since Beatrice is one of the richest conglomerates in the U.S. But somewhere along the line, his gold-mine case turns into something more for him, and his sense of justice outgrows his pocketbook.

This movie is a fascinating look at the justice system from the bottom-feeder's perspective, very much along the same lines as Francis Coppola's The Rainmaker (1997). We all want to believe that our case could be the one that turns the money-grubbing stereotype personal injury lawyer into a crusader for true justice.

My only real problem is with the script. It becomes a little outlandish when Jan runs his company completely into the ground amid generous settlement offers, simply because he wants to show that he "can't be bought." Being bought, according to his coldly mercenary opening soliloquy, is exactly what he is in business for. Also, I find it hard to swallow that his partners (played by Tony Shalhoub and Zeljko Ivanek) would go so far as to mortgage their homes to continue trying the case they didn't want to try in the first place. I'm sure the real Jan Schlichtmann (or whatever his name is) took quite a loss with this case, but I doubt he had his employees hocking their gold kugerrands to pay the company's bills.

A Civil Action features excellent acting and a compelling story, but suffers from the same flaw as so many other true stories brought to life on the silver screen. Thinking the plot too boring to be marketable, Hollywood spin doctors doctor it up--and accidently amputate its credibility. ★★★★

AT FIRST SIGHT

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 2:08

For a film with such a talented cast, Irwin Winkler's At First Sight is surprisingly shallow. Starring Val Kilmer, Mira Sorvino, and Kelly McGillis, it tells the true story of a blind man whose sight is surgically restored. I have not read the story To See and Not See by Oliver Sacks, on which the film is based, but the treatment given to it by Steve Levitt betrays the fact that he is a newcomer to screenwriting. The dialogue, especially early on, is like that of an after-school special, with exaggerated characterizations and heavy-handed lessons about people with disabilities.

Kilmer is Virgil Adamson, a blind massage therapist who lives in upstate New York and is "taken care of" by his older sister, Jennie (McGillis). Though he appears to be in his thirties, she treats him like he can't make it across the room without her help. This co-dependent relationship sets us up for the predictable reaction to be played out when Virgil meets a woman.

Enter the woman: Amy Benic (Sorvino) is a stressed-out architect from New York City who must take a vacation to relax. She books a massage at the spa where Virgil works, and, though she doesn't realize he's blind, falls in love with him because he's so darned good at what he does. And he falls in love with her because, well, she let him put his hands all over her naked body. And she smelled good.

When Virgil brings Amy home, Jennie can hardly contain her disgust. Not only is Amy pretty, but the two actually seem happy together. The nerve! Then Amy tells Virgil about an article she read concerning a new surgical procedure that can possibly restore his sight. Virgil is put off (he spent many years being poked and prodded by well-meaning doctors, and has no desire to do it again), but realizes that if he gets the operation, he'll get to see Amy's hot bod. So he goes along.

Things don't go well at first. Virgil's vision is not crystal clear the first second he opens his eyes, so everyone goes ballistic. And of course, "the media" is there, shining bright lights in his eyes without the slightest concern for his welfare. But even after he can see better, he has problems: His father (Ken Howard), who deserted the family when Virgil was just a blind kid, wants to reconcile now that he can see again. His doctor (Bruce Davison) seems unsympathetic to his adjustment troubles. And Amy, who is getting tired of having to point out which is the fork and which is the spoon, is sharing romantic dances with her ex-husband (Steven Weber).

To tell the truth, this film is not all bad, and it gets better as it goes on. Kilmer's blind bit is believable, except that he feels the need to sport a big, toothy grin the whole time he's feeling his way around. Sorvino does some good work as the woman who must re-teach Virgil everything he knows. But the most believable, sensible performance, and the one that really saves the film, is Nathan Lane as Phil Webster, the quirky visual therapist. He shows Virgil that life is a matter of trial and error, whether one can see or not. When everyone else is walking on eggs so as not to upset Virgil, Phil encourages him to take risks, fail, and try again.

At First Sight struggles to have the impact of a film like Awakenings (another Oliver Sacks book), and it succeeds at making a sighted person think about the real difficulty of adjusting one's brain to the new introduction of visual stimuli. But this trite screenplay can only take that so far, and that's a shame. ★★★½

THE THIN RED LINE

Rated R - Running time: 2:50

Six months ago, audiences reeled at Steven Spielberg's Saving Private Ryan, a gripping account of World War II in the European theatre of action. Now, writer/director Terrence Malick conveys the story of the fighting in the Pacific theatre with his interpretation of James Jones's autobiographical novel The Thin Red Line. This is the second film adaptation of Jones's novel, but the 1964 version which starred Keir Dullea (2001: A Space Odyssey) focused primarily on one aspect of the story and differed greatly in style and tone from this film.

Although it provides a nice complement to Spielberg's Ryan, The Thin Red Line cannot be classified as simply its Pacific equivalent. While Ryan was a gutsy narrative in which eight soldiers untertake a specific and deadly task, this film is more a philosophical treatise on the futility of war and the inexplicable nature of man that would take part in it. It does not have a single protagonist, or even a small group, but skips around among the various men of Charlie Company. First Sgt. Edward Welsh (Sean Penn) is the regular who has seen plenty of action but never gets used to it. Lt. Col. Gordon Tall (Nick Nolte) is the commanding officer who pushes his men to the limit of endurance. Private Witt (James Caviezel), habitually AWOL, is unable to reconcile the beauty around him with the insanity of the situation. And Capt. James Staros (Elias Koteas) is the officer who endeavors to protect his men from needless carnage, even if it means defying orders. We glimpse the lives of these men and many others on varying levels of intimacy.

Mainly set on the tropical island of Guadalcanal (the site of some of the fiercest fighting in the war), the film deals with the company's pursuit of the elusive Japanese through the palm trees and elephant grass. This starts with an amphibious landing like the one at the beginning of Ryan, but these soldiers find no rain of bullets on the beach. The fighting doesn't start until they make their way farther inland, toward the enemy's hidden bunkers. Director Malick's slow and steady pace gets us used to the physically and emotionally exhausting nature of war, where one can never expect what will happen in the next moment. There are long periods of quiet, many images of local wildlife and island natives, but the tension is always present (thanks in part to Hans Zimmer's masterful musical score), and one can feel the palpable sense of danger even while looking into the eyes of an island bird or small mammal clinging to a tree.

Voiceovers of poetry and philosphical musings add to the unearthly atmosphere. The subjects of immortality and honor, the origins of evil, and the many battles of nature are eloquently contemplated by the voice of an anonymous soldier even as we see the imagery that might provoke such insights.

The absence of a central figure or definite plot line may be this film's only weakness. Though it is an intentional device designed to convey the tedium and random nature of the subject, it sometimes causes a sense of stalling or a lack of focus, especially since the film is nearly three hours in length. One can see some subtle borrowings from such war classics as Apocalypse Now and Platoon, but nothing so blatant as to be construed as copying those films' styles. The acting is superb throughout, and the authenticity is certainly there. The late author Jones, who also wrote the novels that inspired From Here To Eternity and The Longest Day, would be proud to see this highly thoughtful version of his work. ★★★★½

Guidelines Noted For Burning Of Brush And Debris

Property owners who own land outside incorporated towns may wish to take advantage of winter weather to burn brush, debris, and other materials appropiate for outdoor burning, according to the Mt. Nebo Forest Service office of the Department of Natural Resources.

"Burning may occur at any time when the ground is covered with snow, if all other requirements are met," according to the Open Air Burning Regulations, Title 8, DNR, Subtitle .07, Maryland Forest Service.

The open air burning regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodlands or to a flammable material that could carry fire to the woodlands. There should be a firebreak at least 10 feet wide around the fire and adequate personnel and equipment present to keep the fire under control. The fire should be out cold before all personnel leave the scene.

Landowners who wish to do some open air burning while the ground is covered with snow are still required to obtain a burning permit from the Garrett County Health Department, which is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and may be reached by phone at 301-334-8980.

Once a burning permit has been obtained, the landowner should contact Garrett Central Alarm at its non-emergency number, 301-334-1929, prior to burning. Hopefully such a call will prevent the chances of one of the local fire companies being summoned on a false alarm.

Liston Named V.P. Of GCMH Clinical Svcs.

"Denise Liston's extensive experience and leadership skills will be an asset to the hospital's administrative team," commented Donalson. "Integration of the department of nursing and ancillary clinical departments under the direction of an experienced vice president will ensure that the departments function as a cohesive team working for the best interests of our patients.

"While we are looking forward to working with Denise and taking advantage of her experience and expertise," the hospital's CEO continued, "we could hardly move forward without recognizing Joyce Andrews for her past years of dedication to the hospital and its patients."

Under Andrews' direction, the hospital made many enhancements in the area of patient care, including the renovation of the obstetrics unit (now known as the Family Centered Maternity Suite) and the addition of a subacute care unit, which provides an additional level of care to the community. Andrews was also active in helping to coordinate programs with the regional Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS).

Part of the management team as director of nursing since 1992, Andrews previously served as associate director of nursing from 1987 to 1992 and head nurse in the emergency department prior to 1987. "Her accomplishments are many and we wish her well in all future endeavors," Donalson concluded.

Liston comes to Garrett Memorial with 17 years of experience in the field of clinical administration, which includes positions at Greene County Memorial Hospital in Waynesburg, Pa.; Broaddus Hospital Association in Philippi, W.Va.; and Preston Memorial Hospital in Kingwood, W.Va.

A resident of Terra Alta, W.Va., Liston graduated from Kingwood High School, Kingwood, and the West Virginia University (WVU) School of Nursing in Morgantown, W.Va. She received her bachelor of science degree of nursing from WVU, where she currently pursuing a master's in health care administration.

In her new position at Garrett Memorial, Liston will have administrative responsibility for all clinical departments, including laboratory, radiology, pharmacy, social services, anesthesia, mobile medical and cardio-pulmonary. She will also head the nursing department, assuming a position vacant since the recent retirement of Joyce R. Andrews, former director of nursing and a long-time employee of the hospital.

Through These Doors

Scripture Selected by The American Bible Society

Copyright 1999, Keister-Williams Newspaper Services, P. O. Box 8005, Charlottesville, VA 22906

Through these doors walk young and old, rich and poor, men and women, and boys and girls. Through these doors walk people with differing occupations and varied opinions about the world in which we live. Some are in glowing health. Others are infirm. Yet, in spite of all of these differences, they are all children of God...all joined in faith and in hope because they are brothers and sisters in God's kingdom.

Do you yearn for those who will accept you as you are...those who will become as a second family to you...a home away from home? In Matthew 11:28, the Lord says, "Come to me, all ye who are weary and heavy-laden, and I will give you rest."

This week, give God a chance to give you peace of mind. Won't you walk through these doors?

The Bible Speaks

By Lawrence W. Althouse

AN INVITATION TO BEAUTY
January 24, 1999

Background Scripture:
Matthew 18:6-35
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 103:6-14

Simon Peter must have been feeling rather self righteous when he asked Jesus, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" How magnanimous for Peter to suggest as many times as all that! "Seven times," a revered biblical number; surely it represented the limits of human forgiveness!"

Matthew doesn't tell us Peter's reaction to Jesus' response, but I imagine he was shocked to hear Jesus say, "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven" (Matt. 18:21,22).Peter had apparently felt that he was being the soul of mercy by suggesting as many as seven times, but seventy times seven, 490 times! Incredible!

Even more inconceivable was the realization that Jesus was not setting a numerical limit. He was not suggesting that we must forgive others at least 490 times. "Seventy times seven" is Jesus' way of saying that forgiveness has no limits for others or ourselves.

Actually, we, not others, are the ones most likely to benefit from Christ's obliteration of limits. Most of us think that we can live well within those limits. After all, 490 is a big, big number. But it is never big enough to cover our sins. Whether we realize it or not, we better all hope that God doesn't stop his pardons at 490. We need the infinite reaches of his grace, not quotas.

ALL NEED MERCY!

One reason is our blindness to our own sins and need for forgiveness. I think of the woman who sat for a portrait and warned the artist to "do me justice." The artist's reply was withering: "Madam, what you need is not justice, but mercy!" And so do we all.

Jesus' parable probably applied to each of the disciples, just as it probably applies to me and all my readers. The servant who owed the king 10,000 talents was blind to his own sins. Having received mercy for his own indebtedness, he looked upon his own debtors without mercy. So, on a very practical level, Jesus tells us, we must forgive if we expect to receive forgiveness. Thus George Herbert writes: "He who cannot forgive breaks the bridge over which he himself must pass he would ever reach heaven; for everyone has need to be forgiven."

In his biography of John Newton, Bernard Martin tells of a time when a neighboring pastor "being in liquor" was burned to death when he accidentally set some curtains on fire. Instead of denouncing the moral failure of one who should have been a positive example, Newton wrote: "Lord, may I remember thy patience towards me when I drank down iniquity. Why was I not surprised in my sins and hurried to judgment!" Many of us could wonder as Newton did and say. 'There, but for the grace of God, go I!'

'I WAS WRONG!'

Someone once told me that he had only two problems with forgiveness: "Getting it and giving it!" I thought surely he was wrong, for "getting" forgiveness did not seem to be all that difficult. Perhaps like Heinrich Heine I assumed that "God will pardon me; that's his business." What I learned subsequently was that "getting" forgiveness may be difficult because I am reluctant to acknowledge my need for it. The words, "I was wrong; I'm sorry; please forgive me," are some of the hardest words in the English language.

Our need to forgive goes beyond the practical quid pro quo level cited above. Forgiving is good for us, not just because it makes God's forgiveness of us more likely, but because we are better off for having given it. Hannah More says, "A Christian will find it cheaper to pardon than to resent. Forgiveness saves the expense of anger, the cost of hatred, the waste of spirits." No matter how justified we may be in our resentment, holding a grudge exacts from us a cost too terrible.

Somewhere I read that "It requires only an ounce of grace and a thimble full of brains to hold a grudge; but to entirely forget an injury is truly beautiful." Jesus invites us to experience that beauty for ourselves. Please RSVP.

SHS Junior To Attend National Law Conference

Paul Liller III, pictured above, has been selected to participate in the National Student Leadership Conference on Law and Advocacy, slated for this coming July at the American University in Washington, D.C. The Southern High School junior, son of Sadie and Paul Liller Jr. of Oakland, is one of only 160 students from 31 countries selected for the program.

The 11-day Law and Advocacy Conference is designed to provide outstanding high school students with the opportunity to explore and experience the law and the American judicial system from the earliest stages of investigation up through a trial.

Through role play exercises, participants will assume the role of trial attorneys in a court of law, which will require them to 'think on their feet, formulate arguments before a jury, and field questions posed by renowned legal scholars." A variety of workshops and classes will provide the opportunity to study actual law cases and learn legal principles and procedures. Special guest speakers will address the group, including law professors, prominent attorneys, judges, and jury consultants from cases such as the O.J. Simpson trial.

"Students develop a sense of independence and responsibility," said Dr. Paul M. Lisnek, the NSLC director of academics and former assistant dean of Loyola University Chicago School of Law. "They leave with a true feeling of accomplishment and confidence in their ability to handle the challenges that lie ahead."

"The NSLC mission is to identify and recognize outstanding young leaders from around the world and provide them with a unique learning environment which encourages not only academic achievement but diversity, cooperation and social responsibility," an NSLC spokesperson added.

"Through participation in this program, students not only develop a better understanding of the legal system, but they develop their ability to think on their feet, engage in critical analysis, and effectively communicate—skills that will serve them well in high school, college, and beyond."

Math/Science Program At FSU Seeks Participants

The Upward Bound Regional Math/Science Center at Frostburg State University is currently accepting applications from area high school students. The goal of the Regional Math/Science Center is to encourage and help interested and qualified students develop the skills necessary to enroll and be successful in college programs that will lead to careers in mathematics and science.

According to an FSU spokesperson, the program consists of both an academic year component and a six-week summer residential component. During the academic year students are able to participate in enrichment activities and field trips, meet with professional scientists and mathematicians, and receive academic support from the center's staff. During the six-week summer program students will be actively engaged in an investigation of the potential impacts of coal generated power plant emissions on water quality and aquatic life. Throughout the summer, the students will acquire the skills and knowledge needed for their investigation through both classroom activities and field studies. The students are exposed to hands-on laboratory and field-based experiences to facilitate learning and to keep the enthusiasm high, the spokesperson said.

Throughout the summer program, students will live in the residence halls on the FSU campus and eat their meals in the dining hall. Students are under the supervision of a professional staff who lives with the students, plans and supervises recreational activities, and organizes evening study sessions. The program is completely free to all participants. In addition, students selected for the program are eligible to receive monetary stipends and reimbursement for transportation costs to center sponsored activities. The Regional Math/Science Center is funded entirely by a $250,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Education.

Currently the program has openings for students residing within West Virginia; the Appalachian region of Pennsylvania; Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties of Maryland; and Maryland's Eastern Shore and Baltimore City. To be eligible for the current academic year component, students must be in the 9th, 10th, or 11th grade. To be eligible for the summer 1999 program, students must complete the 8th grade by the end of 1998-99 school year, or currently be in 9th, 10th, or 11th grade. Students also must have an interest in math and/or science and meet the U.S. Department of Education moderate income or potential first-generation college student criteria. Students currently enrolled in Upward Bound or Talent Search programs automatically meet those criteria. This summer the six-week program will run from June 20 to July 30, 1999.

For more information and applications, persons may contact the Regional Math/Science Center office at 1-800-646-6004 or 301-687-4295.

Regional No-Till Conference To Examine New Technology

No-till vegetable production, managing phosphorus, and a new look at soil health benefits are first-time topics for next month's 24th anniversary Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference, scheduled for February 13 in the Embers Inn & Convention Center at Carlisle, Pa.

A second look at some traditional aspects of no-till farming also will help to carry out the conference theme, "Fine-Tuning an Established Practice." These "second-look" breakout session topics include:

- Managing Manure in No-Till Systems,
- Perennial No-Till Weed Control,
- Profitable No-Till Small Grains, and
- Establishing and Maintaining No-Till Systems.

Manure management will be addressed during morning and afternoon breakout sessions by a panel of three livestock farmers — two from Maryland's Eastern Shore and one from Pennsylvania. The Maryland farmers are William C. Malkus of Cambridge, a Dorchester County hog producer and partner in Blackwater Farms Inc., and Brad Morris of Chestertown, a Kent County dairy farmer.

Continuing education unit (CEU) credits are expected to be available for Certified Crop Advisors throughout Pennsylvania and the Mid-Atlantic area, and application has been made for Pennsylvania restricted pesticide applicators to earn credits.

Sponsors include the conference committee and the Keystone chapter of the National Soil and Water Conservation Society in cooperation with the Cooperative Extension programs at Penn State and the University of Maryland, as well as the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in participating states.

The day's activities will begin at 8 a.m. with registration, refreshments, and a chance to visit educational and commercial exhibits. Educational sessions are scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3:25 p.m.

A $20 registration fee, payable by February 3, includes refreshments, lunch, and handout materials. Late registration, payable at the door, is $30 for each person attending.

Printed programs and registration forms are available from many county Extension and NRCS offices in Maryland and Pennsylvania, as well as at some locations in adjacent states. Or, those interested may mail their name, address, telephone number, and a $20 check — before February 3 — to SWCS/Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference, Suite 340, One Credit Union Place, Harrisburg, PA 17110-2993. Checks may be made payable to Mid-Atlantic CTC.

Farming In Maryland.....

Senators Address Livestock Crisis

Mandatory price reporting and price supports are needed to ward off an impending crisis in the American livestock industry, a group of farm state Democratic senators said last week. The senators held a public forum to address record low commodity prices and said that they would push hard for aid to farmers in 1999.

Most of the forum concentrated on the problems facing hog producers who have seen prices fall by as much as 80 percent in the last year. Over the past several weeks and months cash hog prices have plunged to record-low levels, with some midwestern markets reporting prices as low as $8 per hundredweight.

The Agriculture Department last month announced a relief package to boost demand for pork products. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman ordered the department to curtail loans to producers who are expanding their operations, he stepped up purchases of pork for the school lunch program and general food aid packages, and he deferred loan payments for farmers facing severe financial distress. Glickman also promised to look into competitive pricing issues, urged retailers to cut pork prices, and said that packers should pay more for live hogs and increase their slaughter capacity. He also created an interagency task force to explore several options, including massive purchases of pork for U.S. military troops, federal prison inmates, and veterans' hospitals.

Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle (S.D.), who co-sponsored the forum with Agriculture Committee ranking member Tom Harkin (Iowa), said that the lowest commodity prices since the Depression are driving farmers and ranchers out of business and wreaking havoc on rural economies. Earlier in the day, Daschle met with White House Chief of Staff John Podesta to discuss the crisis.

Harkin said that in Iowa, pork producers are suffering greater losses today than they did in the 1930s, but that supermarket prices have remained stable. He blamed the gap on market concentration and predatory practices by meat packers.

Several hog farmers, a senior Agriculture Department official, and others offered their comments on the situation. John Lawrence, an economics professor at Iowa State University, blamed low prices on the closing of several large packing facilities over the last few years, but said that he predicts the low prices will end sometime this summer. However, he added, it will take a major debt restructuring for farmers to survive.

Michael Dunn, the Agriculture Department's undersecretary for marketing and regulatory programs, agreed, and said that the oversupply problem that led to a glut of pork seems to be dropping. Dunn said that prices have shown improvement since USDA announced its relief package last month.

Brian Jorgenson, a hog producer and Farm Bureau member from Winner, S.D., said that hog producers are "in the midst of the greatest economic crisis this country's swine industry has ever encountered.

"Small towns like Winner are at risk of drying up and blowing away as long as agriculture is forced to endure low prices," he said.

Jorgenson said that many attributed low prices to overproduction by pork producers and large expansion in the industry. However, he offered the following facts: Live animal production has risen 10 percent since last year; slaughter capacity has declined nearly 8 percent from one year ago; Canadian live hog imports are up over 35 percent from one year ago; consumer consumption of pork is up over 7 percent from last year; retail prices for pork are relatively unchanged from one year ago; and U.S. exports increased by 28 percent from one year ago. "We simply cannot blame one thing," he said.

"I urge the government to strive to open new foreign markets by relieving some of the trade sanctions.... Let's utilize antitrust laws to prevent imbalances in ownership of live animals between producers and packers. Let us mandate price reporting to shore up our price discovery system."

Grain Fumigant May Face EPA Restrictions

The American Farm Bureau Federation and several grain industry associations have joined forces to fight an Environmental Protection Agency proposal that would place severe restrictions on the use of a crucial grain fumigant.

The substance in question is phosphine, the gas produced from aluminum and magnesium phosphate and used to fumigate raw grains, oilseeds, feedstuffs, and processed commodities in both farm and commercial settings.

Citing "serious" concerns about potential health hazards for workers and bystanders, EPA has proposed more than a dozen measures for mitigating risks from exposure to the fumigant. Among EPA's recommendations are new rules to reduce the exposure standard for phosphine gas to one-tenth the level considered safe by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration; prohibit fumigation and aeration within 500 feet of residential areas; and require notification of adjacent residents and businesses each time fumigation is conducted.

In a letter to Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman, AFBF and a coalition of grain growers, distributors, and storage operators called the EPA proposals "ill-conceived," saying that the measures were so stringent they would effectively wipe out the use of phosphine altogether.

The coalition also wrote to EPA Administrator Carol Browner about what it called the "technical shortcomings" of the proposed regulations. The letter pointed out that EPA's proposal to reduce the exposure standard for phosphine gas to just a fraction of the OSHA-approved level would make compliance virtually impossible, since the level would be too low to detect in field applications.

Grain industry officials also said that the creation of a 500-foot buffer zone around areas where phosphine gas is used is unrealistic since a majority of the operations that use the fumigant are currently situated near homes and businesses. They also contend that having to notify adjacent residents and business owners each time phosphine gas is applied is scientifically unwarranted and excessively burdensome to applicators.

Another concern in the grain industry is that the proposed regulations threaten the use of one of only two choices available for this type of fumigation. Use of the other fumigant, methyl bromide, is not as practical because of its difficult handling properties and will not even be an option in the future unless international agreements to ban its use are reversed.

Restrictions on phosphine use could also pose problems in the trade arena. "We are also concerned that [the proposed] requirements could undermine the ability of exporters to meet contractual requirements with many U.S. export customers for the in-transit fumigation of grains, oilseeds, and other products loaded on ocean-going vessels," the coalition wrote to Secretary Glickman.

EPA is slated to hold at least two national stakeholder meetings, probably in May and June, in Kansas City, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif., and is seeking input on the need for additional meetings. Those wanting more information about the stakeholder meetings may contact EPA at 703-308-0734.

Beef cattle producers from the quad state area are invited to participate in a one-day conference on the future of the beef cattle industry. The Virginia Cooperative Extension Service and the West Virginia University Extension Service are jointly sponsoring this opportunity for producers to listen to four regional experts provide an insight into the shape the beef industry will take in the future. "The Beef Cattle Industry: What Does the Future Hold?" will address issues related to consumer demand, innovative marketing channels, and emerging organizations that may change the industry forever. The conference will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 10, at the Best Western Lee-Jackson Motor Inn in Winchester, Va. The conference will begin at 9:30 a.m. with registration and end at approximately 2:30 p.m.

Four well-known experts from Virginia Tech and West Virginia University will present topics that define the problem with the beef industry and provide suggestions for change. Dr. Wayne Purcell, professor in the Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics at Virginia Tech, is nationally recognized for his expertise in commodity marketing, price analysis, and public policy. He published a staff paper in April of 1998 titled "A Primer on Beef Demand." The emphasis of this paper will be the focus of Dr. Purcell's presentation as he relates the essence of the wants and needs of the consumer.

Dr. Wayne Wagner, WVU Extension livestock specialist, will relate the findings of the National Beef Quality Audit. The challenges related in this report affect the cow-calf producer. Dr. Wagner will provide ways cow-calf producers can evaluate their herd and make through genetic selection.

Dr. Phillip Osborne, WVU Extension livestock marketing specialist, will relate marketing beef cattle from the region. Dr. Osborne will also relate the experience of one group of producers who "pool" their cattle to improve each producer's gross income.

Bill McKinnon, Virginia Cooperative Extension livestock marketing specialist, will discuss emerging organizations known as alliances. McKinnon will identify these organizations and how they are being used in the beef industry.

A registration fee of $12 will cover the cost of lunch and the proceedings from the meeting. You may contact the Preston County Extension Office at 329-1391 for a brochure which includes the registration form. Registrations must be mailed by February 1.

W.Va. Apple Growers Face Perilous Times

by Stewart Truelsen, AFBF director of broadcast services (reprinted with permission of Farm Bureau News)

John Chapman, better known as Johnny Appleseed, was a pioneer nurseryman who established apple orchards 200 years ago in the east and midwest. If alive today, he'd be aghast at prices received by apple growers in West Virginia, and saddened by the prospects for the apple industry there.

"You'd have to go back at least 25 years to find prices this low on juice apples," said Gary Shanholtz, a grower from Hampshire County in the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains. The fresh market is somewhat better, but not all apples meet those standards. In fact, only about a quarter of West Virginia's crop goes to the fresh market. The majority of the crop is processed. The smallest apples become juice.

While apples are as American as apple pie, it's no secret to consumers that foreign apples can be found at the supermarket. What they don't know, however, is that China is sending us a lot of cheap concentrate that is reconstituted into juice.

Chinese imports have jumped almost 1,000 percent over a three-year period, and the impact on the U.S. apple industry has been staggering. It has forced the juice apple price from 7 or 8 cents a pound down to 3 cents, which is about $1.25 a bushel. "That doesn't even pay my spray bill," said Shanholtz, who also has the cost of harvesting apples — about a dollar a bushel — and other costs to figure in.

Under Section 201 of U.S. trade law, the apple industry can seek temporary import relief. If granted, it would stop the flood of juice concentrate from China. While this is the most immediate concern, it is just one of a number of problems.

"There are housing developments all around me that used to be orchards," said Shanholtz. Developers harvested the land from farmers who threw in the towel because of low prices and excessive government regulations. More farmers could follow if the Environmental Protection Agency decides to cancel the use of vital crop protection tools and fails to register any new ones.

West Virginia's expanding deer population is another serious concern. "They eat the young trees when you set them out, and then they also eat the buds off the trees in the wintertime," said Shanholtz. Most weather worries don't start this early, but Shanholtz wonders already about next year's crop. The warm start to winter caused the swelling of buds that is normally seen in April.

These are perilous times for apple growers in West Virginia, a state that ranks ninth in the nation in production and has a proud heritage. The most widely planted apple in the world, the Golden Delicious, originated there. Johnny Appleseed spread news of the Bible and apples to the pioneers. Today he'd find it a whole lot easier just to be a minister.

Q. My wife and I found a 10-inch souvenir hatchet at a garage sale. It's made of cast iron and has two mounting holes. Across the handle are the words "Nation's Joint Smasher."

A. Carry Nation (1846-1911) was an early leader of the American temperance movement. She was famous for using a hatchet to destroy saloons in her home state of Kansas.

Nation was jailed about 30 times. She helped pay her fines by selling souvenir hatchets – including hatchet-shaped lapel pins – on her lecture tours.

Q. I just started collecting cereal boxes, but I don't know how to store them. Do I empty the boxes? Should I wrap them in plastic?

A. Carefully open each box from the bottom and eat, throw away or give the cereal to a friend. With the cereal left in the box, sooner or later, bugs would infest and eat holes in the box.

To prevent fading, keep the boxes away from direct light.

The boxes do not need plastic wrap. If you like, you can store or display them in dustproof hard-plastic cases.

Q. My mother's toaster is decorated with a blue willow pattern ceramic. It is marked on the bottom "110 volts, 500 watts, Toastrite, The Pan Electric Mfg. Co., Cleveland Ohio." It still works. What is it worth?

A. Your toaster was made in the 1930s. Collectors of blue willow patterns or toasters would pay at least $150 for it.

Home Tips

EASY DUST – Due to severe back problems and restricted movement, I have come up with a way to polish my furniture (avoiding a lot of bending and pain), which I would like to share with your readers.

I went to a nursery and purchased a garden sit-upon wagon, which has wheels that move from left to right. Also, under the sitting area is storage space to place your furniture-cleaning supplies.

Now I can sit and polish my furniture and move along to the bedroom furniture and dining room furniture and polish to my heart's content without adding additional back pressure or pain. Wanda F., Texarkana, Texas

WAX REMOVAL – I burn a lot of wax "melts" in Tealight potpourri-type burners. They lose their beautiful scent and have to be changed frequently. Removing them can be time-consuming, since the wax hardens to the ceramic surface.

Today I discovered if the burner is placed in the freezer for about 30 minutes, they just fall right out! No more half melting, solidifying and remelting to remove them, and no more spilled wax! Jill D., Morris Plains, N.J.

A & E Network Biography®

ABRAHAM LINCOLN: THE QUEST TO BETTER HIS COUNTRY

Abe Lincoln was the tallest and strongest fellow for many a mile. He was also the most charismatic and compelling. When he was in his late teens, Andrew Jackson proved that not only aristocrats could become president – good news for someone who resolved to make a difference. As depicted in February's Biography magazine, Lincoln was decidedly funny looking, with big flapping ears, a big nose, a drooping right eye and a facial mole. But he gave entertaining, passionate speeches to his bored neighbors and was popular.

Self-educated, he became a lawyer, married Mary Todd and had three sons.

He joined the new anti-slavery Republican Party, ran for Senate against Stephen Douglas, argued the Republican viewpoint brilliantly and became a national leader although he lost. When the Republicans nominated him for president (and retouched his campaign photo), he won. The Southern states immediately seceded. Lincoln decided the Union must be preserved. The country went to war. With the Emancipation Proclamation, Lincoln freed many slaves, keeping them socially inferior although politically equal, what he considered "the realizable minimum."

After the war, he hoped to "bind up the nation's wounds," putting forth an ambitious and highly charitable Reconstructionist program. If he had had a chance to refine and guide it, Southern whites and blacks might have found a way to live peacefully together instead of feuding for 100 years.

Instead, he was gunned down on April 14, 1865, by a rabidly racist actor, John Wilkes Booth. Somehow, Booth gained admittance to the president's box at Ford's Theater, put a derringer to Lincoln's head as he sat with his wife and another couple, and fired one shot. Lincoln never regained consciousness and died nine hours later. America instantly recognized what it had lost. "Now," said Secretary of War Stanton, "he belongs to the ages."

COVER STORY

New Mystery! comes grandly out of Africa

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Trevor Eve

PBS' popular Mystery! trades in eerie English fog for the blinding colors of Africa as Heat of the Sun begins a five-week run on Thursday, Jan. 28 (check local listings).

Set in 1930s Kenya, the series opens, after a short prologue, as Superintendent Albert Tyburn (Trevor Eve, The Politician's Wife) arrives to head up a new criminal investigation unit under the command of the insufferably pompous local police commissioner, Ronald Burkitt (Michael Byrne).

In the two-hour opener, "Private Lives," Tyburn investigates the disappearance of millionairess Lady Daphne Ellesmere (Kate McKenzie). The case takes him and his absurdly accommodating sidekick, Clive Lanyard (James Callis), deep into the rotting heart of Nairobi's dissolute "Happy Valley" set of arrogant English emigres, including the foppish bisexual Chico de Vilie (Sean Gallagher).

"They're a motley crew of well-financed adventurers who moved to Africa to capture a more ... feudal way of life," Mystery! host Diana Rigg says in her opening remarks to the series. "Decadent doesn't begin to describe them. These are people with money to burn and vices to spare.

"As the head of Nairobi's Criminal Investigations Unit, Tyburn wields more power than his wealthy compatriots would like. Most infuriating, he rarely takes a 'gentleman' at his word."

We learn during this first story that Tyburn isn't in Nairobi by his own choice. He's a highly principled man whose willingness to take matters into his own hands to see justice served didn't sit well with his superiors at Scotland Yard.

"Superintendent Tyburn is there in exile as much as some of the others are, " executive producer Rebecca Eaton says. "But a lot of those people went to Africa looking for fortune, then sank into the kind of dark life that too much money and too much time and too much sun could invoke."

While negotiating a tricky path through the rancid imperialism of his compatriots, Tyburn stumbles into a tentative romance with Lady Daphne's sister, plucky aviator Emma Fitzgerald (Susannah Harker). The fascinating relationship between these two feisty individuals progresses over the run of the series, until they find themselves literally on the brink in the nail-biting final episode.

Heat of the Sun is a breathtaking accomplishment, a grandly acted, painstakingly detailed evocation of a lost world. Eve is a wonder as Tyburn. Much like Jeremy Brett's miraculous Sherlock Holmes, he makes visible the wheels of deductive reasoning spinning behind his eyes. The impossibly lovely Harker is just as good, and the two of them together are irresistible.

"Unhappily, there probably won't be any more (Tyburn stories)," Eaton says. "They were so expensive to make there in Africa, because they really did them right. They did full period costumes, and they transported people to Africa to do absolutely authentic locations, but they just are unaffordable for a long-running series."

Savor Heat of the Sun while you can. It's Mystery! in a bracing new mode.

My Last Love offers sitcom stars dramatic change

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Stars of the sitcoms Almost Perfect and The Naked Truth team up with the producers of Fried Green Tomatoes to produce ... a tear-jerker?

It's no joke. Nancy Travis and Holland Taylor play a daughter and mother at odds in My Last Love, airing Monday, Jan. 25, on ABC. Scott Bairstow (Significant Others) also stars.

After taking a year off to start a family, Travis says she would like to return to work in a comedy series. In the meantime, viewers (and casting agents) can see her as a woman answering the "wake-up call," as she puts it, of unexpected love – and premature death.

"I read the script and cried my eyes out," Travis says. "I thought, how can I act this when I can't even read it? Then I thought, because of that reason, I have to do it."

Travis' character, Susan Allen, is an attorney and the single mother of a precocious preteen (Jamie Renee Smith).

"Susan goes to Los Angeles," Travis explains, "to tie things up with her life and resolve things with her parents, and she happens to meet this guy (Bairstow) who's a surfer. She says to her best friend, 'You've got to be kidding. This is not me.' But they fall in love."

Unfortunately, Travis adds, for many it takes a tragedy like her character's illness to open them to life's possibilities.

With My Last Love finished, Travis is looking ahead to fall.

"I'm trying to develop another television show," she says, adding that she would like to find something "refreshing and new."

Something, perhaps, with a touch of pathos in it.

Romance comes too late for an unlikely couple played by Scott Bairstow and Nancy Travis in My Last Love, airing Monday on ABC.

Local Builder Elected VP Of Builders Group

Garrett County builder Pete Brosnihan was recently elected to the position of vice president of the Home Builders Association of Western Maryland (HBAWM). Brosnihan will serve in this position during 1999 and then progress to the position of president of the HBAWM for the year 2000.

"I'm really excited about serving the association in this capacity," stated Brosnihan. "It is a great opportunity for me to bring to the table issues that concern members of the building and remodeling trades in Garrett County. I'm also hoping to get more Garrett County businesses involved in the association so that we can actively impact the regulatory and business climates that we operate in."

Brosnihan is the owner of Concept Associates Builders Inc., located in McHenry. He has been a builder for over 20 years and has operated Concept Associates since 1984. Concept Associates offers custom-design remodeling, architectural design, and custom home and commercial construction.

The HBAWM installed Brosnihan and its other officers and directors for 1999 at its December membership meeting. Serving as president this year will be Steve MacGray of Foxcraft Homebuilders. Peggy Baker of Home Federal Savings Bank will be the treasurer, and Bruce Sneathen of Potomac Valley Industrial Supply will serve as secretary.

One of the first projects that the HBAWM will take on in 1999 is the annual Home and Garden Show. Again this year, the show will be held at the YMCA Riverside Recreation Center in Cumberland. Show dates will be March 26-28. Booth spaces are already nearly sold out, so businesses wishing to reserve space should call the HBA at 301-722-4343 as soon as possible.

Last year more than 60 vendors displayed their products and services at the show, drawing a crowd of over 6,000 adults. "Each year the HBA's Home and Garden Show seems to get bigger and better," noted Steve MacGray, president of the HBAWM. "We're excited about the additional improvements we're making for this year's show."

The HBAWM is a local affiliate of the National Home Builders Association and the Maryland Home Builders Association.

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK was observed in at least two ways by the members of the Cove Kids 4-H Club, who created a display in the Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library and also made and displayed a poster in the Accident IGA market. "Don't be Sorry, Don't Delay, Join Cove Kids 4-H Today" was the theme of the display, being completed in the above photo by Cove Kids Michele Bender and Rachel Schmidt. The poster, which consisted of various photos of club activities, is pictured below with (from left) Keenan Kabell, Saylor and David Wampler, Matthew Margroff, Rachel Schmidt, and Beth Long. The Cove Kids are beginning a new 4-H year and invite area youth between the ages of 8 and 18 to join. The club meets the second Tuesday of every month at St. John's Lutheran Church along Cove Road. For more information, persons may telephone leader Alice Long at 301-746-8924.

reporter

The monthly meeting of the Cove Kids 4-H Club was held Tuesday, Jan. 12. Beth Long, 1998 president, opened the meeting and then announced and introduced the 1999 officers. The officers are: president, Keith Bender; vice president, Rachel Schmidt; secretary, Lindsay Swearman; treasurer, Leslie Swearman; reporter, Beth Long; and for the months of January and February, photographer, Michelle Bender.

The American pledge was led by Keenan Kabell and the 4-H pledge was led by Matthew Margroff. Reports were given by the secretary, treasurer, activity leader, and the club leader. The activity leader, Carla Swearman, noted that there will be a 4-H ski day on Feb. 5 from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Wisp. Other activities of the club included the officers' training, held on Jan. 16, and the movie trip, which will be on Jan. 23. The club will have public speaking and a speaker at the February meeting.

All members were reminded to complete and turn in their record books to leader Alice Long before Jan. 31. Alice also gave each member his/her re-enrollment forms and other papers sent to the club from the Extension office.

Discussion of the 1999 club plans was held, and each member was asked to suggest an educational speaker to host at one of the club meetings. Also, the members were asked to suggest fun activities they would like to do throughout the year. There were no demonstrations. There were 11 members and four parents present.

The club's next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 9, unless canceled because of weather conditions.

BITTINGER
by Darryl Glotfelty
reporter

The monthly meeting of the Bittinger 4-H Club was held Monday, Jan. 11, with 17 members and 4 adults present.

The Christmas dinner, which was held at the Bittinger fire hall, was discussed under old business. New business included officer training; the 4-H Ski Day, which is set for Friday, Feb. 5; and the rabbit workshop, which is set for Saturday, Feb. 27.

Our newest member is Jody Brenneman.

The club will host a buckwheat cake fund-raising dinner on Friday, Feb. 19, from 4:30 to 8 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. The menu will include pancakes, sausage, and a drink, and the cost will be $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children, while kids 5 and under eat for free.

GRANTSVILLE 4-H
by Daniel Garlitz
Reporter

The Grantsville 4-H Club held its family night on January 4. A covered dish meal was served. The prayer was lead by Doug Wiemer, and a brief meeting followed the dinner.

A ceremony was conducted to install the new officers and leaders. The 1999 officers are: president, Sara Green; vice president, Crystal Colmer; secretary, Bobbi Beitzel; treasurer, Autumn Rizer; and reporter, Daniel Garlitz. The new leaders are Mary Ann and Bob Rizer.

Appreciation was expressed to Karen Hutzel for being our leader for the past 6 years. A plaque, flowers, and a fruit basket were given. Plaques were given to outgoing members Lisa Hutzel, 11 years, and Beverly Yommer, 6 years.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 1, at 7 p.m. at the Casselman Valley Sportsmen Club. All are welcome to attend.

SHEPHERDS
Bridget Miller

The January meeting was held at the Darrell Bolyard residence for a family sled riding party. After sled riding, the regular meeting was held. The club talked about its Christmas party, which was in December. The club went bowling at Par-Matt Lanes and then went to the Extension office to eat and exchange gifts.

The Shepherds club also voted on 1999 officers, who are as follows: president, Bridget Miller; vice president, Scottie Bolyard; secretary, Jennifer Friend; treasurer, Ben Friend; and reporter, Bridget Miller.

The club decided that each member should give a 2- to 3-minute speech at our February meeting, which will be held February 8 at the Extension office.

The club members discussed due dates for beef ID cards, 4-H enrollment, record books, and annual financial summary of club and treasurer's books.

The Shepherds club had four new members enroll: Lisa Bernard, Jeremy Bernard, Scott Rinker, and Chad Harvey.

County To Be Site Of 2000 National Custer Symposium

Garrett County has been chosen to host a national event in June 2000 — the Custer Conference, a symposium for the descendants of Paulus and Gertrude Kuster and related families. Among those included in the genealogy under study is Gen. George Armstrong Custer, whose family farmed land in western Maryland, and whose descendants still are among its residents.

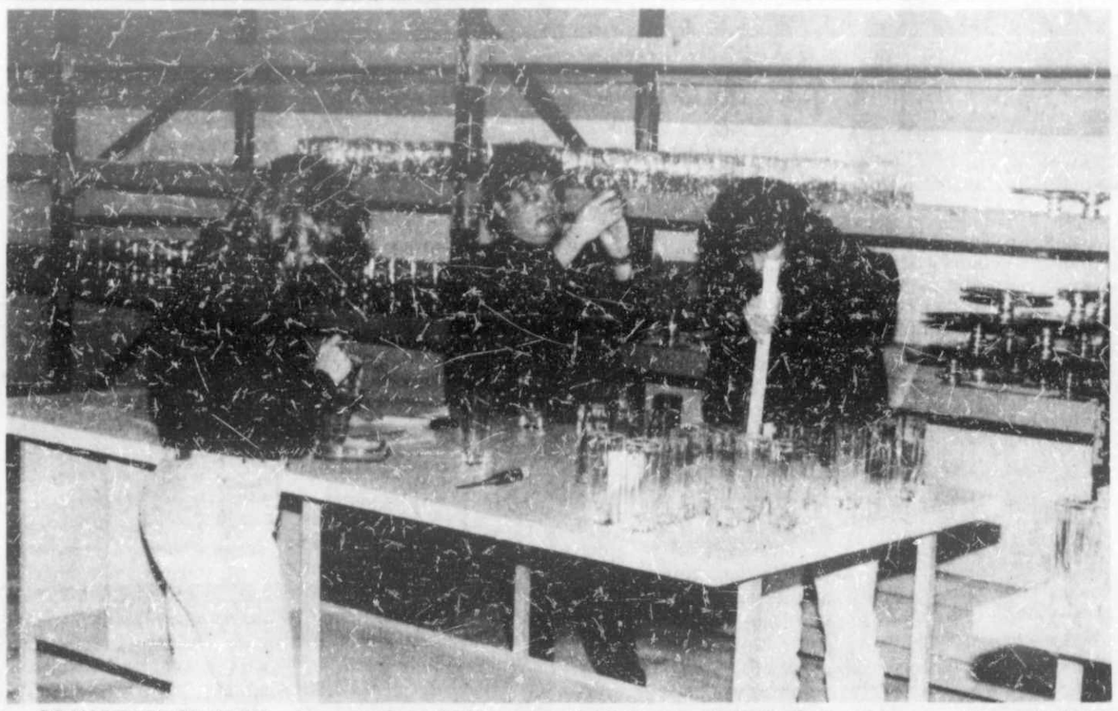
This national sysposium is sponsored by the Castor Association of America, Castor being the spelling used by one branch of family that spread across the expanding young American nation. The association holds annual conferences to examine and explore the separate and intertwining histories of their related families.

The Wisp Resort and Conference Center will be the site for this event titled "Turning Point for the Century: Leaving the Myths Behind." The local coordinator for the forum and associated activities is Marilyn Posten, resident of Oakland and Charlottesville, Va. Posten has been conferring with Custer family members of Garrett and Allegany counties as well as nearby Pennsylvania and Virginia, and seeking information and documentation of the Custer family members who lived in western Maryland and contiguous areas.

The Custer Conference will include forums, discussions, and a variety of activities, Posten explained. "There will be displays and events throughout the county. The honored guests will be Gen. and Mrs. George Custer, portrayed by Steve and Sandy Alexander," she noted. The Alexanders will travel from their home in Monroe, Mich., to take part in the conference and reenactments. "Steve Alexander is the foremost living Custer historian.

Among the tasks facing Posten is locating a large tract of land for staging some of the events. "We are in need of a donation of beautiful, rolling Garrett County farmland for a Civil War encampment and reenactment," she said.

Anyone interested in learning more about the conference or in donating the use of farmland may contact Marilyn Posten, 106 S. Fifth Street, Oakland, MD 21550, 301-334-2397 or 804-973-4965; or Bill and Jean Durst, P.O. Box 28, Grantsville, MD 21536, 301-895-3742.



SO HAPPY TO BE BACK — If someone had told former Bausch & Lomb employees Ellen Lipscomb and Janet Tasker (left and center) two years ago that they would not only get good jobs again, but would be working at the same facility they were forced to leave, neither would have believed it, they say. "It's amazing how things have turned out," Tasker said Tuesday as she picked up a piece of newly made glass. "I'm so happy to be here," Lipscomb said. The two have been working for several months with Heidi Cyreus, at right, who has been a quality control employee at the Simon Pearce plant in Vermont for six years. Heidi is schooling the two local women on how to judge the product. "It's a difficult skill to learn," Heidi said, "because the standards for a bud vase are very different from those of a drinking glass. It takes time to master this process, but these two are doing great." The local plant officially began operations last week. See story.

Swanton Party Scene Of Drug, Alcohol Offenses

Police officers responding to a Swanton party Saturday evening ended the festivities by filing drug charges against a juvenile and issuing underage drinking citations to several other partygoers on the scene.

Acting on a tip, members of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation and deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrived at the party at 1720 Green Glade Road at approximately 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 23. After observing several underage individuals that had reportedly consumed alcoholic beverages, the officers began administering breath tests. They also discovered an empty beer can, cut with holes as if for use in the smoking of marijuana, that contained marijuana residue.

One juvenile was charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia and was released into the custody of a parent. Five adult underage drinking citations and one juvenile underage drinking citation were also issued.

Victor Frank Gardea, 19, Accident, was arrested and charge with failure to obey a lawful order of a police officer when he refused to comply with repeated requests to stop verbally interfering with the search. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

In other sheriff's news, another incident of underage drinking resulted in civil citations being issued to Shawn Aaron Stemple and Jeffrey Lee Wilson, both 18 years of age, hometown information unavailable.

The two men were stopped in a pickup truck as they pulled into the parking lot of Red House School shortly after midnight on Saturday morning. The dep-

Simon Pearce Glass Factory Officially Begins Operation

"I count my blessings every day for this job," said new Simon Pearce employee Janet Tasker, a Garrett County resident. "I am so thrilled to be working again, and it's great to be able to walk into the same building." Tasker's future was bleak two years ago when her 23-year job with Bausch & Lomb ended with that company's closing. She had worked in quality control at B&L, and now is one of the first to be hired by Simon Pearce, also in quality control. She rejoined her former co-worker, Ellen Lipscomb, who had a 13-year career with B&L and is also now a quality inspector.

Tasker, Lipscomb, and about 20 more individuals are hard at work at the new manufacturing company, where Simon Pearce himself hosted a press conference yesterday to report on the progress of his latest endeavor.

"I'm so pleased," he said, explaining that the operations officially began last Monday with the firing of the furnace for the five new kilns. "The quality of the glass is fantastic, and that's something that's never a guarantee. This furnace is our own design — our latest and greatest. We've been building them for 30 years, always modifying and improving them. This is our best yet."

The furnace and kilns were ablaze during yesterday's tour of the renovated facility, where other workers — local contractors — continue to refurbish the building. Currently they are working on an elevated walkway, which will eventually be open for tourists to get a "bird's eye view" of the operations. The walkway will surround a retail outlet for the glass pieces designed by Pearce and made by the employees. Pearce hopes to add five more kilns to the operation, and is planning to hire at least 150 employees over the next five years. The 23 workers are producing about 200 pieces each day. At full operation, the plant could turn out 800 per day, Pearce said.

About 60% of the building is currently empty, but will be used for the storage of the glass and for the shipping operations.

"About two thirds of the product goes to our stores," Pearce said, noting that his company currently owns 10 retail shops. The glass is also sold to over 300 retail stores throughout the United States. He said there are budding plans for a new store close to Westchester, Pa. There he hopes to build a restaurant, a glass product store, and a glass-blowing exhibit area for tourists.

"But the glass sold there will be made here," he said.

Pearce said the local company plans to host a public open house in June, depending on the progress of the renovations.

The businessman had high praise for the local community and expressed gratitude to the Garrett County Economic Development Office for its assis-

GLAF Slates Community Sing With Dr. Sheets

A community sing titled "Sing-A-Long With Sheets Music," featuring local organist Dr. David Sheets, will be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland on Sunday, Feb. 7, at 3 p.m. The event is being hosted by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF).

"This is an opportunity for all ages and all interests to come out for an afternoon of fun," said Elizabeth Johnson, executive director of GLAF. Sheets and Master of Ceremonies Bob Callis will lead the audience through familiar music that will include love songs, Broadway show tunes, hymns and gospel music, and songs from the "Roaring 20s," Johnson said. The words will be printed for all to sing along.

Sheets has performed with the Garrett Choral Society in Fiddler on the Roof, South Pacific, and Nunsense, and has been the organist for numerous Christmas and Easter concerts. He is currently serving his 15th year as organist of St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

A practicing dentist in Garrett County since 1979, Sheets is a native of Meadville, Pa. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in music history and composition, with 30 hours toward a master's degree in music from the University of Pittsburgh and a doctor of

Local Big Rig Event Planned; Proceeds To Help Dove Center

Big rigs will roll into Garrett County this summer, according to plans currently being made by two local truck enthusiasts, Jim McFarland and Carson Yoder. The occasion for the round-up of massive vehicles will be the first-ever Western Maryland Truck Show, which will be held to benefit the Dove Center.

The event, scheduled for August 28-29 at the Grantsville Community Park, will feature "bob tails," which is the term describing a tractor-trailer without the trailer attached, McFarland explained. "Only the semis will be in the show. It's a space problem," he said.

Yoder and McFarland, who both grew up around 18-wheelers, decided that since there is no other big truck show in the area, they would organize one. "The idea simply came from our love of trucks, but we quickly realized we could turn this into something fun that would also benefit the community," Yoder said.

Early in the planning phase of the truck show, the two organizers decided that proceeds gleaned from application fees and entrance fees would be donated to a some type of organization that works to alleviate family violence. The Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault resource center and shelter, was selected.

McFarland and Yoder recently met with the Dove Center staff and executive director Linda Spassil to talk about the idea. Spassil echoed their enthusiasm. "I think this is a great and unique idea and can't wait to get the ball rolling," she said. She also noted her appreciation that the event would be family oriented.

The truck show will include concession stands and activities. "These are all still

Education Board Seeks Architect Funding For NHS, SHS Projects

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Wendell Teets and two members of the Garrett County Board of Education met with the county commissioners this week to explore the possibility of obtaining mid-fiscal-year funding for architect and design fees for projects at both county high schools. A heated exchange, chiefly between Commissioner Fred Holliday and the superintendent, ensued as the matter was discussed.

The education board is currently making a concerted effort toward obtaining funding for the design and construction of an auxiliary gymnasium at Northern High School, where the item has been "on the books" for over 20 years. The work at Southern includes the renovation of the entrance foyer to the gym, a renovated stage/auditorium area, and improvements to the library. The upgrades at both schools were to have been completed in the early 1990s when the facilities were extensively renovated, but funds ran out before these items could be done.

Teets and board members Madeleine Collins and Charlotte Sebold told the commissioners that they are strongly in support of having the work completed, and that they have growing pressure from the public to see that it is done. Although the fiscal year budget does not come to an end until June 30, the educators have endeavored to obtain the money for the architectural design of both projects, which Teets said they have estimated to be about $150,000 in all.

"We wanted to see if we could get these designs finished now so that we could save a year," Teets said. "If we wait too long to

Arson Determined As Cause Of Oakland Fire; Resident Charged

A resident of a building that was destroyed by fire early this month has been charged in connection with that blaze, according to a report from the Garrett County state's attorney's office. Steven Wayne Harris, 20, was arrested Friday by Steven M. Wendling, deputy fire marshal, who charged the defendant with first degree arson of a dwelling, second degree arson of a non-dwelling, and five counts of reckless endangerment.

The fire broke out in the evening hours of Jan. 5 at the building, which was located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets. The Innovative Concepts in Electronics (ICE) business was housed in the building, and the upstairs consisted of apartments for six individuals (including the defendant). About 75 fire fighters from six volunteer departments fought the blaze in sub-zero temperatures for at least nine hours, according to the state's attorney's report. The total loss has been estimated to be at least $300,000.

"The point of origin for the fire was obviously within the bathroom of Harris's apartment," Wendling stated. "From the first time I spoke with Harris the night of the fire, I knew his explanation of the events did not add up. Subsequent investigation in conjunction with the GBI [Garrett Bureau of Investigation] has led to Harris's arrest."

Shortly after his arrest, the defendant was released on $25,000 unsecured bond, according to a GBI spokesperson.

Deep Creek Dunkers Encouraged To Support Md. Special Olympics

by Peggy Santamaria

Maryland State Police and the management of Uno's Restaurant have issued an invitation to anyone interested in supporting the Maryland Special Olympics to "drop by and drop in" — the lake, that is — for the first ever Deep Creek Dunk. Scheduled for February 20, the fund-raising event will take place on the beach area behind Uno's at 2 p.m.

This inaugural fund-raiser challenges participants to collect pledges in support of their frigid immersion. Those participating in a chilly dip in the drink for charity will be treated to a free lunch at Uno's and a sweatshirt attesting to their courage, or whatever it is that prompts a person to agree to chop through the ice and walk waist-deep into the lake. Each dunker must raise $50 for the Special Olympics to enter to event and the water.

Registration will begin at noon on "the day of the dunk," but dunkers are encouraged to pre-register to guarantee receipt of a sweatshirt. Anyone wishing to pre-register may call 1-800-541-7544, ext. 3010, and leave a name, phone number, and sweatshirt size.

Modeled on the Polar Bear Plunge in the Chesapeake Bay, which has been held for the last three years, the Deep Creek Dunk will become the western Maryland version of the state police fund-raiser for Maryland Special Olympics. Event sponsors include: presenting sponsor — Uno's; dunk partners, Wisp Ski Area, A&A Realty-Long & Foster, Motor City Toyota, Harley Davidson of Md. Inc., and Garrett County Chamber of Com-

THE SNOW WASN'T THE ONLY THING coming down in downtown Oakland Monday, as what remained of the building that housed several apartments and IC Electronics, located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets, was razed into a pile of rubble by this large hydraulic machine. The cause of the fire, which occurred earlier this month, has been ruled as arson and an arrest has been made in the case by Steve Wendling, deputy state fire marshal. See story.

Phenix Hosts Visit From Florida Firm

Phenix Technologies, the Accident manufacturing company of state-of-the-art high voltage test equipment, was recently host to officials from Florida Power and Light (FPL), one of the largest utility companies in the United States. FPL officials were transported in the company jet from Miami to the Morgantown, W.Va.,, and traveled to Accident to visit the local company. The two companies have been business partners since Phenix's inception in 1989.

"FPL and Phenix have a great working relationship," said Frank Vitez, president of Phenix Technologies. "FPL has been extremely satisfied with our ability to provide quality, custom-built equipment that meets their testing needs. In return for our hard work, FPL has remained a loyal customer over the years."

The purpose of FPL's visit was to allow the officials to check on the progress of a computerized protective rubber glove tester in production for FPL's equipment reliability and meter technology centers.

"The utility linemen have to work on or around live high voltage lines," explained Joe Thomas, director of sales for Phenix. "The protective rubber gloves, boots, and blankets they use are sometimes the last line of defense for those workers. We are very proud that FPL has the confidence in Phenix Technologies to build the equipment that will ensure the rubber goods' performance in the field."

A Phenix spokesperson commented that under the direction of Hassan Younes, principle distribution engineer, and Vern Cameron, engineering supervisor, FPL is aggressively positioning itself for the future with regard to the possibility of deregulation across the nation.

"We are very excited to be associated with such a forward thinking company like Florida Power and Light," said Rudi Kremer, vice president of Phenix.

PHENIX WELCOMES FPL OFFICIALS — Phenix Technologies, a company in Accident that is a leader in the design and manufacture of high voltage test equipment, recently hosted a visit from Florida Power and Light (FPL), one of the country's largest utilities. FPL and Phenix have worked together since the local company began in 1989, with FPL using Phenix's products on a regular basis. The recent visit of FPL officials was to allow them the opportunity to check the progress of a computerized protective rubber glove tester, now in production for its equipment reliability and meter technology centers. Sexuality, Adolescent Concerns To Be Subjects Of Parent-Teen Event

The Garrett County Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition (TPPC) will host a gathering for parents and teenagers to give them the opportunity to discuss sexuality and other related adolescent concerns. "Community Beat: Getting to the Heart of the Matter" will be held on Saturday, Feb. 13, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Wisp Conference Center.

The keynote speaker will be Patti Flowers-Coulson, director of the Governor's Council on Adolescent Pregnancy. Pandora's Box Teen Theatre Group will give a theatrical presentation. Workshop topics determined through the use of a youth survey will cover a variety of areas. They include the following: Teen Parent — "I never thought it would happen to me," facilitated by local teen parents; Picture of Teen Pregnancy in Garrett County, facilitated by Virginia Jeffrey; Protection — "Why do I need it?" facilitated by Chris Delaney-Shaffer; and Safe Passage, Making It from Teenager To Adult in Today's World, facilitated by Sandi Flockhart.

Local organizations and the faith community will provide educational materials related to teen pregnancy prevention. The event, which includes lunch, is free and open to the first 60 people who register. Registration is required and must be completed no later than Feb. 5. For more information, persons may contact the Garrett County Health Department at 301-533-0001 or 301-895-5017.

The TPPC organized in 1995 and has the primary purpose of exploring factors that contribute to early childbearing, and developing and implementing comprehensive strategies that reduce the incidence of teen pregnancy in Garrett County. According to a spokesperson for TPPC, the county youth routinely rank at or near the top when it comes to Caucasian teen pregnancy rates in Maryland.

"The coalition is seeking ways to preserve the authenticity of community norms and, at the same time, address factors that contribute to teen pregnancy like alcohol and other drugs, lack of supervision, limited view of opportunities, and so forth," said a TPPC spokesperson.

The TPPC is supported by the Governor's Council on Adolescent Pregnancy, the county health department, and the Local Management Board of the Office for Children, Youth, and Families.

Snow-Covered Road Noted As Accident Factor

Snow on the roadway was noted by Maryland State Police as a factor in an accident Monday on Pocahontas Road, near Finzel.

According to a report filed at the McHenry barrack, Joni L. Shirk, 16, Frostburg, was northbound on Pocahontas Road, off Route 40, at 4:04 p.m. when the vehicle she was driving slid on the snow-covered road, crossed the road, and struck a ditch.

Frostburg Ambulance responded to the scene. Shirk was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where she was treated and released. No charges were filed by police.

Garrett Co. Arts Advocates Attend Md. Arts Days

Elizabeth Johnson, Swanton, spoke about Garrett County's approach to presenting the arts at the Maryland Arts Days: The Arts at the Edge of a New Century, held in Annapolis this week.

Donald Sincell, editor of The Republican newspaper, served on a five-person panel discussing Advocacy: Making a Case for the Arts, and Steve Schlosnagle, Accident, administrator of the Garrett County Arts Council, spoke briefly at the legislative luncheon.

Arts, business, and education leaders met with state legislators to discuss the importance of public arts support and its role in community development across the state. This was part of a statewide effort to preserve and promote state support for the arts and arts education.

Dr. Marcene Huebner, chair of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) board of directors, also joined the hundreds of arts supporters in Annapolis for two days of dialogue, advocacy, and special events.

"I am thrilled to have this opportunity to let people know what is happening in the performing arts in the western part of the state," said Johnson, executive director of GLAF. "Thirteen years ago, a handful of people gathered together in a living room to discuss rekindling the mountain Chautauqua spirit. GLAF was born from this vision.

"GLAF has done so much over the years thanks to the work of a dedicated board of directors and the leadership of Fred Stemple, former executive director," Johnson said. "We are excited about the 1999 season and looking forward to offering new opportunities for the community to experience the performing arts."

Johnson said GLAF will be starting a Sunday matinee series at the Sitzmark Room, Will O' the Wisp, and will begin working with Music at Penn Alps to jointly bring artists to Garrett County."

"We are looking into the feasibility of building an indoor performing arts center and the possibility of managing an amphitheater at Deep Creek Lake State Park," she said.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, with offices at Garrett Community College, is approaching its 13th season of presenting the arts, at affordable prices, to residents and visitors of Garrett County.

Burglars Ransack Friendsville Area Residence

A Friendsville area residence was burglarized earlier this month, with numerous items being taken by perpetrator(s) who apparently went through the home's entire contents, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office

The residence at 345 Vista Ridge Drive was apparently struck between Jan. 5 and Jan. 15, when burglars gained entry by kicking in the basement door. They reportedly opened all the cabinets and dressers in the home, upset the furniture and beds, and used a ladder to enter into the attic area.

The burglary resulted in the loss of an excess of $1,500 worth of items from the residence, including: a black RCA television set; a black Onkyo radio with speaker set; a black VCR; a pair of black Rosignal ski boots, size 11; a black Panasonic cordless telephone; a portable sawzall; a Makita cordless drill; and a Craftsman skill saw.

Damage to the basement door and door jamb was estimated at $250.

OTT To Present Play Titled Love Letters

Our Town Theatre management has announced that its next play offering will be Love Letters, written by A. R. Gurney. The show will be presented at the theatre in Oakland on Feb. 4, 5, 11, 12, and 13 at 8 p.m., and on Feb. 7 at 3 p.m. Tickets will be $5 per person. Reservations are strongly recommended and may be made by calling the theatre box office at 301-334-5640.

Love Letters is the story of two people, Melissa and Andy, who meet in early childhood and remain close as they grow to adulthood and through middle age. Because their lives take different paths, they communicate mainly through letters. The two read these communications aloud, so although they are separated by great distances, the letters create a narrative between them for the benefit of the audience.

The character of Melissa will be played by local actress Sue Harkins, who has been seen in such area productions as Nunsense, The Music Man, and The Dining Room. Richard Hill, who has also been in numerous local shows such as Man of La Mancha, Voice of the Prairie, and The Wizard of Oz, will play Andrew.

The play is under the direction of Susan Rushing Bell, who has directed several productions at Northern Middle School and is also a local actress of note.

"Love Letters is a masterpiece of writing and is full of heart, but it is written for adults," a theatre spokesperson said. "There is no explicit sexual content, but there is some language and situations that some might find offensive."

Route 40 School Awarded $23,427 For Outdoor Education/Play Area

The Route 40 School PTA was recently awarded a donation of $23,427 from the Ronald McDonald House of Charities to purchase new equipment for the schoo! playground. Students learned of this contribution as well as plans for school grounds development during a recent student assembly.

Pre-K teacher Debbie Brenneman, who is chairing the playground project, spearheaded an effort to secure the grant, based on the school's need to develop an area that will serve as an outdoor classroom as well as a recreation area for students. The staff and students will spend the winter designing a plan for their project that will feature equipment that is handicapped accessible and environmentally friendly.

Located five miles west of Frostburg along the National Pike, the Route 40 school currently serves the communities of Finzel, Long Stretch, and Avilton, and has an enrollment of 180 students. "The school has been very active in using the environment as an inte-grating context for learning. In the past, students of Ms. Judy McKenzie's fourth grade replanted a forest area," said school principal Patrick R. Delaney.

For another recent project students in all grade levels participated in designing and constructing an emergent wetland. "Students were involved in every phase of the project, including the writing of grants as well as the actual construction and planting of the emergent wetland area," the principal stated.

Possible future projects described by Delaney included gardens, meadow lands, an outdoor pavilion, a green house, and construction of a walkway throughout the school grounds. "The P.T.A. has been kept busy raising monies for the projects with activities that include community dinners," he added.

Tentatively, the playground equipment project is slated for completion in the midsummer. "The school grounds will be open for the general community to visit and enjoy," Delaney noted.

Ronald McDonald Charities Headquarters is based in Washington, D.C., and uses contributions collected in local McDonald's Restaurants to fund "worthwhile projects" for individuals and groups. A day of celebration and activities at the school is planned for February and will include a visit from Ronald McDonald.

Lack Of Evidence Leads To Nolle Prosequi Order

An Oakland man accused of assaulting a 14-year-old girl in 1992 will not be prosecuted for the alleged offense, according information at Garrett County Circuit Court. David Allan Smith, 32, faced several rape and sexual offense charges in relation to the incident, but the statute of limitations had caused most of the charges to be dropped, leaving only one: assault with intent to rape. State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch stated in court that the prosecution lacked sufficient evidence to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Smith had the specific intent to rape the young girl.

According to police reports, Smith entered the teenager's family's property asked her if he could use the phone. She allowed him in the house, where he proceeded to call someone. After he hung up, according to the police report, he forced the youngster into a bedroom and accosted her. After a struggle, the girl was able to force Smith away, according to the account, and he left the house.

Because the defendant allegedly threatened the girl with retribution should she tell anyone about the incident, she was quiet for some time about the episode, according to the report. She came forward when Smith was arrested in later years, accused of similar crimes. He is currently serving a sentence in the local jail, and faces yet another trial, according to a circuit court spokesperson.

Tractor Wreck In Loch Lynn Nets DWI Arrest

An Oakland man was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) and several other traffic offenses after he lost control of a farm tractor and wrecked it in Loch Lynn this past Thursday evening, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Dennis Ray Swartzentruber, 46, was operating the Belarus 425A tractor southbound on Roanoke Avenue when it left the roadway at approximately 6:20 p.m. The tractor struck a roadsign and a telephone pole before coming to a stop, and Swartzentruber sustained a laceration to the nose. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

In addition to DWI, Swartzentruber was charged with negligent driving, driving with a suspended license, and violation of a license restriction. He is being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $105,000 bond.

Other DWI Arrests

Several other individuals were arrested by sheriff's deputies and charged with DWI recently. They were: James Milton Reckart, 44, and David Edison Stewart, 34, both of Oakland; and Walter Elsey Sharpless, 72, Aurora, W.Va.

Our mother's love never leaves us,
it lives eternally,
In caring hearts, in lives she touched,
in every memory...
The love of our wonderful mother is something that will always live on,
Filling the days with sweet memories long after her presence is gone...
We still feel the warmth of her caring,
her wisdom will never depart,
For the love of our wonderful mother

Welcome, Simon...

Many months of anticipation about the commencement of work at the new Simon Pearce glass manufacturing plant in the former Bausch & Lomb facility finally ended on an extremely upbeat note this week when company officials held a press conference to announce that the plant operation is now under way. Some of the world's finest glass products are now being manufactured in Garrett County, and the potential for growth at the local facility is great. This means new jobs, new growth, new opportunities.

Even some of the familiar faces of former Bausch & Lomb employees are back in their space once again with renewed enthusiasm. Others are new faces of other appreciative people, who have been desperate for employment for many months and are now anxious to do a good job.

The Pearce staff that was sent here to do the hiring could not say enough to the reporters yesterday about how impressed they were with the desire, work ethic, and competency of the folks they have interviewed, which says volumes about the quality of people who live here. They have not had a similar experience elsewhere. Even though we have one of the highest unemployment rates in the state, it most certainly is not because we have too many residents who are unwilling to work. Even Bausch & Lomb officials, on their way out the door, continued to comment on what an outstanding staff of employees they had at the local plant. It makes one proud to be a resident of such a community of dedicated people.

We would also be remiss in not pointing out the work and efforts of a number of people who were key players in making Simon Pearce happen in Garrett County. They would include Jim Hinebaugh, director of economic development, and his assistants, Meg Ellis and Peggy Jamison, the staff of the local unemployment office, and former county commissioners Wayne Wilt, Gary Fratz, Wayne Johnson, and the late Roger Glotfelty, to name just a few. The Pearce management also commented on the outstanding cooperation and assistance from the aforementioned, among others.

We see the arrival of Simon Pearce as a win-win-win situation: it's a clean industry that produces a unique, fine product; it provides much-needed, top-quality jobs for our residents; and it will be a real drawing card for our tourism industry.

Welcome, Simon and crew!

To the Editor:

On Jan. 8, I had the misfortune of getting stuck in the snow on Rock Lodge Road at Brenneman's Grove, the most beautiful stretch of road in Maryland. A very nice man came along and towed me out. He refused my offer of money, saying that perhaps he might be in the same situation himself one day. He gave me his name and address (he lives on Bear Hill Rd.).

As you might guess, I lost the piece of paper with his name. He has my card. If anyone knows of someone who drives a blue and white Blazer or Bronco vehicle, please have him get in touch with me and he will get the photos promised him. Sir, again, thank you. I sincerely hope to hear from you.

To the Editor:

It is regrettable that Gerard A. Herpel refrained from sharing his views with me personally before demeaning my work as an herbalist in a public forum.

Nowhere in my professional presentation do I refer to myself as "a pharmacist." I do not expect pharmacists, doctors, or nurses to have the 800 hours of training in herbology that I have had, nor to have worked with native herbs for 15 years, as I have worked. The use of the word "pharmacy" in the context of "herbal pharmacy and dispensary" innocuously alludes to the fact that I have direct contact with mixing the herbs for patients and clients. Therefore, I am not a "salesman" or a distributor with a conflict of interests.

Herbs have qualities which are nutritive and naturally medicinal, and are not overseen by the FDA because they are not technically considered "drugs." Pharmaceutical drugs are drugs. Herbs, last I checked in the past 20,000 years, are still herbs.

As for interfacing with doctors and nurses, some of my best clients are doctors, nurses, and, yes, even pharmacologists. Many of my referrals come from this group of health professionals as well.

I suggest anyone wishing for further clarity about the status of herbs call the Herb Research Foundation at 1-800-373-7105. The foundation is in its 20th year, and catalogs a wide array of information on herbs, herbology schools, laws, symposiums, and other activity in this valid and expanding field of choice available, thankfully, to the consumers of this nation.

To the Editor:

I hope you will print this in your paper. I would like to write about the pain that can be caused by the careless actions of people.

On January 16, someone ran over and killed my little dog. (She was only 7 months old.) I'd only had her a few short months but she was helping to fill an empty space from the loss of another little dog that died last year — one I'd had for 15 years.

Now Cassi was playing alongside the road, I'll admit. But she could be seen from a distance and there was no excuse for this to happen. I know, as I walked the road to see if she could have been seen. She was only a puppy and did not know to move out of the way.

Now I walk into to my home and there is no warm, loving puppy running to meet me and bring some sunshine into my heart. I loved her very much, especially since she was a gift from my brother-in-law. She had been intended for my baby nephew, but it turned out he had an allergy to dogs. So you see, she was doubly precious because I'd hoped that in the future Mason would be able to play with her.

Now I don't know who did this, but I hope if they have a pet someone isn't careless and causes anything like this to happen to theirs. I wasn't going to write this, but this evening as I was gathering her toys to put away, I started crying like a baby and I'm not ashamed to say so. I've lost several animals in the past year — two dogs, one horse that belonged to my mother-in-law, and now little Cassi. We are all animal lovers in this family and I would like to implore anyone who drives a vehicle, the next time you see an animal alongside the road, please slow down and take care, because they are usually someone's pet and mean a great deal to the owners. Sometimes they are all some have to help relieve their loneliness and bring some sunshine into their lives.

I would like to thank my neighbor, Tawny Cady, for finding Cassi and bringing her home so we could bury her.

Thank you,
Linda Paugh

To the Editor:

From the handful of individuals who worked for nearly two years, to the numerous [illegible] and associations that provided financial support, the domestic violence shelter, the Dove Center, became a reality. The Dove Center was, and is, to be a safe refuge: a place to heal, to garner strength, and to move forward.

Since its dedication, there has been a concerted resurgence of energy put into addressing the problems associated with family violence. Strategies including public forums, personal safety initiatives, Mettle Workers (a batterer's group), theatrical presentations (Runaways and Pandora's Box), and pro-prosecution activities have increased the general public's awareness of the very real and painful existence of family violence in Garrett County.

With the coalescence of local experts into the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition, the support of our local and state police departments, and the "rebirth" of the Domestic Violence Sexual Assault Resource Center, our community is on the path necessary to finally deal with family violence in a straightforward manner.

Violence is a cycle of learned behavior. Violence in schools, communities, and society is nearly always a product of violence in the home. The most potent teachers of violence are our partners, parents, or loved ones who use physical, sexual, or emotional violence against others.

Violence flourishes as the result of social and personal tolerance of it. If we speak out, if we seek assistance as victims of violence, if we offer safe shelter to victims of violence, we will inevitably affect the cycle of violence that exists in our society. Most people are against the idea of violence in their lives. We have to continue to join together, to have our voices heard, and reject uninformed and judgmental notions concerning family violence. If each of us supports a project aimed at breaking the cycle of violence, perhaps we can someday have little to nothing to say about this subject.

On behalf of the shelter founders, we are pleased that the public has determined that the shelter is a vital link in the process of breaking the cycle.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

This letter is in reply to those who felt compelled to write in response to the issue of the Dove Center.

First, to those people and families who have never experienced any form of abuse, assault, domestic violence or rape — count your blessings and thank God you're safe where you live, because these are real problems and they do happen. Even in our little corner of the world of Garrett County, I know, because I am one of the unlucky ones. I had to endure the experience of the items mentioned above.

But you know what? Thanks to these wonderful people from the Dove Center, I can now say I am a survivor. It was, and can be at times, hard to live each day not knowing how to deal with my own pain and the feelings of shame and guilt. So, unless you've been to this dark secretive side of life, filled with fear, sadness, assault, and the isolation domestic violence breeds, you may think that a place such as the Dove Center should not exist. I would say to you how sorry I feel for you! To me this is a God send! A home of safety, love, and compassion, not to mention the care and understanding these trained people show and have shown. I know that with their help and a little guidance I will continue to move forward, with a better sense of my self worth, and learn to hold my head up high and not be ashamed of what happened to me and others like me.

So I hope you feel safe and secure in your homes tonight. But be aware that someone, somewhere is being assaulted, raped, or forced to endure some type of domestic violence. It's a crime, and it will stay hidden unless you help shed light on this dark secret. SO HELP, DON'T HINDER!!! This organization is very much needed in our community!

I drive from my end of this county to Oakland twice a week. I leave each time feeling better about myself, just knowing I can talk to someone about what happened to me helps get me through each day. I know now I can and will make it, but until I can stand on my own two feet, I am very very thankful I have a safe place to go to, and someplace to call when an issue comes up that I am having trouble dealing with. As I said before, this place, the Dove Center, is a wonderful God send!

I would sign my name, but for reasons to protect my safety and well being, I'll simply sign this as:

A survivor

To the Editor:

1998 was a hot year. The sun generated light in proportion to its heat. The same cannot be said about heat generated here on earth. Locally we have a debate between those who would zone us and build us into a more satisfactory haven for exurban refugees, and those accused of preferring our Mayberry heritage. The first group claims freeways and zoning will bring jobs but has yet to produce a single sentence of verifiable evidence in support of that claim. The second group is accused of trying to stop the clock.

Nationally in 1998, the 70% of people who are perpetual prisoners of their emotions, who so fear the heat of conflict they can't understand what its light reveals, were herded away from constitutional issues into safe emotional ports. There they could vicariously experience the anger and fear of their icon and cheer the continued debauchery of national institutions. Another 30% are joined in an unholy alliance of intellectually rigorous free thinkers, opportunist enemies of the regime, and zealots whose intellectual rigor is defined by literal interpretations of religious and legal polemics, and whose intellectual range extends to fear of those who are different.

Then there are the public servants, now masters, who in general come down wherever the formula determines after combining and contrasting the influence of their contributing constituents with their known voting constituency. On the national level, we've seen Barney Frank and Zoe Zaftig (aka Lofgren) demonstrate why they never made it big as practicing attorneys, and we've seen Hutchinson and Inglis demonstrate how they did. We've seen Maxine Waters and Sheila Jackson Lee demonstrate the need for continuing affirmative action, and we've seen N.O.W. and the redoubtable John Conyers confirm that thought.

Locally, three who did not understand the questions and who were without apparent answers were returned home on election day after placing a fourth in the perpetual clover of a specially created government job. We elected, for the first time in my life, a commissioner who previously experienced both personal accountability for multi-million dollar public projects and the odd hysteric holliering across his desk. The local election renewed my hopes for local systems. We need clear, direct, and honest responses to our questions. Maybe we elected people unafraid to face hard truths and act openly in our long term interests.

We witnessed a spat between a publicly funded Chamber of Commerce and a newspaper editor with questions. We are fortunate to have both an active chamber and an aware newspaper editor. The chamber's zeal for change exceeds only its analytic skills, and the editor accepted a duty to ask reasonable questions. How many areas can say they have both? In an era when papers die monthly as the direct result of thrall to venal advertisers, our local paper is not only alive, but vibrant. In an era when too many chambers are preponderantly fat cats waiting to die, how many areas can claim a chamber as visible in public affairs?

The answer, my friends, is not many. We have much to celebrate here. As we disagree amongst ourselves along our march into a largely uncontrollable future, we should keep the good things foremost in our minds. The future is going to happen. We can get there on our knees or on our feet. It depends on the quality of the debate, and it depends on whether our differences generate more light or more heat. No person, no family, no organization lives better than their ability to manage their disagreements for the general good.

Sincerely,
W.L. Welch

View From My Window

Y2K

Talk of Y2K abounds. So many fringe groups have taken Y2K as their cause that seen together they encircle our society. Little by little, Y2K works itself to the center.

"Y" stands for "year." "2" is "2." "K" stands for "thousand." Y2K = Year 2000. Y2K is computer talk, and the problem lies within the computer. The technological problem is simple though widespread. Computer programs and the embedded chips within computers were originally programmed to read years in two digits only "99," for example, instead of "1999."

At some point in time, someone in the computer world figured out that in such a system the year "2000" is indistinguishable from the year "1900," both coded as "00." The consequences of this for certain financial transactions are obvious. In 1900 no interest would be owed on a bank account established 90 years later. At the stroke of midnight in the year 2000 ten years of interest could disappear.

The easiest problems to understand are also the easiest ones to fix. There are many more and far more complex problems and an untold number of embedded chips which need fixing or replacing. In the U.S.A. an army of technicians has been working to solve these problems, and probably with a high degree of success.

If, however, there are one billion embedded chips, and they have been repaired at a rate of 99.9%, that would still mean there remain 10 million embedded chips that have not been fixed. And no one knows where those 10 million hypothetical chips might be or what might happen when their internal clocks roll over to "00."

Perhaps Y2K will bring calamity, and perhaps it won't. The difficulty lies in having to find out. Responsible persons in our country have said, for example, that there will be interruptions of electrical power, but that we do not know how widespread or how lengthy those outages will be. If the first week of January 2000 is bitterly cold, that could pose a major crises in some areas.

Movement from the factual to the reasonably hypothetical is quick. The subsequent movement to the hysterical travels like greased lightning. Sales of survivalist equipment and supplies have increased sharply. Some people laugh at that, but, as the old saying goes, "He who laughs last, laughs best."

What has played into the real Y2K bug, as it is called, are the millenialist fears and expectations of many religious people who believe that the return of Christ and (or) the end of the world will coincide with the year 2000. Whether the technological Y2K causes any substantial calamity, the millenialists pose a very real concern. Some of them believe that God has called them to help along the end of the world.

Let me say as a Christian pastor that all these predictions of the end of the world taking place on January 1, 2000, are absolute rubbish. Jesus made very clear that neither man nor angel knows the hour of his return and that when the end does come it shall come as a thief in the night. One Bible teacher observed, "If you can become a millionaire predicting the end of the world, then the end is not yet."

That notwithstanding, those who read the Bible — whether purposeful in deception or only naively — as a magical code have rendered the written Word of God into a mere cosmic cookbook. It is an important work for every responsible Christian teacher to counter the dangerous nonsense which these millenialists purvey.

There is also a positive opportunity for all of us; the opportunity to build community. This is a time to come together and to develop grassroots plans in which neighbors figure out in advance what precautions to take, and how they can help each other if certain unhappy eventualities do occur; to invoke another old saying, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Y2K is coming. That is a fact. What difficulties it will incur no one knows for sure. As someone commented, "The more alarm there is early, the less panic there will be late." 1999 is a good year to make sure that our neighbors are also our friends.

ONCE SILENCED PLANT ALIVE AGAIN — A new state-of-the-art furnace is fully ablaze and five kilns are melting the sand and other ingredients for Simon Pearce glass products, now being produced at the former Bausch & Lomb facility at a rate of about 200 pieces a day. The plant presently employs 23 people, 10 of whom are glassblowers. Training has taken place at Pearce's Vermont facility and some of the experienced blowers from that state have relocated to Garrett County to work with the new apprentices. Experienced production glass blowers are needed for the facility to expand to full capacity. "The furnace is working fine and the glass coming off the lehr (tempering machine) is looking beautiful," stated Jerry McComas, production manager. Colin Miller, a county native, is shown above as he assists Scott Tucker, who has relocated to the area from Vermont. Nathan Cloud, another new resident, is pictured at right as he manipulates the hot material into a usable, attractive piece. Ellen Lipscomb, a local resident, is shown below as she arranges the new glass. Her job is to inspect the items, judging them as "firsts" or "seconds." Rich Rohrbaugh is the facility manager.

PEARCE IS PLEASED — Simon Pearce was full of praise for the local community Tuesday, thanking several individuals and organizations for the welcome he and his company have received in Garrett County. The glass products now being produced at the former Bausch & Lomb facility in Mountain Lake Park "are of fantastic quality," Pearce said.

"Jim [Hinebaugh] and Meg [Ellis] have been incredibly helpful," Pearce said. "We couldn't have asked for more help from their office. In fact, everybody we've dealt with has just been wonderful."

Interviews are ongoing for the jobs, but Pearce said the process must be prudent.

"You can't just hire 100 people at once and bring them into a glass factory. That would be chaos," he said. Beverly Widger is Pearce's human resources manager, and she reported yesterday that she has found the local hiring process "refreshing."

"In Vermont, our unemployment rate is about 1.4%, so when we're looking for people to fill specific jobs, we might get five to apply and then only about two are even qualified for the job," Widger said. "But here, there are so many people so willing to work. We are just thrilled with the workforce and the work ethic here in the county."

Widger said she has had invaluable help from the employment office in Oakland, the staff of which is handling the pre-screening process for Simon Pearce.

"I just let them know the positions I am ready to hire for and they quickly get qualified applications to me," she said. "It's working beautifully."

The local people now working at the plant each went to the Vermont for six weeks. There they were trained for their jobs at Pearce's original plant, and now, back at home, continue to learn the art. Persons interested in applying for positions may call the local office at 301-334-3972.

"It's been a fantastic six months," Pearce said. "And we're off to a great start."

get them finished, the work on the schools won't begin until next year. If we could get them started now, we could feasibly begin work this summer."

Holliday said he visited Southern recently and was "very disappointed" in what he found there.

"There's just no maintenance there," he said, listing items such as missing caulk in the windows, chipping paint, and a cement block out of the wall at the stage area. "Here we are wanting something new, but we don't even take care of what we have."

Sebold said the maintenance crew has "worked for years to maintain what we have," and that it would be wasteful to spend money on small repairs when the board hopes to achieve total renovation.

"So your theory is 'let it fall down'?" Holliday asked.

"That is absolutely not our theory," Teets stated. "I take strong exception to that. I'm going to defend our maintenance crews and our staff — we are working very hard with the resources we have to take good care of our schools, making sure they are safe for our students," he said, adding that he had recently sent a lengthy list of maintenance projects completed this past year within the school system. "The students and their parents have waited for years and years for these renovations. We've done the best we can do, and we need the major renovation as soon as possible."

Collins said the issue is "not just about gyms," referring to Holliday's comment that the renovations are in areas that are not "educational."

"The items we're discussing influence the entire educational experience for the students," Collins said. "Sports, band, the arts — sometimes these things are what keep kids in school." She went on to give the example of the Northern high wrestling team that had to raise over $6,000 for a new mat.

"There is no proper storage area for the mat, so the old one got weather damaged and cracked. The kids and their parents worked hard for that money. If we had the auxiliary gym, we could store the materials more properly," she said. She also noted that a trainer who works with the students is currently housed in the boys' locker room. "She is a treasure, just fantastic with the kids. Yet she has no place to set up her equipment except for a corner of the boys' locker room."

The board members also noted that the gymnasiums are often the place where large numbers of people gather at one time.

"I can't think of another public building where hundreds of people from other places come to," Sebold said. "We are host to parents and students from several other schools, and the gyms are sometimes their only view of our facilities."

Teets said the request for the advance funding for the architect work was presented to the commissioners for two reasons.

"I wanted you all to know exactly where we are, and to know how critical the situation is," he said. "And I wanted to explore any option available that would allow us to get started on these projects. I wouldn't be doing my job if I didn't at least ask. I would hope that you would trust the fact that we have operated prudently and are exploring all options."

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel told the school officials that the commissioners have no intention of "micro-managing" the school system.

"We have to look at the whole county, though, when we consider these major budget requests coming to us in the middle of the fiscal year," Beitzel said. "I don't think it would be a disaster if you had to wait a few more months for these funds." Teets reiterated that he was simply hoping to save a year by getting a jump-start on the design work.

Chairman Ernest Gregg stated that he understood

Southern High School's Student of the Month winners for December 1998 are Alicia DeWitt, English; John Donaldson vocational/electronics; Erin Lucas, math; Jackie Paugh, child care; Jim Preston social studies; and Krystal Towne, science.

First United Notes Higher Earnings In '98

First United Corporation, a one-bank holding company headquartered in Oakland, has announced 1998 year-end earnings of $7.43 million, or $1.20 per share. This figure is an increase of $.78 million or 11.73% over 1997 earnings of $6.65 million. The year-end earnings per share of $1.20 represents a 14.29% increase, or $.15 per share over the $1.05 per share reported for the year ending December 31, 1997.

The consolidated net income for the quarter ended December 31, 1998, totaled $2.117 million, which is $.194 million or 10.10% more than was recorded for the same time period of 1997. This translates into $.35 per share for the current period. For the same quarter of 1997, each share earned $.31.

"The Improvement Process that took place in 1997 positioned the company to improve on many of the key operating ratios in 1998," stated William E. Grant, chairman and chief executive officer. Return on average equity, a key performance ratio measuring the overall return to First United shareholders, ended 1998 at 12.92%. This was an increase from 11.71% for the same period the previous year. The efficiency ratio, a ratio that shows how many dollars of revenue supports overhead expenses, was improved from 62.79% as of December 31, 1997, to a December 31, 1998, ratio of 58.96%.

First United Corporation's loan portfolio exceeded management projections in 1998, growing $67.58 million or 15.31%. The quality of the loan portfolio remains high and the corporation's non-performing loans and delinquency rates compare favorably with peers, Grant said. As of December 31, 1998, the corporation's loan portfolio totaled $508.97 million.

Deposits grew in 1998, increasing $11.44 million or 2.29%, to a total of $511.50 million. Complementing the growth in traditional banking, the company continues to offer a variety of products, including: trust services, PrimeVest Financial Services Inc., and Business Manager for its commercial customers. Income from these services grew 21.59% to $2.08 million as compared to $1.71 million for the same period last year.

"The acquisition of Gonder Insurance Agency, an Oakland-based independent insurance agency, which was announced during the fourth quarter 1998, is progressing toward closing as scheduled," said Grant. "With the expected closing by the end of the first quarter, this acquisition will represent a key element in First United's strategy to grow not only its traditional financial services business, but also expand its base in nontraditional financial services markets."

First United Corporation offers banking through its banking subsidiary, First United Bank & Trust. The bank operates a traditional network of offices throughout Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, as well as Mineral, Hardy, Hampshire, and Berkeley counties in West Virginia. As of December 31, 1998, the corporation posted assets of $641.12 million and had 6,154,726 shares outstanding.

Panelcraft Building Systems

The time to be concerned about how to keep from using so much heating fuel is when you build. Use Panelcraft's Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs).

SIP structures are known for their structural integrity. Nature's storms, earthquakes, tornados, etc., just need a little greater force to do the same amount of damage to SIP structures versus conventional.

Faster - Stronger - Warmer

SIPs consist of Polystyrene laminated between two pieces of structure board, thus creating a very rigid, super insulating panel which is used for Walls, Roofs, Ceilings and Floors, virtually any aspect of your project!

Huskies Whip Rams, Beth Center; Win Invitational, Mash Meyersdale

Rams Fourth In Invitational

It was a busy three days for the undefeated Northern High School wrestling team, as the Huskies endured a pair of dual matches last Thursday and Friday, and then battled against eight other teams Saturday in the annual Garrett County Invitational on their own mats. However, Coach Scott Stough and his Huskies came through it all unscathed to up their season mark to 9-0. Then they recorded their 10th win last night at Meyersdale (see separate story).

Northern's win last Thursday was over the visiting Southern Rams, 42-23, and their Friday victory was against Beth Center, Pa., 48-16, also at the Cove. In Saturday's tournament, the Huskies amassed 132 points to defeat Berlin with 119, Somerset with 117, Southern with 90, Martinsburg with 79, Hyndman with 78, Buckhannon Upshur with 56, North Caroline with 47.5, and Phillip Barbour with 25.5.

The Huskies recorded seven pins over their arch rivals, the Southern Rams, while Southern finished with just one pin. Earning pin victories for Northern were: Blake Huber in the 103-pound class, Roy Holliday at 112, Matt McNees at 119, Brandon Stein at 125, Paul Beitzel at 130, Jesse Shimrock at 140, and Mark Wolf at 152.

The lone Southern pin was by Andrew Grant in the 135-pound division; however, the following Rams won five of the final six bouts on points: Eric Rexrode (145), Jeremy Hayhurst (160), John Hayhurst (171), Ricky Hamilton (189), and Russell Crosco (275).

The Huskies were aided in their match against Beth Center on Friday by absences in the visitors' ranks, as five bouts were awarded to Northern via forfeits.

Winning on pins for the Huskies were Brandon Stein (125) and Paul Beitzel (130), while Holliday (112) and Adam Brenneman (145) captured decision victories, with Brenneman's coming on a takedown in the final seconds of his bout with Patrick Dennison. Forfeits were awarded to Huber (103), Shimrock (140), Matt Kauffman (160), Ryan Brenneman (189), and Ryan Savage (275).

Earning the only pin for Beth Center was Ulysses Davis (119), who was the 1998 Pennsylvania state runner-up.

In Saturday's invitational, two Huskies captured individual titles, while five of them finished with runner-up trophies, two placed third, and two earned fourth places.

Jesse Shimrock decisioned Brad Davis of Martinsburg, 7-2, in the title bout of the 140-pound division, and Blake Huber outpointed his own teammate, Brett Stein, 3-0, to win the 103-pound division crown. Stein wrestles on the junior varsity squad at Northern.

Earning runner-up awards for Northern, besides Stein, were Roy Holliday (112), who was edged in overtime by North Caroline's John Rhodes, 9-7; Brandon Stein (125), who lost by a single point to Nick Lorson of Berlin; Adam Brenneman (145), who was pinned by Southern's Eric Rexrode; and Mark Wolf (152), who lost on points to Southern's undefeated Nick Dolan, 8-4.

Finishing in third place for Northern were Matt McNees (119) and Brandon Kamp (135), while Matt Kauffman (160) and Ryan Brenneman (189) placed fourth.

Leading the Southern Rams to their fourth place finish were individual champions Rexrode, Dolan, and John Hayhurst. Rexrode, who pinned Brenneman of Northern, remains undefeated and could tie Nathan Rickman's school record total number of victories. The unbeaten Dolan, who decisioned Northern's Wolf, is also a state champion prospect. Hayhurst, who has lost only two matches this season, won his 171-pound championship by defeating Scott Gusic of Martinsburg on points, 11-7.

Finishing with runner-up trophies for the Rams were: Jeremy Hayhurst, who lost in the final 160-pound bout to Randy Pyle of Somerset, 15-0; Russell Crosco, who was decisioned by Berlin's John Paxton, 5-1, in the 189-pound final; and Rob Unger, who was pinned by Chris Minnick of Hyndman in the 215-pound title match.

Southern had one grappler finish third, Ryan Price, who pinned Ben Emerick of Hyndman in the 103-pound division consolation. Fourth places were earned by Tim Keyser (145) and jayvee wrestler James Preston (215).

The Rams, coached by Kurt Lear, will wrestle again this evening at home against Beall and will host Northern and Meyersdale next Tuesday.

Coach Stough of Northern noted his appreciation to the following for helping to make the Garrett County Invitational a success: scorekeepers and timers Jenny McKenzie, Kent Huber, Wanda Carpenter, Matt Wolf, Alan Kauffman, Nate Kauffman, Steve Savage, Jeremy Brenneman, Gary Teats, Joanny Martin, John Toston, and Jeff Martin; principal and assistant principal Martin Green and Gary Reichenbecher; athletic director Harv Speicher; trainer Terry Stough; Jean Richardson, Kara Gilpin, and Cindy McKenzie, programs; custodians Beachy, Bach, and Murphy; the Northern Rescue Squad; parents for donations of food and beverages, plus working in the concession stand; and the following businesses/organizations for their support: David Stein Construction, Chestnut Ridge Amoco, Friendsville Woodmen of the World, Stein Brothers Construction, Grantsville Foodland, Trophies Unlimited, Goehringer's Country Restaurant, and Boomer's Printing.

SPECIAL PRICE

An invitation to northern Garrett County elementary and middle school students has been extended by Coach Stough to attend the Huskies' match with Fort Hill next Thursday, Feb. 4. Students from those schools will be admitted to the match for the special price of $1.

HUSKIES, RAMS MEET EACH OTHER IN TOURNEY - It was Husky against Ram, and even Husky against Husky, in the annual Garrett County Invitational Wrestling Tournament, hosted Saturday by the Northern High Huskies, who successfully defended their team title in the event by defeating eight other teams. Meanwhile, the Southern Rams placed fourth in the tourney. The Huskies captured two individual titles, while Southern won three. Above left, Southern's Nick Dolan, left, takes on Mark Wolf of Northern in the finals of the 152-pound division. Dolan, who is undefeated so far this season, won the title with an 8-4 decision. Occasionally two members of the same team meet each other in a tournament, which is what occurred for Northern's Matt McNees and Seth Huber, pictured above right. McNees went on to win third place in the 119-pound division. Going at it in the photo below right in a 189-pound class bout are Ryan Brenneman of Northern, left, and Southern's Russell Crosco. Brenneman finished third in the division, while Crosco placed second. Below left, Eric Rexrode, another undefeated Southern Ram, controls Adam Brenneman of Northern in the finals of the 145-pound division. Rexrode ultimately pinned Brenneman to claim the title. Northern's Blake Huber (103) and Jesse Shimrock (140) won titles, along with Dolan, Rexrode, and John Hayhurst of Southern. See story for details.

Huskies Crush Meyersdale To Stay Unbeaten

The wrestling team of Northern High School continued to flatten all resistance this week, as the Huskies won three dual matches and successfully defended its Garrett County Invitational title against eight other teams. Northern defeated county rival Southern last Thursday, Beth Center, Pa., and won the invitational Saturday (see separate story) before whipping host Meyersdale last night, 54-9.

The Huskies won all but two matches against the Lions, many of which came by way of forfeits, as Meyersdale could not fill five of the weight classes.

Winning via pins for Northern were Seth Huber in the 125-pound division and Ryan Savage in the 275-pound class. Decisions were earned by Paul Beitzel (130), Brandon Kamp (135), Mark Wolf (152), and David Wampler (171), while forfeits were awarded to Blake Huber (103), Roy Holliday (112), Jesse Shimrock (140), Adam Brenneman (145), and Matt Kauffman (160).

Getting a pin for Meyersdale was David Knopsnider (189) and Doug Sheierer (119) won on points.

The Huskies are slated to host Westmar this evening, travel to Southern next Tuesday in a make-up meet, and entertain Fort Hill next Thursday, which will wrap up their dual meet schedule.

The only Keyser pins were by Andy Stickley in the 103-pound division and Trent Thorn, 119.

Southern Mat Club Members Keeping Busy

The Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team competed in three separate events this past week. Seven team members traveled to Waynesburg, Pa., Saturday for a tournament, while five local grapplers competed in Taylor County, W.Va. On Sunday, the SMC hosted a Tri-State League match against Frankfort Mat Club and Beall Youth Wrestling.

The tournament at Waynesburg is traditionally the toughest tournament the local team attends, and this year was no exception. The most talented wrestlers from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, and Virginia were competing. Scott Wildesen (11/12, 90#) won all of his matches in his division while earning a first place trophy. Sean Sisler (7/8, Unl) placed second and Geoff Tressler placed third. Also competing were Chris Hayhurst (13/15, 85#), Justin Ratliff (9/10, 70#), Daniel Carr (9/10, 70#), and Dave Taylor (11/12, 100#).

At Taylor County, two local grapplers claimed first place honors, as Nathan Sines (11/12, 85#) and Jeremy Gregory (9/10, 90#) each brought home championship trophies. For the season, Gregory is still undefeated while Sines has lost only one match. Also at Taylor County, Ryan Gregory (13/15, 130#) placed third while Tyler Gregory (5/6, 45#) won a match, but was unable to place in the top four.

Rickman Wins Va. Collegiate Wrestling Title

Former Southern High School wrestling standout Nathan Rickman, who holds the school record for total number of victories, has continued his successful mat career in NCAA ranks as a member of the Division I James Madison University wrestling team. His latest achievement for the Dukes was a first-place finish in last weekend's Virginia State Interscholastic Wrestling Championships, held in Lexington, Va.

Rickman, a sophomore, was the only JMU wrestler to win an individual title in the tournament; however, as a team the Dukes placed second among eight universities and finished with a school-record 129 points. The University of Virginia won the state title for the third consecutive time with 137 points. Placing third was host Virginia Military Institute with 118, George Mason University with 115, Old Dominion with 113.5, Virginia Tech with 61.5, Norfolk State with 26.5, and Newport News Apprentice with 22.5.

Rickman, son of Jack and Norma Rickman, Oakland, became the first JMU wrestler to win a state title since 1996, as he recorded an 8-4 decision over Trace Head of Virginia Tech in the championship bout of the 174-pound division. He had advanced through the tournament with pins in both the quarterfinals and semifinals. He needed just 2:25 to pin Matt Tormenti of Virginia Tech in the quarterfinals, and his third fall of the year came in 1:44 against Josh Fannon of Old Dominion in the semifinals.

The three victories raised Rickman's overall record to 17-7 for the season, surpassing his freshman win total of 16.

Earlier this season, Rickman placed fifth in the prestigious Sunshine Open in Palm Beach, Fla., and sixth in the Navy Invitational in Annapolis.

Rickman, a 1997 graduate of Southern, is majoring in integrated science and technology at JMU, which is located in Harrisonburg, Va. He has been named a Colonial Conference Scholar Athlete and is on the dean's list.

The JMU team is coached by Jeff Bowyer, who was named Coach of the Year at the championships for the second time in his 11 years as head coach of the Dukes.

Local Gymnast Top Finisher In Pair Of Meets

Laura Preston, a seventh grade student at Southern Middle School, recently earned top honors at two gymnastics meets held in Parkersburg and Morgantown, W.Va. Laura competes with the G-Force Gymnastics Team from West Virginia Gymnastics Training Center in Morgantown.

At the Judges' Cup, held in Parkersburg on January 16, Laura took first place honors on floor exercise, vaulting, and bars, and second place on balance beam, giving her first place in the all-around category for Level 8s.

Preston competed against teams from West Virginia and Pennsylvania at the Mountaineer Classic in Morgantown on January 23. Once again she captured first place in the all-around category among Level 8s, earning first place in all four events.

The G-Force Optional Team's next competition will be in the Maverick Invitational at the Charleston Civic Center in February.

Lakers Upset Cecil After Losing One, Winning One

Cecil Fourth in Nation

A three-game week that started with a major disappointment ended last night in elation for the Garrett Community College men's basketball team, as the Lakers fell to host Hagerstown CC on Saturday, 80-65, defeated Howard CC at home Monday, 78-58, and then pulled off a huge upset last night in McHenry by defeating Cecil Community College, the number four ranked team in the nation in NJCAA Division II, 77-74. All three were Maryland JUCO contests, in which the Lakers are now 5-6 while their overall record is 12-7.

The Lakers were very much in the game against Hagerstown Saturday night, as they trailed by just four points at halftime, 40-36, and knotted the score at 52-52 with 12½ minutes remaining. But the Hawks responded with a five-minute, 13-0 scoring spurt and maintained an arm's length lead the rest of the way.

Charles Somerville led the Lakers' scoring production with 19 points, and also led the team in rebounds with a game-high 10 and in steals with four. Michael Fields and Dexter Levi also reached double figures with 12 points apiece, and Lionell Sewell dished out eight assists.

The Hawks' balanced scoring effort was paced by Wendel Tomlin, who finished with 19 points, while James Fowler netted 17, Lionel Jackson scored 14, and Tahar Sutton finished with 11 points and eight rebounds. Fowler and Shawn Waller each had four steals.

"We keep having these dry spells when we just can't find a way to score," stated GCC coach Dennis Gibson. "We've lost several games that way this season."

The Lakers' game against Howard on Monday did not feature any lengthy dry spells for the home team, as Garrett held a comfortable lead of 37-20 at halftime and maintained a double-figure advantage through the second half. They led by as many as 25 in the second half (53-28).

Michael Fields, a former standout athlete for Allegany High School, had one of his finest performances of the year for the Lakers, as he pumped in 29 points and stole the ball four times.

Charles Somerville recorded 10 points, 10 rebounds, and four blocked shots, Johnathan Frazier finished with 10 points, and Dexter Levi also grabbed 10 rebounds to go with nine points.

Leading Howard was Jake Coleman with 17 points, nine rebounds, and three assists, while Tom Bray netted 10 points.

"We did a great job defensively this evening," Coach Gibson said, "and played very hard overall."

The Lakers took that same momentum into last night's game against Cecil CC, as they at least temporarily stunned the visitors by building a 10-point halftime lead, 41-31, and then went up by as many as 14, 45-31, early in the second half.

However, the Seahawks did not quit, and slowly chipped away at GCC's advantage, finally taking a 71-70 lead when Rashad Brooks hit a three-pointer with just 41 seconds left in the game.

Benitez Jackson hit a pair of free throws with 35 ticks left on the clock to put the Lakers back up by one, then went to the line again with 22 seconds remaining and sunk two more to give Garrett a 74-71 advantage.

Michael Fields all but sealed the victory when he made good on two free throws with just 10 seconds left, and Johnathan Frazier added one more with seven seconds remaining to give the Lakers an insurmountable 77-71 lead.

The Seahawks hit a final three-pointer to conclude the scoring.

It was only the third loss in 20 outings for Cecil.

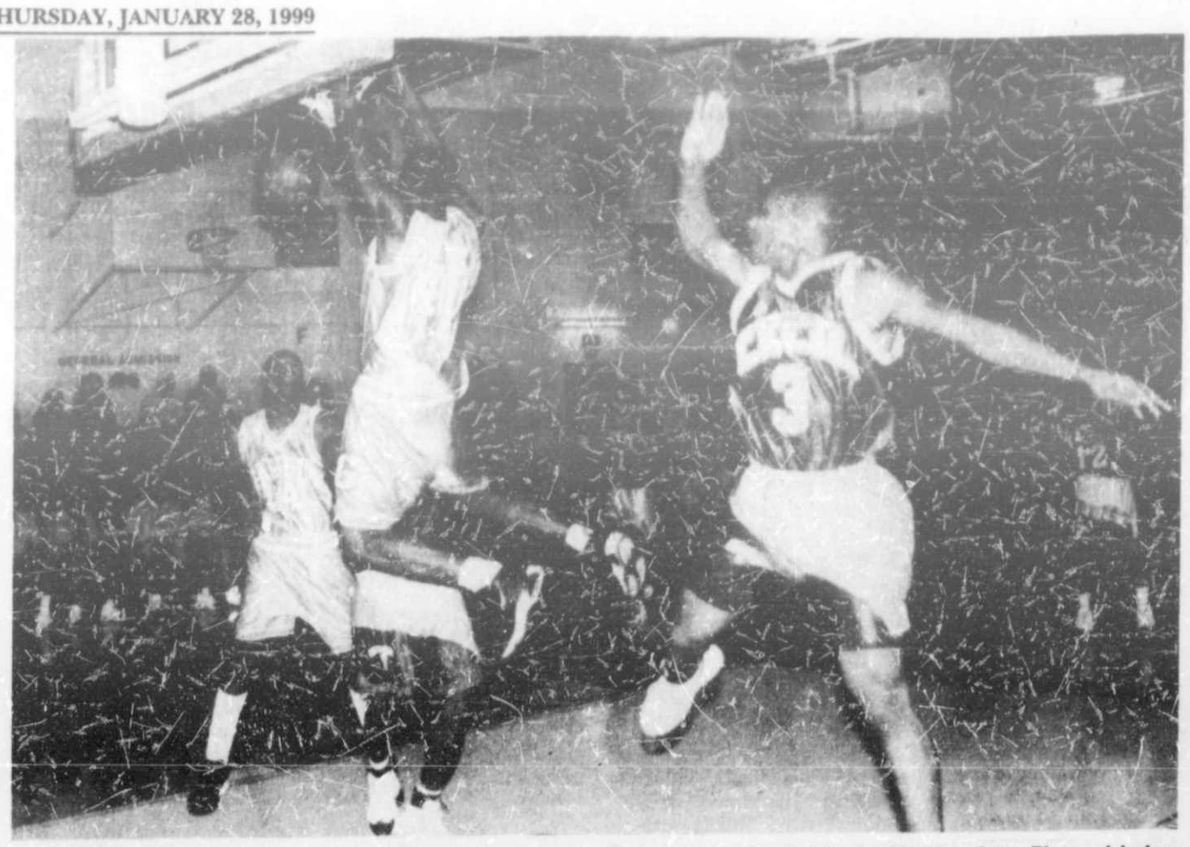
Fields led the way for the Lakers in scoring with 26 points, Charles Somerville recorded 13 points and 12 rebounds, Dexter Levi had 12 points and three blocked shots, and Frazier finished with 11 points. Jackson had eight points and four steals.

The win was made even sweeter by the fact that it was accomplished without the services of starting point guard Lionell Sewell, who was on the bench with a head injury from the last game.

Brooks paced the Seahawks in scoring with 17 points and also had five steals, while D.J. Woodson and Dion Daniel each hit 14 points, Donovan Dukes contributed 11, and Terrance McNeal netted 10. Alex Iseghohi grabbed a dozen rebounds.

"This was obviously a huge win for us," Coach Gibson said. "We played great defense again and we kept them a little off balance by changing out offensive scheme throughout the game. Plus we got great play off the bench. We played nine guys and all of them did a great job, especially Michael Fields, who had to fill in for Lionell. "The crowd support was also tremendous," he added.

The Lakers will be back on the road this coming week, traveling to Montgomery County on Saturday for a 4 p.m. game with Montgomery College-Germantown and going to Dundalk next Wednesday.



STUFF!! - It was a huge win last night for the Garrett Community College Lakers, who defeated visiting Cecil Community College, the number-four ranked team in the nation in NJCAA Division II. The Lakers built a lead of 14 points, trailed by one with less than a minute to play, and regained control in the final seconds to record a 77-74 upset. Slamming the ball home in the photo above is Laker Dexter Levi, who finished with 12 points. Pictured below driving with the ball is GCC's Michael Fields, who had to step into the point guard spot because of injury to Lionell Sewell. He filled the position quite well, as he finished with a game-high 26 points. Laying one up in the photo above right is Laker Tucker Fry, just prior to being fouled by the Cecil defender. GCC Women Reel Off Three Wins Over Cecil, Chesapeake, And P.G.

The women's basketball team of Garrett Community College was hitting on all cylinders this week, rolling over three JUCO opponents in upping its record to a 7-5 conference mark and a 10-6 overall standing. Each of the victims fell to a balanced Laker scoring attack and aggressive rebounding, as Cecil fell by a 9-point margin, Chesapeake dropped by 10 points, and Prince George's was sent packing after coming up 11 points short.

Playing before a home crowd on Saturday the Lakers and Cecil battled to a close 32-29 difference at the half, but GCC exploded in the second stanza to take its lead to 59-44 with 3:39 to go in the contest on the way to a 65-56 victory.

Laker guard Erica McBride led her teammates with 16 points, 3 steals, and 3 assists, while Tasha Blackmon added 14 points and 10 rebounds. April Sisler contributed 8 points and Andrea Barrick tallied 7 points and 3 steals.

The Seahawks' Angela Snook led all scorers with 18 points, Jaime Shane scored 13 points, and Tatum Young accounted for 11 points.

The next day the Lakers traveled to Wye Mills, where they downed Chesapeake 57-47 behind 17 points by Mindy Sypolt, who connected on a pair of three-pointers. Chrissy Lambert scored 13 points and blocked 4 shots, and McBride accounted for 9 points and dished out 4 assists. Keyshia Monroe and Barrick each had 10 rebounds for the Lakers, who accumulated a 69-44 advantage on the boards.

The Seahawks were led by 18 points by Mandy Supers and 15 points by Tamara Stansberry.

It was Blackmon's turn to shine last night against Prince George's, as she hit for 21 points and yanked down 16 rebounds to lead the Lakers to a 74-63 win. Blackmon hit 9 field goals, two from three-point range, and converted a pair of free throws, while teammate Anna Shelton scored 10 points and blocked 2 shots. Susanne Albright dished out a game high 10 assists and totaled a game high 7 steals.

Garrett dominated through most of the contest until P.G. made a late run at its hosts. GCC's largest lead came with 14 minutes to go, as the Lakers went up by a 46-27 margin, and the hosts held a 65-50 lead with just over 5 minutes left. At that point the Owls rallied behind Tina Wilson with an 11-point run that closed the gap to 65-61 with 3:08 to go.

The Lakers rallied behind four clutch free throws by Anna Shelton for a 9-2 run that clinched the win. Blackmon contributed a field goal and a foul shot and McBride hit a field goal during the final Laker outburst.

In addition to GCC in scoring, the freshman from Logan, W.Va., pulled down a game high 16 rebounds. Anne Shelton, #10, shown bringing the ball up the lane in the above photo, clinched the victory by hitting four clutch free throws in the final minutes in the face of a P.G. run. Blackmon, #34, is ready to follow to the basket, while Susanne Albright, #12, led all players with 10 assists and 7 steals on the night.

"I was pleased with our performance," GCC coach Ann Wellham commented. "We're making adjustments in our play and it's evident that they are working. I was especially pleased with the play of Tasha Blackmon and Anna Shelton; Anna's defensive effort and Tasha's offensive effort helped clinch the game."

The Lakers are reportedly set to host Essex in a rescheduled game this Saturday at 4 p.m., followed by a road trip on Friday, Feb. 5, to Montgomery College-Takoma Park for a 5 p.m. match-up.

Huskies Cage Panthers And Nip Turkeyfoot Behind Dustin Long

Two more victories this week by the Northern High School boys' varsity have upped the team's season record to 10-4, as the Huskies rolled over host Hancock last Friday, 62-41, and nipped visiting Turkeyfoot Tuesday evening, 55-54. Dustin Long, the area's second leading scorer (first in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League), spearheaded the Northern offense in both contests.

Long, who is averaging just under 25 points per outing, hit 17 points to pace the Huskies over Hancock in a game that was close throughout the first half. The home-standing Panthers held a 15-11 lead at the end of the first quarter and the score was tied at 26-26 at halftime, but the Huskies took off in the third stanza to out-score the Panthers by a 19-5 margin to take a 45-31 lead into the final period.

Rob Dozier also played well for the Huskies by finishing in double figures in both scoring and rebounding. He recorded 14 points and 10 rebounds, while Craig Kamp netted 13 points and Tim Umbel was credited with seven assists.

Leading Hancock in scoring was Derek Hoffman with 15 points.

The Northern junior varsity won the preliminary game, 68-48, behind a 21-point performance by Jeremy Carr. Jeremy Frazee also reached double figures with 14 points. Danny Keifer led the Hancock jayvees with 12 points.

Long went over the 1,000-point level for his career at Northern in Tuesday's win over Turkeyfoot, as he poured in 29 points. The senior center attained the 1,000-point mark in just two and one-half years as a varsity player.

He also grabbed 10 rebounds, as did Dozier, and Kamp contributed 12 points.

The Huskies maintained small leads from the opening tip-off, but could never put the Pennsylvania team away. Northern was on top by three, 16-13, after one quarter, led by five, 33-28, at halftime, and was up by three again, 48-45, at the conclusion of three periods.

The Turkeyfoot players had a chance to win the game, as they possessed the ball with less than a minute remaining, but they turned it over on a bad pass and the Huskies were able to run out the clock.

The Huskies will face a tough challenge this Friday evening when they host their county rivals, the Southern Rams, who came into the week ranked number one in the area, but stumbled Tuesday evening at Keyser. Then the Huskies will entertain another talented team, Allegany, next Tuesday night.

Rams Top Alco, Hammered By Keyser, Trounce Mount Savage

It was an up-down-up week on the basketball court for the Southern High School varsity boys, who recorded a big 72-65 win over host Allegany on Friday, were crushed Tuesday night at Keyser, 67-31, and then regained their composure last night to earn an easy 80-49 victory over visiting Mount Savage. The 2-1 results left the Rams with an 9-3 overall mark, but they are still perfect in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League with a 7-0 record.

The first quarter against Allegany last Friday ended with the Rams up by just three points, 14-11, but by halftime they stretched their advantage to 13, 38-25. They took a commanding 53-36 lead into the final eight minutes and held off an attempted rally by the Campers to preserve the win.

Seniors John Andrews and Mike Paesani led the Rams' scoring effort with 19 and 16 points, respectively, while Mike Pamepinto just missed double figures with nine points. The Rams actually won the game from the foul line, from which they made good on 25 of 37 opportunities. Allegany finished with a 26-21 advantage in field goals, but converted just 10 of 15 free throws.

The Campers were led in scoring by Ian Iliff, who had a game-high 21 points, and Nathan Simpson, who finished with 17.

The loss dropped the Campers to 9-4 overall and 5-2 in the WMIL, with their only other league loss coming at the hands of Southern in Oakland a couple weeks ago.

The Southern junior varsity was topped in the first game, 51-45. Jamie Bosley led the Rams with 12 points. Ryan Rebuck, Andy Clark, and Tim Reinke scored 17, 13, and 11 to pace the Alco jayvees.

The Rams' number-one area ranking and their seventh-place state ranking was placed into jeopardy Tuesday night in Keyser when they literally could do nothing right and thus endured one of their worst defeats in several years.

Keyser, ranked fifth in the area and led by forward Les Jessie and 6-8 junior center Nelson Guerin, won its ninth game in 11 outings by dominating every phase of the contest. Jessie finished with a game-high 22 points and Guerin recorded 13 points and 10 rebounds. Point guard LaJavious Fagan also reached double figures for the Golden Tornado with 11 points.

The Rams didn't seem to know what hit them in the early minutes of the game, as Keyser raced out to a 17-7 lead by the end of the first quarter and were up 27-9 a few minutes into the second. Southern trailed by a 36-15 margin at halftime and were down 54-25 after three quarters. The third stanza was half over before the Rams scored their first point of the second half, and they failed to score a point in the fourth period until three minutes had ex-

Rams Rebound, Collar Huskies After Being Blown Out By Golden Tornado

A Saturday wake-up call from Keyser in the form of a 29-point defeat apparently brought the Southern High School girls' varsity basketball out of a slumber on the wrong side of the bed, as the Rams took no prisoners in defeating Northern by 17 points last night. The action gives Southern a 7-8 overall mark heading into a varsity home contest versus Mt. Savage on Monday night at 7:30 p.m. (arrangements are still being made to attempt to schedule a 6 p.m. ninth grade match-up with Preston prior to that contest), and a Thursday night visit to Fort Hill.

Southern fell behind early and hard in the Keyser contest, as the Golden Tornado roared out to a 15-4 lead in the first quarter behind a fast-breaking offense. The Rams never got within striking distance, as Keyser pulled out to a 16-point halftime lead on the way to a 57-28 victory.

Jessica Saturday led Southern with 15 points, but her teammates went cold as the Rams hit only 11 field goals (6 of which were Saturday's) and connected for a miserable 6 out of 25.

RAMS OVERPOWER HUSKIES - Last night's county match-up between the Southern High and Northern High girls' varsity teams turned into a rout by the Rams over their hosts, 47-30. At left, Southern's Becca Gangler, #41, goes up for two of her game high 13 points, while Northern's Bridget Frazee, #43, defends against the attempt, and the Rams' Charlena Reeves, #51, and the Huskies' Heidi Frazee, #24, jostle for position. In the above photo Northern guard Jen Murray, #11, prepares to fire the ball past Southern defender Jennifer Teagarden #35, while the Huskies' Heidi Frazee, #24, and the Rams Ashley Liller, #21, follow the action. Liller had a great night herself, dishing out 7 assists and lifting 8 steals from Husky ballhandlers.

Huskies Hammer Mt. Savage, But Then Rammed By Southern

It was a week of way up and way down for the Northern Huskies girls' varsity basketball team, as they opened up with a 36-point demolition of Mt. Savage before being demolished itself last night by a 27-point margin at the hands of Southern, 47-30. (See Southern's coverage for that game's details.) Northern's record is now 6-9 overall and 3-6 in the WMIL.

The Huskies grabbed the Indians by the throat in the opening minutes of their Monday evening contest and never let go. Northern held a 21-4 lead at the end of the first quarter, was up by 26-11 at the half, and won the blow-out by a 56-20 margin.

Heather Nugent scored 19 points, including one three-point goal, for Northern to lead all scorers on the night, and added 4 assists and 5 steals to her performance. Heidi Frazee accounted for 14 points and 9 rebounds, and Kristin Landver scored 9 points. Mimi Harvey's 10 steals led the thievery, and she dished out 5 assists as well. Bridget Frazee recorded eight rebounds and six steals.

Mt. Savage, still seeking its first win, was led by Courtney Kessel's six points and Lacey Dickel's 10 rebounds.

The Huskies' next outing is a Wednesday road trip to Flintstone. Varsity tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m., following a 6 p.m. junior varsity contest.

Ram Freshmen Up Record To 8-1

The freshman boys' basketball team of Southern High School upped its record to 8-1 this past week with a pair of easy victories, a 50-27 thumping of Pendleton County and a 64-32 trouncing of Westmar.

The Rams jumped out to a 13-4 lead over Pendleton County and were never threatened. Chad Panther and Ricky Reams led the scoring with 10 points apiece.

The Westmar Wildcats simply could not handle the full-court pressure of the Rams, who held a commanding 37-8 halftime advantage. Mike DeWitt paced Southern's offense with 16 points, while Joel Helbig also reached double figures with 10. Ryan Upole pulled down eight rebounds.

The Ram freshmen will be in action again this Saturday when they play at Preston County in Kingwood. Tip-off is set for 4 p.m.
